When you consider that there are millions of people in the United States, and that, if each person turns in every pound of rubber he possibly can, there would be so many millions of pounds coming in, that the rubber shortage soon would be solved. Not only should all civilians "go into their cellars and barns and garages to uncover scrap rubber needed urgently to keep the war-machine rolling", but they also should look for rubber goods which they are holding for some future use, yet which have no present value for them. Take our own case for example. When we heard the President - over the radio the other night - make his plea for rubber, we were very much perturbed, because we thought we had nothing to turn in. Then we remembered the three pairs of rubbers which none of the family had used for over a year. In the climate where we now live, no one wears rubbers, for the rains come and go, and the water is absorbed so quickly that the ground never stays wet. Still we believed our rubbers were good for some future use - on the premise of course, that they would not deteriorate by the time we could get to wear them. Then as the President further explained how every pound of scrap rubber turned in caused that much less raw rubber to be used, we suddenly realized those three pairs of rubbers had a very definite present need.

Also there is another situation which requires attention here. Many good tires which now are standing idle or are not being used for essential purposes, likewise should be turned in. First, there are those who, because of the gasoline rationing, jack up their cars and let the tires remain useless. This should not be permitted at a time like this. Aside from the patriotic angle, such tires rot when not in use, and will prove no good to their owners when they do decide to drive their cars. Secondly, there are many persons who own two or more automobiles. Such individuals should choose which car is essential to them and turn in the tires from the others. In addition, there are some individuals who purchased four or more extra tires before the emergency, and they keep exchanging these tires with those which now are on their car. No one should have in his possession more than four tires and a spare - no matter who he may be, and no matter what the size of his purse.

Drafted mothers of our nation, the greatest amount of good tires offered our government, the greater amount of scrap rubber turned in, the sooner will the grave rubber situation be overcome - the sooner will your sons receive what they require to win the war.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 5

GOD THE CREATOR

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 24-31; 2:1.
GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.—Genesis 1:1.

What is to become of this world? That is the question on the mind and lips of everyone as they see all mankind engaged in a struggle which bids fair to wipe out everything called civilization.

In such a time it is good to remind ourselves that man did not make this world, nor is it the product of natural forces. God made it.

God, who is eternal, infinite, knowing all from the beginning, is not moved by the impulses of the moment nor staggered by the catastrophes of a day. He made the world. He made man. He had a plan for them, and still has a plan which in due season He will work out for His own glory.

I. God Made the Heavens and Earth (vv. 1-5, 24-25).

The plain biblical account of creation—"In the beginning God"—stands as a dignified, satisfactory, intelligent explanation of the origin of things, and in bold contrast to the confusing and almost unbelievable theories of men.

The best of scientists admit that they know nothing of the origin of things, and some even confess that they never will know. The answer to the query with which every human philosophy opens is the affirmation with which the divine account in Genesis opens—"In the beginning God."

Space forbids full discussion of the account of creation, but a study of it will reveal its beautiful order, symmetry, and completeness. Science, when it gets beyond theories to facts, finds them confirmed by Scripture. Please do not reverse that and speak of science confirming Scripture. If my watch does not agree with the time of the stars, it is the watch that must be reset.

II. God Made Man in His Own Image (vv. 26-30).

Although man, under the control of Satan, does not give much ground for the observation, it is nevertheless true that he was made in the likeness and image of God. Because that is true, we never give up hope for him. That image, no matter how deeply defaced by sin, still may be touched by redeeming grace and restored to fellowship with God.

The likeness and image of God in man undoubtedly refers to a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a living soul with intelligence, feeling, and will power. He is a moral being, knowing the difference between right and wrong. He is a self-conscious, personal being.

To man God gave dominion over the earth and all its potential powers. Sometimes one has been hopeful that man was making good progress in the development of the earth's resources for his own good and the glory of God. But one is almost tempted to conclude now that he has used this great God-given opportunity only for destruction and death. Only a revival of real Christianity can bring him back to his senses. Let us pray and work for it.

Observe that the family was established as the center of man's life on earth, as God gave him a "help meet unto him." Woman was taken "not out of man's head that she should rule over him; nor out of his feet to be trampled upon; but out of his side to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected by him, and near his heart to be loved by him" (Matthew Henry).

The decay of family life and the substitution of social or civic units as the basis of life have led to disastrous results. Not only do we need a revival of religion, we also need a revival of the home life of the nation.

III. God's Creation Was Complete and Good (1:31; 2:1).

When men do recognize the hand of God in creation they all too often seem to feel that what He made was very limited and defective. It would almost seem that God ought to be grateful that man has been so clever about perfecting His work, developing it and making it useful. As a matter of fact, God who had all knowledge and whose standards are higher than man's standards could possibly be, looked over His creation and "behold, it was very good" (v. 31). It was a "finished" job (2:1).

Man has destroyed much of its beauty. Sin came in and marred the whole creation. What man's inventive cleverness has developed of the possibilities of this world is only a minute fraction of what is yet available. Instead of boasting, man might well be ashamed of the pathetic slowness with which he has "thought God's thoughts after Him."

Instead of fighting and destroying, he ought to give his energies to building, developing, and above all, to loving God with all his heart and his neighbor as himself (Matt. 22: 37-40). This is God's first and great commandment to you and to me.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your muscular system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less their normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of the various sick parts and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering which must meet the asthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of style, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The harm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant defect as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolis or growth activity of the foot is interferred with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailments grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

HOW TO GET LONGER WEAR FROM YOUR

Appliance Cords

With appliance cord production curtailed, you'll want to make your present ones last, so you can make full use of your electric appliances. These tips will help:

Don't pull plug from outlet by yanking on cord. Eventually, you'll loosen connections and break wires. Take hold of plug itself.

Don't run cords under rugs. Constant walking on them will wear off insulation and allow wires to come in contact, causing a "short."

Don't run cords across radiators or other hot metal objects. Heat may burn through insulation and allow wires to touch metal.

Don't place cords in door jambs. Squeezing action from opening and closing door will break protective covering around wires.

Don't use appliance or extension cords as substitutes for permanent wiring. Such makeshifts are dangerous. Never tack or nail through a cord.

Insist on approved cords, identified by a band certifying inspection by Underwriters Laboratories. They wear longer and are safe.

Don't wad up cords and store in drawer when not in use. Hang loosely from a hook or nail. Avoid knots and kinks.

The price ceiling covers all of Main Street now.

It stands above the cash register in the shoeshine shop as well as at the butcher's and the grocer's. It shields the man who wants a clock repaired or hat blocked, quite as much as the customer at the corner drug store.

On July 1, the General Maximum Price Regulation, which on May 18 was applied to commodities, was extended to services performed in connection with commodities.

The extension of the roof which shelters the consumer from the high cost of living is a sizable one. The number of establishments of one kind or another, which are affected by the service ceiling has been estimated at pretty close to 1,000,000 as compared with the 1,900,000 retail stores now operating under the GMPR.

Meanwhile, OPA is finishing the rent ceiling. On June 1, rent contral was inaugurated in 20 defense rental areas. Additional areas were controlled July 1. Up to now, rent control has applied only to houses, apartments, tenements, furnished and unfurnished—places of permanent residence. Rent control for such places of abode as hotels, rooming houses, boarding house, dormitories, auto camps, trailers, residence clubs, tourist homes or cabins and other establishments of like nature—generally for more or less transient occupancy. All these varieties "innkeepers" must be registered by August 15. Defense rental areas now number 367 and house 89 million people.

With canning season opening, the housewife's problem is how to get her canning sugar under the sugar rationing regulation.

Here's how: First, the local War Price and Rationing Board is the place to go to get the canning sugar allowance. Time will be saved, however, if, before applying to the Board, the housewife is prepared to supply the following information:

(1) Names of all members of the family having ration books;

(2) Number of quarts of fruit canned last year;

(3) Number of quarts of fruit on hand;

(4) Number of quarts she plans to can this season;

(5)) Whether sugar is to be used for preserves, jellies, jams or fruit butters;

(6) Excess sugar she had on hand (that is, the amount more than two pounds per person) at the time she registered for her books, and any subsequent reductions.

Unemployment of skilled and semi-skilled workers caused by the shutting down of non-essential civilian industries, is one of the nation's knottiest problems. New York City, filled with many small plants which cannot be easily converted to war work, is a prime example. There, nearly 400,000 men, many highly skilled, are jobless, while war plants elsewhere need this type of workers. Many men are also idle while their plants are converting. Last week New York's Mayor La Guardia, and Governor Lehman, met with WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission to discuss this problem.

The transportation bottleneck is giving all war production planners night sweats. Office of Defense Transportation is opening a new offensive on the transportation front with the formation of the "U. S. Truck Conservation Corps." It will enlist owners and drivers of the country's five million motor trucks and thousands who service and supply them in a nation-wide campaign to save machines and tires.

By request for the benefit of retail merchants who may have missed the item printed a few weeks ago to explain how they can get rid of the collapsible tooth paste and shaving cream tubes customers turned in: The RFC's Metals Reserve Co. has designated the Tin Salvage Institute of Newark, N. J., as the sole agent for their collection. They all go eventually to Newark. Retailers who have the empty tubes turn them over to their nearest accessible wholesalers. The wholesaler picks them up in trucks, if possible, or retailers may ship them collect the cheapest way in lots of five pounds or more to the wholesaler.

Wholesalers or others who have the tubes ship them collect in lots of 100 pounds or more to the Institute, 411 Wilson Avenue, Newark. Wholesalers get a refund from the Institute covering the collect freight they paid the retailers.

In the face of protests, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, is standing firm on ODT policy that travel to and from the fairs is non-essential. He warned farmers that there would be no more tires for their vehicles from new rubber sources for three years. Said Mr. Eastman: "If convinced that postponement of fairs will contribute to the good of the country in time of war, the farmer will not give it a second thought. All he wants, I am sure, is to be convinced."

Manufacture of a needless number of varieties and designs of the same article is now regarded as an economic waste. Sizes and shapes of containers and bottles, styles of pipe fittings and nuts and bolts have been reduced by Government order. The varieties of pain you may now have in the drilling of your teeth are now cut down one half. A WPB order reduces the types and sizes of drilling burrs so that production of types needed by Army and Navy can be increased.

* * *

Colors and odors of cosmetics, ranging from lipstick to the "cosmetic" stocking, will be reduced. It isn't the sweet scent or the lovely hue to which the WPB objects. More tints, more smells, mean more containers, more caps, heavier inventories. Metal caps for cosmetic containers are out. The industry is experimenting with wood, plastic, and paper.

When anti-freeze scarcity warnings were sounded last spring, some dealers and suppliers speculated. OPA now fixes a price ceiling on the product to prevent profiteering next fall. Maximum price for permanent anti-freeze will be $2.65 a gallon, for the non-permanent, $1.10 to $1.40 per gallon, according to the type.

* * *

Government agencies in Washington are suffering a shortage of stenographic and typing help. OPA this week sent out a message to all its employees in the country offering Washington employment as an "opportunity to make a fine contribution to the war effort while seeking a successful career." The message refutes high cost and housing shortage rumors, and quotes: single rooms at $20 a month; doubles $35 to $40; room and board, $40 to $45 (two meals); $1.25 a day to eat in restaurants, and $1.25 for a week street car pass. "The Office of Price Administration needs your skills," it is stated.

* * *

Some New York Department stores tried to get around OPA's order preventing sale of typewriters, which became effective March 6, by which the customers "rents" the machine for a rental equal to the full price, and gets title when the sale ban is lifted. OPA rules that such a transaction constitutes a sale.

SAVE THE COFFEE CAN!

Advises the home economics department, College of Agriculture and Home Economics:

Soon coffee will be packed in paper packages or, in some cases, in glass containers. The day of the tin or steel coffee can is about over for the duration of the war. Therefore, it may be well to keep on hand one or two good coffee cans and to store coffee bought in paper packages in the tin can. It will not in itself make all the difference between good and bad coffee, but it may be a factor. Keep coffee can tightly covered, and in the icebox. The oil in coffee starts getting rancid in less than nine days.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

The following letter was received by Mrs. Mabel Sayre in regard to a supper served a number of soldiers from Ft. Knox, recently:

"Mrs. Mabel Sayre
Florence, Ky.
Dear Mrs. Sayre:

"May I take this occasion to extend to you my sincere appreciation for the generous hospitality recently extended by your group to the soldiers from Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

"The supper which had been so excellently prepared and served to them in Florence helped greatly in making their trip to Cincinnati and return a real success and I know that the friendly and cordial manner in which they were received impressed them deeply, to say nothing of the gay brief chats they had with the attractive young women who served them. No doubt several addresses were exchanged.

"With best wishes and sincere thanks to you and your group, I remain,

Sincerely,
William H. Pyne.

Eight farmers in Lawrence county are saving vetch seed to sow as a cover crop next fall.

THE FALL GARDEN
By John S. Gardner

The Fall Garden starts July 1 and not August 1, as is the idea. Also, it consists of much more than just greens and turnips, but it presents the summer's last opportunity for making sure that there will be enough vegetables for the winter. July's possibilities are:

Beans, 60 feet of row per person. Refugee, Stringless Greenpod, or for variety's sake, Horticultural, the "Cranberry Bean." Canning and drying.

Tomatoes. Even though it appears there will be enough tomatoes, sow now 1 packet of Marglobe, Rutgers or Greater Baltimore to make plants to set in cabbage-row gaps, where the onions were lifted or to follow the first planting of sweet corn. For late canning and for ripening indoors after frost.

Carrots and Beets. To start these in dry soil and when the weather is hot, this is the way. Furrow out the row about 3 inches deep, and fill with water, "flowing" it in. When it settles, fill it again. When it has sunk, sift in an inch of dry soil, sow the seed and cover with ½ inch of soil sifted in. Then, cover with plank, removing it when sprouting starts. Chantenay carrots; Detroit Dark Red beets.

Sweet Corn. Hickory King, Stowell's Evergreen or Golden Bantam will mature, sown as late as July 15, and Whipple's Early or Adams, July 30.

Late cabbage may fail for a variety of reasons. One is dry soil, but early preparation with frequent cultivation will aid in holding moisture. Another is the Green Worms, but these are reduced by preventing their breeding, destroying the stubs as early cabbage is cut. Yellows or wilt is another, but evaded by using Wisconsin All-Seasons, the resistant variety. Sow seed in pairs of threes (see "carrots") where heads are to stand; thin to one. Another variety is Wisconsin No. 8.

August's possibilities are:

Chinese Cabbage. August 1, sow like late cabbage; see also "carrots." At killing frost the plants may be lifted and reset in boxes of soil. Kept watered, in a house cellar, they will keep crisp and usable until Christmas. Pe Tsai or Chilili.

Cabbage Greens and Turnips. Seven Top, Siberian kale, Southern mustard and Tendergreen may be sown together, 1 oz. to 200 sq. ft., any time during August and September. The first 2 may be sown separately out of the way, to make early greens next year. The turnip to use (perhaps added to the mixture) is Purple Top Globe, but the spring sort, Strapleaf, will do.

Spinach. August 15 to September 15, King of Denmark, 1 oz. to 50-75 feet of row.

Cover Crops. The green mixture above makes a fair cover crop but the small grains, sown August-October, are better, and improvement is to add hairy vetch. Perhaps the garden can be halved, early and late, to cover each every other winter.

Chaplains with U. S. armed forced are using chalices made of gold-plate over an iron base, copper and brass will not be used to manufacture articles of religious devotion until after the war.

The family can opener is du for a rest; WPB has ordered tha fewer tin cans be made from not on, and in larger sizes, to sav critical metals.

Canning And Drying Demonstrations Open To All Persons

Canning and drying demonstrations open to all interested persons will be sponsored by Homemaker Clubs, according to the following schedule.

HOMEMAKERS BUY GLUE FOR HONEY

Members of homemakers' clubs in Boyd county, Kentucky, bought "honey" from an agent, thinking they were getting a sugar substitute at a low price. In trying to bake with it, they discovered it acted like glue and ruined their cakes and cookies, says Mr. Lois H. Sharp, county home demonstration agent, who has been holding meetings to discuss the use of honey, sirup and other sugar substitutes.

A Week of The War

Price Administrator Henderson told the press if price ceilings hold during the next 20 months the entire war effort will cost $62 billion less than it would cost if prices rose as they did during the last war. He said savings on steel alone under price ceilings were more than $161 million in 1941.

He said subsidies are necessary, however, to support price ceilings at March levels and to prevent suffering among consumers and retailers. Other "major threats" to price stabilization remain in the yet-uneffected parts of President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program including holding down agricultural prices, stabilization of wages, and the failure to reduce the inflationary gap through any tax action to date, he said.

Approximately 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 persons eventually may be helping with price control and rationing, although few of them will be concerned directly with enforcement, he said. He stated he might take over some of the WPA staff in setting up the OPA organizations in state and district offices, because its facilities apparently were available as more and more people were going into employment from relief rolls.

The Labor Department said living costs in large cities dropped 0.1 percent between May 15 and June 2, the first drop in such costs since November, 1940. Clothing, housefurnishing and rent costs all declined, but food costs continued to advance. The Department's index of nearly 900 wholesale prices dropped 0.3 percent during the week ended June 13, but was still 13.5 percent above a year ago.

War Manpower and Labor

The War Manpower Commission said the goal for men in the armed forces is 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 men by the end of 1943; 20,000,000 workers will be needed in war production and transportation by 1944; 12,000,000 will be required to harvest the 1943 crop. The President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice said in 1944 high school enrollment might be reduced by 40 to 50 percent, college enrollment by 70 percent, and half the nation's schools may be closed due to the increasing need for war workers.

The President signed legislation appropriating an additional $9½ million to finance the cost of training war workers in vocational courses of less than college grade. Selective Service announced registrants in the non-military age group 45 to 65 will receive occupational questionnaires shortly which will be used to locate individuals with professional and scientific qualifications and with essential skills. The WPB said Pacific coast lumber-men will be considered for temporary draft deferment. Agriculture Secretary Wickard said the farm labor supply problem might be solved if either the Government paid transportation expenses as part of the war program, on farmers pooled expenses to bring in the migrant labor they need. Railroads have already agreed to reduce fares for migrant farm workers.

Truck Transportation

The ODT established a U. S. Truck Conservation Corps to mobilize the nation's 5 million trucks—greatest truck fleet in the world—for more effective war service. The Office distributed to truck drivers, trucking firms, parts dealers and garages throughout the country information designed "to assure the continued and uninterrupted flow of the materials of war and the necessities of civilian life." All are being asked to pledge they will cooperate to "Keep 'Em Rolling" during the emergency.

Rubber and Oil

The House passed and sent to the Senate legislation authorizing $93 million to complete a bardge canal from St. John's river, Fla. to Port Inglis, Fla., for an oil pipeline from Port St. Joe, Fla., to Jacksonville, Fla; for enlargement of the existing Gulf Intracoastal Waterway from the St. Marks River, Fla., to Corpus Christi, Tex., and its extension to Brownsville, Tex., and for construction of a pipeline from the Tinsley, Miss., oil fields to Charleston, S. C., and Savannah, Ga.

The WPB announced American chemists have perfected a petroleum cracking process for making aviation gasoline and butadiene, a vital ingredient of synthetic rubber in the same operation. The U. S. signed an agreement with the Republic of Costa Rica, under which this Government will purchase all of Costa Rica's rubber production for the next five years, and will aid in development of potential rubber resources there. The Post Office Department directed rural carriers to cooperate in "every reasonable way" in the scrap rubber collection drive, and to help transport the scrap to collection depots from homes and farms on their routes.

Lend-Lease

President Roosevelt reported to Congress Lend-Lease aid in 1942 through May totaled $4½ billion in goods and services, at a rate equal to 12 percent of our entire war effort. He said Lend-Lease is now on a reciprocal basis. The Agriculture Department said farm products costing $154 million were bought in May for Lend-Lease, second highest total since the program began in March 1941. In 14½ months, through May, farm products valued at $1,225 million had been purchased for Lend-Lease. Belgium and the U. S. signed a master Lend-Lease agreement.

The Armed Forces

The President signed legislation granting pay increases to members of the armed forces retroactive to June 1, with a minimum base pay of $50 a month—the first general pay encrease in 20 years. Congress also completed action on a bill to provice financial aid for dependents of men in the four lowest grades of the armed forces and authorizing referment of married men with legitimate home ties. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to provide men who entered the armed forces since passage of the Selective Service Act with $5,000 insurance in event of injury or disease contracted while on active duty.

The War Department directed: "No military personnel on duty in any foreign country or possession may marry without the approval of the Commanding Officer of the United States Army forces stationed in such foreign country or possession."

The House passed and sent to the Senate the $8½ billion Naval Expansion Appropriation Bill to provide tons of aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of cruisers and 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escorts. The President signed a bill permitting the Navy to increase the number of its lighter-than-aircraft from an authorized strength of 48 to 72.

The War Front

The White House announced British Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt are conferring on "the war, conduct of the war, and the winning of the war."

The Western Defense Command announced a submarine presumed to be Japanese on June 21 fired six to nine shells into a sandy waste on the Oregon coast line near Astoria, in the second attack on the North American Pacific shore in 24 hours. Earlier, shells were fired at Estevan Point, Vancouver Island. The Navy said two ships previously announced sunk by submarine fire off the Virginia coast were sunk by enemy mines, the first authenticated instances of mines in American waters in this war.

The Navy said U. S. Air Forces engaged in "restricted air operations against Kiska," Aleutians Islands, where enemy "tents and minor temporary structures were observed to have been set up on land." A small force of Japanese ships in the harbor was bombed by Army aircraft, with hits scored on one cruiser and one transport sunk Earlier, U. S. bombers sank an enemy cruiser, damaged an aircraft carrier, three enemy cruisers, one destroyer, a gunboat and a transport, and shot down four enemy planes. On the Australian Northeastern Front, Allied forces lost 11 planes compared with 26 Japanese shot down and several destroyed on the ground. U. S. bombers based in Africa scored several directs hits on two Italian battleships, and shot down one German plane. All U. S. planes returned safely to their base. During the week 16 Allied merchant vessels were sunk, including eight of U. S. registry.

JOHN YOUNG BROWN says—
NOW IT MUST BE TOLD!

★

A Statement—
Personal Political Patriotic

I HAVE filed for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

Two weeks ago I had no idea of running. I was out of politics. I had a comfortable job. I was satisfied to let the other fellow have the office.

Now, I have gone back in politics. I have quit my job. As a loyal American, I can't be satisfied to see our Junior Senator returned to Washington.

Why?

The shocking answer to that question I shall give to the people of Kentucky in later advertisements and in radio speeches.

It is enough to say now that information came to me that made it seem unpatriotic and cowardly to let the nomination go virtually by default to the man who holds the office.

I believe Kentuckians, remembering Bataan, and the Coral Seas and all the theatres of war where Kentucky boys have distinguished themselves in the service of our country, will rise up when they hear the news I have to tell. I believe they will be outraged, one and all, remembering the old and tragic report, "too little and too late." I believe their blood will boil, as mine has boiled.

Read your papers! Tune in on your radios! I have more to say.

JOHN YOUNG BROWN.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Jonathan Hale, a direct descendant of the historically famed Nathan Hale, recently learned about Americanism.

Enjoying a day off from Columbia's "Blondie's Blessed Event," at the Gayety Theatre with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake, Hale struggled valiantly to erect a new 22-foot steel flag-pole in his yard.

To help in the project, he called in the neighbor's Japanese gardner. More help was needed, so Hale telephoned his plumber, who set up a husky assistant, a naturalized German.

The three of them, Hale, the American-born Japanese and the German, finally put the flag-pole into place. Not one word was spoken about the war.

WED., THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

You'd think a fellow wrapped in bandages, tucked in a hospital bed, guarded by a pretty nurse, was a pretty good accident risk—but John Payne wouldn't agree.

"Anything can happen to me—anywhere!" he is telling friends after completing his stint in 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor story of the U. S. Marine Corps "To The Shores Of Tripoli," which is due at the Gayety, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

While cautiously changing positions during the shooting of a hospital scene in the picture, John fell out of the high hospital bed. Fortunately his injuries were slight. Maureen O'Hara the pretty nurse concerned, thoughtfully pinned his bandages to the sheets and the scene was resumed.

Co-starred with John and Maureen is Randolph Scott.

CUSTODIAL OFFICERS AND MORE NURSES WANTED

The United States Civil Service Commission today issued a new announcement for Custodial Officers, junior grade, and modified its requirements for Junior Public Health Nurse. It also extended until further notice the acceptance of applications for Radio Monitoring Officer, $2,600 and $3,200 a year, and for Bindery Operative for Government Printing Office, 66 cents an hour.

Custodial officers will be appointed to the Department of Justice's Federal Prison service, the entire personnel of which is under civil service. The salary for the junior grade is $1,860 a year. Promotions are made on merit and demonstrated ability. The work of appointees may include reciving inmates and instructing them in prison rules; laying out work assignments and supervising groups of inmates employed upon construction work, labor details, laundry and other maintenance shops, and farm work; acting as referee and directing recreational activities; and assisting in rehabilitative work.

Applicants for custodial officer positions must be men between 25 and 58 years of age, in good physical condition, and of fearless and strong character. A written general test will be given to measure aptitude for adjusting to the duties. Applications must be filed with the Commission's Washington office not later than August 11, 1942.

For Junior Public Health Nurse positions, $1,800 a year, there are now no age limits. Registered nurses who have graduated subsequent to January 1, 1920, from an accredited school of nursing having a daily average of 100 or more patients, and have completed or are enrolled in an approved course covering 1 academic year in Public Health Nursing, may apply. One year of supervised experience in general public health nursing may be substituted for one half of the year's study in public health nursing. The physical requirements have been greatly modified. No written test is required. Positions will be filled in the Public Health Service and the Indian Service. Applications must be filed with the Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C., and will be accepted until further notice.

Full information as to the requirements for these examinations, and application forms, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second-class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

The Office of Price Administration has set July 1 as the date on which it will put into effect the new price regulations on many "retail services."

Some of the more common consumer services which will come under this regulation are laundry and dry cleaning, shoe repairing, lubrication and repair of private automobiles and other garage services, the repair and servicing of home radio sets and electrical appliances, tailoring, and even the sharpening of household knives and scissors. The maximum price which retailers may charge for these sservices is the highest price which was charged during March 1942.

Every person or firm supplying these services is automatically licensed under this regulation. These firms will receive no certificate or formal license, but the Government will nevertheless consider them licensed. The purpose of this automatic license is to secure a method of enforcement. If a seller, after a warning from the OPA violates the regulation, a court of proper jurisdiction may suspend the license for as long as twelve months, and without a license it is illegal to sell services which come under this regulation.

In case these price regulations work an undue hardship on the retailers performing these services, the OPA has set up machinery by which a person may apply for relief. But is absolutely necessary that retailers performing various services investigate and see if they come under these regulations. If they are not sure of their status, they should contact the nearest OPA office and secure the full regulations.

Professional services, such as those of doctors, dentists, and lawyers, are exempt from price control by the general regulation. Barber shops and beauty parlor prices are also exempt.

Thus we see the Government is enlarging its control over prices of commodities and services which the consumer buys. We may expect more of this, for inflation must be curbed if our living standards are to be maintained.

LIVESTOCK HELPS OUT IN DAVIESS

The livestock industry continues to increase in importance in Daviess county, says County Agent J. E. McClure. There are more beef cattle, dairy cattle, hogs and sheep. W. J. Foster founded a herd of Angus six years ago, and now has nearly 100 head, about a third of which are registered. Ten steers from the herd topped the market this spring. Mike Ebelhar, after three years of testing, has increased production in his dairy herd to over 300 pounds of butterfat a cow. A bull from a cow that produced 800 pounds of butterfat in one year was recently added to the herd.

GROWS GARDEN AS HOBBY

Growing an acre of vegetables as a hobby, Ben Lewallen has one of the best gardens in Harlan county, in the opinion of Gray H. Williams, the county agent. Gardens all over the county are exceptionally good this season, due in part to extra attention, William believes. Gardeners selected good ground, planted and cultivated with care, and applied fertilizer. Also, they sprayer or dusted the vegetables.

Eighteen 4-H club boys in Carroll county are growing a total of 10 acres of castor beans.

EXTENSION SERVICE REACHES ALL FARMERS IN RUBBER COLLECTION

Using its complete organization, including county, community and neighborhood committes, the Extension Service of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics made it possible to reach all farm families in the collection of rubber June 15-30.

Homemakers' clubs, 4-H clubs, committees and other organizations swung into action immediately upon the announcement of the special rubber campaign. As a result all farm families had an opportunity to contribute in the drive for old rubber.

Every county in the state has a 4-H club salvage committee which cooperates in all war effort. Also each of the 2,052 4-H clubs has a chairman who is a member of the general county salvage committee. All homemakers' clubs have salvage committees. Hundreds of neighborhood organizations, formed in the anti-inflation program, provided a large number of Victory leaders who helped collect rubber.

Upon notification from Washington of the extra call for rubber, the College sent a letter to all county and home demonstration agents, directing them to give their personal services in the rubber drive and to contact all Extension Service organizations.

Before June 15, members of the 4-H clubs in Kentucky had collected approximately four million pounds of scrap metal, 150,000 pounds of rubber and large amounts of paper and rags.

The 4-H clubs, homemakers' clubs and all other Extension Service organizations will keep active in war work throughout the emergency, the College announces.

KENTUCKY PELTS TO HELP WIN THE WAR

Kentucky sheepmen are being asked by the War Production Board to supply as many shearling pelts as possible from which warm clothing can be made for aviators and their ground crews. Shearling pelts, which are sheep and lamb skins with less than one inch of wool, are in such demand that the War Production Board has recently stepped up its requirements to 15 and ½ million before the end of next year. This is several times normal production.

The most practical way of getting a large number of these pelts from Kentucky, according to Richard C. Miller, of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, is to shear during the last two weeks in July all lambs that are not ready for market by the middle of that month and finish in the fall, at which time most of them will have the proper length of wool for a No. 1 pelt, which is from ½ to one inch in length. Skins with ¼ to ½ inch of wool classifies as No. 2 pelts. The ceiling price on No. 1 pelt is $2.15 and on No. 2 $1.90. This increased value of pelts will be reflected in the price packers pay for the lambs.

Mr. Miller suggests that all lambs weighing under 75 pounds by the middle of July be weaned, sheared during the last two weeks of that month and finished at 85 to 100 pounds for fall marketing. This, says Mr. Miller, is the most practical way to handle these late lambs, even if there were no additional incentive as is the case this year. With several hundred thousand such lambs on Kentucky farms, it is hoped that the State can supply at least 250,000 shearling pelts or enough to outfit 30,000 aviators, since 75 square feet of pelt or that from eight to ten lambs is needed for each aviator.

In order to carry lambs through in condition to make good gains when the nights get cool in the fall they should be treated at least every month and preferably every three weeks for the control of internal parasites. In most cases, the combination bluestone-"Blackleaf 40" treatment will be sufficient. Frequent change of pasture and the switching of lambs to stubble or other fields where sheep have not been during the season, even for a few weeks during the summer, will be a great help.

TIME EXTENSION ANNOUNCED

Frankfort, Ky.—An extension of time until Midnight, July 4, for the filing of applications for the position of clerk-stenographer, examinations for which will be given in the near future, has been announced by J. P. Glasgow, supervisor for the merit system committee of the State Division of Personnel.

The examinations, which will be used to establish registers for positions with the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission, the Department of Welfare and the United States Employment Service for Kentucky, will be upon an open, competitive basis.

Because of the great demand for stenographic help by the Federal Government and defense industries, Glasgow said, the present register for clerk-tenographer has been greatly reduced.

Applicants may obtain the necessary forms from any United States Employment Service office, county school superintendent, State Department of Welfare offices or by writing to J. P. Glasgow, Merit System Supervisor, Division of Personnel, Frankfort, Ky.

A 550-mile, 24 inch pipeline will be built from Longview, Texas, to Salem, Illinois to help relieve the Eastern oil shortage.

BLUEGRASS POPULATION GAIN DUE TO LEXINGTON

Had it not been for Lexington and its suburus, the population of eight central Bluegrass counties in 1940 would have been about the same as it was in 1880, says Dr. Howard W. Beers in a new bulletin of the Agricultural Experiment Station called "Growth of Population in Kentucky."

In none of these counties except Fayette, and to a lesser extent Clark, was the 1940 population significantly larger or smaller than in 1860. Harrison, Scott and Woodford counties, however, experienced the 30-year decline noted in so many Kentucky counties after 1900.

Dr. Beers also notes that these counties, again excepting Fayette, did not join with some other Kentucky counties in the general rural increase during the 1930's.

"The stability of the Inner Bluegrass" he continued "has been so conspicuous for so many decades that no marked short-time change in the population of the area would be anticipated without major change in structure of its agricultural economy."

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Arrangements have been made to accommodate 100 boys at the State conservation camp at Camp Bingham July 6-10. Cooperating agencies include the state departments of health and fish and game. A new feature will be conservation through the use of paint. Also, the economic side of conservation will be stressed.

Kentucky won three scholarships in the 1941 national 4-H club contests. Clothing achievement brought a $200 scholarship to Mary Allen Routt of Oldham county, and James Chaney and Frank Truitt of Warren county each received a $250 scholarship for demonstrations in dairy production.

Thirty girls in Kenton county entered the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation garden contest. A community garden operated by girls in a Negro school secured 6,000 onion sets, 1,250 cabbage plants and 1,250 tomato plats from the foundation.

Forty-eight club members and leaders attended the annual Harlan Kiwanis club 4-H strawberry banquet. Each gave the Kiwanians a gallon of berries. The farm and home demonstration practice contests in the county were sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

Forty-two club members in Ohio county have planted 13 acres of castor beans. Seven members failed to get their seed allowance. Ohio county Utopia club members are taking an active part in the anti-inflation program.

Escoe Perry, president of the Bell County 4-H Clubs, sold onions from a third of an acre for $130. He also is growing tomatoes, cabbage and other vegetables in his Victory garden. Seventy-six boys and girls are enrolled in a Victory garden project in the Henderson settlement school community.

The American Legion will sponsor fall gardening among 4-H club members in Laurel county. Tomato, cabbage, celery, kale and turnip seed will be purchased for 200 boys and girls.

SAVE EVERY BIT OF RUBBER, WOMEN TOLD

Re-emphasizing the need to save for the county salvage committees every bit of scrap rubber not urgently needed, Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of county home demonstration work in Kentucky, calls attention to the following figures released by national officials:

Of the B-19 planes, the flying fortresses, the bullet-proof gas tanks require 1,200 pounds of rubber.

Each tire on the main landing wheel of the B-19 bomber weighs half a ton.

In a battleship, there are 150,000 pounds of rubber, as much as in 10,000 auto tires.

This merely shows how much the government needs rubber for war. Much reconditioned can be used for vital national needs, so that "fresh" rubber can go solely for war. Discarded overshoes or boots, rings for cans, atomizers, etc., may be contributed.

A Buffalo, N. Y., concern is making a new type of sponge sweatband to keep the sweat from running into the eyes of war production workers; they had to find substitutes for glycerine and gum rubber.

WE DECLARE THREE MORE WARS

About six months after Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary declared war upon the United States, the Congress, at the request of the President, has recognized the existence of a state of war between the United States and these nations.

The fact that these satellites of the Axis promptly declared war upon the United States when Japan attacked us at Pearl Harbor should convince all Americans of the hostile aims of the Axis against this country.

Not only did Germany and Italy make common cause with Japan against the United States, but the puppet governments of Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary quickly executed the command of Der Fuehrer.

So far as we know there were no reasonable causus belli between the United States and these little nations of Europe. Their governments, however, belong to the Axis ring and certified their servility by declaring war against us.

In view of the present world situation, the times has passed for us to regard with condenscension any hostile act directed against the United States. Before this war end, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary should be made to understand that a declaration of war is a serious step. They should learn that it is of unusual moment when addressed to the United States.

Let us hope that when the present struggle is over, the United States, conscious of its strength, will stand upright among the nations of the earth, earning the respect of its friends and protecting its rights against all enemies.

There will be no place in the post-war world for a be-nice-to-everybody policy in the hope that nobody will attack us. A foreign policy based upon our just rights will require an adequate army and navy, together with appropriate air strength, and the cost of such preparedness will be slight, as insurance against another war of the present type.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Lambs brought into Clinton county last November at a cost of $9 a head sheared $3 worth of wool this spring.

Terrace lines totaling 4,750 feet have been made for Elbert Spurrier and Milburn Hornback in Grayson county.

In Boyd county, 613 received from the sale of scrap last month was used to help maintain a canteen for soldiers.

Approximately 15,000 sheep were insured in Lincoln county last year with losses amount to $509.

The drive to save household fats is expected to net 500,000,000 a year, or enough to make 50 to 100 million pounds of glycerine. 100 pounds of fats will yield enough glycerine to make 24½ pounds of nitroglycerin.

VERONA YOUTH ENDS OWN LIFE

AT HIS HOME NEAR VERONA SATURDAY — DESPONDENCY OVER WAR GIVEN AS CAUSE —SERVICES HELD TUESDAY.

Despondent over present conditions and the draft, Theodore Newland, age 41, ended his own life Saturday night, July 4th in the barnyard near his home in Verona, Ky.

Before leaving his home Saturday night, he told his mother not to expect him home as he was planning to go fishing with some friends. Late Sunday afternoon his body was discovered in the barnyard a short distance from the barn where he had left his cap and personal belongings before taking his life.

A bullet wound in the left temple caused his death, and a verdict of suicide was pronounced by Coroner Ulous Carlton. A .22 calibre rifle was found near the body.

Mr. Newland was born in Indiana and was a member of the Baptist Church there.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, July 2 at the Hamilton funeral home with Rev. Kirtley Johnson, officiating. Burial was in New Bethel cemetery. J. L. Hamilton & Son had charge of arrangements.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Alma Newland, he leaves one sister, Mrs. Ed Hopperton, of Crittenden and two brothers, John of Cincinnati, and Roscoe, of Hebron.

TWO-POUND SUGAR BONUS

WILL BE GIVEN PERSONS HOLDING RATION CARDS—IS PURCHASABLE JULY 10 TO AUGUST 22.

A sugar "bonus" of two pounds for every ration card holder, purchasable between July 10 and August 22, was announced by the Office of Price Administration Friday because of "somewhat heavier shipments" of sugar into this country than anticipated.

In addition, institutional users will get 75 per cent of their normal sugar consumption for September and October instead of the present 50 per cent, and industrial users will get 80 per cent instead of 70 per cent. Householders may obtain the dividend allotment by presenting Ration Stamp No. 7 to the grocery store any time in the six-week period. The bonus is in addition to the regular two-pound-a month allotments obtainable with Card No. 5, and with Card No. 6.

Leon Henderson, Price Administration, in announcing OPA's decision, said it represented a "conservative gamble" on the likelihood of sugar supplies continuing to arrive in their present volume.

BRENT SPENCE IS CANDIDATE

FOR RE-ELECTION—HAS SERVED THIS SECTION AS CONGRESSMAN FOR PAST TWELVE YEARS.

Hon. Brent Spence, Ft. Thomas, makes his formal announcement for re-election as Congressman from the Fifth Congressional District in this issue of The Recorder.

Mr. Spence needs no introduction to the voters of Boone County as he is well known throughout this section. He has served as Congressman for the past twelve years.

He is well qualified for the position he seeks, as has been proven during his time in the House. He has given careful attention to legislation affecting this section of Kentucky and has represented his district in a most efficient manner.

Due to the war, and added work placed upon on representatives in the House, Mr. Spence probably will be unable to make an active campaign, but will depend largely upon his friends throughout the district to carry on his campaign in the event he has opposition.

Mr. Spence made his first successful race for Congressman in 1930 and has held this office since that time.

LATE CROPS DUE TO EXCESS RAIN

COMMERCIAL TOMATO GROWERS REPORT—HAY CROPS BEST IN YEARS, ACCORDING TO REPORTS.

Tomato crops both for the cannery and for market are later than usual, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The late crop is due to late planting and cool weather. The commercial canning tomato plants in most instances were ready for transplanting before the growers were ready to plant. This made long, shanky plants that were less desirable for setting.

John Herbstreit, John P. Dolwick and sons, Elmer Peeno, Frank McGlasson and sons, and Alfred and Lewis Dolwick all of Constance Route 1, were found to have outstanding commercial crops of tomatoes. They were all staked and the past week were beginning to ripen.

The tobacco crop has been making excellent growth. Lehman Goodridge of Hebron and Geo. Dringenburg, of Florence the past week had two of the most forward tobacco crops.

Hay crop yields are expected to be the best in years due to the favorable growing season. Due to the frequent rains, most farmers were encountering difficulty harvesting their crops.

C. Liston Hempfling, Chas. L. Hempfling and Frank McGlasson all have good peach crops this year. Elmo Jergens and Norman Herbstreit of Constance will have the largest vineyard in the county. They have sprayed their crop five times this year and have the heaviest crop of high quality fruit on record. Boone County has the reputation of producing the highest quality grapes on the Cincinnati market.

Hybrid sugar corn is proving its worth in home gardens this year. Hybrid sugar corn produces stronger stalks, more ears and more corn than open pollinated varieties. The Golden Hummer Hybrid variety is about two weeks ahead of Adams Early (the earliest open pollinated variety) and will produce roasting ears this week for many gardeners. Golden Cross Bantam is one of the best general purpose hybrid varieties. Locally hybrid sugar corn demonstrators who may have a limited amount of seed are Luther Smith, J. C. Bedinger, Elby Dringenburg, R. S. Hensley, L. S. Snyder, Thos. Hensley and Future Farmers.

Home gardens and a good "Live at Home" program is more important this year than ever before. Help produce your and your Nation's needed food supply. Produce, can, store and preserve for your future needs. Information on care of foods produced is available at the County and Home Demonstration Agents' offices.

HEMPFLING WILL REPRESENT BOONE

AT MEETING OF CREDIT ASSOCIATION REPRESENTATIVES IN DISTRICT MEETING AT LEXINGTON.

When directors and secretary-treasurers from six production credit associations meet in Lexington, July 14, for this section's annual group directors' conference, the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association will be represented by Leonard C. Taylor, Williamstown, Ky., secretary-treasurer, and the following farmers who are directors of the association: A. Threlkeld, Mason; Roscoe Jump, Elliston; W. H. Parker, Sanders; Frank Marquette, Falmouth; and C. Liston Hempfling, Constance.

The conference is held each year to permit an interchange of ideas and suggestions on ways and means to improve the service to the farmer-members of the cooperative, short-term credit organizations. Conference discussions feature "on the farm" credit problems since the directors are all farmers and know the farmers' practical financing problems and the results that properly directed farm credit service can accomplish.

"With all of our members producing needed food and fiber items, either directly or indirectly for the current Food-for-Freedom drive," points out Mr. Taylor, "our cooperative associations are facing new problems to adequately serve the farmers in this part of the state. Our members know that the wise use of dependable credit is essential to their farm programs and we want to make the same kind of credit readily available to other farmers. We're going to the conference, hoping to tell others what we have done, but most of all to get new ideas for providing better credit service for our own farmers here in Boone, Campbell, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Kenton, Owen and Pendleton counties."

Fish And Game Club Will Meet Tonight

STATE FAIR CANCELLED

IN REPLY TO PLEA OF JOSEPH B. EASTMAN TO EASE STRAIN OF TRAFFIC—MAY STORE RUBBER IN BUILDINGS.

Kentucky's 1942 State Fair was canceled by the State Board, late Monday. Near the end of a five-hour session the board made public resolutions adopted saying the action had been taken in deference to a request by Joseph B. Eastman, Defense Transportation Director, that all fairs be called off to ease the war-time strain on travel facilities.

The fair's annual horse show will not be conducted this year due to cancellation of the fair itself.

The board will meet again in Louisville, July 14, he added, to determine how large a force to keep on the pay rolls.

Other questions to be decided at that meeting, Jones said include what use is to be made of the grounds and whether to finish construction of the Junior Club Building for farm youths and the restaurant building, both under construction. The contract with Robert Jewell as manager of the fair expires October 1.

Jones said certain of the buildings might be used for storage of rubber and wheat and other buildings might be rented as circus headquarters.

The fair was to have been held September 5-12 and Jones said between $15,000 and $20,000 already had been expended in preparation for it. Printing of the catalog and advertising of the annual horse show were the principal expenditures, he added. The Legislature appropriated $49,500 for ordinary expenses, however, and $45,000 for premiums.

Besides a host of relatives and friends, he leaves one daughter and one son to mourn his passing.

BOND QUOTA FOR BOONE IS $27,300

FOR MONTH OF JULY—MONTH OF JUNE QUOTA PASSED BY OVER TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The proportionate part of the sales of War Bonds and Stamps for July, which has been assigned to Boone County is $27,300.00.

Can we do it? Many of our people are doing more. What they are doing is not of such a quality as may be measured in dollars and cents. We of Boone County have sent 203 of our finest men since Selective Service. They and their value cannot be measured in money of this realm or any other.

Yes, when we think of what their loved ones have given, and are giving, we will meet our quota of a few bonds and stamps. We too will sacrifice, we too, will join in the Victory chorus and do our best. Boone County will not be found wanting when the sales for July are totaled, if we will let our conscience be our guide, and realize that but for the valor of our armed forces, we, too, might be a conquered people.

The quota for June was $15,900.00 We bought $17,47.50 for that month, but in July we must buy $10,000.00 more than in June.

Meeting our quota will take us to our goal of Victory. Won't you join the march?

AT HIS HOME NEAR VERONA SATURDAY — DESPONDENCY OVER WAR GIVEN AS CAUSE —SERVICES HELD TUESDAY.

Despondent over present conditions and the draft, Theodore Newland, age 41, ended his own life Saturday night, July 4th in the barnyard near his home in Verona, Ky.

Before leaving his home Saturday night, he told his mother not to expect him home as he was planning to go fishing with some friends. Late Sunday afternoon his body was discovered in the barnyard a short distance from the barn where he had left his cap and personal belongings before taking his life.

A bullet wound in the left temple caused his death, and a verdict of suicide was pronounced by Coroner Ulous Carlton. A .22 calibre rifle was found near the body.

Mr. Newland was born in Indiana and was a member of the Baptist Church there.

TWO-POUND SUGAR BONUS

WILL BE GIVEN PERSONS HOLDING RATION CARDS—IS PURCHASABLE JULY 10 TO AUGUST 22.

A sugar "bonus" of two pounds for every ration card holder, purchasable between July 10 and August 22, was announced by the Office of Price Administration Friday because of "somewhat heavier shipments" of sugar into this country than anticipated.

In addition, institutional users will get 75 per cent of their normal sugar consumption for September and October instead of the present 50 per cent, and industrial users will get 80 per cent instead of 70 per cent. Householders may obtain the dividend allotment by presenting Ration Stamp No. 7 to the grocery store any time in the six-week period. The bonus is in addition to the regular two-pound-a month allotments obtainable with Card No. 5, and with Card No. 6.

Leon Henderson, Price Administration, in announcing OPA's decision, said it represented a "conservative gamble" on the likelihood of sugar supplies continuing to arrive in their present volume.

BRENT SPENCE IS CANDIDATE

FOR RE-ELECTION—HAS SERVED THIS SECTION AS CONGRESSMAN FOR PAST TWELVE YEARS.

Hon. Brent Spence, Ft. Thomas, makes his formal announcement for re-election as Congressman from the Fifth Congressional District in this issue of The Recorder.

Mr. Spence needs no introduction to the voters of Boone County as he is well known throughout this section. He has served as Congressman for the past twelve years.

He is well qualified for the position he seeks, as has been proven during his time in the House. He has given careful attention to legislation affecting this section of Kentucky and has represented his district in a most efficient manner.

Due to the war, and added work placed upon on representatives in the House, Mr. Spence probably will be unable to make an active campaign, but will depend largely upon his friends throughout the district to carry on his campaign in the event he has opposition.

Mr. Spence made his first successful race for Congressman in 1930 and has held this office since that time.

LATE CROPS DUE TO EXCESS RAIN

COMMERCIAL TOMATO GROWERS REPORT—HAY CROPS BEST IN YEARS, ACCORDING TO REPORTS.

Tomato crops both for the cannery and for market are later than usual, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The late crop is due to late planting and cool weather. The commercial canning tomato plants in most instances were ready for transplanting before the growers were ready to plant. This made long, shanky plants that were less desirable for setting.

John Herbstreit, John P. Dolwick and sons, Elmer Peeno, Frank McGlasson and sons, and Alfred and Lewis Dolwick all of Constance Route 1, were found to have outstanding commercial crops of tomatoes. They were all staked and the past week were beginning to ripen.

The tobacco crop has been making excellent growth. Lehman Goodridge of Hebron and Geo. Dringenburg, of Florence the past week had two of the most forward tobacco crops.

Hay crop yields are expected to be the best in years due to the favorable growing season. Due to the frequent rains, most farmers were encountering difficulty harvesting their crops.

C. Liston Hempfling and Chas. L. Hempfling and Frank McGlasson all have good peach crops this year. Elmo Jergens and Norman Herbstreit of Constance will have the largest vineyard in the county. They have sprayed their crop five times this year and have the heaviest crop of high quality fruit on record. Boone County has the reputation of producing the highest quality grapes on the Cincinnati market.

Hybrid sugar corn is proving its worth in home gardens this year. Hybrid sugar corn produces stronger stalks, more ears and more corn than open pollinated varieties. The Golden Hummer Hybrid variety is about two weeks ahead of Adams Early (the earliest open pollinated variety) and will produce roasting ears this week for many gardeners. Golden Cross Bantam is one of the best general-purpose hybrid varieties. Locally hybrid sugar corn demonstrators who may have a limited amount of seed are Luther Smith, J. C. Bedinger, Elby Dringenburg, R. S. Hensley, L. S. Snyder, Thos. Hensley and Future Farmers.

Home gardens and a good "Live at Home" program is more important this year than ever before. Help produce your and your Nation's needed food supply. Produce, can, store and preserve for your future needs. Information on care of foods produced is available at the County and Home Demonstration Agents' offices.

HEMPFLING WILL REPRESENT BOONE

AT MEETING OF CREDIT ASSOCIATION REPRESENTATIVES IN DISTRICT MEETING AT LEXINGTON.

When directors and secretary-treasurers from six production credit associations meet in Lexington, July 14, for this section's annual group directors' conference, the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association will be represented by Leonard C. Taylor, Williamstown, Ky., secretary-treasurer, and the following farmers who are directors of the association: A. Threlkeld, Mason; Roscoe Jump, Elliston; W. H. Parker, Sanders; Frank Marquette, Falmouth; and C. Liston Hempfling, Constance.

The conference is held each year to permit an interchange of ideas and suggestions on ways and means to improve the service to the farmer-members of the cooperative, short-term credit organizations. Conference discussions feature "on the farm" credit problems since the directors are all farmers and know the farmers' practical financing problems and the results that properly directed farm credit service can accomplish.

"With all of our members producing needed food and fiber items, either directly or indirectly for the current Food-for-Freedom drive," points out Mr. Taylor, "our cooperative associations are facing new problems to adequately serve the farmers in this part of the state. Our members know that the wise use of dependable credit is essential to their farm programs and we want to make the same kind of credit readily available to other farmers. We're going to the conference, hoping to tell others what we have done, but most of all to get new ideas for providing better credit service for our own farmers here in Boone, Campbell, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Kenton, Owen and Pendleton counties."

STATE FAIR CANCELLED

IN REPLY TO PLEA OF JOSEPH B. EASTMAN TO EASE STRAIN OF TRAFFIC—MAY STORE RUBBER IN BUILDINGS.

Kentucky's 1942 State Fair was canceled by the State Board, late Monday. Near the end of a five-hour session the board made public resolutions adopted saying the action had been taken in deference to a request by Joseph B. Eastman, Defense Transportation Director, that all fairs be called off to ease the war-time strain on travel facilities.

The fair's annual horse show will not be conducted this year due to cancellation of the fair itself.

The board will meet again in Louisville, July 14, he added, to determine how large a force to keep on the pay rolls.

Other questions to be decided at that meeting, Jones said include what use is to be made of the grounds and whether to finish construction of the Junior Club Building for farm youths and the restaurant building, both under construction. The contract with Robert Jewell as manager of the fair expires October 1.

Jones said certain of the buildings might be used for storage o rubber and wheat and other buildings might be rented as circus headquarters.

The fair was to have been held September 5-12 and Jones said between $15,000 and $20,000 already had been expended in preparation for it. Printing of the catalog and advertising of the annual horse show were the principal expenditures, he added. The Legislature appropriated $49,500 for ordinary expenses, however, and $45,000 for premiums.

BOND QUOTA FOR BOONE IS $27,300

FOR MONTH OF JULY—MONTH OF JUNE QUOTA PASSED BY OVER TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The proportionate part of the sales of War Bonds and Stamps for July, which has been assigned to Boone County is $27,300.00.

Can we do it? Many of our people are doing more. What they are doing is not of such a quality as may be measured in dollars and cents. We of Boone County have sent 203 of our finest men since Selective Service. They and their value cannot be measured in money of this realm or any other.

Yes, when we think of what their loved ones have given, and are giving, we will meet our quota of a few bonds and stamps. We too will sacrifice—we too, will join in the Victory chorus and do our best. Boone County will not be found wanting when the sales for July are totaled, if we will let our conscience be our guide, and realize that but for the valor of our armed forces, we too, might be a conquered people.

The quota for June was $15,900.00 We bought $17,747.50 for that month, but in July we must buy $10,000.00 more than in June.

Meeting our quota will take us to our goal of Victory. Won't you join the march?

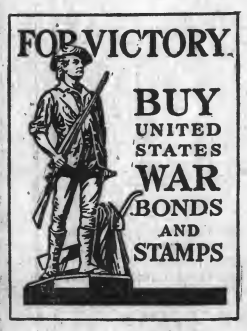
A LESSON FROM GERMANY



A vivid light on the role of railroads in war is found in comments by some of the American correspondents recently exchanged at Lisbon for German correspondents and diplomats.

Louis Lochner, chief of the former Berlin Bureau of the Associated Press, said: "Adolph Hitler's widely advertised superhighways may yet prove an important factor in the undoing of the German war machine. The longer the war lasts, the more evident it becomes that Hitler bet on the wrong horse in solving the nation's transportation problem chiefly through the construction of superhighways rather than the improvement, or even the upkeep, of Germany's extensive railway system. A majority of Germany's 600,000 freight cars were obsolete by 1938. Even in the first winter of the war the transportation system proved inadequate."

Edwin Shanke, another member of the Berlin AP bureau, wrote: "Railways have been in a tangle virtually from the start of the war. The lack of rolling stock replacements and the repair of aging facilities are the principal headaches . . . The superhighways now lie virtually idle while railways are clogged with war traffic they can't handle."

In this country—where the railroads are privately-owned, not state-owned as in Germany—the rails were ready for war. They had spent twenty years preparing for war, and for demands for service which would surpass all precedents. When the defense drive started, the greatest mass-transportation system the world had seen was at this country's beck and call. That system has confounded its critics, and done a job which is literally miraculous.

That system will be called upon to do a bigger job still in the future. And it will do that job if permitted to buy the materials it needs for maintaining and expanding its plant. When Hitler finally collapses, the breakdown in transportation will be one of the causes—movements the heart and soul of modern war. The lesson we can read from Germany's experience is clear: Our American railroads, with their far-sighted managements, expert crews and magnificent physical facilities, must be kept rolling at all costs.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

THE BEST IN MEDICAL SERVICE

"The standards of medical education in this country today are undoubtedly superior to those found in any other country in the world," said the president of the American Medical Association, recently. "This method of production of more physicians and of maintaining present medical standards is one which demands untiring scrutiny and should not be decided in a hurried manner under pressure of emergency.

"Basic principles in medical education must not be jettisoned; they may be held in abeyance, but the enormous damage which becomes unavoidable in the wake of war may be mitigated by every endeavor to maintain as high a level of both practice and education as is humanly possible."

The tremendous demand for physicians made by the military forces has caused the suggestion that the educational requirements of our medical schools be relaxed, so that doctors may be produced in a shorter period of time. If that suggestion was widely followed, one result would be inevitable—a definite decline in the quality of medical service given the American people. The time required for graduation from an accredited school of medicine, coupled with the hard, continuous application required of students, is our best guarantee of adequate service.

Before we lower these standards in any degree, every effort should be made to maintain them, no matter how difficult the problem. Retired doctors are coming back into practice; all doctors are working harder, and patients themselves can help solve the problem by refraining from wasting the physicians' time. This question involves the health of the American of tomorrow, no less than those of today.

A LUMP OF COAL

Take a lump of coal in your hand. It certainly isn't pretty. It doesn't even look useful. But coal is one of those extraordinary products which will revolutionize the world of the future.

Out of coal comes one kind of synthetic rubber—and America's highly-developed coal industry will be an important factor in eventually solving the grave rubber problem.

Out of coal come many plastics—and we're just on the verge of the "plastic age" today. All-plastic cars all-plastic airplanes, all-plastic furniture—these are but a few of the amazing developments.

American industry and American inventive and chemical genius are opening up vast new horizons. Miracles are in the making.

DULL FLICKER OF ALADDIN'S LAMP

By J. E. Jones

Washington, D. C.—Aladdin must have thought he had the World by the tail, but he performed his miracles with an oil lamp before there were 20 billion dollars in his world. The Government of the United States had total expenditures of more than $32,560,000,000, of which about 26 billion dollars was war spending, for the fiscal year that closed June 30. Aladdin may have rubbed his lamp but he never learned abe's about Big money.

The receipts of the U. S. Government totaled about $12,700,000,000 last year. Aladdin's lamp didn't have candle power enough to light up a job like that, to say nothing about going into the "red" nearly 20 billion.

Anyhow your Washington correspondent reports the fact that this is the tenth continuous deficit of the Roosevelt Administration, and that all past deficits will be dwarfed by the $43,223,000,000 deficit forecast in the budget message for the 1943 fiscal year.

As Congress closed its appropriation budget on the night of June 30 many members of the two Houses of Congress expressed deep concern over the huge appropriations that they had helped to pass, especially the 48 billion dollar war appropriation bill, which would bring to nearly 202 billion dollars the war and defense commitments since June, 1940. Aladdin didn't have worries like that.

In fact the record shows that he didn't even know about inflation. Inasmuch as Aladdin has been horned-in on this story we will respect his memory and not tax you with indigestible particulars about how all the money that is scheduled to be raised.

"The Customer Is Boss"

Behind this simple and generally accepted conception lies the whole philosophy that made America great.

We are apt to fail to realize how fundamental and far-reaching this conception of business really is. It is the very health of our country and, like health, it is never missed or appreciated until it is gone.

The principle applies in all our dealings. The housewife, for example, must be pleased by the butcher—he is working for her. Hers is the choice—if she likes his meat and his price, she buys. If not, she doesn't. And so it goes it every walk of life.

Just as soon as any other conception is tolerated, then ill health starts to gnaw at the vitals of business. For example, beginning with the wave of sit-down strikes and extending through another wave of drastic labor legislation, a condition has grown up in certain industries where labor—not the customer—has become the boss. Instead of the affected industries being able to deal freely with their customers and being able to adjust the operation of the business, including labor, materials and administration, to best serve the customer, business has been forced to conduct itself to satisfy labor and then endeavor to force the customer into line.

Since "he profits most who serves best," it is evident that neither a business, nor the workers who derive their living from it, are going to prosper in the long run when something else is placed above the fundamental mission of serving the customer. No man, and no business, "can serve two masters." Business cannot serve its customer and serve labor simultaneously.

Business is actually a customer of labor in the same way that the purchaser is a customer of business. It is this conception which is at the root of the free enterprise system that made this country what it is. We have something to sell—be it our services, our products or our time. A man or a business will go further when what the man or business has to sell competes successfully in its appeal to the needs and desires of the buyer.

Anything which interferes with this normal process is a deadly canker striking at the vitals of the American system.

"The customer is boss"—this is a simple, effective and highly essential yardstick to apply to any business relationship today no matter what it may be. If the American way is to be preserved, it must be the yardstick.

How the beauty parlor goes to war: The iron that used to go into a single hair dryer is enough for six hand grenades.

A single minesweeper contains enough lumber to build 20 average civilian homes and an average chair represents the wood needed for an army bunk.

There are 80 shots at the enemy in a set of brass curtain fixtures, the metal they contain would produce that many cartridges for a soldier's rifle.

If you find electric fans are scarce this summer, consider that the copper from a dozen such fans is enough to provide all the copper needed in fabricating a 20-mm. aircraft cannon to make it hot for the Japs and Nazis.

The steel that goes into a single sewing machine will make a high explosive shell for a 75-mm. field howitzer and the steel in two large outboard motors would make a sub-machine gun with which our soldiers could shoot down Japs.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 12

ADAM AND EVE: TEMPTATION AND SIN

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 3:1-13, 23, 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The soul that sinneth, it shall die.—Ezekiel 18:4.

The finished creation of God was "very good," but before long it was marred by sin. Dr. Hart-Davies in his book on Genesis speaks of a brick from the walls of ancient Babylon, now in the British museum. It "bears the imprint of one of Babylon's mighty kings. Right over the center of the royal seal is deeply impressed the footprint of a 'pariah' dog which apparently trod upon it when it was soft and plastic. Human nature is like that brick. Man originally was made in the image of God, but over the divine likeness there has been superimposed the dirty disfigurement of the devil's imprint."

We see first in our lesson the appearance of the serpent who is the subtle emissary of—

I. Satan (vv. 1-5).

Man, because he was made in God's image, was not a mere automaton, having no moral choice. He was a free being who had to choose between good and evil. Obedience to God is the underlying moral principle of the universe. Man was given an opportunity to obey the prohibition of one tree in the Garden of Eden. The principle of prohibition in the midst of a world of privilege thus has divine sanction.

Satan provided the occasion for man's fall into sin. He came, not as the cloven-hoofed monstrosity of modern cartoonists, but as a creature more subtle than all other creation. His approach in our day is just as smooth and cultured (II Cor. 11:14).

II. Sin (v. 6).

Let us be clear that sin is not a necessity, not a natural weakness of man, not a falling upward in the progress of the race, but a deliberate choice to transgress the law of God. At once it showed its true nature by reaching out and leading another into transgression.

The one who listens to a slander against God can easily begin to doubt His Word, and then it is not difficult to look at what God has forbidden. Then the desire of the flesh takes hold and disobedience follows (cf. I John 2:16).

III. Shame (vv. 7-13).

The breaking of a right relationship with God broke the perfection of man's fellowship with man. Innocence was swallowed up in a sense of shame. But the shame is far deeper than a sense of nakedness. It speaks of a heart marked with sin which makes man hide from God.

Satan had promised Adam and Eve that they should know more about good and evil (v. 5), but all the good they learned about was what they had now lost, and the evil they learned was the sin which now blackened their souls and darkened their lives.

And with them fell the whole human race, for Paul tells us in Romans 5:12 that "by one man sin entered the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

IV. Sorrow (vv. 23, 24).

Man and his help meet, who had begun with such glorious promise in the garden, now had the great sorrow of being driven out by God. No longer to be trusted, man was kept out by the cherubim, mysterious angelic beings with the awful flaming sword.

Labor, which in the garden had been but a pleasant diversion, became a struggle against a thorn-infested ground. Sorrow was linked with motherhood, and man began to bear the heavy responsibilities of life (see Gen. 3:14-19).

But we must not close our lesson without pointing out that in the midst of judgment God provided mercy. The promise of man's redemption is written first in God's Book in Genesis 3:15, and from there the scarlet thread of redemptive truth runs right through the Bible to its last chapter.

Even in judging the first Adam for his sin, God thus promised the coming of the second Adam who was to redeem the race. We became members of the first Adam's family by natural birth—without the privilege of choice. We become members of the family of the second Adam by a new birth—a spiritual, supernatural rebirth. But the latter is by our own choice! (I Cor. 15:21, 22, 45).

Wayside Ministering

Jesus was never bound down to the size of his audience. He was neither elated by a big crowd nor discouraged by an audience of one. In fact, some of his most wonderful teachings were given to individuals whom he met by the wayside, the woman of Samaria, Zacchaeus, Mary and Martha, the Syrophoenician woman, Nicodemus, the woman taken in adultery, the blind man in the temple, are only a few of those to whom Jesus gave of his best as he passed them on the way.

Ossification Of The Bone

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

In the fetus or unborn child, the bones first consist of masses of cartilage which, about the second month of fetal life begin to ossify, or become bony. In a long bone, which may be taken as an example, the process commences in the center of the shaft and proceeds toward the extremities, which for sometime remain cartilaginous. Subsequently, a similar process commences in one or more places in the extremities and gradually extends through it. The extremity, does not, however, become joined to the shaft of the bone until growth has ceased, but remains separated by a layer of cartilage tissue termed epiphy cartilage.

The points at which bony development first commence are known as centers of ossification.

The process of ossification consists in the appearance within the cartilaginous skeleton of bone forming cells, and the deposition calareous or earthly matter which gradually displaces the cartilaginous matter.

These processes extend gradually in every direction from the original center of ossification until the entire cartilaginous mass becomes boney or is ossified.

The first bones in which ossification appears are the choule (collar bone) and inferior maxellary (lower jaw bone) about the fifth to seventh fetal week; the last ossification to appear is in the pisaform bone of the hand, about the twelfth week.

Knowing the time and care that nature takes, in forming and developing our feet, and body, isn't it reasonable to assist nature in taking the proper care of ourselves against the abuses of modern life by wearing shoes that fit and are constructed to hold the foundation of the body in perfect balance.—Adv.

This Week On The Home Front

The news from the fighting fronts has been bad, but there has been inspiring news from the Home Front. The tide of American production that will eventually wash out the Axis powers is rising relentlessly.

War shipments by the automotive industry in April were 46 percent greater than such shipments in February and war plants in other fields also continue to smash records.

The government this week is giving special attention to three factors which will help insure that the tide of victory is irresistible: It is trying to keep up the necessary flow of manpower, transportation and scrap metals. More and more women are sought for industry, it has been asked that unnecessary travel be avoided for the duration, and the War Production Board has called for an intense renewal of the campaign to get scrap metals and materials back to the furnaces.

When the scrap rubber drive is over, we are to begin a new and intensified salvage campaign. It starts July 13 and is expected to reach into every home and factory for iron, steel, copper, aluminum, fats and greases—and, from selected metropolitan areas, tin cans.

• • •

Retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits will be raised as much as 15 per cent, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced. In a statement addressed to American housewives, he characterized the move as "a serious setback in the battle being fought by OPA to maintain stability of the cost of living." He attributed his action to the special agricultural provision of the price control act and inability to work out arrangements for direct absorbtion by the government of higher fresh fruit costs as was done in Canada and Britain.

• • •

Household budgets get another first aid treatment late last week when ceiling prices became effective on special services offered by nearly 1,000,0000 retail establishments. Prices are controlled only on services offered in connection with a commodity. Barber and beauty shops, for instance, offer purely personal services and their prices are not controlled. Among controlled services are shoe shining, dry cleaning, fur, radio, vacuum cleaner, washing machine and hosiery repairing.

• • •

Housewives can help win the war by keeping their families well fed. OPA is making their job easier by specifying that beginning July 13, beef and veal must be graded by government standards. From then on housewives will know exactly what they're paying for—and no guesswork.

• • •

More of the better "fast" dyes will be available for civilian use later this year through an amended conservation order.

• • •

Your next safety razor probably will be a plastic one, but production of razor blades and straight razors will continue to be manufactured at the 1940 rate through July, at least. Makers' and jobbers' stocks of safety razors were unfrozen.

• • •

Rationing figures and prospects for importing sugar are being studied by OPA to determine whether the prospects will justify a moderate increase in the sugar ration.

• • •

Tire-rationing amendments say doctors, ministers and veterinaries must use their automobiles "exclusively" for professional purposes instead of "principally," to be eligible for tires and tubes. Chiropractors and osteopaths are recognized as eligible for rationed tires. Public school officials and teachers become eligible for recaps and obsolete new tires for necessary travel between school.

• • •

Voluntary plans for more than 200 milk dealers to conserve trucks and tires have been approved by the ODT. The majority put deliveries on an every-other-day basis. Areas affected included Indianapolis, Ind., 19 dealers; Detroit, Mich., 15; Flint, Mich., 9.

• • •

A larger tire and tube quota for July than for June has been allowed in recognizing normal seasonal factors in increasing employment of workers in war occupations. July passenger car quotas were set at 25,000 as against a June allotment of 40,000. The original inventory of 402,000 cars has been reduced to about 260,000.

• • •

The new coupon gasoline rationing system which goes into effect in the East on July 22 will give less than 4 gallons a week. Few motorists will be able to meet requirements for obtaining extra motor fuel.

• • •

"Price control is here for the duration—that's official." This was the answer of OPA officials of the Ohio-Kentucky,-West Virginia, Indiana-Michigan area to what they termed "widespread propaganda" against the posting of ceiling prices in stores. The propaganda, they said, was to the effect that the ceilings were only temporary.

• • •

Restrictions were removed from the manufacture of lingerie for maternity wear in a new WPB order which also permits double yoke material for flannelett gowns and pajamas and ruffles in children's sizes 3 to 6 and girls' sizes 7 to 14 on a two-seam garment. Evening slips are given the same sweep and length measurements as nightgowns.

• • •

July 9 will see the start of bicycle rationing to persons who need wheels to get to work. About 240,000 adults' machines are on hand.

• • •

A higher percentage of the 1942 pack of certain fruits and vegetables has been set aside for lend-lease and army-navy requirements.

• • •

Toys and games will be brought under a separate price control shortly.

• • •

One hundred and fifty milk distributors, dealers and haulers of northwestern Ohio met in Cleveland last week and volunteered to form their own committees to work out a tire and truck conservation program.

• • •

Because ice prices prevailing during March, 1942, were at the lowest levels in some years and did not reflect the increase occurring since the beginning of the 1941 summer season, the OPA has shifted the base period for price ceilings on ice from March to April.

Longer Life for YOUR RADIO

You depend a lot upon your radio these days so take good care of it and make it last, as no more will be manufactured until the war is over. Here are some suggestions that will help.

Is your radio located near a window? Then move it before you forget. An open window—a sudden shower and the cabinet may be damaged or the wiring short circuited.

Is your radio near a heater or fireplace? Too much heat may warp the cabinet—may dry out the insulation—may shorten the life of the set. Better move it to another spot.

Don't clean out back of radio with dust cloth. You may loosen tubes or disturb wiring. Dust won't harm your radio. If you must clean it, use vacuum cleaner attachment.

Young children ought not to operate the radio-phonograph. They may damage the player mechanism or put it out of adjustment. Load it for them and avoid trouble.

Be careful in moving your radio from one location to another. Hard shocks or jars may damage tubes or connections. Radios are delicate instruments. Handle with care.

CALLING DRAFTED MOTHERS
By Eraine Turin

Under the stress of our present, every vestigate of patriotism must be exerted by all of us—that is, if we hope to bring this conflict to a quick and sound conclusion. On the shoulders of a few the heavy burden of war should not be carried alone. The burden of war—if one may call that a burden which, in truth, should be considered a privilege to bear—must be born by every individual in accordance to his individual capacity. And you, drafted mothers of our nation, because you bear your full share when you give your sons to your country, should be able to give your suggestions on this problem.

Therefore, this column petitions you to awaken our people to the fact that no one should be exempt from shouldering his particular war responsibilities. Furthermore, when you can bring everyone to realize that he must bear his war responsibilities gracefully, you will be giving your sons the support they so desperately need to win this conflict. When those sons know that men are evading the draft who have no right to be deferred, certainly that knowledge is far from conducive to keeping their morale at top level.

On this issue of evading such war responsibilities, I want to give you —as nearly as I can recall—what was told me by a father of a newly drafted man.

The father said, "The other day when I was in an elevator of an office building, the operator, a young man, told me he had just been given a disability discharge from the army, because of a heart ailment. This ex-soldier seemed very much disturbed. He wanted to be back in the army where he felt he could be of real service to his country. And since his return, he hasn't been able to get a job where he can feel he is of use to the war effort. When I saw how hard this boy took it, I couldn't help but think of a couple of men of my acquaintance who should be in the army, yet are doing everything to keep out of it.

"One man, who is twenty-eight years old, has been divorced from his wife $50, a month for the support of the children. But all this time he has never paid them a cent and this wife has never forced the issue. Still he stays out of the army, because he contends he must take care of his children. Naturally he has been put in the class of deferment with those married men who have children.

"I, for one, do not believe such men should be deferred at all. Not only are they in contempt of the court in the state in which the divorce was granted, but they are also traitors to their country. Every man who seeks deferment for reasons which are no reason are traitors; they are trying to escape their war responsibilities.

"The other man whom I have in mind in twenty-five. He isn't married, yet he got himself—through pull—a job in the Intelligence Service. I don't believe such men should take positions—nor be allowed to—which older men could handle or which should be given soldiers who have received disability discharges from the army.

"Naturally when I know of such situations and then observe how hard the soldiers take it who are discharged and who can't even get defense positions—like the elevator operator, for instance—I feel something should be done about such things at once. And I say this, aside from the fact that I have a son myself who is in the army now. Of course such conditions make my wife boil. A mother of a man in the service can't stand to see other boys escape who really should be in the army—even if their escape may only be short lived. It isn't fair. Everyone should bear the responsibilities of this war, if he wants to enjoy the liberties of living in a country as free as ours has always been."

RESEARCH ON LOW-TEMPERATURE DISTILLATION OF COAL AT U. K.

An experiment in low-temperature distillation of coal, which has been conducted for many years by Prof. C. S. Crouse, head of the department of mining and metallurgical engineering at the University of Kentucky, has begun to attract both state and national attention, "under the stimulus of the growing needs of the defense program and increasing public interest in smokeless fuels," says a report made by Col. James H. Graham, dean of the University of Kentucky College of Engineering, to the Board of Trustees.

"Professor Crouse has carried forward this work on his own initiative, with little encouragement from others and with inadequate laboratory equipment," says Dean Graham's report, and "if his work and research data during the past 20 years can be translated into commercial use at the coal mines of the state, then Kentucky coals may be enabled to meet the competition markets despite the recent loss of both freight rate and labor differentials. It may well be that the future employment of at least 60,000 coal miners within the state may be dependent upon the successful commercial exploitation of Professor Crouse's reasearch."

Further, said the report, Professor Crouse's research shows that by low-temperature distillation Kentucky coal can be made to produce both high-octane motor fuel (approximately 30 to 40 gallons per ton of coal processed,) and phenols, which are used in the making of high explosives and plastics.

ANNOUNCES ONE OF WORLD'S LARGEST FARM LABORATORIES

Establishment of one of the world's largest experimental farm laboratories is announced by the United States Gypsum Company. A total of 17,351 acres are included in 99 farms of various types.

The announcement comes at a time when the government is calling on farmers to increase production. Farming must be done more efficiently to produce the increase in food supplies that are necessary to win the war.

Test projects will be run on these typical farms to show how production can be increased. These tests will show the advantages of various types of buildings and building improvements, fire protection, home decoration, soil conservation, diversification of crops, breeding, sanitation and marketing. This information will be passed on to the farmers of the country to help make their farming more profitand their farms more livable.

The farms are being run by owners and tenants who are continuing their normal, every-day farming operations. The Doane Agricultural Service is being retained as counsel.

The finding of this research program will be made widely available through publications, literature and building material dealers handling USG products. To stimulate farmers' interest in the program, there will be national blooded livestock contests scholarships, free building plans, special building and redecorating education for 4-H boys and girls, and other features.

CONEY ISLAND TO HOLD ARMY-NAVY RELIEF DAY

Thursday, July 23, has been designated as Army and Navy Relief Day at Coney Island. "America's finest amusement park," Cincinnati. Edward L. Schott, president and general manager, announced that every penny taken in at the park on that day will be turned over to the Army and Navy Relief Funds. The management will not even deduct expenses for operation and supplies, or its cost for food at the Clubhouse and cafeteria. To make the occasion especially interesting, plans are being made for special entertainment. And to attract as large a crowd as possible, the fare on the steamer Island Queen will be only 15 cents for the 20-mile round trip and admission to the park. Russ Morgan and His Orchestra will be the attraction in Moonlite Gardens.

Frankie Masters and His Orchestra will open an engagement in Moonlite Gardens Friday evening, July 10. On Thursday evening, July 16, Bernie Cummins and His Orchestra will play a one-night special engagement; and then Russ Morgan will open a week's engagement Friday night, July. 17.

An exhibit of official Russian War Posters has been added to the displays in the United Nations War Show at Coney Island. Another new feature is a photographic display of "British Women in the War."

Swimming, dining, dancing, picnicking, the rides and fun devices offer a wide range of entertainment to Coney patrons.

American industry is really going to town with guns, planes, tanks and ships.

What kind of war would be waging if nobody else was fighting Japan, Germany and Italy.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Members of homemakers' clubs in Caldwell county attended a series of meetings on "Taking the blue out of Monday." The use of water softeners, making of bleaches and short cuts in laundry methods were discussed and demonstrated.

I. W. Kessler of Greensburg reports that one Jersey cow for the year ending April 1 furnished milk, cream and butter for his family of three persons, and products sold for $256.50. He received 6 cents a quart for milk and 25 cents a pound for butter.

Members of homemakers' clubs in Pike county investigated the prices of canned goods. Their report: "Frequently it was found that an ungraded or a standard grade product in some stores cost as much as a fancy or "A" grade in other stores, and sometimes more."

It is estimated that the number of pigs farrowed on Boyle county farms will be 25 percent more than a year ago. Several farmers are using self-feeders. Harry Scott says his self-feeder saved enough feed in two months to pay for its cost.

KENTUCKY FARMERS WILL INCREASE PRODUCTION

Virtually every farmer in Kentucky will increase production of one or more of the foods requested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to the farmers' own plans reported to the State USDA War Board.

The survey, recently completed under the direction of the board, indicates that Kentucky farmers will more than meet goals in every instance where increases have been asked, M. D. Royse, the State USDA War Board.

Members of the county and community AAA committees, who made the canvass, aided operators and tenants on 208,151 Kentucky farms in making food production plans. There are approximately 210,000 farm units in tne State.

Royse said these farmers plan a 1942 milk production increase of 20 per cent over the 1941 output. Other major increases planned are: 34 per cent in hogs, 32 per cent in eggs, 7 per cent in farm gardens, 92 per cent in soybean for oil, and 18 per cent in bee marketings.

(Increases Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had asked Kentucky farmers to make in 1942 were: Milk, 12 per cent; eggs, 15 per cent; soybeans 90 per cent; and beef marketed, 7 per cent. An increase in farm gardens was requested, but they had been asked to save more of the pigs farrowed in the spring).

"Although Kentucky farmers have planned increases that exceed the Secretary's request," Royse points out, the goals were set up before Japan's attack, and these goals will be further increased in some cases."

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Several Kenton county 4-H club members established model gardens with the aid of the local Kiwanis club, which contributed seed.

Cumberland county farmers, as a patriotic gesture and a good farming method, are growing 175 acres of hemp.

Nelson county farmers are growing soybeans for crushing purposes, with markets lined up in advance.

A planting demonstration for hemp seed was held in Jackson county, to illustrate the best methods.

On the C. R. Stinnett farm in Ballard county, an acre of fine crimson clover was turned under for tobacco. "It pays," says Mr. Stinnett.

Casey county club members have bought 10 purebred Duroc gilts in their better livestock campaign.

Several Whitley county farmers are growing 2½ acres of cash beans.

There are only a total of 208,000 public transportation vehicles in the U. S. buses and street, elevevated subway and railways cars. There are 145,000 buses; street, elevated and subway cars number 35,000 and railway coaches, sleepers and lounge cars account for the remaining 78,000.

COVINGTON

"Kentucky's Best!

A Week of The War

President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill, in a joint statement on the results of their Washington conferences, said the discussions covered "All of the major problems of the war . . . We have conducted our conferences with the full knowledge of the power and resourcefulness of our enemies . . . while exact plans, for obvious reasons, cannot be disclosed, it can be said that the coming operations . . . will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

"Transportation of the fighting forces, together with the transportation of munitions of war and supplies, still constitutes the major problem of the United Nations," the statement said. "While submarine warfare on the part of the Axis continues to take heavy toll of cargo ships . . . production of new tonnage is greatly increasing month by month (and) it is hoped that as a result of steps planned at this conference the respective Navies will further reduce the toll of merchant shipping."

War Production

The President reported American plants in May produced 4,000 airplanes, more than 1,500 tanks, about 2,000 artillery and anti-tank guns (exclusive of anti-aircraft), more than 50,000 machine guns and 50,000 submachine guns. "We are well on our way towards achieving the rate of production which will bring us to our goals," The President said. "This is no time, however, for the American people to get over-confident," he said, "because there are plenty of serious production problems ahead, particularly those caused by raw material shortages."

Mr. Nelson said the U. S. war production program will call for $220 billion worth of war goods, of which $140 billion must be bought at the average rate of $6 billion a month during this year and next, compared with the current rate of $3.8 billion a month. The FBI arrested eight specially trained Nazi saboteurs landed by German submarines at Long Island, N. Y., and at Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla. A number of "contact men" for the saboteurs were also arrested.

Rationing

The OPA announced that plans for permanent gasoline rationing for the East, effective July 22, provide all passenger car owners are entitled to A books based on 2,880 miles of driving a year and containing six pages of eight coupons each—each coupon worth four gallons. Application for supplemental rations may be filed when motorists register for A books on July 9, 10 and 11. In order to qualify for supplemental B or C books, a motorist must prove occupational driving is in excess of 1,800 miles a year and that he has formed a car-sharing club. S-1 and S-2 books for trucks, taxis, ambulances and Government vehicles will contain 96 and 384 coupons, respectively, each coupon good for five gallons.

Filling stations may give preference to defense workers, trucks and ambulances, after posting notices to that effect, if their supplies are in sufficient to meet all demands, OPA ruled. The Office suspended deliveries to 64 filling stations in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, bringing to 78 the total suspensions for alleged violations of rationing regulations. The OCD asked 3,000 Defense Councils in the East to establish machinery for bringing automobile owners together in car-sharing clubs. Tire and tube quotas for July were increased over June to take care of greater wear during the hot summer months.

Army and Selective Service

The House passed and sent to the Senate the $42 billion Army Supply Bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1—the largest single appropriation in U. S. history. Services of Supply Commander Somervell said the Army will reach 4,500,000 men by the middle of 1943. The Army food bill in 1943 will be $1,300 million, he said. Beginning July 1, the CAA will train 13,000 pilots for the Army Air Forces Enlisted Reserve as glider pilots, airline co-pilots, service pilots and pilot instructors. Men between 18 and 37 are eligible. The War Department said the air ferrying and the air transport operation of the Army will be coordinated into a new Air Transport Command, effective July 1.

Selective Service headquarters said boards should segregate registrants into four categories and call them to service in the following order: 1. Those without financial dependents; 2. Those with financial dependents other than wives or children; 3. Registrants who married prior to December 8, 1941, and who are maintaining bona fide family relationships; and 4 Registrants who have wives and children or children only with whom they maintain bona fide family relationships. SS headquarters said local boards will decide on disposition of men who were in process of being inducted at the time the categories were set up.

Navy Expansion

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the Navy to increase the size of the U. S. Fleet by 1,900,000 tons at an estimated cost of $8,500 million. The program will give the Navy a total of 5,650,000 tons of combat ships, far in excess of any other Navy in the World. The President signed legislation authorizing a 25 percent increase in pay for Naval officers assigned to submarine duty and providing a $5-an-hour bonus for Navy divers engaged in hazardous undertakings.

The War Front

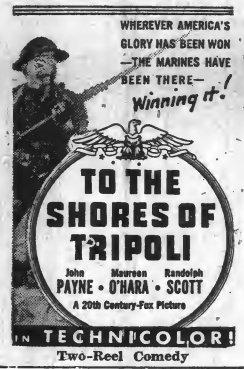
A Europeon Theater of Operations for U. S. forces was established with Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, formerly Assistant Chief of Staff in charge of the Operations Division, as Commanding General. Headquarters will be in London. Brig. Gen. Hugh Casey of the Army Engineer Corps reported the Allied Works Council and the U. S. Army Engineers in Australia have built 100 military airdromes, built or improved thousands of miles of strategic roads, and are working on 12,000 separate projects in Australia. U. S. Airmen damaged a Japanese cruiser and sank a transport in Kiska Harbor in the Aleutians. The sinking 17 more Allied merchant vessels by enemy submarines was announced.

Transportation and Rubber Salvage

The Office of Defense Transportation established a U. S. Truck Conservation Corps to mobilize the country's 5,000,000 trucks for more efficient war service. The Office said conversion of the trucking industry to a wartime basis is effecting a big saving of rubber and equipment, despite a sharp increase in the volume of business. Railroads in 1941 set an all-time record of ton-miles of freight carried and increased circulation of freight cars by 33 percent over 1929. Passenger service of both railroads and buses is almost 50 percent greater this year than last, Mr. Eastman said. He requested discontinuance for the duration of all county and State fairs in order to conserve transport facilities.

President Roosevelt extended until midnight July 10 the scrap rubber collection campaign because the response was disappointing and yielded only 219,000 tons as of June 27.

Agriculture



Agriculture Secretary Wickard said the U. S. will have to rely more and more on the contribution small farmers can make toward meeting wartime goals for food production. He said the Agriculture Department is doing everything it can to help such farmers purchase new equipment and stock for expanding crops. The Department estimated the 1942 pig crop at a record total of 105 million head, compared with 85 million head in 1941. Total milk production as of June 1 was more than 3 percent greater than last year. The Department reported almost 12 million persons were employed on farms June 1—more than a million above the May 1 total and 99 percent of the 1910-14 average. Farm wage rates on June 1 were 183 percent of the 1910-14 average.

It takes 71 railroad trains each with a minimum of 20 cars to move an army division of about 250 miles a day, it would take almost 1,500 cars ten days to move the division across the U. S.

Looking Ahead

By Dr. George S. Benson
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

A habit of winning is one of the biggest assets any man or any nation can have in an emergency, such as a tiff with a hostile rival. The United States has the winning habit, and it's a good thing for the country this year, but it lacks a great deal being a complete formula for victory in a two-ocean war. In fact, one of the things that stands in the way of victory is a feeling in the hearts of many honest people that the United States is going to win from habit.

—o—

Before America and her allies win this war they will have to be superior to the Axis powers in three ways. They must have:

(1) More armed fighting men.

(2) More and better war machines.

(3) More fuel and ammunition.

Everybody seems to understand that the Axis now has the larger number of men mobilized and equipped, and it's true. Everybody seems to understand also that the American armament factories have been catching up with the Axis powers in a big way for about a year. This, unfortunately, is not quite true. Only recently has America's war production accelerated to a faster rate than Germany's. It is a fact that the United States has two thirds of the world's petroleum supply, also some advantages in other expendable materials needed to propel machines and fire guns. Obviously this means very little until many machines are built and guns ready.

—o—

The United Nations easily could have more soldiers than the Axis. There are 29 million men of military age in the United States, Canada and Great Britain as compared with 18 million in Germany and Italy. Japan cannot muster quite enough men to make the combined Axis armies equal to the Allies'. Our manpower advantage however, is not great.

—o—

These simple calculations will bring a studious novice to the same conclusion reached by all the experts: Men can't win a war until they are armed and have an effective, smoothly working service of supply. Resources of food, fuel and munitions will not help without ample transportation. And the fact stands that the Axis still has the advantage in fighting equipment.

—o—

One very obvious reason Germany beats most other powers at turning out war equipment is that strikes do not occur in German plants. Nothing better illustrates the effect of this than the losses of ships on the Atlantic. Submarines sank 20 allied vessels in one week early this summer, while American shipbuilders were launching an average of two a day.

—o—

Three principal things are needed to turn out war equipment fast. They are (1) raw materials, (2) available plant equipment and (3) labor.

It is impossible to show a complete list of raw materials needed to make armaments. Such a list is all but endless. The headline items are bauxite, from which aluminum is made, coal, iron and magnesium. And areas under German control were producing 50 percent of the world's output of all four minerals at the end of 1941 and they have gained others since. Moreover, when it comes to converting ore into basic materials from which guns are built, Germany is a traditional leader.

—o—

The labor supply in any country can be measured approximately by the population figures. The European continent has 400 million inhabitants, twice as many as the whole western hemisphere plus those parts of the British Empire available for Allied war work. This is not as dismal as it sounds, however; American workers are two or three times as efficient as those in Europe, where many workers are out of sympathy with Hitler's aims at world dominion.

—o—

The foregoing facts explain why the administration in Washington has been converting more and more of America's manufacturing plants to war production. They show also why rationing, allocation, labor conscription and a number of other ugly totalitarian tools have to be used temporarily. When the United States has come out victorious in the war, and has preserved representative democracy it will have cost the average citizen far more than the depression did. So what? If victory is complete, it will be worth it.

With The Reds

Cincinnati—There's going to be a hot time at Crosley Field starting Thursday night, July 9, for the Reds will be opening a 10-day home stand, during which time they will play four doubleheaders and three night games. Two of the night games and the first of the doubleheaders will be played against the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

The opening night game against the Dodgers will be played Thursday, July 9, and the second will take place the following night, Friday, July 10. The July 10 date originally was scheduled for an off-day, but rain on the Dodgers' last trip to Cincinnati necessitated the carding of a second straight night game. Rain on the last trip likewise caused the doubleheader due against the Flatbush gang on Saturday, July 11.

The Dodgers are a strong, colorful ball club and are always a good outfit to watch. The Reds and Dodgers have staged some merry battles this year, the most recent of which took place in the five-game series at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, a short time ago. The Dodgers, thanks to some pretty lucky breaks, won three games and the Reds won two. Two of the Dodgers' victories were by one-run margins.

The next Sunday doubleheader at Crosley Field is scheduled for Sunday, July 12, between the Reds and Phils. The Phils also will be here for single games Monday and Tuesday afternoons, July 13 and 14. Both these days have been designated as knothole days. Holders of all colors of knothole cards will be admitted.

The Boston Braves then will invade the Reds' stronghold for a ladies' day contest on Wednesday, July 15, and a night game on Thursday, July 16. Friday, July 17, will be an off day, after which the Reds' No. 1 nemesis, the New York Giants, will appear on the scene to battle McKechnie's men in a single game Saturday afternoon, July 18, and a doubleheader on Sunday, July 19. After the July 19 twin bill, the Reds will head for the East, returning to meet St. Louis on August 4.

Tickets for all of the games the Reds will play at home for the remainder of the season are now on sale at the ticket office at 307 Vine Street.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Many problems come up in the making of a motion picture that add gray to a director's hair, but one that brought a laugh to the Paramount lot was the question that arose in the production of the Ray Milland-Paulette Goddard comedy-thriller, "The Lady Has Plans," which comes to the Gayety Sunday and Monday.

Scenes in the picture required that plans for a radio-controlled torpedo be drawn in invisible ink on the backs of both Paulette Goddard and Margaret Hayes. "How many inches of back it is decent to photograph?" demanded Director Sidney Lanfield.

It was decided after a huddle with the studio hospital anatomical chart that the fifteenth vertebra was the dividing line between modesty and immodesty.

In February, 1940, he acquired a half interest in the Kentucky Advocate and with the late J. S. Van Winkle merged the two under the name of the Danville Advocate-Messenger.

Boron is one of the rare elements that is giving outstanding results on old alfalfa fields on certain types of soils under certain conditions. The element is secured in the form of Borax which is commonly bought under the name of 20 Mule Team Borax. Sufficient information as to amounts to use and conditions under which it is needed is not available to make general recommendations. Where needed, 20 pounds per acre is the maximum amount recommended at the present time. One hundred pounds per acre in a check plot on the farm of Sam B. Sleet of Beaver, killed all vegetation.

NAVY WANTS SPECIALISTS FOR "SEABEES" SERVICE

When the Navy guns and bombs blast the Axis off the seas as they did the Japanese fleet in the recent sea battle at Midway, the "Seabees" will lead the way.

The "Seabees"—those two-fisted, fighting Navy construction regiments—are the fellows who set the stage for battle.

They crossed the Pacific to put the Naval base at Pearl Harbor in working order after the Japanese sneak attack last December. Now they're setting the stage for new knockout blows. Blows that will fell the Axis. Building Naval docks and air bases at Londonderry in Ireland ;in the Aluetian Islands, and at other unannounced advance and mobile bases outside the continental limits of the United States.

The "Seabees" are enlisted men in the Navy Reserve. Men between the ages of 17 and 51 who are skilled mechanics, divers, steelworkers, blacksmiths, carpenters, electricians, automobile repairmen, construction workers, tractor operators, etc. The Navy needs more of them and it offers unusual opportunities to those who can qualify.

Ratings range from seaman, third class, to chief Petty Officer, depending upon your personal qualifications and skill.

The insigna of the "Seabees" portrays a flying bee—fighting mad—with a sailor hat on his head, a spitting "Tommy Gun" in his fore hand, a wrench in his second, and a carpenter's hammer in his rear hand. The name "Seabees" as a pseudonym comes from the phonetically similar pronounciation of "CB," the abbreviation of Construction Battalion.

Be a "Seabee" and lead the fight on the Sea. You may make inquiries at the Navy Recruiting Station, Covington, Kentucky. Or see the Navy Recruiter when he visits your city this week.

Peoples Deposit Bank Increase Surplus To $100,000 At Meeting

On June 30th the Peoples Deposit Bank paid its stockholders a 4 percent semi-annual dividend and transferred $25,000.00 from accumulated undivided profits to surplus, making the bank's surplus now $100,000.00.

This bank has paid continuous dividends to its stockholders since organization in 1905, except for two years during the depression. The elimination of dividends for those two years was merely a matter of conservation on the part of the board of directors. Every six months $500.00 is written down on the books of the banking house and lot by this bank, besides maintaining the building in excellent condition.

The bank owns the old Recorder building adjoining the bank lot, in which the Production Credit Association office is located. The Soil Conservation Service has also rented office space in this building and remodeling of their office is now under way. Two other rooms are available on the second floor, which will be reconditioned as tenants are available. The exterior of the Recorder building is to be repaired and painted this summer. The bank retains one room with concrete floor in the rear for storage.

"Victory Signal" Suggested By Gov. Keen Johnson

Frankfort, Ky., July 6—A suggestion that Forty-Mile-An-Hour motorists toot the "Victory Signal" at speedsters was made by Governor Keen Johnson today.

The plan, involving use of the now well known three-short and one-long blasts, has been put into effect in some of the other states and is working well, the Chief Executive learned at the recent annual Governors' Conference.

"Kentucklans driving at 40 miles an hour might try it upon those who pass them," the Governor said. "It might help remind the speedsters that we are at war and need to conserve rubber and gas."

DATE SET FOR 4-H FAIR-PICNIC

ONE-DAY EDUCATIONAL AND RECREATIONAL GATHERING WILL BE HELD SATURDAY, AUGUST 22ND.

The Boone County annual 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair and County Picnic will be held Saturday, August 22nd, according to the recent announcement of the 4-H and Utopia Club Council. All Boone County people and their friends are urged to make plans to take part in this event.

Holding of the fair and picnic this year has received the serious consideration of the Council for several weeks. Three factors were outstanding in making plans to continue this annual event: First, the fair and picnic as developed so far is only a one-day educational and recreational gathering; second the Federal Government and the U. S. Department of Agriculture this year is sponsoring many Victory Gardens and similar food exhibits that are in line with the county fair plan; third, people of Boone County and their friends recently donated funds for the purchase of the grounds and many of these people have never seen the fair site.

A one-day educational fair should promote county-wide recreation, education and inspiration that should help our people to do a better job in the war effort. The fair and county picnic this year will be held under extreme difficulties from the standpoint of financial and organization problems. Let's all work together to make this annual event the kind we would want it to be.

All commodities carried in their stores must be listed.

The Federal Government set July 1, 1942 as the date that all retailers must file their statements. Many retailers have failed to comply with this order, either through negligence or through failure to understand the order.

This is an order of the Federal Government and must be filed at once by all dealers who have not already filed their list. You may call at the Board, Walton, Ky., and receive a bulletin of instructions on how these reports must be filed.

Mrs. Roscoe Curtis and sister, spent Monday of this week with Mrs. Albert Sebree.

Tax Date Line Extended

The office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, District of Kentucky, is just in receipt of Treasury Decision No. 5158, which states that the time for filing Capital-Stock returns and paying the tax due has now been extended from on or before July 31, 1942, to Septembsr 29, 1942, without the assertion of penalties for delinquency or of interest if the returns are filed and taxpaid on or before the extended date.

MOTORISTS ARE GIVEN WARNING

FINE OF $25.00 WILL BE IMPOSED AS PENALTY FOR OPERATING CAR WITHOUT REQUIRED FEDERAL STAMP.

Any person liable for the tax who uses or permits the use of the motor vehicle before tax has been paid shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than $25 or imprisoned for not more than thirty days, or both. Any person who uses or operates a motor vehicle at a time when the stamp, sticker, or tag does not appear on the motor vehicle in the manner provided in the regulations prescribed under subsection (e) or (f) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than $25.

It will be noted there is a $25.00 fine for operating an automobile without the requqired federal tax stamp and $25.00 fine for not having the federal tax stamp properly posted, and in addition there is $20.00 court costs, making the total liability $70.00.

Taxpayers can purchase their stamps at their local Post Offices, and, also, from he Collector of Internal Revenue at Louisville, Ky. If it should be purchased from the Collector's Office it will be necessary for the remittance to be by cash, post office money order, or certified check.

All stamps are serially numbered and it is advisable for the taxpayers to make a notion or memorandum of the serial number of stamps. In the event that the stamp should be lost or misplaced and the taxpayer should have the serial number of the lost stamp it would be much easier to check the records for the name of the taxpayer who purchased the lost stamp.

The stamps should be posted at a conspicuous place on your car either on the front or rear windshield.

The District Attorney's Office has advised that they expect to enforce this law and all taxpayers who are liable to purchase the federal automobile tax stamp should do so immediately.

NO ABSENTEE VOTING IN STATE

ACCORDING TO SECRETARY OF STATE, GLENN HATCHER—VOTERS MUST APPEAR AT POLLS IN PERSON.

The following release was issued by George Glenn Hatcher, Secretary of State, in regard to the "absentee voting." The release follows:

To whom it may concern:

As Secretary of State of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, I have had many inquiries from officials and members of our armed forces for information concerning elections and voting requirements for absentee voters. Therefore, in answer to these numerous requests, I make the following statement, relative to absentee voting. I regret to inform all who may be interested that Kentucky does not have an "Absentee Voting Law."

However, we take pride in the fact that those brave and patriotic Kentuckians, who help make up the American Armed Forces in this great war of Liberty and Freedom, are still citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Yet, I have been informed that our men, those entitled to vote, who are in the Armed Service, are, in effect, deprived of the first privilege of citizenship—the right of suffrage, the right to vote, if absent from their voting precincts on election day.

Proper laws have not been enacted in Kentucky providing for absentee voting, by civilians or service men.

The Court of Appeals of the Commonwealth of Kentucky has held that casting a vote by other than personally voting at the polls is violative of Section 147 of the Constitution of Kentucky. This was decided in the case of Clark versus Nash and Lyons. (See 192, Kentucky 594; 234 S. W. 1).

A voter must register in person before the proper officials to qualify to vote. The requirement for registration before the County Court Clerks of Kentucky is shown in Section 2, Chapter 59, page 345 of the 1942 Acts of the General Assembly of Kentucky. Sub-section 1, Section 2 of the 1942 Acts, also provides that the Registration Books shall be closed 59 days before a Primary or General Election; and shall not again be reopened for registration, re-registering or changing of party affiliation until ten days after any Primary or General Election. However, Sub-section 3, Section 2, Chapter 59, of the 1942 Acts provides for changing of party affiliation by a registered voter by letter or on proper form directed to the County Court Clerk.

All States should have proper and adequate laws to insure their qualified voters the right to vote while absent, in times of peace; and especially while "Duty Bound" in Military Service, or in Defense Plants. It is true that the election laws of any State are in themselves an important function of our Government. Proper suffrage legislation, its interpretation, application, and administration is vital to our Democracy.

In view of the lack of an absentee voting law in Kentucky, I believe that, when possible, an effort should be made to afford those in Military Service, and in Defense plants, an opportunity to come home and vote. For the sake of patriotism, and the opportunities of a Democracy, arrangements can, doubtless, be made, in many cases.

A concerted effort should be made, so long as it does not hamper the war program. Patriotic organizations and every one interested in good government, it seems, should sponsor plans to, at least, elliminate part of this ridiculous situation, which robs our Service Men of their right to cast a vote. It might be possible for the Military authorities, transportation lines, and patriotic organizations to cooperate to accomplish means of bringing many of them home to vote.

I am making this suggestion in behalf of thousands and thousands of Kentuckians in the Army and Navy and in Defense Plants, who will be away from home at election time. The expense of the elections will be about the same, whether they do or do not vote. The number of ballots is made from paper based on the total registration of qualified voters. The same number of election officers will serve. The expenses in this office and local county and other governmental agencies will be about the same, regardless of the number who vote.

Many a soldier, sailor and defense worker, who are qualified voters, cannot leave their posts of duty. But, let's be patriotic and help those, who can get "leaves," to come and vote.

Many states have simple methods for absentees to vote by mail. It is then the duty of us all, in the absence of an absentee voting law, to afford the defenders of Liberty and Democracy, in as many instances as possible, an opportunity to take part and enjoy they rights of citizenship by casting their vote, in Kentucky.

The newspapers, radio stations, parents, relatives, friends, and organizations can surely work out a plan in cooperation with military and transportation authorities for Kentucky to take the lead in a progressive, statewide action to bring many absent citizens in service home to vote.

The people of Kentucky will appreciate wholehearted cooperation in reminding the public of lack of a provision in this state for absentee voting; and in reminding those concerned of the suggested or proposed plan to assist as many soldiers and sailors, who can and so desire, to come home and vote.

George Glenn Hatcher.

ADDITIONS MADE TO JERSEY HERD

AT DUNLAP FARM, RICHWOOD—BUILDING OUTSTANDING HERD OF JERSEY COWS AFTER ONE YEAR IN BUSINESS.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Dunlap, Jr., are attempting to build an outstanding herd of registered Jersey cows on the S. Whitehouse Dunlap farm, near Richwood. They just completed their first year in the milk business, and have decided as an adjunct to this branch to try and develop the finest type of milk producing cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap attended the National Jersey Cattle Club annual sale at Asheville, N. C., on June 4, and brought to the farm four fine cows. All the cows entered in the sale were picked from outstanding herds in the country. Each cow has a milk record, and is selected type for foundation stock. Two of the cows are:

"Design Lassie Countess" made a Registry of Merit Record at age of two years, one month, producing 12,379 pounds of 4.5 percent milk, giving 557.4 pounds of fat in 305 days of milking.

"Standard Dreaming Beauty" is a Silver Medal cow and on her way for a Gold Medal. She was bred and owned by the Biltmore Farms. They had her on the show circuit last year, winning second prize for three year olds, at the Atlantic Southeastern Fair.

Other cows in the Dunlap herd have outstanding records. One of these is Betty De Famous Blonde, is a Medal of Merit cow, who produced at five years of age, 15,809 pounds of milk and 772.43 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

The herd bull came from the Forward Farm, at Lexington, Ky. He is rich in "Design" blood, by imported Noble Designer, Senior herd sire of Forward Farm, and out of the cow which brought top price at the Forward Farm Dispersal sale June 29, 1942, selling for $1,750.00. She is a daughter of the famous "Dottrina's Design," "Superior Sire," Gold and Silver Medals, "Tested Sire" rating, 643.90 pounds fat, 5.51 percent fat.

This farm has imported some splendid cows into Boone County, which should give a good account of themselves. Mr. Lona C. Fish is herdsman on the farm.

Benjamin A. Abdon

Benjamin Albert Abdon died at his home in McVille, Friday, July 10 at the age of 44. Mr. Abdon was a native of Indiana, having been born in Dearborn County.

He leaves four children, Geneva, Mary Lou, Richard and Betty; his mother, six brothers and four sisters.

Funeral services were held at the residence Monday, July 13th at 2 p. m. after which the body was removed to Lawrenceburg, Ind., where the American Legion held services at Greendale cemetery. Burial was in the cemetery at that place.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

TWENTY MEN ARE INDUCTED

INTO MILITARY SERVICE FROM LAST GROUP OF THIRTY-EIGHT EXAMINED — THIRTY-FIVE RECEIVE SCREEN TEST.

As final reports on the last group of men from the county were completed this week, it revealed that twenty of the last thirty-eight men sent to Ft. Thomas have been inducted into military service, according to C. G. Kelly, Clerk of the Local Draft Board.

CONSTRUCTION WORK BEGINS

ON FAIR GROUNDS LAKE—COST WILL BE DOUBLE ALLOTMENT SET ASIDE FOR CONSTRUCTION OF LAKE.

Construction work on the Fair Grounds Lake started the past week. Construction of the dam is expected to be completed by the last of this week, according to the construction committee composed of John E. Crigler, John L. Conner and H. R. Forkner.

Cost of construction is going to be approximately double that allotted in the fair grounds purchasing program sponsored last fall by more than 350 leading Boone County Citizens and friends. Because the lake was a part of the grounds' purchasing program in which citizens made their donations, the 4-H and Utopia Council voted to borrow the necessary money and continue to develop and carry out a program that will keep faith in full to all who so nobly sponsored this program for the county.

The Council plans to continue the development and improvement of the grounds but many improvements will have to be postponed in keeping with the present War emergency effort.

The lake is being constructed by J. G. Robertson and Sons of Eminence. Two bulldozers are being used on the job at a cost of $7 per hour for each outfit.

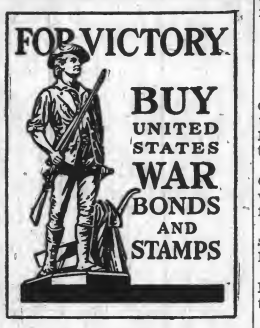
MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

Economically speaking many Americans are still looking upon this war as a money making proposition. At the present time the emphasis seems to be on how to dodge sacrifices and take advantage of every war opportunity.



Let us look at the situation. The nation's farmers received during 1941, $11,830,000,000 in cash income from farm marketings (including government payments) the highest amount in any year since 1930, according to the Department of Agriculture. Yet farmers are not satisfied with the highest purchasing power in history. Farm leaders are putting pressure on Congress for higher subsidies and new price guarantees.

Wages for industrial labor are now the highest in history, yet labor leaders are demanding big wage increases. They are asking for a dollar a day increase in the "Little Steel" companies, and if this is obtained, it will touch off the spark for a general increase in many industries. Labor has also resisted all efforts to place a ceiling on wages.

Big business has responded to the demand of the government for increased production but it is still seeking high profits.

Various groups of taxpayers are fighting for special privileges and trying to figure out various ways of making the other fellow pay the tax. For example, everyone knows a federal sales tax would raise from two to three billion dollars annually for the war effort, but it has been killed by special groups because it would "hit" them. Very recently I noticed where a national stockholders organization was being formed to protect the dividends of stockholders during these times.

Now what does this mean to you? To me it means we are still a nation of pressure groups, afraid of each other and unwilling to make sacrifices. Unless we as a united people are willing to put our shoulders to the wheel, I am afraid it will mean more government control of prices and profits and an extension of rationing to many more products. War calls for sacrifice, not after awhile, but now—not by one or two groups, but by all of us.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

CAIN AND ABEL: A CONTRAST

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 4:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous.—Hebrews 11:4.

The weed of sin is fast growing, and brings forth bitter fruit. The disobedience of Adam and Eve resulted in their being put forth from the garden, but that judgment did not terminate the awful plague of sin. We see it in this lesson showing forth in their son, as it has in all the sons of Adam down through the centuries.

It is a dark picture and one which would discourage us did we not know that redemption has been wrought out by "the second man, the Lord from heaven" (I Cor. 15: 47).

We have here two sons of Adam with their differing personalities, a clash and the first murder, and then one man, a vagabond on the face of the earth.

I. Two Sons (vv. 1-7).

The birth of a child is always an exciting occasion, and one can readily imagine what it must have meant when the first boy ever to be born put in his appearance. What joy, what concern for his welfare, what plans for the future! And then, what disappointment and sorrow!

But before speaking of that, let us observe how he and his brother differed in their interests and personalities. It is a surprising thing how completely different two sons in the same family can be.

Abel chose the work of a shepherd, much honored in the early history of man. Cain became a tiller of the soil, which with the passage of time has come to be more important than the other.

They also had a different viewpoint on worship. Cain was a religious man. He apparently was the first to worship, but he came in the spirit of one who recognized God only as his Creator, the One worthy of his homage. Abel came also with a gift, but his attitude was quite different. His offering spoke of sacrifice, the need of a covering for sin (cf. Gen. 3:21). It was more than homage, it was a plea for forgiveness.

The Lord's acceptance of Abel's sacrifice made Cain angry (v. 5). Here again he differed from Abel, for there was no angry response on his part. Abel had recognized God's desire in worship. Cain not only failed to do so, but rejected God's instruction and His plea (vv. 6, 7).

Jealousy led to anger, and anger (as it so often does) led to

II. Murder (vv. 8, 9).

Instead of repentance and correction, the anger of Cain carried him to the awful conclusion of hatred, the taking of life. We tend to think of murder as a crime which only a desperately wicked man would commit. We hardly think of the "respectable" little sin of envy as being the root of murder, but it is, often and sometimes very quickly.

Actually there is no little sin, for it is the genius of sin to grow, to increase, to go step by step, yes, often by leaps and bounds, to its horrible fruition. "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?" (Jer. 17:9). Why trust it?

The deceitfulness of Cain's heart is shown by the callous evasiveness of his reply to God concerning his murdered brother. His sin brought God's question. It always does. Do not assume that you can hide from Him. It has been suggested that committing sin is like touching a burglar alarm—the bell rings, and one must answer for his act.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" is the perfect expression of the selfish and indifferent attitude of the world. Human beings are regarded as simply those to be exploited, beings upon whom they may prey. For example: Just to make money, men are willing to destroy a fellow man with intoxicating liquor, or break down his decency and morality by selling him indecent books or magazines.

Murder having taken one of the two sons, we find that the remaining one is just

III. A Vagabond (vv. 10-15).

Judgment for sin made Cain a wanderer and a fugitive. Never would he be able to get away from the cry of his brother's blood (v. 10). No wonder he said he could not bear it. But notice that his cry was not one of repentance or contrition, but only of fear, of retribution.

So God shows mercy, forbidding the judgment of men upon Cain. Vengeance belongs to God, and in this first murder He reserved judgment to Himself. Later He put upon man the responsibility of judging and punishing murder by death (Gen. 9:6), but here He put His protecting hand on Cain.

Yet, to be a fugitive, with no real abiding place on earth, and every man's hand against him, was indeed a heavy punishment. One could have wished that it had brought repentance, but it did not. May none of us go the way of Cain.

Long Illness And Your Feet

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Long illness or long convalescence often may be the cause of painful muscle spasm in the lower limb and foot. In either circumstance long periods of inactivity, lack of exercise, coupled with the weakened condition of the body, cause the muscles to lose tone and become weak and flabby.

The foot, while lying, as in bed, cannot and is not, held in a normal position in relation to the limbs and rest of the body. The foot is held in an extended position which allows a shortening of the muscles in the back of the limb, and allows the weaker muscles in the front of the limb to stretch.

When partial strength to the patient, is restored and he finally is allowed to walk, it is imperative that the bones of the foot are properly supported in shoes designed to distribute body weight evenly over the whole bottom surface of the foot, and to relieve further, the strain on the muscles, ligaments and tendons, until normal strength and muscle one return.

An ordinary "strong looking" shoe is not the solution to this problem. Ordinary shoes with so-called arch supports and flat base planes, can only allow the foot condition to degrees further.

At this time special attention should be paid to the inner construction of the shoe. The base construction and inner foundation of the shoe should be shaped to the NORMAL CONTOUR of the bottom of a NORMAL FOOT. The inside of the shoe should resemble the normal foot print in soft turf or sand.

Such a shoe with sound construction and foot shaped base planes is found in and especially built surgical shoe.—Adv.

HOG PRICES HELD UP BY BIG DEMAND

A tremendous demand for pork and lard is keeping the price of hogs in line with the ceiling prices set on wholesale and retail pork products by the Office of Price Administration, according to a statement prepared by the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the Kentucky College of Agriculture in Lexington.

Hog prices in June were the highest in 16 years. Market supplies are large for this season of the year, but the demand for pork is also very great because of requirements for the lend-lease program, for the armed services, and for civilian consumption. Markets for hogs are consequently strong.

The individual ceiling prices for pork at wholesale and retail are based on the highest prices charged during the five-day period, February 16 to 20, 1942. Recent modification of the regulation permits an advance of ½ to 4 cents per pound on some cured products. Ceiling prices for lard, on the other hand, are based on the highest prices charged by packers during February, while wholesale distributors other than packers are allowed ceilings based on the highest prices charged in March.

If you get some extra cash these days the best thing you can do with it is to pay your debts in full.

This Week On The Home Front

Beginning this week, considerable emphasis will be placed on proper observance of the General Maximum Price Regulation.

The Boy Scouts of America, in this region, as well as nationally, are distributing leaflets explaining the measure to housewives.

"If you are confident you are being charged too much," the Office of Price Administration leaflet states, "ask for a sales slip. Write to the nearest OPA office or to your War Price and Rationing Board, after it announces it is ready to handle complaints.

"Give the name of the store, date of purchase, price paid by you or asked by the store, the 'ceiling price' if one is posted, name and make of article, and specifications such as size and weight. Enclose the slip or sales receipt. Be sure to explain why you think you have been overcharged. Sign your name and address."

In an attempt to help the thousands of merchants in the region who want to comply with the price-posting regulations of the law but are in doubt as to the proper procedure, the regional OPA office in Cleveland has stocked thousands of illustrated booklets, which may be had by writing to the office on third floor of the Union Commerce Building, Cleveland, O.

Many newspaper offices thruout the area also will serve as distribution points.

• • •

A five-state poll by the Regional OPA office indicated that the average consumer was of the opinion that if violators of the OPA regulations were not punished—the program would suffer generally. The poll also revealed that an overwhelming majority of the public placed full confidence in their local rationing boards. Too, a close study of the questions asked in the poll brought to light the fact that the public generally favors rationing as the most equitable method of distribution and will back the government, if it is convinced that actual shortages exist.

• • •

Retailers will be given until the 10th of each month to file with local rationing boards their ceiling prices on cost-of-living commodities offered for sale for the first time after July 1.

• • •

Tea drinkers have been told how they can help save tea and sugar—and they want to save them, because ships and lives are risked in bringing in both. OPA consumer experts suggest a level teaspoon of tea to a measured cup of boiling water, with the "one for the pot" eliminted for the duration. It is suggested that iced tea be chilled in the refrigerator so as to make the use of ice (which dilutes the mixture) less necessary. Sugar can be saved by making an easily-dissolved syrup for sweetening the drink. Use bulk tea and make only as much as you intend to use.

• • •

Reorganization of the War Price and Rationing Board setup in the Ohio-Kentucky-West Virginia-Indiana-Michigan OPA area is nearing completion. In Michigan the number of boards was increased from 94 to 150 and in Ohio it was cut from 1,000 to 221.

• • •

Women's fur garments for the coming season may be sold at prices no higher than sellers charged last season for the same types of wraps and furs.

• • •

Farmers who board seasonal labor will be granted extra allowance at the rate of half-a pound per person per week. Don't forget your No. 7 sugar stamp gets an extra 2-pound ration.

• • •

"Neighborhood Call," a 15-minute weekly OPA radio series designed for the family circle is on the air at 7:30 p. m. Fridays on the Red Network. Rent, price and rationing matters will be handled entertainingly.

• • •

Large piles of scrap rubber in the gas station yard are not being hoarded. The dealer is just awaiting shipping instructions and the reclamation plants are very busy.

• • •

The Navy is grateful—but lorgnettes and opera glasses are of no help to it. What it asked for were 6x30 and 7x50 binoculars made by Zeiss and Bausch and Lomb. These cost from $75 to $118, as a rule.

• • •

The OPA's Consumer Division has been reorganized and several new appointments made. A Consumer Requirements Branch has been set up and other changes made.

• • •

Manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices for men's and boys' tailored clothing were "rolled back" in many instances last week by the OPA to enable consumers to continue to buy items at March (1942) prices.

• • •

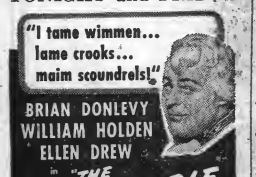
The soybean is another agricultural soldier that has been mobilized to fight the Axis. Large quantities of synthetic resins and plastics, drying oils and solvents requisite for war manufacture are saved by the substitution of soybeans and casein proteins in industrial processes. The 1942 soybean crop is estimated at 175,000,000 bushels, grown chiefly in the Middle West, with Indiana and Ohio among the leaders.

• • •

Purchasers of new and rebuilt tractors, farm implements and other vehicles that are sold without tires will be able to get casings and tubes. An affidavit from the seller must be presented setting forth a satisfactory reason for delivery of the vehicle without tires.

• • •

OPA this week authorized increased allotments of sugar to food manufacturers whenever in the judgment of state directors it is necessary to avoid waste of fresh fruits and vegetables.



• • •

Inspectors who examine tires as a part of the rationing procedure have been given instructions to help them in determining when a tire is repairable or recappable and when it has been neglected and abused. This action is intended to give force to the rule refusing rationing certificates to those who have abused the tires they have or who have driven them beyond the point where recapping is practical. The most economical point for recapping is when the casing worn smooth approximately three-fourths of the total width of the tread and not beyond a point where there still remains an eighth of an inch of tread rubber above the outside layer of cord.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE TO DIRECT ATTENTION TO WAR EFFORT

Frankfort, Ky.—Increasing demands for manpower made by war industries upon field offices of the United States Employment Service have compelled the service to shift its whole attention to direct contributions to the victory effort, according to W. H. Fraysure director for Kentucky.

"Just as private business has been forced to convert from normal peace-time pursuits, so is the Employment Service abandoning "business-as-usual" tendency, Mr. Fraysure said. "By expediting the recruitment and placement of workers in war industries, and on farms the U. S. Employment Service will be making a valuable contribution to the country's war effort."

"This conversion to war basis of operating," according to Fraysure, "is in line with recent War Manpower Commission directives which require the U. S. Employment Service to exert maximum efforts in the recruitment and placement of all workers required for essential war activities."

For duration of the war, the U. S. Employment Service efforts will be confined primarily to the following activities, Mr. Fraysure said:

1. Registration, selection and referral of workers to war industries and to essential civilian establishments, such as public utilities, railroads, etc.
2. Recruitment of farm labor.
3. Collection of labor market information, including needs for training of additional workers.
4. Promoting hiring practices that do away with non-occupational specifications in filling job openings.
5. Assisting employers in upgrading workers and simplifying jobs.
6. Discouraging labor market abuses.
7. Recommending essential training courses to the various training agencies; keeping classes filled, and placing trainees in industry.

Every effort will be made by field offices in Kentucky to continue serving all employers when it does not interfere with war activities, Fraysure pointed out.

When necessary, however, the U. S. Employment Service will discontinue such activities that do not relate directly to the war effort.

NAVY BAND WILL BE AT CINCINNATI, FRIDAY

The Great Lakes Navy Band, the country's most colorful band will provide the music for the commissioning of Cincinnati model destroyer on American Heroes' Day this coming Friday night.

Announcement that the band would be on hand for the christening was made yesterday by the Citizens Navy Committee.

The Great Lakes Band, seldom heard in this part of the country, is expected to prove a magnet that will attract additional hundreds to the ceremony. It will beyond doubt provide the stimulant necessary to make hundreds of eligible youth Navy conscious.

Presence of the Great Lakes Band assures the best in the way of martial music and heroes for the commissioning of the destroyer.

The program committee previously announced that Rear Admiral Frederick C. Sherman, Commander of the aircraft carrier Lexington; Lieutenant Roger W. Mehle, Cincinnati naval aviator who recently was decorated for downing several Japanese planes, and Brigadier General Robert L. Denig of the U. S. Marine Corps would participate in the commissioning.

The 66-foot model destroyer will be christened the U. S. S. Victory. It will be used for the duration as an auxiliary Navy recruiting office and downtown war bond sales office.

F. F. A. TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION AUG. 5-7

The thirteenth annual state convention of the Future Farmers of America will be held at the Kentucky Hotel, Louisville, August 5-7, according to Watson Armstrong, University of Kentucky, director of the activity program of the Future Farmers in Kentucky.

Upon the advice of the national Future Farmer organization, and following the example set by many of the states, the 1942 meeting will be a war convention. Only official delegates, candidates for the Kentucky Farmer Degree, and district winners who will compete for state titles will attend.

Emphasis will be placed on the transaction of necessary business and the making of definite plans for the further participation of the 9,000 Kentucky Future Farmers in the national war effort. Sightseeing tours and recreational activities will be omitted from the program.

Rather than the 1200-1500 boys who have been attending the convention during the past few years, state officials estimate that only a little more than half that number will attend this year.

Local chapters have been active during the past year in the collection of scrap material, sale of defense bonds and stamps, promotion of victory gardens, and other activities in 1942-43 will be discussed at the convention.

Dr. W. T. Spanton, chief of the Agricultural Education Service, Washington, D. C., and national adviser of the Future Farmers of America, will be present and will address the convention. Charles H. Bozarth, Jr., Caneyville, state president, will preside.

FINE AGRICULTURE EXHIBIT PLANNED

With renewed interest in all agriculture products due more or less to better prices for these products, it is expected that both, Agriculture and Live Stock Exhibits will exceed all past years. Fair patrons and exhibitors were both highly pleased last year over the many advantages that the new Fair-Grounds offer for this department. Plan now to exhibit or attend the Dearborn County Fair. Write for a premium book.

Neither wealth nor position makes a man a gentleman; neither does poverty prevent a man from being a gentleman.

The leather in a single steer hide would provide all the leather articles required to outfit six soldiers for a whole year.

Federal Land Bank's Reduced Rate Approved

President Roosevelt's approval of recent legislation continues the present 3¼ per cent interest rate on Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans for two years. Executive O. K. of the legislation will also provide a reduced interest of four per cent for a similar time to farmers who purchase land from the Federal land bank or the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, either on a purchase money mortgage or a real estate sales contract.

Boone County farmers obtain their Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans through the Boone County National Farm Loan Association and the Federal Land Bank of Louisville.

Commenting on extension of the interest-rate reduction, A. B. Renaker, secretary-treasurer of the association, reports:

"Although the contract rates for Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans held by the members of our cooperative mortgage credit organization range from four per cent to six per cent, the actual rate of interest they pay on their loans is just 3½ per cent.

"Federal land bank loans are usually issued with a 33-year repayment schedule while the Land Bank Commissioner loans cover a shorter period of time.

"Our members who have Future Payment Funds—a plan whereby money can be placed in reserve for use later on—will continue to receive 3½ per cent interest on the cash in their reserves, the same rate of interest they pay on their loans."

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

IF YOU ARE PLANNING TO MOVE

Read These New Government Regulations Limiting Extensions of Utility Service

In order to conserve materials for the war effort, the government, through the War Production Board, has issued new rules regarding service extensions by public utilities, effective June 23 and expiring September 30, 1942.

Under these new WPB regulations, we will not be permitted to build extensions to our distribution system to serve customers, except under the following conditions:

(1) The extension must not exceed 250 feet in length. (Including service line from distribution system to building to be served.)

(2) Building to be served must have been piped or wired ready to receive service prior to July 1, 1942.

(3) In case of new construction, foundation under main part of building must have been completed prior to July 1, 1942.

(4) Cost of material for extension must not exceed $1,500 for underground jobs or $500 for overhead extensions.

The above regulations apply only to ordinary non-defense extensions. In case of new consumer building projects bearing a preference rating of A-5 or better, we are permitted to use such rating in placing orders for material necessary to serve such projects without prior approval from the War Production Board, although this does not guarantee that the material will be immediately available.

Nothing in the above regulations applies to buildings already connected to our distribution system and which are piped or wired but are not now receiving service because of vacancy or for other reasons. Service to such buildings may be resumed at any time upon application at our office.

However, if you are planning to move into a new home or other building which will require an extension of our system to receive service, we suggest that you consult us before making any commitments or taking any action. We can assist you in determining whether or not service can be provided under the new government regulations.

Pointers Given On Storing Of Woolens And Rubber Goods

Particular care should be taken in storing wools and rubber goods this year, according to Mary Scott Moore, Home Demonstration Agent. New goods are limited and may not be available.

Store woolens, after they have been carefully cleaned, and brushed in tightly sealed containers. Paradichlorobenzine (P. D. B.) is the safest added protection. A small bag may be hung in the closet or on hanger in garment bags.

Treat rubber goods with "Orch" (obtainable at garages or paint counters) stuff with paper, and store in a cool place.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Berkshire, of Petersburg, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home near Petersburg on Sunday afternoon, July 19th.

They will be at home to their friends from 2 to 5 p. m.

Air Marshal Harris, of the R. A. F., says that the war can be won by bombers and he is out to use Germany as a proving ground.

Summer And Fall Gardens Are Being Planned This Month

Summer and fall gardens are being planted this month. Beans, tomatoes, carrots, beets, late cabbage and certain varieties of corn are still listed for this planting season. All vegetables and fruits should be canned or stored. Persons who have pledged to raise 75 percent of their food supply on the farm this year will find that good late gardens are necessary to attain this goal.

Each quart of food grown and stored at home means more food for service men and more health on the "home front."

Rotenone is most effective for entire garden program as an insect control. Apply the spray when insects are seen, and follow up with a set schedule 8 to 10 days apart, according to Insect Life Cycle. University of Kentucky Circular 376 may be obtained at Demonstration Agent's office.

Sugar Conservation Explained By H. D. A.

Ample sugar is being allowed for the canning program if the consumer uses ripened fruit and light sugar syrups. The allowance is ¼ pound per quart. Only 1 pound per person is allowed for making jams, jellies or preserves. If more of the concentrated fruit sweets are desired, and sugar allotted for canning is used for this purpose, it will be necessary to can other fruit in corn syrup or without sugar. The Agent recommends the use of ½ corn syrup and one-half sugar in making the canning syrup for fruits. It will be necessary to show that the sugar allowance has been used correctly before more sugar may be obtained for canning late fruits.

A Week of The War

Army Chief of Ordnance Campbell, speaking at Salisbury, N. C., said "Our tanks are superior to anything the enemy has. Type by type, our tanks have heavier guns, heavier armament and greater speed . . . our high-velocity 75-millimeter guns in our M-3 tanks far and away outrange the best the Germans have . . . and we can fire high-velocity 75 when the tank is in motion, which is more than any enemy tank, whatever its size, can do."

Gen. Campbell said the so-called "new German 88-MM gun" is "about as secret as a daisy water pistol. It has been known to us and our Allies for at least 10 years. We outmatch this gun with several of our field and anti-tank guns." He said the German 88 is effective as an anti-tank weapon only within its limited range.

U. S. machine guns, Gen. Campbell said, will "outfunction any enemy gun under the most adverse circumstances—in other words, they will keep firing when enemy guns have to shut down to change barrels." The United States "can build a better automobile. a better typewriter, a better icebox and we can build—and are building—better machine weapons," Gen. Campbell said. "The enemy cannot outdo American design and production and spirit."

The WPB reported the dollar value of war shipments from 430 automotive industry plants totaled $350 million during April, an increase of 46 percent over February. Army Services of Supply Commander Somervell instructed civilian guards at 11,000 war plants to organize an auxiliary to the Army's Corps of Military Police as a further protection against enemy saboteurs.

The War Front

The "Flying Tigers" of the American Volunteer Group were placed under the Army Air Corps Command in China and opened their operations with heavy raids on three key Japanese bases at Hankow, Nanchang and Canton. Six Japanese planes were destroyed without loss.

A Navy Communique reported Army bombers scored hits on an enemy cruiser and sank a transport in the Aleutian Islands. In addition, Navy submarines sank three destroyers. The situations in the Islands "has not changed materially," however, in the past two weeks, the Navy report said. The Office of Indian Affairs announced all of the Aleutian Islands west of Dutch Harbor, as well as the Pribilof Islands, have been classified as parts of a total evacuation zone. The Office said nearly 1,000 civilians have been removed from these areas by the Navy and transferred to the American mainland.

The first communique from U. S. Headquarters of the European Theater reported six U. S. Douglas light bombers manned by U. S. pilots successfully attacked targets by daylight in German-occupied territory in a joint operation with RAF bombers. Two American planes were reported missing. The Navy said U. S. bombers carried out a second attack on Japanese held Wake Island. The Navy also announced the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Wasp carried aerial re-inforcements to the British Island of Malta in the Mediterranean. Gen. MacArthur's Australian Headquarters reported repeated air raids on Japanese-held territory in that area. The sinking of 17 more United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarine action was announced.

Scrap Salvage

The WPB said a new and greatly intensified campaign to salvage vital scrap materials will be formally opened July 13, because the only way the U. S. can meet materials requirements of war production is "to collect every last bit of scrap from every farm and home, and from every commercial enterprise and industry in the country." The iron and steel industry has raised about $1,500,000 and the glycerin industry about $500,000 to finance national advertising to stimulate scrap collection, the Board said. The farm implement industry has offered to assist the country's 12,000 state and local salvage committees in the collection of rural scrap. Materials to be sought in particular are iron and steel, rubber and waste fats.

The rubber scrap salvage campaign closed at midnight, July 10. The Public Buildings Administration reported 15,000 pounds of scrap rubber were salvaged from Federal buildings during the first two weeks of the campaign. The War Department said the Army faces a 250,000-ton rubber shortage by the end of 1943, but present plans do not include military requistioning of civilian tires.

Rationing

Price Administrator Henderson said consumers may purchase an extra two pounds of sugar between July 10 and August 22, in addition to the basic half-pound-a-week ration. He said the new east coast coupon system for gasoline rationing will grant a fraction of a gallon more per week than temporary A cards, but the conditions that must be met to obtain supplemental rations under the permanent system are so strict that most motorists will have to get along on the minimum. Motorists registered for A books July 9, 10 and 11. Small boat owners will be issued E and R gasoline ration books and will receive a basic six months' ration of four gallons for each horse power for inboard motors and five gallons for outboard motors.

The OPA set the quota of passenger automobiles for rationing during July at 25,000, excluding State and national reserves, which will reduce the original inventory of about 402,000 cars to about 260,000. Between July 9 and August 31, the Office will release 230,000 bicycles for rationing—180,000 to the States, 20,000 to State reserves and 30,000 for a national reserve.

Transportation

Transportation Director Eastman banned for the duration all automobile, midget car and motorcycle racing meets, effective July 10. He also asked that State and County fairs be postponed for the duration to help relieve the strain on transport facilities. The ODT postponed until July 15 the date on which over-the-road carriers will be required to be loaded to at least 75 percent of capacity for return trips and on which tank trucks will be limited to one delivery daily. The Office reported the majority of milk dealers have put their deliveries on an every-other-day basis and have reduced mileage by an average of 25 percent. The Office authorized its 51 field offices to begin action immediately upon applications for special permits under the truck conservation regulations.

Shipbuilding

The Maritime Commission said shipbuilding has not yet equaled total sinkings, but delivery of 66 ships totaling 730,000 tons by American shipyards in June set a new world's record for steel ship construction and represented an increase of 450 percent in volume of construction since Pearl Harbor. The War Shipping Administration reported the U. S. will operate between 2,200 and 2,600 merchant vessels this year.

Housing

FHA field offices resumed the processing of applications for priority assistance in the construction of privately financed homes for war workers. Processing was suspended late in May. The agency said a new simplified procedure combines preference rating applications for the electricity, gas, water and sewer connections of proposed war housing projects with the corresponding applications covering the housing itself. The joint applications will be processed entirely in the field by the FHA offices and by NHA and WPB regional offices. NHA Administrator Blandford issued a simplifying order to empower qualified creditors or lenders to decide whether a proposed remodeling project is "war-housing," thus exempting the project from credit restrictions set up by the Federal Reserve Board.

Army Expansion

President Roosevelt signed the $42 billion Army Supply Bill for fiscal 1943. The War Department said men now in Class 1-B because of minor physical defects will be inducted into limited military service under a regular quota system in order to release fully qualified soldiers for duty with task forces. Only those 1-B's "who are able to bring to the Army a useful vocation which was followed in civil life" will be called.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

It takes a long time sometimes for a movie star to get out of bed when he's making a scene for a picture.

William Holden discovered that when he made the opening scenes for "The Remarkable Andrew," the new Paramount picture co-starring Brian Donlevy and Ellen Drew, showing at the Gayety tonight and Friday.

Holden, with the cameras grinding away, started waking up at nine o'clock one morning. By six p. m. he reached the "daily dozen" stage. After spending most of the day "getting out of bed," he went home dog tired—and so to bed.

Next day on the set, bright and early, Holden started taking his "daily shower." For more than three hours, the water poured down on the young star.

TUESDAY

Jeffrey Lynn, star of "The Body Disappears," Warner Bros.' laugh-happy mystery comedy, is wondering whether or not Warners is trying to liquidate him.

In "Underground" Jeff appeared sans an arm. In "The Body Disappears" he's made to evaporate into thin air and remain invisible in all but four or five scenes.

WED., THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Those luscious ice cream cones you see in the movies aren't ice cream at all. They're made with potatoes.

That's why a youth extra in Paramount's "My Favorite Blonde," the comedy spy chase starring Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll and scheduled for Wed., Thursday and Friday at the Gayety, has definitely decided against a movie career.

"It's a gyp," he scornfully remarked to Director Sydney Lanfield.

The alleged "ice cream" is consumed during a hilarious picnic sequence.

TRAINING YOUR DOG? New Book Tells How

Does your dog have the W.B.D. degree? Whether he is a "problem child" or a well-behaved, respected member of your family, depends a lot upon the way he is trained.

With this in mind, Purina Mills has published a new kind of dog training book, written from the dog's viewpoint, looking at the problems through his eyes, explaining the psychology of training and illustrated with an abundance of clever, helpful drawings.

This book, "Dog Etiquette," reads like a story—yet it is a practical text for the average dog owner interested in teaching his dog the basic rules of "dog etiquette".

"Dog Etiquette" provides the basic rules for teaching a dog those habits which help to keep him clean, healthy, and aid in his protection. It is not intended that a circus performer be made of him, although instruction on teaching a few simple tricks is included.

In addition to being clean in personal habits and free from general bad habits, the authors say a well-trained family dog should lead on leash, "heel", come when called, sit down, lie down when commanded, and stop at a distance.

Editor's Note: "Dog Etiquette" is obtainable from the local Purina distributor or from Purina Mills, St. Louis, Missouri, for ten cents and the coupon that comes in each package of Purina Dog Chow—a recommended dry food for dogs.

LEXINGTON COMMANDER WILL PARTICIPATE IN COMMISSIONING JULY 17

Rear Admiral Frederick C. Sherman, who commanded the aircraft carrier Lexington during its final heroic fight in the battle of the Coral Sea, will head the delegation of high-ranking Naval officers who will participate in the commissioning of the model destroyer July 17 at Cincinnati.

The commissioning ceremony will climax the Cincinnati Recruiting District's ten-day drive to obtain 500 Navy recruits. All substations in the district are participating in this drive to boost the daily average to 50 enlistments between July 7 and 17.

Lieutenant Roger W. Mehle, Navy aviator and Cincinnati's first top-flight war hero, also is expected to take part in the ceremony. Lieutenant Mehle, recently was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for downing four Japanese planes in the Pacific warfare.

Members of the Greater Cincinnati Navy Citizens Committee, which organization is sponsoring the destroyer commissioning, announced there would be additional important news releases within the next few days regarding the commissioning program.

Meanwhile the "life-sized" destroyer, being built on the Fountain Square esplanade, has begun to take the appearance of a fighting ship. Work on the hull has progressed rapidly.

When completed the destroyer will provide thousands of Ohioans and Kentuckians with their sight of warship properly rigged and armed.

What has become of the persons who said that Germany was certain to win the war and that even the United States could not prevent a Nazi triumph.

NO CHANGE IN TAX RATE OF SOCIAL SECURITY

There is no change in the rate of tax now being paid under old-age and survivors insurance, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington field office of the Social Security Board. Mr. Decker today made the following statement concerning social security taxes now being paid in Kentucky:

"As of July 1 the payment of an employee tax under unemployment compensation ceased in Kentucky. This was due to a change in the Kentucky State law regarding unemployment compensation. But there is no change in the Social Security Act, under which taxes are collected for old-age and survivors insurance.

"Employees and employers each are required to pay one percent of covered wages for old-age and survivors insurance. This tax is collected on every job in commerce or industry, up to $3,000 in a single calendar year. The old-age and survivors insurance tax remains at one percent each for employee and employer up to the end of this year. Starting January 1, 1943, the tax will be two percent each for employee and employer.

"There is no connection between the unemployment compensation tax and that which is collected for old-age and survivors insurance, neither has there been any change in the benefits which are being paid under this latter program."

Fire Prevention Urged

Fire may be a friend or an enemy agent. Recently there has been a tremendous loss by fires in Boone County. The Home Demonstration Agent was told recently of five damaging fires caused by lightning. Last year in Kentucky fires caused by lightning amounted to $25,000 or more, 442 were buildings without lightning rods and 13 had rods. Figures speak more loudly than words. Fire extinguishers should be a part of the equipment in every home.

Your Home Demonstration Agent desires to advise you concerning your problems. Address requests for information to Mary Scott Moore, Burlington, Ky.

Canning And Drying Demonstrations Set

Demonstrations will be held at Constance Christian Church 1:30 p. m. E. W. T. July 16; Florence School room 10:30 a. m. E. W. T., July 17; New Haven school lunch room 2:00 p. m. E. W. T., July 21.

The public is invited to these meetings sponsored by Homemakers clubs, and given to Mrs. Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Billye Irvine, Farm Security, assisted by leaders.

Information on canning or drying fruits may be obtained by writing to Mrs. Moore or calling Burlington 412. Your agent will be glad to help you. Literature is free.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS

The next regular meeting of the Florence Homemakers, Friday, July 17, will be held at the school house at 10:30 a. m. There will be a canning demonstration in the morning. Bring your own box lunch and a glass, for a cold drink will be served. The afternoon will be taken up with installing the new officers and completing plans for the tour in July and the picnic in August.

Much Tobacco Said To Suffer From The Lack Of Plant Food

The number of complaints about tobacco plants turning yellow, or otherwise not doing well this season, has brought from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington a statement about the deficiency of plant food, especially potash and sometimes phosphorus in much of the land being used for tobacco.

When tobacco turns yellow at the margin of the leaves, or stops growing when a few inches high under favorable weather conditions, it is an indication that there is not enough potash in the soil, the Experiment Station scientists declare. There also may be a lack of phosphorus, even in the Bluegrass region, they believe.

Bluegrass sod is not always good tobacco land; neither does clover always improve the soil, particularly if removed. In one instance this season, where tobacco turned yellow and ceased growth, the land had been in bluegrass for 10 years, and before that in clover several years. But the clover hay had been removed and the bluegrass had been heavily pastured. In both instances, large amounts of plant food had been removed, and the land was really poor soil for tobacco. If the clover hay had been fed and the manure returned to the land, and the droppings in pasturing had been scattered evenly over the land, a reserve of available potash and nitrogen would have accumulated.

In 1934 fields in central counties, examined by Experiment Station men last year, the tobacco was growing satisfactorily in only 26 of them. In all the rest the plants were suffering from a lack of potash, and in 33 fields also from the lack of phosphorus. The 26 fields where growth was good showed a high level of available phosphorus and potash when the tobacco crop matured. Some farmers blamed dry weather for the condition of their tobacco, but it was observed that tobacco in good soil near-by was growing well. Much of the injury to tobacco attributed to dry weather is in fact caused by a lack of one or more of the fertilizing elements. While it is true that with ample rainfall tobacco will do better than in a dry season, yet the deficiency troubles which cause low yields and poor quality of tobacco will be in evidence.

Many farmers, the statement continues, have the mistaken belief that fertilizers will "burn" the crop or cause the lower leaves to yellow and die in dry weather. For this reason, they are inclined to use only small amounts of fertilizers. This merely stimulates growth in the early stages and then leaves the plants without sufficient nutrients. Under this condition various symptoms of starvation may appear.

Tobacco land left in good grass and legumes for years and pastured lightly probably requires a little fertilizer to make a satisfactory crop of tobacco. But land which has been heavily cropped or left in pasture and closely grazed, with the droppings left in fence corners or under trees, is likely to be low in available potash and other nutrients. In these cases the land may require as much as 200 pounds of potassium sulfate to the acre to make a satisfactory crop. Figured in terms of a 6-8-6 fertilizer, this means the addition of about 1,600 pounds of fertilizer to the acre.

It has been found that an acre of virgin bluegrass sod which has been pastured lightly, or not at all, contain available potash equal to that contained in seven tons of 6-8-6 fertilizer and available nitrogen contained in over a ton and a half of 6-8-6 fertilizer. It would require about 1,300 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre to supply that much nitrogen.

The tobacco crop requires large quantities of plant nutrients in a short time, and consequently they should be supplied in readily available forms if a satisfactory crop is to be grown. Considering the average price paid for burley tobacco fertilizing it properly will prove economical. Satisfactory results, however, cannot be expected from 200 to 300 pounds of fertilizer on a soil that has been heavily cropped or pastured, unless an equivalent amount of manure has been returned to the land. Unless the land is known to be high in available phosphorus, a broadcast application of 300 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate to the acre often is justified for tobacco in addition to the complete fertilizer used. Phosphorus does not leach from the soil and the reserve is left for succeeding crops. It is particularly valuable for the grass and legumes that should follow.

10-DAY COURSE IS OFFERED

CIVILIAN DEFENSE WORKERS AT PURDUE UNIVERSITY, LAFAYETTE, INDIANA—INSTRUCTION IS FREE.

Civilian defense commander coordinators, executives, controllers, teachers and others concerned with training phases of civilian defense are urged to attend the 10-day War Department Civilian Protection School held every two weeks at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, according to a statement issued today by Lt. Col. Arthur D. Patterson, Assistant Director in charge of Civilian Protection for the Office of Civilian Defense in the Fifth Region. The Regional Office is in the Standard Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

"The school is designed to give civilian defense officials a practical over-all picture of the 'how and why' of Protection, together with sufficient details and principles to enable graduates to set up or carry through a Protection program back home," Colonel Patterson stated.

Instruction at the school includes aerial tactics, gas defense, camouflage, organization of the Citizens Defense Corps, sabotage, training in the operation of a Control Center, blackouts, and related subjects. Class members take part in putting out thermit and magnesium bombs with various types of commercial fire extinguishers, as well as with water in solid stream and spray form. Several night classes are held to dramatize the power of incendiaries that burn through four floors of a specially designed "house." Field demonstrations show how bombs glance off roofs with different slopes, and they include gas mask drill and "sniff" tests of commonly used war gases.

Courses will start at the school July 26, August 9, and August 23. Persons interested in attending these or later sessions should obtain necessary permission and authorization immediately from their local civilian defense council.

Classes are held from 8:30 a. m. to 12:00 p. m. and from 1 to 4:00 p. m. daily except Sunday. They begin on Monday following Sunday registration and end 10 days later with the presentation of a Certificate of Attendance. The course includes a few examinations and some evening classes.

Students are housed in single rooms in Cary Hall North, one of the University's newest dormitories. Meals are served in a basement dining room, adjacent to the main lecture room. Room and board per person for the ten-day course costs $25.00. Tuition is free.

The school, which is one of seven held throughout the United States by the War Department in cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense is under the direction of Lt. Col. Willard A. Johnston, Chemical Warfare Service. The teaching staff includes six Army officers, besides professors from Purdue University and representatives of Indiana State departments and schools.

FAIR GROUNDS DAM COMPLETED

AT COST OF APPROXIMATELY $1,050.00—SPILLWAY AND SURFACING OF ROAD YET TO BE COMPLETED.

The dam for the large lake being built on the Boone County 4-H and Utopia Club Fair Grounds was completed on Tuesday of this week. The completed dam provides for an approximate twenty-foot road across the lake and will make a beautiful and practical approach to the main part of the grounds.

The dam construction cost approximately $1,050.00 with the builders, J. G. Robertson and Sons, donating $60.00 cash on the lake construction. The committee was forced to borrow $500.00 to complete construction of the dam. The spillway and bridge over the dam and surface of the road are yet to be built. The county has shown a splendid cooperative spirit in their offer to assist in the construction of the spillway and the road. It is hoped to have the grounds in the best possible shape for the fair and county picnic Saturday, August 22. All Boone County people and their friends are urged to make plans to attend the first event held on the grounds.

WHAT WE FACE

"As a nation, Americans haven't been fighting this war—not by a long shot," said Life recently. "A comparative handful of boys and officers have been fighting bravely and eagerly. But at home the fighting hasn't even begun. Most of America is earning big money, eating well, rolling up new betting records at the horse races, dashing around the country on rubber that is absolutely irreplaceable . . . The only battle the U. S. citizens have won so far is the battle of newspaper headlines . . . Meanwhile the Axis pushes in, rings us with steel, accumulates real bases all over the world."

That is a pretty tough statement, but the facts certainly bear it out. The incredible optimism concerning the war that still seems to prevail in some quarters is not shared by real military men. As General Somervell, the Army's chief of supply, said in a 4th of July speech at Detroit, the United Nations have taken a terrific shellacking in every corner of the world. And most of us, he added, have no idea of the magnitude and difficulty of the job that lies ahead. The hard truth is that Hitler and his brother dictators have done more to change the map of the world than any conquerors in modern history.

The Russians showed great valor in the defense of Sevastopol. They were hopelessly outnumbered in both men and equipment, and after the first few days the Luftwaffe had command of the skies. The Red Army made the Germans pay tremendously for their victory, and according to Moscow account, Sevastopol was left a pile of useless ruins. But Sevastopol was a vital position, and its loss is extremely important. Now Germany can release many battle trained soldiers for elsewhere. Sevastopol is a key point in Hitler's drive to seize the oil resources of the Caucasus, and to shatter the U. S. supply line to Russia. That is why the German commanders figured it must be taken, no matter how great the cost.

At this time, it is impossible to explain the British defeat in Libya—the facts are not available, and the Cairo censorship has been complete. As Mr. Churchill frankly admitted, the British had the edge in numbers and in arms. The fate of Libya was settled on a single day—when 300 heavy British tanks went into action, and only 70 were left at nightfall. No comparable losses, Mr. Churchill said, were inflicted on the enemy. Rommel seems to have lured the British into a trap. The British commanders seemed confident that Rommel could not fight an offensive action in the desert heat. But Rommel did.

As yet, we have not fully appreciated the extraordinary fanaticism of Axis leaders and troops. With them it is "win or die." They take incredible chances. They fight under the worst climatic and geographical conditions. The violate classic rules of warfare. The commanders are, apparently, completely callous when it comes to shedding the blood of their compatriots. These Axis hordes can be compared in many respects to the brutal hordes of Ghenghis Khan. To stop them, to defeat them, will require a comparable fanaticism, held in a very different cause, on the part of all the United Nations.

From the U. S. point of view, the Jap landings in the Aleutians cannot be passed off casually, as some aptimists have tried to do. It is true that a few rock islands, shrouded in fog, off the tip of Alaska, aren't important in themselves. It is also true that Aluetian and Alaskan outposts could be used for devastating raids on the U. S. proper: General Billy Mitchell once said, in effect, that whoever controls Alaska would win the next war. There is no reason to suppose that the Japs raided Dutch Harbor and seized remote Attu and Kiska just for the sake of what military men call a diversion. The Jap commanders have shown, all along, that everything they do is part of a carefully-prepared plan, and that everything has a bearing on their grand strategy. It will be hard to drive the Japs out of their Aleutian footholds. The Axis is seeking to encircle this country now, and it has made gigantic progress. That circle must be broken.

PENALIZING MARRIAGE

It is being hotly debated in Congress whether husband and wives be forced to make a joint income tax return, instead of separate returns. According to Treasury estimates, that would increase tax revenue by a few hundred millions anually.

What Treasury experts seem to forget is that a tax law must be judged in the light of justice and equity, not only in the light of just how much money it might raise.

Millions of women have jobs which have no connection whatsoever with their husband's jobs and earnings. Other millions are the possessors income-producing property which has no connection with their marriage and is clearly and completely their own. To say to these women that they cannot make an individual tax return, is to say in effect, that the right of women to own separate property is abrogated.

Gift taxes now in effect prevent wholesale transfer of income producing securities or properties between husband wife.

Competent lawyers are convinced that the mandatory joint-tax-return law would be unconstitutional. Whether it is or not, it is clearly unjust. It amounts to a penalty on the institution of marriage. The revenue it would produce can be and should be raised in another, more equitable way.

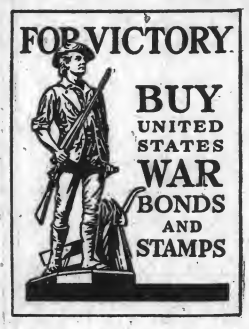
HAVE YOUR BUCKET READY

The United States has been shelled by enemy warships. It is completely possible that, before long, the United States may be attacked from the skies. And if those attacks come, fire bombs of one kind or another will be one of the principal weapons used. Unless this country is ready to deal with fire on an unprecedented scale, disastrous damage to our homes, our factories and our farms will be inevitable.

In connection with this, James M. Landis, Director of the Office of Civilian Defense, recently said: "Obviously the first thing that is apparent is that the fire-fighting forces of every city have to be enormously expanded . . . Recruiting, training of auxiliary firemen, and the re-training of existing forces, are thus a mandatory obligation of every community in the vast target areas of this country. And this program cannot wait. It must not only be begun, but be completed now . . . We dare not wait sourly and delayingly for new equipment to roll off the production line and blame delays which we can avoid upon delays that are beyond our power to control."



In many localities, volunteer auxiliary fire-fighting organizations were started with enthusiasm long ago. Then that enthusiasm was slowly lost, and at the present time the effort has bogged down. And that is precisely what our enemies want. They aren't going to tell us when they will attack, or where. They will depend upon surprises and an ill-prepared nation would be an easy victim.

Every house should be a fire house. That simply means that all the people should be ready to combat fire whenever and wherever it strikes. We must prepare thoroughly. Every day brings the time of possible attack closer.

NO MORE BIRTH CERTIFICATES

Required From Workers About to Enter the Defense Industries

Birth certificates will no longer be required to prove citizenship of Americans seeking employment in plants handling government secret and confidential work, according to Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission. The applicant is merely required to sign a statement to the effect that he is a citizen and that he knows the penalty for misrepresenting his status, which is a fine not exceeding $10,000, five years' imprisonment, or both.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

NOAH: GOD'S COVENANT WITH MANKIND

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 9:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—I will remember my covenant.—Genesis 9:15.

God does not forget. He keeps His promises now just as He did in the days of Noah. Since our lesson of last Sunday, a long period of time had elapsed. Generation after generation had come and gone, and all the while man grew more and more wicked. Finally, God saw that He must put an end to the corruption of the human race, saving just one righteous family, that of Noah, with which to begin anew.

He warned Noah of the judgment of the flood, and he in turn doubtless warned others, but finally the day came when God shut him in the ark and poured forth the waters of judgment upon the then inhabited earth. But the same God who shut Noah in (Gen. 7:1), in due time called him out (Gen. 8:15, 16).

Noah had obeyed God, and He now rewarded him. The man who had borne the ridicule was now honored by Him. The experience of Noah brings before us—

God's Three Gifts to a Believing Man:

I. Power (vv. 1-4).

Man is the "lord of creation," not because he has brought about its subjection, but because God gave him that power. It was first given to Adam (Gen. 1:26), and it is renewed here, with the additional promise of the animal as food. This was not to be, however, after the manner of wild beasts (v. 4).

No man ever lost anything by obeying the commands of God, even though appearances may seem to so indicate. The ridicule of those who called Noah foolish for obeying God, had now been silenced by the judgment of the flood, and he stood forth vindicated, empowered by God, with authority over the whole earth.

Faith is still the victory. Men who put their hopes in the kings and empires of this earth have seen them "rise and wane," and even unbelievers are beginning to talk about the necessity of a spiritual anchorage for the souls of men. It is found only in Christ, but in Him is found both peace and power for victorious living.

But we see a second gift of God—

II. Protection (vv. 5-7).

Human life is not as cheap as men would have us think. Their estimate based on greed and lust for power makes man but a unit in a machine designed to build up political power. The blood of those who are not profitable to such an enterprise, is shed in utter callousness.

Those who do such things, need to read the words of God, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man" (v. 6). What a tremendous bill some men will have to pay when they stand before the seat of judgment of our God. Even the animals who kill men are to be slain (v. 5). How much greater shall be the condemnation of the man who violates God's command.

But we see a third gift of God, designed to remove a deep fear from his heart, namely God's—

III. Promise (vv. 8-16).

God made a covenant with Noah and with his descendants and every living creature (vv. 9, 10). This is the third of God's eight covenants with man, beginning with the one to Adam in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 1:28), and closing with the new covenant (Heb. 8:8).

This was a promise of God's grace that there should be no more judgment by flood, and as a sign He chose the rainbow, which, appearing in the very time when rain should fall, would reassure men that a new flood was not coming upon them. What a beautiful symbol!

"I will remember," said God, and He has not forgotten. Though thousands of years have passed, there has never since been such a cataclysm of judgment. How unspeakably precious it is to recall that God has not forgotten a single one of us; that He remembers every promise He has ever made; that He keeps every covenant. And on the contrary, how disturbing it must be to the unbeliever to realize that God has not forgotten his sin and unbelief, nor the judgment which is sure to come.

The story of Noah should stimulate our faith, causing us to trust God, to obey His every command, and to look to Him for His power in our lives, His protection over us, His promise of grace to all who believe.

Faithful in Small Things

Duty, be it in a small matter or a great, is duty still, the command of Heaven, the eldest voice of God; and it is only they who are faithful in a few things who will be faithful over many things. Only they who do their duty in everyday matters will fulfill them on great occasions.
—Charles Kingsley.

Foot Health In Relation To Mental Health

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

When you suffer from flat feet, your musclar system is taxed and irritates the nerves of the foot, simultaneously affecting the entire delicate nervous system, causing it to function at less their normal capacity. The result of this whole action is a generalized irritability and unrest in the individual.

Ordinarily the body can overcome the irritations of its various sick parts and is capable of removing the effects of the disease. The disturbances of the foot, however, are often subject to influences which the body has great difficulty in combating.

The foot according to dictates of society should be housed in a protective leather or cloth covering, which must meet the aesthetic tastes of the prevailing fashion. Thus, if the fashion dictates that, long thin shoes be worn, thousands of individuals with short wide feet will attempt to crowd them into long, thin shoes, and visa-versa.

The vagaries of fashion may thus make you comfortable one season and uncomfortable another. However, when we consider the permanent effects of this change of styles, we realize that the foot, which has a fairly permanent shape, has to respond like an elastic band. The harm wrought in one season does not disappear the next, but may rather be accentuated in some significant defect as for example the BUNION.

Once this defect is formed the foot is placed daily in what may be considered a vice or mold and the normal metabolis or growth activity of the foot is interferred with. The attempts of the body to overcome the irritation are frustrated and the physical ailments grows and becomes more pernicious. The mental effects of this constant irritant are such as to set up a continual hypersensitiveness in all behavior.—Adv.

Here's Where Our Rubber Goes: Building Tires for 'Jimmy' Doolittle's Bombers

The bombers with which Brigadier General James Doolittle bombed Tokio were equipped with huge General tires. Because rubber must be used for these bombers and for tanks and ships and army mechanized units, civilians will get no more tires for their passenger cars for at least three years.

Expert rubber workers are turning out these military tires day and night in order to keep our army and navy operating at full speed.

The General Tire workman above is shown milling rubber for use in the bomber tires. During the milling processes chemicals are added to crude rubber to give the greatest possible wearing qualities.

The carcass of a bomber tire is made by laying fabric layer upon fabric layer on this large drum. The whole width shown will be pressed into shape as a tire for use on one of our big planes.

...s are taking an active part in making the tires which carry General Doolittle's bombing command. Many of them work in the bead room at the General Tire factory. The bead is the steel wire hoop, which reinforces the body of the tire and builds added strength into the finished sidewall. Multiple beads are used in tires for heavy bombers.

The calendaring operation shown above is the mixing of the hot rubber with heated cord fabric. Each cord is insulated by rubber and an extremely strong fabric is thus produced. The cords are squeezed through the warm rubber under terrific pressure and each acquires a sheath of rubber around it. The cord comes from overhead while the rubber may be seen in the trough in front of the machine.

Here is the finished product, a giant bomber tire similar to those on the North American B-25's which the American squadron used over Japan. In his wire to General Tire employees General Doolittle said: "The Jap planes couldn't do a thing to stop us. They'll never stop us if you keep up your great work."

With The Reds

Cincinnati—The Reds are following the same policy now that they did several years ago, when they put together the team that produced two National League and a world's championship for Cincinnati. They are rebuilding with younger fellows who are on the upgrade, and when you closely look at the roster, you realize just how many changes have been made since last year.

All of the outfields except Mike McCormick and Ival Goodman are new this year. Bert Haas and Damon Phillips are new infields and Ray Lamanno and Al Lakeman are catching additions. Ray Starr and Clyde Shoun are new hurlers.

Latest of the players added to the Reds' roster are outfields Eric Tipton and Frank Kelleher. Tipton came from Kansas City for a pile of cash and the contract of Harry Craft, while Kelleher came from Newark. To get him the Reds gave cash and contracts of Joe Abreu and Jim Turner.

Both Kelleher and Tipton compiled spectacular records in the minors, Kelleher as a home run socker, and Tipton as a hard batting, all around good ball player. Their records indicate that they are the type that a club needs in a rebuilding program.

With their good pitching, as soon as the Reds find the necessary balance in the remainder of the lineup, they'll be in a position to really go places.

At present, the Reds are in the East for their third trip. They were due to open against the toughest opposition, Brooklyn and New York. They were to play Brooklyn Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday evening, while the New York engagement calls for single games Friday and Saturday and a twin bill Sunday.

Return to Crosley Field is scheduled for Tuesday, August 4, which will be the occasion for a ladies' day. St. Louis will be the opposition. The Cards also will oppose the Reds in a night game the following night, Wednesday, August 5, which will be Shrine Night. The Shriners of this vicinity will put on one of the greatest pre-game shows ever staged at Crosley Field.

A second night game is due at Crosley Field against Chicago Friday, August 7, then the Cubs also will oppose the Reds Saturday, August 8, and twice on Sunday, August 9.

HOLC RECOMMENDS LIST OF MATERIALS TO REPLACE METALS IN BUILDING

Non-metal building materials that may be used for home building without fear that the war effort will be deprived of needed metals are in practically all cases as good or better than the items they are designed to replace, according to Kentucky Home Foundation.

The Foundation cites a recently published list by Home Owners' Loan Corporation, which was prepared on the basis of HOLC experience in the repair of more than 550,000 homes. With FHA well launched in its "Repair for Defense" program, the Corporation has also gone to work in defense areas on the conversion of vacant space into housing units for defense workers, Don Campbell, Foundation Chairman points out, in citing some of the materials replacements HOLC suggests:

Wood for gutters and downspouts in lieu of metal; wood frame screens for metal frames; wood louver ventilators in lieu of metal; wood sash for metal sash; wood or composition shingles for metal shingles; wood or reinforced lintels in lieu of steel lintels; wood cabinets in place of metal; wood girders in place of steel beams; wood hand rails in place of pipe or other metal; wood fences in lieu of metal.

Composition flashings in lieu of metal; lead alloy, wood shingles or composition roofing in place of metal roofing; masonry piers or wood columns in lieu of pipe columns; plain concrete of greater thickness or masonry walls in lieu of reinforced concrete; masonry or plain concrete piers or columns in lieu of reinforced concrete; thicker concrete driveways, walks or floors in lieu of wire mesh reinforced concrete; plain concrete footings of greater dimension in lieu of reinforced concrete; soap stone or cast cement laundry trays in lieu of enameled iron; vitreous ware plumbing fixtures in lieu of enameled iron; glass door knobs and escutcheon plates instead of metal; plastic or glass switch and outlet plates in lieu of metal.

EXPLAINS WOMEN'S PART IN WAR-VICTORY PROGRAM

According to a report issued by home economists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics on how women can aid the victory-program, two key words explain the part of the homemakers. Says Miss Laura Deephouse, consumer expect, "they are utilization and conservation."

"From our experiences in the First World War, we know that half-measures do little good, and that it is best in the long run to insitute drastic measures at the outset," says Miss Deephouse in stating that consumers will have available only about 70 percent of the "normal" amount of goods.

Our standard of living may be lowered for the duration, but there still are things we can do to help. Women will find that many garments—as, tailored suits, topcoats, hats and gloves—will do double-duty if put to the test. That is, if good materials were selected in the beginning. Due to the wool shortage, woolen garments especially must be made to last.

We will learn to darn and patch again, says the home economist. We will wear mended stockings and resoled shoes. And we will find that even with less, smartness and style still are possible. "This war doesn't mean a 5-year collapse on the part of women as far as their initiative and appearance are concerned. Morale and common sense join in making necessary doing the best possible with the least," she added.

Many articles such as toilet soap, toothpaste, rubbing alcohol, bay rum, deoderants, etc., may be less available than formerly. It is pointed out that the supply of toilet soap can be made to last longer if soap and hand lotions are made at home. Home-made soap is adequate for much work in the kitchen and in cleaning. Do not waste the little slivers of soap left after a cake is mostly gone; wise homemakers save these little pieces, melt them and use for washing hair, for cleaning, etc.

As for care of the hands, it is possible to have clean, well-groomed hands without using many manicure-materials. If supplies are limited, this must be done.

It will be especially necessary during 1942-43 to develop naturally lean, svelte figures that will look right normally, it is suggested.

Among home supplies to be conserved to the utmost are furniture, kitchen and laundry equipment, bathroom equipment, rubber goods such as hot water bottles, rubber-soled shoes, etc.

Farm Stock "Monstrosities," Agricultural Expert Believes

This Purina Experimental Farm Cow is a "monstrosity," expert says. Her present lifetime record is 112,000 lbs. milk.

Compared with the wild herds from which our present cattle are descended, the cow of today is almost as much of a monstrosity as if she had six legs, claims E. B. Powell, Manager, Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Missouri.

"By nature, a cow is supposed to give just enough milk to give her calf a good start in life—possibly not more than a thousand pounds a year," he explains. "And the jungle fowl of India is supposed to lay just enough eggs to hatch out her chicks. And a wild hog is supposed to weigh around 200 pounds at 1½ to 2 years, not much of which meat is edible.

"But today's cow is expected to give better than 9000 pounds of milk annually. Today's hen is expected to lay from 200 to 300 eggs each year. Today's hog is expected to weight over 200 pounds at six months. It's figures like these that make our present day farm animals 'monstrosities,'" according to Powell.

Feed Requirements Change

Because of the physical changes which livestock and poultry have undergone to get the high production demanded of them, they require feeds far different from those on which they were able to exist in their natural or primitive state, Mr. Powell points out.

"The primitive cow was able to produce enough milk for her offspring from wild pasture, but even on good pasture or hay today's potential 10,000 pound cow will lose flesh and fall off in production. Along with her pasture or hay she must have a balanced grain ration if she is to hold up in flesh and produce to her best;" he asserts.

"Farm grains alone are not enough," Powell says. "A cow needs balanced amounts of carbohydrates, proteins, minerals, fats and vitamins to produce milk abundantly.

"For that reason we have developed at the Purina Experimental Farm and in our Purina Laboratories mixed concentrates containing what grains lack to produce milk in large quantities. Blended with home grown grains, these mixed concentrates give the cow a balanced ration for making milk and maintaining her body."

The same is true of other types of livestock, according to Powell. For example, he says, it takes 10 to 12 bushels of corn to put 100 pounds of pork on a hog when the corn is fed alone. However, by adding more proteins, more minerals, and more variety to keep the appetite keen, the same pig will put on 100 pounds of pork with 5½ to 6 bushels of corn and 40 to 60 pounds of mixed concentrates.

He goes on to say that although it looks like getting by cheaply to let a hen roam the fields rustling for whatever she can find, just as her jungle ancestors did, it's actually expensive because she won't lay enough eggs to make her profitable.

Mixed Concentrates Scientifically Made

"Science, which by breeding and selection produced our present-day farm animals, has been just as busy developing feeds that will meet their changed needs," Powell says. "As a result, today's farmer has his choice of many mixed concentrates to blend with their home grown grains that are made by reputable, nationally known manufacturers."

NEMESIS OF DICTATORS

The term "free enterprise" should have a new and deeper meaning for all the people of this nation. For the free enterprise system has been given the job of producing the incredible quantities of weapons which we need to defeat enemies whose avowed purpose is the absolute destruction of everything this country stands for, including "free enterprise."

Recent reports indicate that the vast production goals laid down by our government are being generally realized. Plane, ship, tank and gun production is greater by far than the most sanguine visionary would have dared to forecast two or three years back. Every plane, every ship, every tank, every bullet, is an example of free enterprise at work.

The men whose money built our industries and the men whose labor keeps the wheels turning aren't frightened subjects of an all-powerful ruler. They're free men who intend to remain free men. They can and do speak their minds on any subject under the sun. Their livelihood doesn't depend on licking the boots of the clique in power. They can criticize the government, industry, the labor system, or anything else without having to worry about being thrown into a concentration camp or lined up against a wall and shot. This kind of freedom exists only in the nations where free enterprise exists. For free government and free industry go together—you can't have one without the other.

The Axis nations devoted all their resources over a period of many years to preparing for their brutal war of conquest. We've had only two years to meet their challenge. We've wasted time and money and energy. We've been guilty of indecision. We've been moved this way and that by pressure groups. But we're getting the production—simply because free enterprise doesn't know what it is to admit failure. We're getting it because the kind of people who have the right to be called Americans have decided that they're going to win this war, and make the kind of peace that will keep liberty alive and flaming in the world.

All you have to do to see free enterprise at work is to look around you. You see it in the great motor plants, which have forgotten about cars for the duration and are intent on making more instruments of war than all the rest of the world combined can make. And you see it in little factories in little towns which are making bullets and gun parts and sub-assemblies.

You can see it in those enterprises which underlie all industrial effort. Oil comes out of the earth in an ever-increasing stream, to be refined into a hundred kinds of essential fuels and lubricants. The trainloads of coal roll to all points of the nation to feed the insatiable furnaces of industry. The dynamos whir 24 hours a day in the electric industry's generating plants, and the power flows thru the lines to turn the factory wheels and light our homes and serve the farmer.

You can see it in finance—in the banks which are supplying the money and the thousand and one essential services which war industry and peace industry both must have. You can see it in short, in every American activity—in every nook and cranny of the vast American countryside.

The greatest issue of all time will be decided by this war. That issue is whether we shall have a free world when it is over, or whether we shall have a world ruled by a handful of brutal autocrats who hate everything that freedom means. American free enterprise is fighting that war on every battlefront and sea-lane of the world. American free enterprise is giving everything it has to the magnificent troops who carry the instruments of war into battle.

Once the war is won, this nation must face vast new problems of reconstruction and readjustment. We will think again in terms of production for human happiness, and for a higher standard of living. And then, again, the job will be up to the free enterprise system. That system, and that system only, can give us stability with freedom in the world of tomorrow. Let us never forget that free enterprise is the source of victory in time of war—and the source of strength and progress in time of peace.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Some Ohio county farmers who planted hemp on wet land are having difficulty with morning glories.

From a planting of 85 pounds of Irish Cobblers, Sam Lyndon of Perry county sold 1,200 pounds of U. S. No. 1 potatoes.

Wet weather caused a good many farmers in Menifee county to lose a part of their early potatoes.

Mrs. J. W. Dorton, of Middlesboro gave 14 canning demonstrations in the basement of her home.

Almost half of the gardens in Magoffin county were destroyed by floods, and many potatoes rotted in the ground.

Wasted money is wasted lives. Don't waste precious lives. Every dollar you can spare should be used to buy War Bonds. Buy your ten per cent every pay day.

FARMERS REPORT BIG RETURNS FROM SHEEP

Small flocks are adding to farm incomes in many Kentucky counties this year, county agents are reporting.

The flock of C. Nichols in Hart county produced an average of one and a quarter lambs and 11 pounds of wool per ewe. When weighing 100 pounds, the lambs brought $16 each. The wool sold for 52 cents a pound, and lambs and wool brought an average of $25.72 per ewe.

In Grayson county, 13 northwestern ewes produced 19 lambs, and lambs and wool from the flock brought nearly $300.

R. Q. Wilson of Livingston county received $67.52 from lambs and wool from two ewes.

Ten western ewes which C. E. Powell of Marshall county bought last fall produced wool selling for $46, or more than half what the lambs cost.

Claude Nixon of Monroe county sold lambs from 24 ewes for $378, and kept three of the best ones.

In Russell county, C. E. Smith clipped an average of 12 1-3 pounds of wool per ewe and the flock of Vernon Selby averaged 11 pounds.

FOOD PRODUCTION IN STATE HIGHER

Food production has reached new high levels in Kentucky, according to reports made at a state conference of home demonstration agents and home economics specialists at the Bingham 4-H club camp in Washington county. The contribution of Kentucky farm women to the war effort, including the production and preservation of garden crops, was praised. Several thousand neighborhood leaders are rendering an invaluable war service, in helping the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics in the anti-inflation program, and in the production of food, canning, drying, storage and other problems, it was stated at the conference. Other subjects considered included consumer information on shortages and substitutes, and recreation and morale building programs.

USE SMALL THRESHER TO GET TURNIP SEED

Threshing turnip seed is the latest use for small trailer threshers, now being operated in 18 Kentucky counties. Wide demand for these machines developed as a result of demonstrations given over the state by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

There are two machines in each of Knox, Morgan and Russell counties, and one machine in each of 12 counties. One of the Knox county threshers is owned by a cooperative association of 11 farmers, while four farmers own the other machine in that county.

The hammer-type cylinder is one of the features of the little machine. It threshes soybeans, cowpeas, and about all kinds of grasses and grains, alfalfa, clovers and canes.

Farmers attending the Experiment Station field meetings will have an opportunity to see one of these threshers in operation. These meetings will be at Greenville August 11; Campbellsville, August 12; Fariston, August 13 and Berea, August 14.

LUNCHES PROVIDED 142,000 CHILDREN

During the past school year, 142,000 undernourished children were reached through community school lunch programs operating in 1,800 schools in Kentucky, according to a report of the Agricultural Marketing Administration. In addition to food furnished locally, 9,800,000 pounds of food valued at $750,000 was furnished by the Agricultural Marketing Administration. This food was purchased under the United States Department of Agriculture farm price stabilization program and turned over to the Kentucky State Department of Public Welfare for distribution to schools.

School officials, parent-teacher and other groups acted as sponsors for the programs locally. Basic foods were furnished by local sponsors and the Agricultural Marketing Administration furnished supplementary foods to balance the lunches. The National Youth Administration often furnished workers to help prepare and serve the food.

POOR HONEY SEASON BEES NEED FEEDING

Due to the poor honey flow during the past season in some parts of Kentucky, many bee colonies are short of winter stores. Each colony should now have 50 to 60 pounds of honey, says Prof. W. A. Price of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Those having less than this amount should be fed a sufficient amount of sugar syrup to bring the stores to that level.

The syrup is made by dissolving two parts of white cane sugar by volume to one part of water. Measure the desired quantity of water, place it in a boiler, and heat to the boiling point. Then pour the sugar into the boiling water and agitate the mixture until the sugar is dissolved. Allow the sugar solution to heat to the boiling point and then remove from the fire. Pour the syrup into 10-pound friction top pails. The lid should have 8 to 10 holes punches through with lath nails. When the syrup has cooled to about 100 degrees invert the pails directly over the frames of the hive. Place an empty hive body and cover on top of the hive. Place an empty hive body and cover on top of the colony to protect the feeder and prevent robbing. When the feeding operation has been completed remove the pail and empty hive body.

WEARS ONE PAIR OF STOCKINGS 264 DAYS

One of the home economics field agents of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics announces she has worn one pair of stocking 264 consecutive days. Careful washing every night, using a mild soap and lukewarm water, with no rough rubbing or squeezing, is one of her secrets. Another is careful handling to avoid snags and "runs." Money she saves on stockings and other clothes she invests in war bonds.

In Todd county, Kentucky No. 1 barley stood up well, compared to Missouri Early Beardless, which went down badly.

Wolfe county farmers who used good seed and fertilizer had big yields of potatoes.

SORGHUM GROWERS EXPECT GOOD YEAR

With prospects for increased demand for sorghum molasses, members of the Lincoln County Sorghum Association doubled their acreages of cane. One man is growing 16½ acres. Molasses produced by the association last year was sold in 13 states, and as far west as California. The association this year is planning to accept quality sorghum from neighboring counties for blending, packaging and marketing.

BETTER TOBACCO ON TREATED LAND

At the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton, land treated with limestone and superphosphate produced dark tobacco selling for $45 an acre more than tobacco grown on untreated land. Where manure was used in addition to limestone and phosphate, the increased value was $70 an acre. The rotation included two years of tobacco, one year of wheat, and three years of clover and grass. Two tons of limestone were used to the acre and 250 pounds of superphosphate applied on each tobacco crop.

BROWN SWISS CATTLE FOR EASTERN KENTUCKY

In an effort to improve cattle in Eastern Kentucky, the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Farm Security Administration recently cooperated in placing 36 head of Brown Swiss cattle into Breathitt, Pike and Wolf counties.

This breed, which originated in Switzerland, experts at the College hope will prove exceptionally good for eastern counties. They produce a large amount of milk and their calves make good veal and beef.

In the shipment, which came from Wisconsin, were 29 heifers, one cow and six bulls. The animals were selected by A. A. Spielman, field agent in dairying for the College; George Ellis of the Farm Security Administration, and Fred Idtse, secretary of the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association.

CHICKENS CAN EAT POISONED HOPPERS

Farmers using poisoned bran bait to kill grasshoppers need have no fear that chicken will be killed by eating the hoppers, says a statement from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Tests have been made in feeding poisoned grasshoppers to chickens, turkeys and birds, and not one was killed, where the poison recommended by the Experiment Station was used. The bait should be thinly scattered, broadcast by hand at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds of dry matter to the acre.

Like all other businesses, we are complying with the Office of Defense Transportation's order to reduce tire mileage 25% as compared to last year. This means fewer trips for our cars and trucks, so if we are unable to answer service calls or make deliveries quite as promptly as in the past, please remember that it is due to circumstances imposed by wartime conditions. Every ounce of rubber we can save is that much more for our armed forces.

How You Can Help Us Reduce Car Mileage and Still Maintain a High Standard of Service

1 Learn to replace blown fuses yourself. It's easy as changing a light bulb. Ask any of our employees to show you how. Keep extra fuses on hand.

2 Please do not ask for delivery of small items such as light bulbs or appliance cords. Buy them when shopping for other things and carry them home with you.

3 Give us as much advance notice as possible if you decide to move so your call may be grouped with others and taken care of on a single trip.

4 Arrange to pay for service by check or in person at our office before expiration of payment period and save tire wear caused by special collection trips.

5 Avoid requesting "rush" service. You can help us conserve rubber by making it possible for us to handle your service calls and deliveries on regular trips.

Prompt and courteous service to our customers has always been a policy of this company, and we look forward to the day when we can again make deliveries and service calls without restrictions. In the meantime, we know you understand the reason for this message and will be glad to cooperate. We'll give you the best service possible under present conditions and will sincerely appreciate your help. With a little advance planning, you will be occasioned little or no inconvenience.

This Week On The Home Front

One of the things we worried about six months ago was whether or not our great industries could be changed over from making autos and gadgets and the appliances of peace to manufacture—on the same mass production basis—the weapons of war.

Today, we know these industries can, because many of the largest have done it, and others are doing it. The WPB says our factories will turn out a total of about 45 billion dollars worth of weapons and military supplies and equipment this year, and the figure is expected to rise to 70 or 75 billion (at current prices) in 1943.

The last figure means production for war on a scale never before attained. It means, also, that we shall be making almost nothing for ordinary civilian uses, and it means that we must do a better job of salvage than we have been doing—because no amount of production facilities can deliver the goods unless there are materials with which to work.

The automobile graveyards of Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia in 60 days have sent 65,180 tons of scrap iron and steel to the hungry mills.

Leon Henderson, OPA Administrator, at last week broadcast a pledge that federal control of rents in defense rental areas would be maintained and even extended to new areas "within the limitation of funds made available by Congress."

Deploring the attitude "of some few landlords and their agents (which have not yet been adjusted to the realities of this crisis," he said:

"We are at stabilization of the whole cost of living. This means the price of what we eat and of what we wear. It means the price of what we pay for services, and it means the rent which millions of American families pay for shelter . . . We are all against inflation, but—and on that but' has foundered many a crucial provision of our overall plan to avoid the disaster of runaway living costs."

A few landlords, he charged, were collecting "slush funds" to fight federal rent control.

Production of baby powder, tooth cleansers and several other toilet articles may continue unrestricted provided they do not contain certain critical materials. But the WPB put a limit of 80 percent of the 1941 production on bath milk, bubble bath, eyelash curler, hair lacquer, etc. The 1941 quantity of production was approved for bath salts, cleansing cream, cologne, face powder, lipstick, mascara, perfume, suntan lotions, etc.

The toilet articles are divided into three groups, depending mostly upon the amount of critical materials they contain. In the list of those containing some critical material, although 100 percent of 1941 production is permitted as far as quantity goes, the marketable units may be only 90 percent of the 1941 number. This is to save container material. In the list containing still more critical material items, 80 percent of the 1941 quantity and 72 percent of the marketable units is allowed. Container variety is limited.

The WPB has banned the manufacture of a long list of civilian articles. Garden tools, hospital equipment, merry-go-rounds, magic lanterns, umbrella shafts and vanity cases are typical of items on the varied list. Manufacturers have 30 days in which to process iron or steel for articles on this list and have thirty days after that to assemble them. Only 75 percent of the average monthly weight of metals processed by a factory in 1941 may be used.

Over 300,000 meat markets moved closer to the front line of defense with the opening of the National Fats Salvage Program. One pound of waste kitchen fats contains enough glycerine to fire four anti-aircraft shells. It is estimated that 2,000,000 pounds of household fats are thrown away yearly. The government hopes each housewife will salvage a pound or two of fats a month, selling them to the meat markets.

Fruit crops ripening in several large sections of the country prompted a statement from OPA that the home-canning provision of the sugar regulations gives housewives every opportunity to conserve fresh fruit wherever and whenever available.

America is consuming sugar at only slightly less than its rate of production and import.

Procedure for the prompt replacement of lost, stolen, or destroyed sugar ration books has been announced.

An extra two pounds of sugar may be now obtained with Stamp No. 7 in the ration books. This stamp became valid July 10 and is good until midnight on Aug. 22. This sugar is in addition to the regular rations provided by Stamps 5 and 6. No. 5 is valid until midnight July 25, and after that No. 6 may be used through Aug. 22.

The victory smile of Rosemary La Planch, "Miss America of 1941," may grace the face of a local girl this year.

Pretty and talented girls between 18 and 28, who have never been married and who live within 50 miles of Cincinnati are being afforded an opportunity of competing for the title of "Miss Greater Cincinnati" in a local beauty contest sponsored by L. B. Wilson and the WCKY radio station of Cincinnati.

Without further elimination, the winner of the local contest will be furnished with a complete wardrobe and will be sent, all expenses paid, as the Greater Cincinnati representative to the "Miss America Health, Beauty and Talent Pageant" at Atlantic City the week of Sept. 7.

Entries can be made now, and information or blanks may be obtained from WCKY in the Hotel Gibson, Cincinnati, or this newspaper. A series of entertainment events has been planned for contestants in the local contest, and will begin with a Miss Greater Cincinnati Canteen Night for service men Tuesday, July 28, in the Hotel Gibson.

Talent auditions and beauty contest preliminaries will be held Thursday, July 30, in the Hotel Gibson. Radio talent auditions will be scheduled for semi-finalists. Finalists and semi-finalists will make personal appearances at the Albee Theater, Cincinnati.

Entries should be made as soon as possible. Here is an opportunity to be "Miss America of 1942." Incidentally "Miss America of 1941" has just been selected by Hal Roach for his forthcoming picture, "Prairie Chicken."

A Week of The War

War Production Chairman Nelson, speaking in Detroit, said the U. S. will hit the "real" peak of its war production program by next March. Mr. Nelson said "our ability to produce is much greater than any one dreamed. The Armament objectives as announced by President Roosevelt last winter—and which seemed too vast at the time—will be readily realized . . . Our productive capacity is apparently limited only by the raw materials available."

"The engineering genius of American production, when turned from peace to war, has proved a reservoir no one could gauge," Mr. Nelson said. "When American men and machines stopped competing with each other and turned all their competitive energy and abilities against Hitler and Hirohito, it knocked all previous calculations of our productive powers into a cocked hat . . . The real problem now is not one of production, it is the problem of a better distribution of the materials from which war production springs."

Chairman Nelson said "At all costs—we must not get into the frame of mind that this is either an easy or a short job. If people build on false hopes of an easy victory or a short war, then they are certain to feel let down when the bad days come, as come they will."

Production and Subcontracting

WPB Chairman Nelson announced a "realignment" of the Board to permit him to devote his time to essential allocation policies between the needs of the armed forces and the civilian economy. He said essential civilian needs, such as those for the communications and transportation systems, must be met. The civilian economy, though "thin," must be kept healthy, he said. William L. Batt and James S. Knowlson were named vice chairmen of the Board.

Lou E. Holland, formerly President of the Double Rotary Sprinkler Corp., of Kansas City, Mo., was appointed WPB Deputy Chairman in charge of the Smaller War Plants Corporation. Chairman Nelson said the Corporation should attempt to confine the manufacture of relatively simple war items to smaller factories, increase the farming out of manufacture of bits and pieces by large corporations which hold prime contracts and encourage conversion of additional small plants to essential civilian production. The WPB estimated, however, that 24,000 small manufacturers whose annual sales three years ago amounted to $4 billion, will be forced to close October 1 because of inability to convert to war or essential civilian production.

The WPB said expenditures for war purposes by U. S. Government agencies in June were at the average daily rate of $158 million, 6 percent higher than in May. Congressional war appropriations to date total more than $225 billion, the board said, but the U. S. actually has spent less than $40 billion. The WPB Bureau of Finance obtained $62 million in the form of loans or advances on payments for war materials for about 400 manufacturers in June. During the past six weeks, the Army Signal Corps has given final acceptance each day to more than $2 million worth of radio and communications equipment, and awarded contracts for $1 billion worth of additional apparatus.

Labor Supply

Persons who desire jobs in plants working on secret or confidential Government contracts will no longer be required to turn in birth certificates to prove American citizenship, the War Manpower Commission announced. The WPB Labor Division said the aircraft industry will require more than 1,500,000 workers by the end of 1943. A total of almost 20 million persons will be drawn into war production and service in the armed forces during this year and next, the WMC reported. Consequently, employers can no longer afford to set arbitrary age limits or discriminate against workers because of sex, race or nationality, the Commission stated. The WMC said the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO) is conducting a drive in 40 war production plants to encourage hiring and upgrading of Negroes and workers in other minority groups.

Rationing

The OPA said about 8 million Eastern motorists have received basic permanent gasoline rationing coupon books. Congressmen, members of State and local legislatures and other Government officials will be eligible for "special rations" for use in legislative or official business, and bona fide political candidates may have extra rations for travel necessary to the prosecution of their candidacies the Office said. Special rations will also be issued for travel to obtain medical service, to demonstrate cars or boats for sale, to transport equipment and personnel of scientific expeditions and to operate a vehicle in tests essential to the war effort.

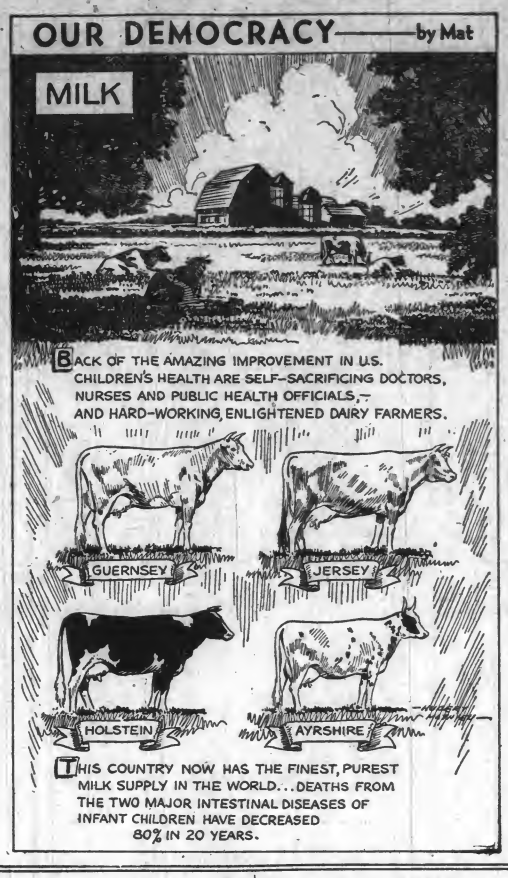
The Office ruled newspaper reports and photographers will be eligible for supplementary rations up to quantity sufficient to permit 470 miles of occupational driving a month if they can meet car pooling provisions. Increased monthly gasoline quotas will be given stations servicing war workers. The WPB granted OPA authority to require filling station operators to submit coupons or other evidence that rationing regulations are being complied with, when gasoline is delivered to their stations. The OPA said local rationing boards may refuse to issue new tires to eligible motorists if an inspector's report shows the purchaser has abused his old tires. The "bonus" sugar stamp, number seven in War Ration Book No. 1, may be exchanged for two pounds of sugar until midnight August 22.

The War Front

Recent Far Eastern events indicate "the turning point in air operations has been reached and the Japanese are now more on the defensive whereas the American Air Forces are on the offensive," U. S. Army Air Forces Headquarters in China reported. U. S. submarines within two days sank or destroyed five Japanese destroyers in the Aleutians, the Navy said. The War Department said American troops are now stationed at Port Moresby, Allied base in New Guinea. The Department also announced that U. S. crews, manning American-made medium tanks, knocked out a number of German tanks in the battle of Libya in Mid-June without any losses of their own personnel. Gen. MacArthur reported more Allied raids on numerous enemy bases in the southwest Pacific. The Navy announces the torpedoing by Axis submarines of 16 additional United Nations merchant vessels.

War Information

Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information issued OWI Regulation Number One, stating "The Federal Government will issue as promptly as possible all news and background information essential to a clear understanding of this nation's war effort . . . The impact of the war on all phases of American life will be reported, so will the cooperative efforts of the United Nations. Only information which would give aid and comfort to the enemy will be withheld."



Mr. Davis established three major branches under himself and OWI Associate Director M. S. Eisenhower, with an Assistant Director for each branch. Gardner Cowles, Jr., President of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and President of Look Magazine, was placed in charge of Domestic Information Operations; Robert Sherwood, in charge of Overseas Information Operations; and Archibald MacLeish, Policy Development.

The Armed Forces

The Army Specialist Corps, with 190,000 applications for membership, will enlist more than 11,000 men during the rest of this year, the War Department said. WAAC Director Hobby reported two of the first eight WAAC companies will consist of Negro women, commanded by Negro women, who will attend the first WAAC officer candidate school. President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing $8,500 million in new naval warship construction with emphasis on aircraft carriers. The Marine Corps said it is now promoting competent noncommissioned officers in the field to meet needs for additional officers.

Sabotage

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, head of the military commission convened by President Roosevelt to try the eight German saboteurs landed in the U. S. by submarine, said the great volume of evidence to be introduced is expected to prolong the trial. The Commission granted permission to the Army Signal Corps to make photographs and silent pictures of the trial scene in the Justice Department buildings in Washington.

Edward Bromberg and Spencer Charters.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

Eddie Robinson's in business now. The luggage business! (Why curl your shoulders lugging luggage made of leather? Buy Lug Luggage—especially made for quick getaways. It's paper-weight—paperthin, too!

What's more, Eddie's going straight! At least, that's his intention in Warner Bros.' comedy hit, "Larcency, Inc." which will be at the Gayety, Tuesday and Wednesday.

It seems that ex-con "Pressure" Maxwell (that's Eddie) and his sidekick, "Jug" Martin (Broderick Crawford), are in cahoots with Anthony Quinn (he hasn't been sprung yet) to rob a bank. As a cover-up, Eddie goes into the leather goods business only because his store is next to the bank. The connection? A tunnel, of course, between the two establishments.

Construction on the EGR project is continually interrupted by legitimate business in the store. Eddie's profits boom and he soon finds it's more profitable to go straight. The bank escapes its fate.

Featured with Robinson in Larcency, Inc," are Jane Wyman, as Eddie's adopted daughter, Brod Brawford, and Jack Carson, luggage salesman extraordinary.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

This nation is facing a crisis in the steel industry. Our steel plants need junk and we must supply it in ever increasing amounts, or our production of steel will be choked down to nearly one-half the present tonnage.

All of us have old tools, old stoves, hardware, metal beds, pots and pans, batteries, hangers, old machinery and other articles which are lying around our basements, barn yards or fence corners, rusting away. We need this material for the production of shells, guns, planes, battleships, tanks, armored cars, submarines, and ambulances. Now is the best time to gather junk for the winter snows will cover it up and it will be lost for use until next spring.

Junk material has taken on additional importance in this war. We have just finished a drive for old rubber but our government did not get all it needed. It is not too late to look around our houses to see if we can't spare more of this material. The government needs it for gas masks, barrage balloons, lifeboat rafts, pontoon bridges, tires, etc.

Also, don't forget to save your waste paper and old rags. This material is important as old paper is used for airplane and tank parts, shells and ammunition. Old rugs are needed for wiping rags for ships and factories, roofing and flooring for emergency construction.

Junk? There ought to be a new reverent name for it now—our steel and rubber company executives say. Junk now turned over to the government may save the lives of our soldiers and sailors later on. It is our duty to aid in all these drives for these essential war materials.

GOVERNMENT BUYING HELPS DAIRY FARMER

The Government's policy of buying dairy products for lease-lend shipments to Europe is increasing the income of Kentucky dairymen, particularly during the flush production season, according to a report released by the department of markets and rural finance of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington. During the period March 1941, to March, 1942, the United States Department of Agriculture purchased 258 million pounds of American cheese, 1,183 million pounds of evaporated milk, 73 million pounds of dry skim milk and 6 million pounds of butter. This amounts to about one-third of the total United States production of cheese and evaporated milk, a fifth of the dry skim milk produced for human consumption and a little over 3 percent of the production of butter. Those purchases have helped to maintain dairy prices at a higher level than in any year since 1929, despite substantial increases in production.

The policy followed by the Government of purchasing heavily during the heaviest season of production tends to change the normal seasonal movement of prices. During the summer of 1941 and thus far this year dairy prices have been well maintained during the hot weather months when production is normally the greatest and prices the lowest. In June, 1941, the usual month of lowest dairy prices, butter was 4½ cents higher than the previous January and this year June 1 prices were 2 cents higher than in January.

This fact places emphasis on the wisdom of doing those things necessary to maintain maximum production from dairy cows during the summer months when production costs are lowest.

NATION'S ROAD SYSTEM HAS TREMENDOUS VALUE

Someone has said that the history of roads is the history of civilization. That is a true statement, because without highways and the means of communication that go with them civilization, as we understand it, would speedily disappear.

It is interesting to note in this connection that there are 2,936,200 miles of roads in the United States. Of this total 208,000 miles, or about 7 per cent have a high type surface. Other surfaced roads account for 33 per cent of the total, or 981,000 miles. Roads that are not surfaced—common dirt roads—make up 60 percent of the total, of 1,747,000 miles.

The Federal Aid highway system comprises 230,000 miles; 100,000 miles of this system have a high type surface; other surfaces account for 117,000 miles, while 13,000 miles are not surfaced.

The 1940 value of the nation's improved highways, making allowances for depreciation, was placed at $11,600,000,000.

FARMERS CONTINUE TO GET ONLY A LOW PRICE DOLLAR

That the average level of farm prices falls far short of keeping pace with the hourly wages of factory workers throughout the United States is shown by the most recent figures compiled by the agencies of the Federal government.

According to the latest price index of the Department of Agriculture, as of June 15, prices received by farmers in local markets thruout the country averaged 151 per cent of the 1909-14 period. Prices paid by farmers, including interest and taxes, stood at 152 per cent of the same period, giving the farm dollar the purchasing power of 99 cents.

Going back to 1939, hourly earnings of factory workers, covering the United States as a whole, averaged 304 per cent of the 1909-14 base. By 1940 this figure rose to 316, while in 1941 it was 348. During January, 1942, average earnings of factory workers stood at 378 percent of the 1909-14 level. During February the figure was 379; March, 382, and April, 387.

In the light of these facts it is not difficult to account for the critical shortage of farm labor, which grows more acute with each passing day. While ceilings have been placed on farm prices in the effort to prevent inflation, no ceilings have been placed on wages.

SUGAR IN ABUNDANCE MAKES RESTRICTIONS SEEM TOO SEVERE

With sugar being rationed to the American people on the basis of one-half pound per person each week, and with housewives being unable to get sufficient sugar for canning and preserving purposes, it comes in the nature of a shock to many when they are told that sugar warehouses in some parts of the country are filled to overflowing and cannot hold another sack.

According to reliable sources, our present supply of cane and beet sugar amounts to about 2,500,000 tons. Approximately 1,000,000 acres have been planted to sugar beets in the United States this year, which is an increase of more than 200,000 acres as compared with last year.

Our imports of sugar from Cuba and Puerto Rico are holding up well in spite of shipping losses caused by German submarines. Ships returning from Australia are carrying cargoes of raw sugar from Hawaii to San Francisco, and present prospects are that we shall receive approximately 900,000 tons from that source.

Putting all these facts together convinces many that there is no necessity for the drastic rationing plan that is now in effect, and that it should be liberalized so as to give housewives the supply they urgently need for canning and preserving.

UNION W. M. U. MEET

The W. M. U. of the Union Baptist Church met at the church on Wednesday afternoon, July 8th for its regular monthly meeting, with 21 members present.

Our president, Mrs. Kirtley McWethy called the meeting to order at 2:30 E. W. T. with opening prayer by Mrs. Emerson Smith. Our business hour followed with all organizations giving good reports. Plans were made to attend the Group Meeting to be held at Hickory Grove Baptist Church, on Thursday, July 23, and Wednesday August 5th was set as an all day meeting to study a mission book, "Sharing With Neighbor America." Mission books were distributed and details were to be worked out by our Literature Chairman, Mrs. Myrtle Marshall.

These discussions brought our business session to a close and due to illness our program chairman was absent, with Mrs. Austin Gschwind taking charge. A very interesting program was given, with our guest speaker, Mrs. Malone, Supt. of Covington, giving a beautiful talk on "Giving Our Best To God." Followed with a closing prayer by Mrs. McWethy.

Those taking part in this meeting were as follows: Prayer by Mrs Smith, topic discussions by Mrs. Newman, Mrs Chas. Smith, a reading given by Mrs. Masters and an impersonation given by Mrs. McWethy and Mrs. Gschwind.

The August meeting will be held on Wednesday, August 12th beginning at 2 P. M. E. W. T., and we hope all friends and members will be present.

"RIGHTS" SET FORTH AT RURAL INSTITUTE

A statement of the purposes of American civilization is set forth in "a new bill of rights" which Dean William S. Taylor of the University of Kentucky College of Education presented at the Rural Leadership Institute of the Kentucky Rural Church Council. Its nine-point program includes:

The right to work, usefully and creatively through the productive years.

The right to fair pay, adequate to command the necessities and amenities of life in exchange for work, ideas, thrift, and other socially valuable services.

The right to adequate food, clothing, shelter, and medical care.

The right to security with freedom from fear of old age, want, dependency, sickness, unemployment, and accident.

The right to live in a system of free enterprise, free from compulsory labor, irresponsible private power, arbitrary public authority, and unregulated monopolies.

The right to come and go, to speak or to be silent, free from the spying of secret political police.

The right to equality before the law, with equal access to justice in fact.

The right to rest, recreation, and adventure; the opportunity to enjoy life and take part in an advancing civilization.

NEED 50 ACRES TO MAKE COMBINE PAY

Combines reduce the expense of harvesting when 56 to 60 acres are to be cut, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics of the University of Kentucky found in a study of farm machinery costs. Where combines were operated 10 hours a day in cutting small grains grasses, lespedeza, clovers and soybeans, the cost per acre averaged $1.48, ranging from $1.17 for grain to $1.64 for soybeans. The cost of harvesting by binders and threshing machines averages $2.87 an acre.

The cost per acre for the combine was found to reduce rapidly with increased use from 50 to 125 acres, beyond which the decline was slower. The size of the acreage to be cut is the biggest factor in deciding on the purchase of a combine. Consideration also should be given to the kind of crops grown, the topography of the land, capital invested in machinery, and mechanical ability of labor, the report says.

KENTUCKY FARMERS HAVE MORE MONEY

Western Kentucky farmers did well last year, according to the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. An analysis of the books of 36 farmers in Calloway, Graves, and Marshall counties showed their net earnings to average $1,211. "This is more than 50 percent greater than it has been for several years," says Roy E. Proctor, farm management specialist.

For the 36 men, the best source of income was dairy cattle. They brought in an average of $496 a farm. Tobacco came next, $404; then hogs, $281; with poultry fourth, $178 per farm.

Proctor has some suggestions which, if followed, he thinks might lift incomes still further. He suggests that more feed be produced on the farms, so dairying could be expanded. He would grow more clover and alfalfa for hay and more small grains for pasture. More money might be made from hogs, he thinks. Also he would expand poultry raising.

It is estimated that 85 to 90 percent of all scrap iron has been removed from farms in Green county.

Balance the Poultry Income with Fall Hatched Chicks

Help Meet the Demand for More Eggs by Keeping the Laying Houses Filled.

Everybody wants eggs!

Uncle Sam needs them for his army and for fulfillment of his lease-lend pledges. To show he means business he has set a bottom for egg prices until January, 1943—22c a dozen (Chicago market; which means relatively higher prices in markets normally higher than Chicago).

The general public, with more money to spend because of increased payrolls, is demanding more and better eggs.

This all means that now is the time for every poultryman to load his guns and to keep firing them for maximum production.

One of the most satisfactory plans yet devised to help the average poultryman to produce a maximum number of eggs from his farm calls for starting a brood of fall hatched chicks.

C. S. Johnson, poultry authority with Purina Mills, explains, "The accepted practice in the past has been to brood chicks in the spring to go into the houses as layers in the fall. But it is only during the fall that the laying house is actually running at full capacity. By midwinter, due to culling, sickness, and related reasons, the number has decreased. By spring, part of the house space and operating equipment is being wasted because no replacement pullets are available for maintaining the flock up at full strength.

"Chicks brooded in the fall will be ready to fill these gaps in the laying house by spring," recommends Johnson. "Fall chicks also offer an opportunity to secure more efficient use from brooding equipment that otherwise frequently stands idle!"

EDITOR'S NOTE: A bulletin describing the above "balanced income plan" can be had for the asking from our local Purina dealer.

He was poorly dressed, and his hands showed that his work was hard. He was just a small truck gardener. But to R. V. Trosper, farm agent in Bell county, he said: "So far I've only been able to buy a thousand-dollar bond. You fellows will have to give me time."

About the use of sugar substitutes in Boyd county, Mrs. Lois H. Sharp, the home demonstration agent, wrote: "Reports on strawberries preserved with corn syrup have been favorable from women, but several men have grumbled, especially at inflation meetings where their wives were not present."

Taylor county farmers who treated seed wheat, barley and oats for smut got double yields, in some instances. The county soils and crops committee has interested a merchant in installing a machine where farmers can have seed cleaned and treated.

Thirteen hundred and twenty-seven bushels threshed by G. R. Reed and Frank Browning from 50 acres is thought to be the largest barley crop ever produced on one farm in Adair county. The barley was seeded on korean lespedeza sod prepared by disking.

In a leaflet of selected recipes, the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics gives suggestions for canning, drying, pickling and preserving peaches, and for the preparation of a variety of dishes using fresh, canned or dried peach.

Fayette county 4-H club boys are sharing gardens with Lexington boys. Two boys tend a garden together and share the proceeds. In this way vegetables are grown for both country and town families, and the boys get valuable experience growing a garden.

Operators of cream-buying stations in Jackson county report 40 percent more business than a year ago. Farmers are milking more cows and giving better care of their herds, according to County Agent W. R. Reynolds.

MONTH'S WORK NEEDED TO MAKE TRACTOR PAY

At least 30 days of tractor work a year are needed to make a tractor pay, the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics found in a study of farm power costs. In a survey of the operation of 72 two-plow tractors, the lowest daily expense was found when the outfit was used from 83 to 109 days in a year.

When a two-plow tractor was used two to 28 days, the average daily expense was $9.10. When used 29 to 55 days, the expense was $5.52 a day; 56 to 82 days $4.77 and 83 to 109 days, $3.65. Items of expense include depreciation, fuel, interest and taxes, repairs, grease and housing.

MASS MEETING WELL ATTENDED

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION OF KENTUCKY CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP COUNCIL SET UP—NORRIS NAMED CHAIRMAN.

The mass meeting held at the New Haven High School auditorium Sunday afternoon was well attended by preachers and laymen from at least ten churches in the County. Moral issues of the day were faced honestly.

Those in attendance gave the visiting speaker an enthusiastic hearing and pledged themselves to oppose the moral evils that threaten our national life today.

A temporary organization of the Kentucky Christian Citizenship Council was set up, with D. H. Norris as temporary chairman.

Plans were made by the Boone County Ministerial Association to contact Hon. Henry M. Johnson, Louisville attorney, inviting him to speak to interested preachers and laymen in August.

The splendid manner in which people of all denominations cooperated in this meeting was praiseworthy. Boone County is to be commended for this fine spirit.

Automobile Operators Must Purchase Federal Stamp Before Aug 1

Most automobile operators have purchased their auto use tax stamp, it was announced by the Collector of Internal Revenue this week. However, there are some who have failed to do so. Persons who have failed to purchase their stamp can obtain same at their local post office until August 1st, but after that time will be required to purchase stamps from the Collector's office.

Any person operating a motor vehicle on the highway without the use stamp affixed thereto is subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars and thirty days in prison.

It is the intention of the Internal Revenue Service to vigorously pursue to a conclusion any violation.

Boone County 4-H project visits started with Hamilton 4-H Silver Leaders' Club on Monday of this week. Project work of this club was extra good, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent, and Mary Scott Moore, Acting Home Demonstration Agent. Twenty-five members were visited during the day and both project and project record books were in good shape.

Boone County 4-H Clubs are holding project visits this year instead of tours because of the transportation problems. One big county-wide picnic will be held this year in connection with the county 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair at the Fair Grounds near Burlington Saturday, August 22nd. Three hundred and ninety-three members will be visited by officers leaders and agents in the community club project visit field days previous to the fair.

Three Aurora Youths Detained On Theft, Destruction Charges

Three youths, all giving Aurora, Ind., adresses, were arrested and brought to Burlington, Monday, on charges of stealing and destroying watermelons on the farm of J. H. Huey, near Petersburg.

The boys gave their names as William Brooks, Alfred Taylor and Earl Baker. Two of the boys were identified by Mr. Huey as being part of the group that raided his watermelon patch last year and were warned at that time that they would be prosecuted if caught the second time.

They stated that they camped near the Huey farm Sunday night, and were brought to Burlington by Mr. Huey on Monday. Mr. Huey stated before Acting Judge C. L. Cropper, that they had cut and destroyed a large part of his 1942 crop which would have been ready for market in about three weeks.

All three boys were placed in Burlington jail Monday night to await a hearing set for August 6th. Late Tuesday afternoon, only one youth had been released on bond.

Three Boone Countians Enlist In U. S. Navy

During the last two weeks three Boone Countians have enlisted in the U. S. Navy and Naval Reserve through the Covington office. They are Richard Earl Smith, Walton; Charles William Frederick and Clarence Thomas Napier, both of Florence.

REGISTRANTS FREE TO ENLIST

IN NAVY UP TO TIME THEY ARE INDUCTED INTO THE ARMY—LOCAL BOARDS GET CREDIT FOR ALL ENLISTED MEN.

Recent flood of inquiries at the Covington substation and the main station at Cincinnati as to the right of a selectee to enlist in the U. S. Navy even though he has received notice to report for induction into the Army, yesterday prompted Lieutenant L. E. Oehring, Officer in Charge of the Cincinnati Recruiting District, to issue the following statement.

"Men registered under selective service are free to enlist voluntarily in the Navy up to the time they are inducted into the Army. It is understood that registrants now are inducted into the Army immediately after examination by the Army Medical Examining Board.

Classification as 1-A; preliminary examination by the local board physician, and notice to report for induction are not to be construed as examination by the Army Medical Board and therefore do not constitute a bar to voluntary enlistment in the Navy."

Lieutenant Oehring said that due to an apparent misunderstanding either on the part of selectees or local board members, numerous recent applicants seeking enlistment in the Navy at Cincinnati and sub-stations have been under the impression that it is necessary first to obtain a release from their local draft board.

"No such release is necessary," Lieut. Oehring declared. "Evidence that the registrant actually is enlisted in the land or naval forces of the United States is all that is required. Such notice or evidence is forwarded to each particular draft board immediately upon enlistment of a registrant in the Navy.

"Local draft boards," Lieutenant Oehring concluded, "receive credit for each Navy enlistment in the same manner that would have been the case had the registrant been inducted into the Army."

Sheep Dipping Program Completed

The sheep dipping program started several weeks ago is being completed this week, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. More than 4,000 head were dipped.

The dipping service was supplied by the Carroll County Sheep Protective Association and Farm Bureau. If farmers another year consider this service important enough, an attempt will be made to organize a Boone County Service. This matter will be discussed with Boone County Sheep Protective Association members at their annual meeting Saturday, September 5th.

FOUR-H COUNCIL RUSH PROGRAM

OF FAIR GROUNDS CONSTRUCTION FOR COUNTY PICNIC AND FAIR SET SATURDAY, AUGUST 22ND.

The 4-H and Utopia Club Council will push vigorously the Fair Grounds construction program so that the grounds will be ready for the County Picnic and Fair on Saturday, August 22nd. It is hoped to have the metal on the newly cut grades of the road, a spillway over the dam and a minimum of necessary buildings completed by that date.

The financial problems has been one of the most difficult for the Council. Because of the difficulty in borrowing funds to complete the necessary minmium equipment, all additional contributions will be greatly appreciated.

The future long-time plans for the grounds are an outstanding recreational and educational site that will best serve the needs of all the people of the county. Home garden and canning exhibits will be special features of the exhibit program this year.

Misses Mary Phillips and Glenrose Williams left Tuesday night for Washington, D. C., to visit friends there. Both are enjoying a few days' vacation.

"It is strictly against the law to sell squirrels at any time," the statement added.

COPPINS HAS UNIQUE WINDOW DISPLAY

One of the most interesting and unique wartime window displays, is now being featured at Coppin's, Seventh and Madison, Covington. It is truly a war window showing dive bombers, parachutists, bombers, fighter and pursuit planes, raiding parties and all that goes with modern warfare. The flash of light from an exploding bomb is seen from quite a distance. It is well worth a person's time to see this outstanding window display.

FLORENCE MAN MAY BE ALIVE

IS BELIEF OF MRS. BERTHA BAUERS, MOTHER OF LT. CORNELIUS REAGAN, REPORTED "KILLED IN ACTION."

A strong hope lives in his mother's heart even though Lieut. Cornelius "Connie" Reagan, 26, of Florence, was reported by the War Department as "killed in action." His mother, Mrs. Bertha Bauers, Florence, who never completely gave her son up for lost, now is firmly convinced that her son is still living.

Mrs. Bauers recently heard from a wounded soldier who returned from the East Indies. The soldier, Lieut. Eugene Bound, now in O'Reilley Hospital, Springfield, Mo., his home town, wrote her and said that he had received word from the mother of another boy who had been with Reagan that he was convinced that the Florence aviator was still alive.

On scouting duty over the East Indies, Lieut. Reagan's plane was hit by anti-aircraft shells and caught fire. Reagan was trying to make a forced landing and his superior officer commanded him to "bail out."

Dropping in a parachute over a jungle, his companions in other planes were unable to rescue him. Lieut. McWhirter, who was in the closest plane, thinks that Lieut. Reagan is still alive and has been picked up by natives in the jungle or is a prisoner of war.

Lieut. Bound, who related all this to Mrs. Bauers, said that he had a similar experience a short time earlier and had fallen into the hands of friendly natives on the Isle of Bali.

The Florence youth's first plane was destroyed on the ground by Japanese aircraft. He later acted as co-pilot from Bali to Java. Shortly after this was when he was shot down.

After graduating from Florence High School, Cornelius Reagan went to the University of Kentucky. A pre-law student, he was a junior when he enlisted in the air corps. He was known as an outstanding athlete in the intramurals at the university.

Lieut. Reagan was sworn in as an aviation cadet at Ft. Knox, Ky., in October 1940 and graduated from Kelly Field, Tex., over a year ago. He went to New Zealand last January with a contingent of flyers after graduation.

Memorial services were conducted at the Florence Baptist Church by the Rev. Oscar Huey last May, a short time after he was reported missing.

Private Smith, who came here from the Ft. Thomas reception center, already has completed his basic training which includes marching, target practice, gas mask and bayonet drills, and orientation lectures. At the completion of the Air Mechanics course here, he will be prepared for assignment to active line duty with some fighting unit of the Army Air Forces.

The course begins with instruction in aircraft maintenance fundamentals, and then advances to airplane structures, hydraulic systems, propellers, instruments, engines, fuel and electrical systems and engine operation. Before completing the course, the student is given thorough training in the inspection of single and multi-motored planes.

LIGHT VOTE IS EXPECTED HERE

IN PRIMARY TO BE HELD SATURDAY—POLITICS IN BACKGROUND THIS YEAR DUE TO WAR WORK.

Voters of Boone County have shown little interest in the coming primary election Saturday, August 1st. Politics has been cast aside by our citizens who are devoting their time to war work and increased production on the farm.

When the ballots are counted from the primary Saturday, results probably will show a very light vote.

Those voting the Democratic ticket will find in the race for United States Senator, the names of John Young Brown and Albert B. Chandler, and for Representative in Congress the names of Brent Spence and Jule Appel.

Four candidates will be found on the Republican ballot for United States Senator. They are Charles B. Candler, Richard J. Colbert, G. Tom Hawkins and Hector Johnson.

PETERSBURG BOY PROMOTED

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. White have received word that their son Chas. Allan White has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. He is stationed at Blythe California in the Air Corps.

Fats To Be Bought

The WPB is asking all housewives to save their kitchen fats and greases, because they are urgently needed in the war effort. Our supply of vegetable fats from the Far East has been reduced.

Chain stores and other retailers having meat markets will purchase these fats from the housewife at prices set by the government.

The fat should be saved in a tin can with smooth edge and top. Carefully strained and kept in a cool, dark place. Do not take less than one pound to your meat dealer.

Fats make glycerine and glycerine makes explosives for us and our allies.

We need millions of pounds of glycerine and the housewives of America can help supply it.

BARLEY CUTS CASH OUTLAY FOR FEED

To reduce their cash outlay for feed, farmers in Bourbon county are growing about a half-million dollars worth of barley a year, according to estimates of County Agent P. R. Watlington. This year's 15,000 acres produced about 600,000 bushels of barley, despite losses due to rain. Winter barley now constitutes about three-fourths of the small grain grown in the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Amual Hensley entertained with a chicken dinner Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Spike Pierson and children, Junior and Francis, of Addyston, Ohio.

RUBBER AND THE OIL INDUSTRY

Some extremely false ideas concerning the oil industry and the artificial rubber program seem to be making the rounds. These ideas were forcibly answered in a recent statement by J. A. Brown, president of the Socony-Vacuum Company.

First, the charge that the oil industry has "blocked" the production of butadiene (a basic ingredient in rubber manufacture) from alcohol made from agricultural products, is unfounded. To quote Mr. Brown: "The paramount interest in the oil industry is to have as much rubber as possible available to the public. Most of its profits, and in many instances its very existence, are dependent on a large consumption of gasoline, which, in turn, is conditioned on an adequate supply of rubber. Where that rubber initiates . . . is of little commercial interest generally to the oil industry. A most striking confirmation of this is their great effort, at their own expense and without profit, to gather scrap."

Still another misconception lies in the belief that the government is giving the oil companies tremendous sums of money to build rubber plants for their own profit. To quote Mr. Brown again: "The general policy is for the government to build and own plants and for oil companies to operate them without profit."

In short, the oil industry wants to see rubber produced in the swiftest, most practical way. And the government is trying to decide which way is best.

COAL INSTEAD OF CONTROVERSY

The country has been assured an adequate supply of soft coal—due to the recent action of the Southern bituminous coal operators in voluntarily surrendering their legal rights.

Sometime ago, the operators and the United Mine Workers signed a contract which contained a stipulation agreeing that a fine of $2 per day should be imposed upon any worker who participated in an unauthorized strike. Last November, a large number of Southern coal workers engaged in a "sympathy" walkout during the captive mine controversy. In accordance with the contract, the operators thereupon deducted a total of $325-000 from the miners' pay. The operators later proposed to turn this money over to various charities.

The operator-union contract also contained a clause providing that the miners should be permitted to take a 10-day vacation early in July. The government, because of the pressing need for uniterrupted coal production to serve war industry, asked that the miners take only three days instead. The union heads replied that they would agree to this if, and only if, the operators returned the fines to the men. They would not agree to have the matter arbitrated by an an unprejudiced board.

The operators were confronted with a difficult choice. They could surrender their rights—or they could hold to the contract, at the expense of coal production for war. They didn't hesitate. Without further controversy, they agreed to the union demands. As the Secretary of the Interior said at the time in a letter to the Southern Coal Producers' Association, "Your willingness to yield your position in order that coal may be continuously produced deserves the commendation of all patriotic Americans."

This is the spirit that is necessary to win the war. But the question remains: Will union bosses be allowed to virtualy blackmail an essential industry into submission, irrespective of contract agreements and without arbitration by the proper authorities?

DON'T LET THEM DOWN

Testifying before a House Committee, Lieutenant General Somervell, the Army's chief of supply services, paid a fine tribute to the job the railroads, under private management, have been doing in meeting the incredible transportation demands imposed by the war. In reply to a question, the General said: "We have in our Transportation Division an office which is maintained by the American Railway Association. They staff this entire force, pay for it, and run it. That is in close juxtaposition to our people, just as we are sitting across the table here. We transmit our demands to the railroad man and he issues the necessary orders. During the hectic days of December, when the strain on them was greater than it has been since, they did a magnificent job." He then observed that there has been no congestion of troops and supplies in certain ports, as was the case in World War I.

The standard of railroad performance is continuing at this extrordinarily high level. But it is obvious that there is a definite limit to what the railroads can do with the equipment they now have. Once that equipment is used to the utmost—and it is not far from that point now—additional loads can only be carried if the railroads are permitted priorities with which to purchase new equipment.

That was touched on in testimony given by Brigadier General Gross, chief of the Army's transportation service, before the same House Committee. The performance of the railroads has been so good, he said, that "I think the War Production people are denying them facilities for the manufacture of an increased number of locomotives and cars that they will need in 1942, expecting their increased efficiency alone to fill the gap. But they cannot go on forever without any additions or replacements. Mr. Eastman has made a very fine case for the railroads, but he has been denied. I think there should be some support to Mr. Eastman's contention that they need some additional facilities for the work they will have to do. The load on the railroads has been immensely increased, and it will continue to be . . . We should not let them down by denying them needed equipment."

These Army men know what they are talking about. Railroad transportation is the very backbone of modern war. The railroads must be allowed to obtain equipment they need. They can be trusted to use it with the highest degree of efficiency.

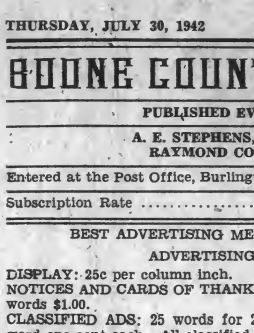
IS YOUR HOME SAFE?

Is your home relatively safe from fire? Or is it alive with hazards?



Think twice before answering these questions. For most homes contain definite and critical fire dangers which their owners never think about. A survey made in Milwaukee testifies to that. A large number of home-owners were asked if their homes were safe and the great bulk of them said, Yes. Then the homes were inspected by experts, and in the great majority, serious, obvious and easily-eliminated hazards were unearthed.

Basements, attics, and closets are prolific with fire hazards. Old clothing, furniture, piles of discarded newspapers and magazines and similar rubbish are responsible for fire damage running into the tens of millions each year. Go through every storage place, clean it out and call the junkman or your favorite charity.

Garages and workshops constiute still another great potential danger. Paint, varnish, solvents, cleaning fluids and other inflammable liquids should be stored in tightly-closed containers—and kept well away from furnaces and heaters. A neat, clean garage is always safer than a dirty, littered garage. Look around yours today.

Many a serious fire has been started from shorts caused by frayed lamp cords—or by electric equipment which has been damaged and improperly repaired by amateurs. Check your exposed wiring—and when anything goes wrong with your gadgets, take them to a qualified repairman. It won't cost you much—and it may save a home and a life.

If all Americans would go thru their homes from roof to cellar looking for fire hazards, we'd substantially reduce this country's disgraceful fire loss.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

ABRAM: A PIONEER IN FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-9; Hebrews 11:8-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Fear not, Abram: I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward.—Genesis 15:1.

Without faith it is impossible to please God (Heb. 11:6). The opposite is also true, namely, that faith always pleases God. As we read the Bible and consider Christian experience, it is evident that God is constantly longing to show Himself strong in behalf of them who believe Him (II Chron. 16:9).

Abraham was not the first man to walk by faith. Before him came such men as Abel, with his acceptable sacrifice; Enoch, with his walk pleasing to God; Noah, who believed and obeyed; and others.

But Abraham was nonetheless a pioneer of faith. He had many other noble characteristics, and was a man of such distinction that his memory is venerated by Jews and Mohammedans as well as Christians. Yet his real claim to an outstanding place in history is that by faith he responded to God's sovereign act in choosing him to begin a new nation, to be His chosen people.

We note two important points about faith:

I. Faith Makes Demands.

In the very nature of things, faith calls for action consistent with belief. "Faith without works is dead" (James 2:20), that is, not a real faith at all. In Abraham's life (and in our life) faith calls for

1. Separation (Gen. 12:1).

"Get thee out" was God's command to Abraham. To accomplish His divine purpose God had to take him out of the heathendom of his fathers, and start anew. It is His command to His followers today, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord" (II Cor. 6:17).

Who will doubt that this is the crying need of the church today, for instead of the church being in the world seeking to win it to Christ, worldliness has come into the church and devitalized its message.

2. Obedience (Gen. 12:4-6; Heb. 11:8, 9).

"Abram departed, as the Lord had spoken" (v. 4). He didn't know where he was going, but he did know who had called him, and he went. Faith knows God, and obeys Him without hesitation and without reservation.

Obedience is a virtue that needs to be revived, in the home, in school, in society, and especially in our relation to God, for there surely should be no disobedient children in the family of God. He merits and expects obedience.

3. Trust (Gen. 12:7-9; Heb. 11: 10).

An assured reliance on the Word of God is a part of faith. God made a promise to Abraham. He accepted it, and worshiped. Here was no questioning, no bargaining, but simple trust in God's word. In fact, there was anticipation of even greater things to come (Heb. 11: 10).

We need men of vision and that means we need men who by faith can see the unseen, who can see "a city which hath foundations" even in the midst of destruction and disorder. "In God We Trust" must be more than a motto on our coins if America is to survive.

II. Faith Brings Results.

The world wants to know if a thing works before accepting and approving it. Well, faith really does work! It brings

1. Blessing (Gen. 12:2, 3).

God is always on the giving hand. "I will bless," was His word to Abraham, not only for Abraham himself and for the great nation of which he was to be the father, but to "all the families of the earth" (v. 3). How gloriously that promise was fulfilled in the coming of Christ our Redeemer, who also was a "son of Abraham" (Matt. 1:1).

2. Protection (Gen. 12:3).

"I will curse him that curseth thee." That promise to Abraham is still binding and valid. God is not through with Israel. The nations and persons who have vented their hatred upon the children of Abraham need to take notice.

We need to be reminded that God's protecting care is just as sure over us who bear His name. We too are "safe in Jehovah's keeping," even in what is perhaps the darkest hour in the history of the world. Faith in God brings to us the protection of His almighty hand.

3. Fulfillment of Promise (Heb. 11:11, 12).

The entire promise to Abraham hinged on the birth of a son, something which was, humanly speaking, beyond all possibility. But because Sara, joining Abraham in believing God, "judged him faithful who had promised," it came to pass.

"With God all things are possible" (Matt. 19:26). He delights in doing the impossible in response to the faith of His children. Apart from that fact we might be fearful, yes despondent, but "with God" we say again, "All things are possible."

OBITUARY

Floyd Edward Louden, son of John Edward and Minnie Pearl Batchelor Louden was born January 28, 1906, departed this life July 18, 1942, at the age of 36 years five months and 20 days. He was united in marriage to Minnie Lee Parr, January 20, 1933.

He leaves to mourn his going his beloved wife and two devoted sisters, Mrs. Estel and Mrs. Norman Sambour, both of Chilo, O.; seven nieces and nephews; his uncle Charles Batchelor of Boone County and four uncles and one aunt of Indiana and a number of other relatives and a host of friends.

He had been with the government dredge boat, C. B. Harris, a number of years, where he was ever faithful to his work.

"Jinks", as he was better known by his many friends and fellow workmen, stood ever ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need.

When his father passed to the great beyond, Floyd took the place of a father to his younger sisters, never failing to provide for them until they were provided for. He always had a smile and pleasant word for everyone he met, and had a great love for children and respect for the aged. It was but to know him to love him.

Sleep on dear Floyd,
We have a vacant chair,
But we know you will be waiting
In the great beyond somewhere.

Long Illness And Your Feet

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

Long illness or long convalescence often may be the cause of painful muscle spasm in the lower limb and foot. In either circumstance long periods of inactivity, lack of exercise, coupled with the weakened condition of the body, cause the muscles to lose tone and become weak and flabby.

The foot, while lying, as in bed, cannot and is not, held in a normal position in relation to the limbs and rest of the body. The foot is held in an extended position, which allows a shortening of the large muscles in the back of the limb, and allows the weaker muscles in the front of the limb to stretch.

When partial strength, to the patient is restored and he finally is allowed to walk, it is imperative that the bones of the foot are properly supported in shoes designed to distribute body weight evenly over the whole bottom surface of the foot, and to relieve further, the strain on the muscles ligaments and tendons, until normal strength and muscle tone return.

An ordinary "strong looking" shoe is not the solution to this problem. Ordinary shoes with so-called arch supports and flat base planes, can only allow the foot condition to degrees further.

At this time special attention should be paid to the inner construction of the shoe. The base construction and inner foundation of the shoe should be shaped to the NORMAL CONTOUR of the bottom of a NORMAL FOOT. The inside of the shoe should resemble the normal foot print in soft turf or sand.

Such a shoe with sound construction and foot shaped base planes is found in an especially built surgical shoe.—Adv.

WESTERN FARMERS TO MEET AT PRINCETON

The annual meeting of Western Kentucky farmers at the Agricultural Experiment Substation at Princeton will be held August 6. Crops of all kinds, peaches on trees, and other fruit, soil and crop experiments, the dairy herd and the poultry flock will be seen and discussed.

A report on the work at the Experiment substation at Princeton has just been issued by Supt. S. J. Lowry and his assistant, L. M. Caldwell. It is called "Grass Farming for Improving Depleted Soil," and it tells how poor land was restored at low cost and in a way that could be followed by most farmers. A farm that was so poor that it would produce scarcely anything now is turning off good crops. Especially notable work has been done in growing grass. Visitors on August 6 will see and hear how the job was done.

All farmers and other persons interested in better farming have been invited to attend.

Help Conserve Precious Tires! Automotive Equipment!

LEARN TO REPLACE "BLOWN" FUSES

Many folks always have replaced their own fuses. Those who haven't can be a big help in saving rubber and automotive equipment by doing it themselves from now on. It's easy ... and not only do you eliminate the wear and tear of extra trips by our service trucks; you also help yourself by restoring service immediately without waiting for the serviceman ... who may be delayed these busy wartime days.

Here's How To Do It!

If Lights Go Out, check with your neighbors to see if their service is also off. If not, look for a blown fuse, as the cause of the trouble is probably in your own home.

Pull Cords From Outlets. If you're not sure what caused the fuse to blow, disconnect all appliance and extension cords.

Turn Off Main Switch. Stand on a dry surface. Set main switch at "OFF" position, so no electricity will flow through fuses. Main switch is usually on fuse box, but may be separate from same.

Remove Blown Fuse. Replace blown fuse with a new fuse of same size ... generally 15 amperes for household circuits.

Turn On Main Switch. If new fuse blows again and you cannot locate the trouble call an electrician or serviceman.

Examine All Cords. Before reconnecting appliance or extension cords, look for breaks in insulation or loose connections that may have caused "short" and blown fuse. Repair or replace same to prevent a repetition of the trouble.

Never Use Substitutes. Never replace a blown fuse with a penny or with a fuse of too high an amperage. It's dangerous. Always keep a few extra fuses of right size on hand.

HOW TO TELL A "BLOWN" FUSE

Notice metal link under window of fuse. It is designed to carry a measured amount of current. When a circuit is overloaded or "shorted," the link melts or "blows out," and the current stops. The melted link and scorched spot under window indicate a blown fuse.

WHY FUSES "BLOW"

Fuse "blow outs" are usually due to wornout, damaged or loosely-connected appliance cords, or to circuits overloaded with too many appliances and lights. Without fuses, your house wiring might be damaged. They are electric "safety valves."

This Week On The Home Front

Plans to correlate price control economics and wartime consumer education with the courses of study in public schools, colleges and universities of Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia, will be set in motion, probably this week, the Office of Price Administration announces. Work in Indiana and Michigan will begin later.

Two educators have been assigned by the OPA Consumer Division in Washington to carry on work in this five-state region. They are Dr. J. E. Greene, formerly of the University of Georgia's department of education, and Dr. Ed McCuistion, formerly of the Arkansas department of education.

"The purpose of this plan to take the OPA program into the schools is three-fold," Helen Gregory, regional Consumer Division representative said. "First, it is intended to step up school interest in the national war economic policy; second, to develop teaching technique in this field by the pooling of information in Washington; and third, to ascertain needed materials for the schools.

"Price control is a governmental policy developed from sound economic principles, which must be popularly understood, if it is to be most effective. At the same time, war scarcities call for education in the arts of substitution, conservation and discriminate buying which are the people's contributions to the success of our overall war effort. The Consumer Division believes that students in the public schools and universities should be introduced to all the economic implications of total war through a program such as this."

There probably aren't many people in the United States, who still are naive enough to think that this is going to be a war easily won—a war won without great sacrifice at home and on the field of battle.

Last week brought news from the armed forces, from the field of transportation and from the vital fields of materials and supply which serve to underline the grim, hard task before us all.

Total casualties of the armed forces were announced as 44,143 soldiers, sailors, marines, coast guardsmen, and members of the Philippine Scouts killed, wounded, or missing—and their sacrifice emphasizes the pettiness of those who complain of restrictions on our normal lives at home.

Here, at home, our one concern must be to see that every bit of material we can spare goes to make weapons for our troops and that there are trains and trucks and ships enough to take these weapons where they are needed. Some 750,000 freight car loads of scrap are needed to keep the steel furnaces going this year.

The OPA has urged the livestock and meat industry to co-operate in a program designed to supply all parts of the country with meats in their usual proportions of the available supply, rather than favoring cities with high price ceilings. However, a seasonal meat shortage is with us and won't be relieved for another four to six weeks.

Slogans originated by Ohio workers: "Save on scrap and get your Jap," "A plane every eight minutes in 1942."

The WPB has approved the principle of concentration of industry as a means of alleviating the strain placed on the civilian economy by the war effort. It is hoped to keep small plants in civilian production because large plants are better equipped for war work. An attempt will be made to keep civilian production in areas where there is no war shortage.

* * *

Laundries must continue to offer the same low-priced services they offered in March, the OPA says, warning that to offer only the higher-priced services is to violate the rules.

* * *

Any landlord in a defense rental area, where registration has closed is in violation of the law if he has not registered.

* * *

What's an A-9 priority rating to a cow? The Hillwood Manufacuring Co. in Cleveland, O., was unable to deliver tacks for cheese boxes on an A-9 order, and was stumped by the farmer's inquiry: "My cows don't wait! What am I going to do?"

* * *

Some 20,000 tons of buried stoves, refrigerators and ice boxes have been dug up at Mansfield, O., to aid the war effort. They had been discarded and their enamel had preserved the metal.

More stringent specifications for the use of rubber in civilian products have been issued. Milking ing machine equipment is affected. About 400 tons of crude rubber will be saved monthly.

* * *

OPA reorganization of the local War Price and Rationing Board machinery in Kentucky has been completed. It is expected that they will play a major role in OPA work.

* * *

Hand shovels will be simplified and standardized to save metal and labor.

An OPA chart covering 33 months shows that the price increase in 92 metals and metal products was held to 12 percent. Farm products, 4 percent of which were controlled rose 72 percent.

* * *

All used silk hosiery in the hands of dealers, with minor exceptions, is frozen by WPB order. The silk will be reclaimed and used for war purposes.

* * *

The salvage campaign which is being carried on in the kitchens of most communities in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, is expected to yield 49,543,549 pounds of fats and greases in a year.

* * *

With more cheese available than ever before, government food supply experts are advising Americans to eat more cheese. Cheese is a concentration of all the food values that make milk a "must" in any diet.

* * *

Only trucks engaged in services essential to the war effort or public health and safety will be entitled to recapped or new tires, new OPA rules state. The effective date was July 28.

* * *

The loan fund of $5,000,000 voted by Congress to help college students speed up their training for technical and professional jobs will be available very soon. Interest rate will be 2½ percent.

* * *

The American housewife has been promised by OPA that the $500,000,000 she will spend for soap this year will buy at least as much and that quality will not be debased.

A Week of The War

President Roosevelt told his press conference he is considering asking Congress for more effective controls to keep down the cost of living, including wage control. The national situation as regards the cost of living must be kept in line, he said. The one criterion that must be kept in mind is what it costs the average family to live.

The War Labor Board announced a formula for a national wage stabilization policy designed to maintain workers' purchasing power at January 1941 levels. The Board said "as a general rule workers are entitled to 15 percent more wages than they had on January 1, 1941, to meet the increases in living costs from that date to May 1, 1942. Workers who have received an increase of 15 percent or more during that period will not be entitled to raises except in cases where their rates still are substandard and a raise is necessary to wipe out inequalities."

The WLB ordered an increase of 44 cents a day, retroactive to last February, for 157,000 "Little Steel" workers. The union had asked $1 a day increases. The Board ruling also provided maintenance of union membership and a checkoff of union dues. President Roosevelt, referring to the Board's "Little Steel" ruling, said the entire national problem of wages is relative. In production of an article like steel an increase of 5 percent in the wages would not force up the cost of living nearly as much as a comparable increase, for instance, in a canning factory that produces food, he said.

Labor Supply

War Manpower Chairman McNutt reported approximately 12,500,000 persons were working in direct war employment on July 1, compared with 9,000,000 on April 1. He estimated 5,000,000 more will be added to the industry forces during the last six months of this year. Federal Works Administrator Fleming said total U. S. employment increased between May and June by 1,700,000 persons to 53,300,000.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing the Census Bureau to issue birth certificates based on its vital statistics to persons unable to obtain them through normal channels. The 54,000,000 persons in the country whose births are not recorded could obtain a certificate upon making a sworn application to a Postmaster (or his subordinate) which would be forwarded to the Bureau to be checked. After verification of the application a birth certificate would be issued so the persons could work in war production plants and receive old age pension benefits.

Rationing

The OPA announced that East Coast motorists in localities served by subways, elevated or suburban railroads would be denied supplementary gasoline rations unless they can establish that such transportation facilities are inadequate for their needs. The new regulations would apply to all motorists, including those who help form car-sharing clubs. WPB Chairman Nelson said after July 22, when the new rationing system goes into effect in the East, gasoline deliveries to station in the area will be based upon coupons taken in by each station. The WPB announced establishment of a "buffer zone" in 162 counties adjacent to the western boundaries of the East Coast ration area, in which deliveries of gasoline to filling stations will be cut by 25 percent beginning July 22.

The WPB reported 2,736 trucks, truck trailers and miscellaneous vehicles were released to civilians and to holders of Government exemption permits during the week ended July 11. Since March 9, when the rationing program became effective, almost 52,000 vehicles in all categories have been released to these two groups. The OPA authorized local War Price and Rationing Boards to permit use of any reasonable amount of sugar for home canning, providing four quarts of fruit will be canned with each pound of sugar.

The War Front

A communique from Cairo, Egypt reported Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, formerly Commander of the U. S. Army Air Forces in India, is now Commander of U. S. Air Fores in the Middle East. Gen Brereton said American heavy bombers carried out 21 tactical missions in 36 days with the loss of only three U. S. planes. The Navy announced 13 Japanese ships have been sunk or damaged since June 3 in Aleutian waters, and at least seven enemy aircraft have been destroyed. The Navy said U. S. casualties in that theater to date are approximately 44 military and naval personnel killed, 49 wounded and one civilian employee killed.

The Navy reported damage inflicted on the enemy during the Battle of Midway June 3 to June 6 included: approximately 4,800 Japanese killed or drowned as compared to U. S. losses of 92 officers and 215 enlisted men; 20 enemy ships of all classifications sunk or damaged; and an estimated 275 Japanese aircraft destroyed. The U. S. carrier Yorktown was put out of action and the destroyed Hammann was tropedoed and sunk. Caribbean Defense Commander Andrews said "measures for action against enemy submarines in this area apparently are proving very effective" and anti-aircraft warning systems are greatly improved in the Panama Canal Zone. The Navy announced the sinking of 20 more United Nations' merchant vessels by enemy submarines.

Foreign Relations

President Roosevelt formerly proclaimed a state of war with Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria, making nationals of those countries residing in the U. S. subject to regulations governing other enemy aliens. The President announced Lend-Lease war aid extended by the U. S. from March 11, 1941—when the program began—to June 30, 1942, amounted to $5,205 million of which the June total was $708 million, highest monthly total in the 16 months of the program. The State Department said the U. S. has signed mutual aid agreements with Czechoslovakia and Norway, bringing to nine the number of such agreements. The Department also announced the Vichy French Government has turned down two offers by President Roosevelt to provide a safe haven for the French naval units now at Alexandria, Egypt.

Army and Selective Service

The Army Air Forces present accident rate is 68 percent lower than in 1930 and 10 percent lower than the average rate for the 10 years between 1930 and 1940. War Secretary Stimson said. Mr. Stimson said every U. S soldier going into a theater of operations will receive a package of five grams of Crystalline Sulfanilamide for wounds in addition to 12 Sulvanilamide tablets for internal use. Army Air Forces Commander Arnold announced formation of the Troop Carrier Command charged with transporting by air the fighting men and their weapons and supplies in theaters of operation. SS Headquarters authorized local boards to defer married men until all available single men, including those in war jobs, have been called and to call men with children last. President Roosevelt said it is unlikely a decision will be made any time soon on the drafting of 18 and 19 year old youth for military service. SS Director Hershey said local boards may fill up to 10 percent of their quotas from men deferred because of illiteracy but who are otherwise fit for military service.

Navy and Shipping

Three new destroyers were launched at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., Kearney, N. J. Navy Secretary Knox said an increasing number of small boats, mainly fishing vessels, are being taken over by the Navy, and crews are being trained as fast as possible to augment East Coast anti-submarine patrol. Maritime Commission Vice Chairman Vickery said American merchant shipbuilding capacity is now ample to meet the two-year goal of 23,000,000 deadweight tons approximately 2,300 ships—set by President Roosevelt early this year. He said July shipbuilding figures indicate the Nation is 2,000,000 tons ahead of schedule for 1942. Because of the "tight situation" in steel, however, the Maritime Commission said further plant expansion programs must be curtailed. For this reason the Commission canceled its contracts with the Higgins Corporation of New Orleans calling for 200 Liberty ships.

Gayety Theater News

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Director Rouben Mamoulian and star Gene Tierney make their first excursion into modern comedy in 20th Century-Fox's "Rings On Her Fingers," the romantic film which will be shown at the Gayety tonight and Friday.

Though both Gene and the director have been outstanding in many pictures, "Rings On Her Fingers" is their best to date.

Co-starred with Gene is Henry Fonda, and the supporting cast includes Laird Cregar, John Shepperd, Henry Stephenson and Spring Byington.

SATURDAY

Helene Fortescue, Reynolds, New York and Washington socialite, is playing her first major role in the new 20th Century-Fox mystery-comedy, "Blue, White and Perfect."

After making hed debut in "Confirm or Deny," the exotic actress was signed to a long term contract by 20th Century-Fox. In her current picture, she is featured with Mary Beth Hughes opposite Lloyd Nolan, who essays the starring role of famed private detective Michael Shayne.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

These emergency times have created many a paradox, but none more amusing than the necessity to substitute the genuine for the superior article in the case of many a humble movie prop. This is particularly true of the rubber fish. Rubber fish are highly desirable in making pictures. Real fish will under the lights, quickly deteriorate and offend the olfactory nerve. But the monterey fishing and cannery scenes for "Tortilla Flat" were minutely authentic. The rubber fish previously used, having assumed a value above their film job, were gathered up for more important purposes, and replaced by the real thing.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY
(Double Feature)

Health foods are nothing to be laughed at for millions of folk in real life, but they provide hilarious comedy on the screen when Ann Rutherford substitutes them for the regular diet of Robert Sterling, playing her husband in "This Time for Keeps," romantic comedy of youthful married life.

Incidently, Miss Rutherford had to learn to prepare a health food menu for the scene and later adopted several of the recipes for her personal use.

Plus

An uncanny tale of a killer who lurks within the walls of a prison and strikes down his victims just before they are about to die in the electric chair, is the engrossing story of Warner Bros. new film, "Murder in The Big House." In the starring roles are Faye Emerson, Van Johnson and George Meeker.

STILL TIME TO GROW SEVERAL FEED CROPS

Sudan grass and millet are emergency feed crops that still may be grown in flooded areas, says a statement from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. It is probably too late in most of Kentucky to grow soybeans and cowpeas.

On farms where there is likely to be a shortage of hay, it is recommended that rye or barley be seeded in late August or early September. This will provide fall and early winter pasture. Balbo rye is considered especially good, and on good land barley gives much feed. In areas where wheat is not extensively grown, wheat may be substituted for either rye or barley.

It is considered good practice, when seeding these crops, to sow a legume with them, such as crimson clover or vetch. In some instances 150 to 200 pounds of superphosphate should be applied to the acre.

The Gallatin County Livestock Cooperative Association built pens and installed scales for the county lamb pool.

MANY SOUGHT FOR FEDERAL WAR WORK

For the third time this year the United States Civil Service Commission is holding an examination to recruit college seniors and graduates for Federal war work. This examination is for the benefit of college students who will complete their courses in the summer session. Applicants are particularly desired in the fields of public administration, business administration, library science, economics, statistics, and mathematics thru calculus. Graduates and senior students who will finish their college course by September 30 may apply. Applications must be filed by August 27 with the Commission's Washington, D. C., office.

Nursing education consultants are needed to cooperate with national agencies on nursing education problems in administrating funds appropriated for training nurses in national defense, and to give consultation service to schools of nursing. Positions are in the Public Health Service and pay from $2,600 to $4,600 a year. Registered nurses who have completed a course in a recognized college with a full program in advanced nursing education of at least a year, and also graduated from an accredited school of nursing with a daily average of 100 or more patients, may apply if they had appropriate experience.

Additional medical technicians are being sought. Salaries range from $1,440 a year for junior laboratory helper, to $2,000 for senior medical technician. Under the new requirements, graduation from high school is no longer necessary. Completion of an approved course for clinical laboratory technicians may be substituted for 2 years of the required experience for all positions. A clinical laboratory internship of 12 months in a recognized college; graduates or senior students may apply. No experience is necessary.

There are no age limits for any of these positions. For Nursing Education Consultant, Medical Technician and Geologist, there will be no written test; applicants will be rated on their experience and training. Applications must be filed with the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., and except for Junior Professional Assistant, will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met.

Full information as to requirements, and application forms, may be obtained from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at First and second-lass post offices, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

WOODMEN ELIGIBLE FOR HOSPITALIZATION

Omaha, Neb., July 27—Thousands of members of Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, with headquarters here, are now eligible for hospitalization insurance in conjunction with their camp membership. De Emmett Bradshaw, president of the Society, announced the plan in the August issue of Woodmen of the World magazine.

Stating that one out of every eleven persons is hospitalized each year, Mr. Bradshaw declared the hospitalization protection would be a great boon to Woodmen in all walks of life.

Present members of the Woodmen of the World, as well as new applicants, may apply for the hospital expense benefits if they are in good health and between the ages of 16 and 60.

Hospitalization insurance is the fourth major extra benefit offered to members of the Woodmen of the World. Others are (1) free service in the Woodmen War Memorial Hospital in case a member becomes afflicted with tuberculosis; (2) double indemnity and waiver of payment clauses as optional riders on virtually all certificates and (3) the social, fraternal and educational advantages of membership in the local Woodmen camp.

The Woodmen of the World is the strongest fraternal life insurance organization in the nation, with assets of $132,000,000 in more than half a century of unbroken service. It has paid to members and beneficiaries an amount in cess of $340,000,000.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE AIRLINES

A good many people seem to have gained the impression that the government has taken over the commercial airlines—and that you can't travel by air unless you are armed with a Federally-issued priority certificate.

Fortunately, for the welfare of the country, there is no truth in that. The fact is that the airlines are still under private ownership and private operation. They have turned over a considerable number of their transports to the military services—but they are still operating 165 airplanes in scheduled service.

If you wish to travel by air you can still do so, precisely as you can send your letters and your express by air. It is obvious that not every plane can be filled to the limit with blueprints, war cargo or bigshot officials. The planes run on strict schedules, and anyone is perfectly free to make reservations. There may, of course, be instances when all the seats are taken. But that has happened in the past, and the situation is not greatly different now. While some lesser routes have been abandoned for the duration, the transports are still flying their principal routes and will continue to fly.

The fact that transport service is still available to civilians is a tribute to the airlines' efficiency. In a recent 7-day period, for example, it was anticipated that 70 planes would have to perform work for the Army exclusively. In actuality, only 29 planes were so engaged—because those 29 planes were operated with so little delay and waste that they did the entire scheduled job.

Naturally, war needs come first with the airlines, as with all other businesses. But the rumors that the airlines are now a government operation, and can no longer serve civilians, are completely unfounded. America's fine system of private commercial air transport is not hamstrung and is serving the nation as never before.

LAMBS NOT AFFECTED BY PRICE CEILINGS

Prices of both live lambs and of lamb meat whether sold at wholesale or at retail were specifically exempt from ceiling prices by the Price Control Order of April 28, according to a statement issued by the Department of Markets and Rural Finance for the College of Agriculture and Home Economics in Lexington.

Ceiling prices for lambs were not included under the provisions of the order because the prices farmers received for sheep and lambs in March were below the level at which ceiling prices could be established under the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act passed in January. The level below which no ceiling prices for lambs can be set is 110 percent of parity price; the October 1, 1941 price; the December 15, 1941 price; or the 10 year (June, 1919, to June, 1929) average price which ever price is highest.

Any ceilings that may be set on wholesale or retail prices of lamb meat by the Office of Price Administration must be sufficiently high to yield farmers not less than the maximum prices provided by the formula in the Price Control Act, according to the provisions of the Act.

Ceiling prices have been placed on wool and shearing pelts, but the ceilings on these commodities are sufficiently high to exert a favorable effect on lamb prices at the present time.

Many other commodities produced by Kentucky farmers, such as poultry, eggs, butterfat in cream, milk sold for manufacturing into cheese and powdered or condensed milk, have not thus far been placed under price ceilings.

BETTER FEEDING REDUCES TURKEY BREEDING COSTS

Purina Experimental Farm turkey hen No. 520 laid 219 eggs in a 292-day period.

That the efficiency of turkey breeder production can be improved tremendously is shown by the results at the Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Missouri.

According to G. P. Plaisance, manager of the Turkey Department, the turkey breeder flock at the Purina Experimental Farm produces around 60 eggs per hen during the months of March, April, and May, whereas according to available data, the country's average for these same three months, which are the principal months when the average turkeys do their laying, is 45 to 50 eggs.

"The significance of these comparative figures is revealed when one considers that last year approximately more than 32,000,000 turkeys were marketed from about 40,000,000 hatched," Plaisance says. On the basis of the average turkey hen producing 40 to 45 eggs per year during the laying season instead of 60 eggs, it would require approximately 400,000 more hens. In terms of feed this would mean that it would require at least 20,000 more tons of feed—approximately 1000 carloads.

Feeding, management, sanitation, and breeding are responsible for the increased egg production attained at the Purina Experimental Farm from the turkey breeder flock, Plaisance asserts. "Our original breeding flock was selected some years ago from a flock of poults hatched from eggs purchased at random the previous spring. We had no advance information concerning their ability to lay. Proper feeding and management brought out their inherited ability to produce lots of eggs."

EDITOR'S NOTE: The turkey breeder ration fed to the breeder flock at the Purina Experimental Farm is handled locally by our distributor of checkerboard feeds.

SIX INJURED IN CRASH SATURDAY

ON DIXIE HIGHWAY NEAR DEVON—DRIVER FLEES FOLLOWING COLLISION — FOUR CARS INVOLVED.

Six persons suffered injuries in in a crash involving four automobiles on the Dixie Highway near Devon at 3:15 Saturday morning.

The driver of one of the cars, which was towing a fully equipped trailer, unhooked the trailer and fled the scene of the accident. Sergt. Melvin Huff was told that the auto and trailer was proceeding north on the wrong side of the highway when they sideswiped the car driven south by Lee DeBorde 26 of Crab Orchard, Ky., causing it to go into a ditch.

George Bruin, 21 of 113 W. Fifth St., Covington, who was following the DeBorde car was unable to stop. Mr. Bruin drove his car across the road where it overturned. The fourth auto, driven by Robert Huesing of Covington, also proceeding south, struck Mr. Bruin's auto.

Those injured in the car were Mr. DeBorde, who suffered cuts and bruises; his son Donald 9, bruises and shock; Philip Brown, also a passenger in the car, a cut on the cheek; Marvin Baldwin, 19, of 208 Latonia Terrace, cuts and abrasions; Mr. Huesing, a compound fracture of the left arm below the elbow, and Mr. Bruin, internal injuries.

All were removed to Booth Hospital for treatment. Mr. Bruin was the only victim who remained at the hospital for further treatment.

Following the crash, Sergt Huff called employes of all bridges leading from northern Kentucky to Cincinnati. An employe of the Suspension Bridge said an auto answering the description of the one which was towing the trailer crossed the bridge into Cincinnati 15 minutes earlier.

Engelo Russo, suffered minor cuts and abrasions when he was hurled out of the parked auto of Jack Hubbard, Hamilton, O., which was struck by a northbound Greyhound bus on U. S. Highway 25 two miles north of Walton, Sunday night.

Sergt. Melvin Huff, state highway patrol, related that the auto had been stopped for gasoline and that the back of it protruded onto the highway. The bus driver was blinded by the lights of an oncoming auto and failed to see the position in which the Hubbard auto was parked.

Three Colored Men Inducted For Service

Three Boone County colored men were inducted into the U. S. Army Saturday August 1, 1942, according to C. G. Kelly, Clerk of Draft Board 9, Burlington. Those inducted were Arthur Lee Utz, Burlington; Robert Joseph Howlett, and Earl Zinn Sleet, of Walton.

TIME TO PLANT LATE GARDENS

SAYS COUNTY AGENT H. R. FORKNER—GOOD TIME TO CLEAN UP OLD CROPS FOR FALL SEEDINGS.

Many late garden crops have already been planted and many more should be planted during the next few days, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Crops that should be planted now include beans, Siberian Kale, Spinach, Turnip Greens (Seven Top), Table turnips (Purple Top White Globe), Chinese Cabbage, Lettuce, Radishes and Beets. Probably corn, Golden Bantam or Golden Hummer (hybrid corn varieties) will mature before frost. Rhubarb may also be planted.

Now is a good time to clean up those parts of the garden where the old crops are finished, add additional commercial fertilizer, if available, and make seedings of fall crops many of which will supply food in favorable weather throughout most of the late fall, winter and next spring. Kale, turnips, lettuce, spinach, all of which may supply much appreciated green food during this period.

Many of our local gardeners prefer August 1st to 10th as the ideal time to sow turnips in the garden, old tobacco plant beds or other suitable spots.

CHANDLER EASY PRIMARY WINNER

OVER JOHN Y. BROWN—SPENCE PILES UP LARGE MAJORITY OVER JULE APPEL, ERLANGER CANDIDATE.

Boone County joined the majority of Kentucky counties Saturday by giving Senator A. B. Chandler a nice majority over John Y. Brown. The final official count for Boone County was Brown 265 and Chandler 591.

Sen. Chandler, with 4331 of the state's 4373 precincts counted, had 133,706 votes to 52,540 for John Y. Brown, Lexington attorney, and his only opponent.

As the incumbent Senator recorded a nearly 3-to-1 lead in the voting, Mr. Brown said at Lexington that the outcome of the race was "disappointing," but added, "many a hopeless race has been run, to become, through the process of time, the rallying point for progressive and beneficial action."

Kentuckian's who did not expect a large vote in Saturday's primary saw less than 200,000 votes cast in comparison to the state's normal Democratic vote of about 375,000.

Brent Spence rolled up huge majorities through the Fifth Congressional District. Boone County gave Spence better than a 5-to-1 majority, Spence collecting 673, while Appel polled 127.

Completion of the election count established Richard J. Colbert of Lexington as the Republican senatorial nominee to oppose Senator Chandler in the November general election. He polled 20,945 votes to 4768 for G. Tom Hawkins of Paris; 5178 for Hector Johnson of McKee, and 10,472 for Charles B. Candler of Somerset. Boone County's total Republican vote was 42, with Candler receiving 17, Colbert 17, Hawkins 5 and Johnson 3.

Rep. Spence will be opposed in the general election by Lewis R. Kimberly, Ft. Thomas, who received the G. O. P. nomination without opposition.

Judge N. E. Riddell Remains Very Ill At Christ Hospital

Early Wednesday morning the condition of County Judge N. E. Riddell was reported as about the same as Monday and Tuesday, reports which mean that his condition is unimproved and that he is in serious condition at this writing.

He returned to the hospital last Wednesday to recover from a slight cold and other ailments, and on Saturday suffered a relapse, and has been seriously ill ever since.

Although the exact nature of his illness is not known, it is generally believed to be a complication of previous troubles, combined with a slight clot near the brain which to this time has caused no paralysis.

Everyone is invited to attend the grand opening of the new Jobbers Outlet Store at 632 Madison Avenue., Covington, today, (Thursday) August 6.

This location formerly occupied by Woolworth's Ten Cent Store will continue to be the busy spot of Covington, says Mr. Gersham, proprietor of this popular store, and he promises his customers the same low prices, the same friendly service, plus a more convenient place to shop.

Mr. Gershan further says, please don't expect expensive carpets, high grade fixtures, or anything that would have to be added to the cost of merchandise. The policy of The Jobbers Outlet still remains the same as before. He promises you first quality merchandise at lowest possible prices.

In planning The New Jobbers Outlet Store, Mr. Gershan endeavored to give northern Kentuckians a comfortable place to shop, where all merchandise is displayed in self serve styles, where you buy because you want to buy and not because a sales clerk talks you into buying it.

The new flourescent lighting system. will make Gershan's Jobbers Outlet, the brightest spot in Covington.

Small profits and quick turnover is the motto at Covington's fastest growing store.

As usual you may expect Gershan's guaranteed values to give you the most for your money in their new location, 632 Madison Avenue, Covington, on and after this date, Thursday, August 6.

FORTY-SIX MEN CALLED AUG. 29

BY LOCAL DRAFT BOARD 9—WILL INCLUDE 41-1A, 2-1B AND THREE COLORED — CALLS MUST BE FILLED PROMPTLY.

Forty-six men will be called for induction in the U. S. Army by Local Draft Board 9, August 29th in the 29th call, according to C. G. Kelly, Clerk of the Board. This number will include forty-one 1-A men two 1-B and three colored.

The following is a brief article on the amended Selective Service Regulation:

Promulgating amended Selective Service Regulations which permit the deferment of registrants who maintain bona fide family relations in their homes, National Headquarters has emphasized in a Memorandum to State Directors that nothing in connection with this new policy for classification shall be permitted to delay any local board in filling calls for inductees while it is being put into operation. All calls must be filled promptly.

Supplementing the general policy of selecting single men with dependents for induction before married men, which was announced immeditely following the enactment of the Servicemen's Dependents' Allowance Act of 1942, the amendments to the Regulation further break down Class III-A and Class III-B so that when selecting registrants for induction local boards may give consideration to both their dependency status and activity in war work.

This break-down authorizes local boards to consider registrants for selection as follows: (1) Single men with no dependents; (2) single men who do not contribute to the war effort but who have dependents; (3) single men with dependents and who contribute to the war effort; (4) married men who are not engaged in the war effort but who maintain a bonafide family relationship with a wife only; (5) married men who are engaged in the war effort and who maintain a bona fide family relationship with a wife only; (6) married men who are not engaged in the war effort and who maintain a bona fide family relationship with wife and children or children only; and (7) married men who are engaged in the war effort and who maintain a bona fide family relationship with wife and children or children only.

In all cases the dependency status must have been acquired prior to December 8, 1941, and at a time when selection was not imminent.

Preparing to carry out its stated policy with regard to induction of men, National Headquarters said that all local boards will make every possible effort to insure that the calls made upon them are met on schedule during the period in which the amended dependency policy is being placed in effect. Local boards, are authorized to vary from the general order of selection of registrants with dependents when it is necessary to fill a call, provided the registrants who are selected were classified as available for military service under former regulation.

Dr. J. F. McCormack, well known Verona, Ky., physician, suffered a slight stroke last Tuesday at his home near Verona.

Tuesday afternoon his condition was reported as fair. He is being treated by Dr. Heisel, of Covington at his home, Verona.

This section of Northern Kentucky now faces a serious shortage of doctors, with a steady demand for all the young doctors in our armed forces. The recent death of Dr. Shupert, of Warsaw, now leaves no doctor between Florence and Carrollton on U. S. 42, a distance of some forty-six miles.

Stolen Car Found Near Constance Monday Morning

A stolen automobile belonging to Sol Arnold, 2610 Holstead St., Cincinnati, O., was found in Constance, Monday morning, having been stolen from the Holstead home in Cincinnati early Saturday morning.

Sheriff J. T. Williams ordered the car brought to Earl Aylor's garage, Hebron, until the owner could be reached by the Cincinnati Automobile Club.

The car was found abandoned on the main road, and apparently nothing had been taken from the car proper, and all personal belongings including a raincoat, overalls and several small items were left untouched in the car.

Youth Arrested On Tire Theft Charge

A youth registered as Millard Huff, Newport, was arrested last Friday on charges of stealing an auto tire and tube from the car of Henry Herold, while parked near White Villa Cafe, near Florence.

Huff denied the charges, but was brought to Burlington and placed in jail where he is being held until he can arrange for sufficient bond.

HEMP MEETING SET AUGUST 12

FOR ALL BOONE COUNTY HEMP GROWERS, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 12 AT FARM OF J. C. ACREE EAST BEND BOTTOMS.

A hemp meeting of all Boone County hemp growers will be held at the farm of J. C. Acree in East Bend bottoms on the Rabbit Hash-Big Bone Road on Wednesday, August 12, at 2:00 p. m. (Eastern War Time), according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The purpose of the meeting will be to demonstrate proper methods of cutting out the male plants and to discuss other timely problems in hemp and production. Hemp seed production is a new crop in Boone County.

Fifty-five acres of hemp are being grown in the county this year for seed. This seed will be used in 1943 to produce hemp fiber for rope making and for use in ship building. Kentucky was once a leading hemp producing state but the Manila hemp of the Phillipines gradually crowded out the market for the local crop. Since the temporary loss of the Phillipines, production, Kentucky has again been called upon to expand production. Boone County farmers are cooperating in the effort to produce sufficient seed to plant next year's fiber hemp crop.

THE SECOND FRONT

Both here and in England, millions of people seem to consider themselves completely qualified experts on military tactics and strategy. They know precisely what is wrong with the United Nations' Commands, and they are convinced that they could remedy matters in short order if they were put in charge. That widespread attitude underlies the aggressive demand that the British and the Americans immediately open a second front in Europe.

In theory, the second front would be of immense benefit to the Allied cause. It would divert men and machines and supplies from Hitler's Russian and African offensives. It would give the conquered people of France their opportunity to rise up against their conqueror and help destroy him. It would mark the start of a real effort to break Axis power at home—where Axis power must eventually be broken.

So much for theory. In actual fact, opening the second front now would be one of the most hazardous operations in all military history. According to all reports, the Germans have done wonders in fortifying their continental positions. In France alone, they have about 300,000 seasoned troops which have been rigorously trained in preparation for an Allied invasion. These troops have abundant equipment of the first quality, and they have plenty of air support. Their supply lines are secure, and they lie across land, not across water. The Germans have massed a gigantic amount of heavy artillery, much of it taken from the Maginot Line, along the French Coast, and every possible invasion point is a fortress.

As military history proves again and again, an over-water invasion of enemy-held territory is the most difficult of all martial operations—even after their complete victory at Dunkirk, when British military power was all but destroyed, the Nazi generals didn't feel confident enough of success to make the attempt. The enemy positions must be "softened" first by days and perhaps weeks of artillery fire—and guns do not exist which can adequately shell the German positions from the British side of the Channel. As a substitute for artillery, dive bombers would have to be used—and their losses would be enormous.

The losses in men which would follow when the stage of landing operations was reached, is also staggering. Without artillery support, the landing troops would have to advance against completely shielded defenders with a vast superiority in firepower. Writing in Collier's, Quentin Reynolds, one of the best informed of war correspondents, draws a vivid and probably accurate picture when he says: "Let those who shout loudest for the immediate establishment of a second front in France . . . visualize for a moment the cost in equipment and life. Let them visualize the waters of the Channel running blood red under a white moon, and let them visualize the bodies of thousands of British and American soldiers floating in those waters. If the persuasive eloquence of the second-front brigade is followed, no other result is possible."

This does not mean that a second front is impossible. To the contrary, every really informed military man is convinced that one will be opened in time. But it cannot be opened until everything is ready. That means that, first, there must be many more bombings of Germany and the Continent on the Cologne scale. It means that Allied troops must be given more and better equipment than they now possess. And it means that ways must be found of causing distracting trouble for Germany at home.

Some experts believe that airpower alone may create a second front. They look forward to a time when three, four, five thousand major bombers will be used nightly in raids against the Axis. Major de Seversky is the most eloquent exponent of this dotrine and his recent best seller, "Victory Through Air Power," is a convincing work. The problems involved here are those of production, supply and coordination—and the last two are even more important than the first. We are producing planes on an ever-increasing scale. We have not yet solved the difficulties that lie in taking them, their fuel, their crews and their parts to the battlefronts and keeping them flying.

In any event, many of those who demand a second front at once are terribly uninformed. The High Command has not opened a second front simply because it knows that the time is not yet ripe—and because it also knows that the United Nations must not be subjected to another defeat of the Dunkirk, Singapore, Philippines, and East Indies variety. A great amount of groundwork lies ahead before we can really start a sustained offensive drive of any kind against either Germany or Japan.

RUBBER FROM ALCOHOL

A recent release from the Standard Oil Company of Indiana makes an effective denial of the rumor that the oil industry is seeking to block production of artificial rubber from alcohol made from farm products, in order to create a rubber monopoly for itself.

It is likely, the release points out, that rubber can be made from oil more cheaply than from alcohol. But today rubber is urgently needed no matter what the cost of production. Present indications are that all the rubber to be made from oil will be required for military purposes. Thus, if civilian cars are to be kept running, it will be necessary to produce additional rubber from alcohol.

The very existence of the oil industry depends largely upon automobile transportation. The oil industry is in business to sell oil, not rubber. Its commercial interest in rubber is confined to the fact that cars must be kept rolling if an adequate market for oil is to be maintained. It is only logical for the oil industry, in general, to favor rubber production from any and every practicable source.

MAKE IT A MOTTO

Because the security of this nation probably depends on air supremacy now more than on any other single agency, the government is utilizing every suitable airplane.

As a result, it has taken many of the commercial air-line planes. Contrary to an erroneous report, however, it did not take over the air lines. They still operate with reduced equipment as private enterprises for public service.

Of necessity they must give preference to essential war travelers and cargoes, but private citizens are still accommodated subject to some inevitable priorities in emergencies.

As one air line aptly puts it in advertisement, it seeks to maintain one fundamental of operation at all times—polite and efficient service to all—military and civilians alike.

That would be a good motto for all industries and all government departments to make a first rule of operation, for either is sunk without the other and both depend absolutely on civilian activity for existence.

NO "FINANCIAL BOTTLENECK"

A series of resolutions passed by the Washington Bankers Association at its recent annual meeting is illustrative of the attitude of banking in general.

The Association pointed out that 80 percent of all the war bonds sold in its state had been sold through the banks, and pledged its continued aggressive support to the War Savings program.

It then pledged itself to cooperate completely with the government in extending loans to war industries, in restricting loans for purposes that might compete with the war effort, and in assisting the various regulatory authorities, both state and national, in keeping banking operating with maximum soundness and efficiency.

Pledges such as these are easy to make. In the case of banking, these and similar pledges have been kept to the letter. Banking has taken on a long list of new and difficult tasks created by the war effort. It has had to deal with problems for which there is little precedent, and it has had to blaze new trails. And, as government spokesmen have said, it has been outstandingly successful in meeting all the legitimate and necessary demands made upon it. That's one reason why there has been no "financial bottleneck" in preparing for and fighting this war.

PUT FARM FIRE LOSS AT HUNDRED MILLION

It is estimated that fires on farms in the United States take approximately 3,500 lives each year and destroy about $100,000,000 worth of property.

Eight principal causes of farm fires are: (1) Defective chimneys and flues, (2) sparks on combustible roofs, (3) lightning, (4) spontaneous combustion, (5) careless use of matches, smoking, (6) careless use of gasoline and kerosene, (7) defective and improperly installed stoves and furnaces, (8) faulty wiring and misuse of electric appliances. These cause 85 percent of the total losses from farm fires.

A chimney that becomes too hot to hold one's hand against should be carefully inspected and repaired by a reliable mason.

Properly installed and well-maintained lightning rods on farm buildings are practically 100 percent effective in preventing damage from lightning.

Undercured or damp hay when stored in large piles heats spontaneously. This heating may continue until the ignition temperature is reached and the hay bursts into flame. Even though a fire does not occur, heating destroys much of the feeding value. Alfalfa, clover, and soybean hays are most likely to heat severely.

Even though hay has been well cured before storage, it will heat if it is wet by rain coming from a leaky roof or by floodwaters.

Frequent examinations should be made for several weeks after hay has been stored. "Steaming," strong irritating odors, and wet areas are signs of dangerous heating. When hay is heating excessively, the entire lot should be removed from the barn, but first the heating areas should be thoroughly drench with water. Make provisions for fighting a possible fire, as the hay may burst into flames when exposed to the air. Do not walk directly on the hay, especially at the center of the mow, as the interior may have charred and sunk. Transport the hay to an open space; it may ignite later.

FIRES RATHER THAN BOMBS REQUIRE ATTENTION FIRST

If incendiary bombs should start raining on our cities, the most important thing for everyone to remember is to give first attention to the fires that the bombs start, rather than to the bombs themselves, D. R. Peel, State Fire Marshal of Kentucky, said in an interview.

"The purpose of an incendiary bomb is to start fires" he pointed out. "That's why the magnesium bomb is constructed so that it burns at a very high temperature and also scatters burning particles, each of which is capable of causing a fire. These numerous particles will readily ignite upholstered furniture, rugs and draperies in homes as well as equally flammable articles in our stores and shops. Each of these separate blazes is potentially a serious fire.

"It is these multiple fires which should be given first attention. After they are extinguished it is time enough to go to work on the bomb. Flammable materials, such as wooden floors, near the bomb should be wet down in the process.

"These facts have been mentioned by others but they can not be repeated too often, because in the excitement of a possible raid many of us will be inclined to overlook the fundamental fact that the burning bomb is only one source of destruction while the shower of sparks it sends out may start numerous fires."

ABRAHAM'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:23-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.—James 5:16.

Prayer has been the subject of thousands of books of sermons without end; yet how little it is actually practiced. Conferences are held to discuss it, and they attract large audiences, but at prayer meetings we find only a handful.

We are sure that "prayer changes things," and we agree that it is the most powerful force at man's disposal, but we go right ahead trying to change things in our own strength.

"O what peace we often forfeit,
O what needless pain we bear,
All because we do not carry
Everything to God in prayer!"

Our lesson from the life of Abraham stresses one important phase of prayer—prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It Is a Privilege.

We speak of the burden of prayer, but let us also recall that it is a privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from the Lord. The covenant had been renewed and a son promised (Gen. 18:1-16). Then the Lord, because of His friendship with Abraham, shared with him (v. 17) His purpose of judgment on wicked Sodom and Gomorrah.

How glorious to be on such intimate terms with God—to know Him and to know His plans and purposes. Would you enjoy having such fellowship? You may through Jesus Christ and through the study of God's holy Word.

2. It Is a Duty.

Privilege brings corresponding responsibility. The two men went toward Sodom, but "Abraham stood yet before the Lord" (v. 22), to pray for the wicked cities.

Those who know God's plans are to share them in prayer. Those who have audience with the King of Kings are those to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others as well as for themselves.

Are we praying for our nation, for its President and leaders; for our city, for our church, our families, our children, our friends? The deeper the need, the greater the wickedness, the more we need to pray. If we as Christians do not pray, who will pray?

3. It Is a Reality.

Some modern religious leaders would take all reality out of prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which operates only on the soul of the one who prays, giving him new strength and a sense of well being. Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in true prayer is spiritually beneficial; but prayer is objective, not merely subjective. It deals with nations and cities, men and women, problems and sin and sorrow. It concerns every need of man—physical, mental and spiritual.

II. The Spirit of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish.

Abraham had the assured blessing and promise of God. The cities were wicked and unrepentant. If he had taken the attitude of many church folk, he would have said, "It serves them right. Wipe out their wickedness." But Abraham prayed for them in complete unselfishness. Can those who know the spirit of Christ be selfish in prayer?

2. Bold and Courageous.

Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the cities. God is not displeased to have us press our cause in prayer; in fact, the Bible reveals that He frequently answers according to the earnestness with which men pray. He has always honored and used men of holy courage.

3. Persistent.

No one—not even God—likes a "quitter." Remember those who were heard for their importunity? (Luke 11:8; 18:1-8). Many pray like the little boys on Halloween. They ring the bell and run.

Abraham persisted; fifty, forty-five, forty, thirty, twenty, ten—perhaps he should not have stopped even there. God who saw his persistent faith went the rest of the way and saved the only four who could be saved, and even of those, three were infected with the wickedness of the place.

"Let us not be weary in well doing" as we pray, "for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

III. The Result of Intercessory Prayer.

God had to destroy the cities. There are some kinds of violent infection which must be destroyed by fire for the sake of others. Out of the destruction, however, God did deliver the righteous Lot, which was doubtless Abraham's real desire.

God hears and answers prayers. That is not only the testimony of His Word, but of countless Christian men and women down through the ages even to our day. The one who would deny the efficacy of prayer must face an overwhelming flood of authenticated answers.

Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

The Surgical Shoe, designed after exhaustive studies of the many factors responsible for "foot trouble," achieves a long-sought objective in affording proper support and scientific body weight distribution with the shoe. Built on a last which closely approximates the configuration of the normal foot, it is not a "corrective shoe" in the orthopedic sense of the word.

Its primary purpose is to maintain the foot comfortably in proper position, thus overcoming or avoiding ankle pronation and the accompanying weakness or sagging of the longitudinal arch.

By properly distributing body weight over the foot surface, the unique shoe relieves excessive strain on the first metatarsus and transfers weight bearing to the fourth and fifth metatarsus and to the outer half of the heel.

Thus excessive stress and tension on ligaments and articular surfaces are reduced, leading to relief of pain, fatigue and weakness.—Adv.

TIRE MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY PRESENTS PLAN ON CIVILIAN TIRES

Washington—Based upon the reduction of all automobile driving to a maximum of 40 miles per hour and car mileage to 40 percent below the 1941 level on a national average, a plan to cope with the civilian tire problem was presented to officials of the government by the tire manufacturing industry here today.

If the materials that would be required can be made available without handicapping the war program, the plan would keep all mechanically usable passenger cars operating for the next two years.

The blueprint was outlined in a report of the Committee of the directors of the Rubber Manufacturers Association for passenger car transportation, and was presented visually in a display at the Hotel Willard of materials and data involved in the plan.

The display, based on the facts that 89 percent of the world's crude rubber sources are lost to the United Nations, and 7 percent more threatened by the Japanese, was set up to show what could be done to make the best of an admittedly bad situation, it was explained.

"This is a blueprint only," a spokesman for the committee said. "It must be understood that only those agencies officially concerned with supplying military needs, the details of which are known only to the government, are in a position to judge whether the materials called for in this plan can be made available."

Invitations to view the exhibit today had been extended to President Roosevelt, Vice-President Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, and other members of the Cabinet, members of Congress, WPB Director Donald Nelson, OPA Administrator Leon Henderson, Rubber Administrator Arthur Newhall, and other prominent government officials.

Efforts of the government and the public have thus far resulted in an estimated reduction of 25 percent in the use of passenger cars, it was stated. However, in order to maintain necessary transportation a further reduction of 15 percent, to a total of at least 40 percent, would be necessary.

The industry's proposal is a picture of what might be accomplished if minimum requirements of reclaimed rubber and other substitutes for rubber not major factors in the supply picture for military and vital civilian needs, can be made available.

Industry leaders stressed the fact that the plan would leave for military and non-tire civilian requirements nearly all of the nation's crude rubber supplies, over 85 percent of all reclaim producing capacity, all the Buna S and Neoprene synthetic rubber capacity now scheduled, as well as a portion of the expected thiokol and butyl production.

The present tire rationing procedure would be continued, spokesmen for the industry emphasized. The plan would involve moderate changes, however, in the present Class A and Class B groups, and all other car-owners would be included in a new Class C.

This new class, representing almost 23,000,000 cars, would be able to get new or recapped tires made of reclaimed rubber or of such materials as thiokol or butyl, production of which is being increased it was explained.

As at present, recapping would be compulsory for all applicants regardless of which group they fall in, except where old tires cannot be recapped and where no recapped tires or recappable carcasses are available for purchase. Separate ration quotas should be established monthly for classes A, B and C and certificates issued by the ration boards, the plan recommends.

This plan would require for the two-year period:

(a) 30,291,000 recaps (reclaim, thiokol, or butyl).

(b) 13,233,000 new tires (reclaim, thiokol, or butyl)

(c) 4,660,000 of the standard quality tires that are now frozen under existing tire rationing regulations.

These replacements would take care of the tire needs of the passenger cars that will be in good mechanical condition during the next twenty-four months, it was explained.

The industry committee said it would continue to meet frequently. It will formulate specific recommendations regarding the passenger car transportation problem during and after the period covered by the present plan.

Raw materials needed to carry out the plan for the two-year period would be:

(a) 97,420 long tons of reclaimed rubber

(b) 3,332 long tons of crude rubber

(c) 33,188 tons of thiokol

(d) 32,475 tons of butyl.

Since each recipient of a new tire under the program would be required to turn in a used tire for scrap, a substantial amount of additional scrap would be collected for reclaiming.

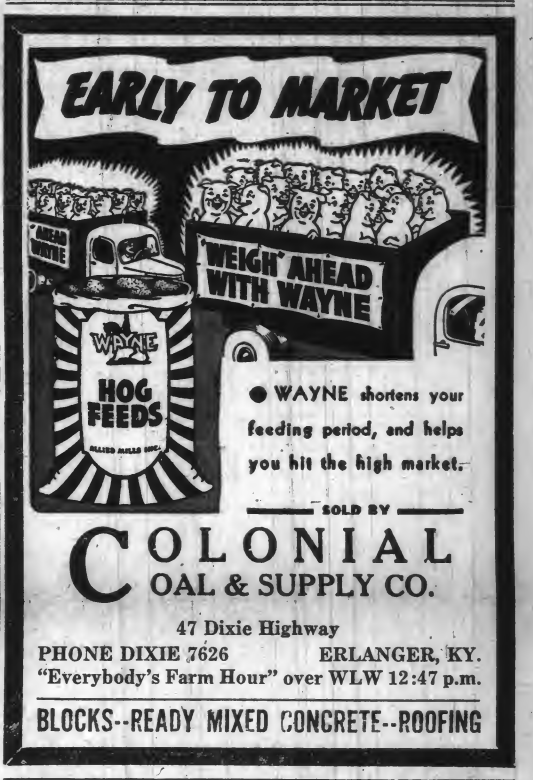
The tonnage requirements for the plan, spokesmen said, were developed on the assumption that 75 percent of anticipated thiokol and butyl production will be made available for passenger tire use. If more than 75 percent is released, or if expansion of projected capacities occurs, thiokol can be substituted for the stated requirements of reclaimed rubber, on the basis of 100 tons of thiokol for each 80 tons of reclaim. Likewise butyl can be substituted in the ratio of 100 tons of butyl for each 140 tons of reclaim.

The proposed plan for meeting passenger car tire requirements is the result of exhaustive technical research and statistical analysis by the industry's technical men, executives, and statisticians, it was explained. With care operating under the conditions as stated, the estimates are said to be conservative.

The premise on which the industry's plan is based is that all passenger automobiles represent necessary transportation to a greater or less degree, it was emphasized, and that there is no available substitute for much of this transportation if cars are laid up.

"Passenger car mileage can be materially reduced without undue hardship," the committee's report said, "and without throwing additional strain on public transportation. The sound viewpoint is not one of removing cars from the road but rather of keeping cars operating with mileage reduced strictly to essential useage.

"Every car-owning family may unexpectedly face an emergency requiring the use of its car," it was pointed out, "especially in wartime. We believe the American people will cooperate by adopting rock-bottom wartime driving habits so that every family can be assured of this two-year insurance policy against the jacking-up of cars.



"Furthermore, each car owner must realize that non-compliance by his neighbor with the conditions of such a plan make it impossible for himself to get tires. This will help to create a self-enforcing public spirit.

"The industry believes that this blueprint points the way to guaranteeing maintenance of efficient war effort on the home front.

"But it can be put into effect only if the needed materials can be spared without jeopardizing the supply of necessities for the fighting forces.

"It can succeed only if the public wholeheartedly observes three 'musts.' They are slower speeds, reduced total mileage, and maximum care of tires in service," the committee reports concluded.

JUNK needed for War

In the barnyards and gullies of farms and in the basements and attics of homes is a lot of Junk which is doing no good where it is, but which is needed at once to help smash the Japs and Nazis.

Scrap iron and steel, for example.

Even in peacetime, scrap provided about 50% of the raw material for steel. It may be rusty, old "scrap" to you, but it is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed, and can be quickly melted with new metal in the form of pig iron to produce highest quality steel for our war machines.

The production of steel has gone up, up, UP, until today America is turning out as much steel as all the rest of the world combined. But unless at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap steel is uncovered promptly, the full rate of production cannot be attained or increased; the necessary tanks, guns and ships cannot be produced.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber. Also for other waste materials and metals like brass, copper, zinc, lead and tin.

The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Will you help?

First—collect all of your waste material and pile it up.

Then—sell it to a Junk dealer, give it to a charity, take it yourself to the nearest collection point, or get in touch with your Local Salvage Committee.

If you live on a farm, consult your County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

Preston Foster is going to do his sailing on dry land from now on. That's because of the war, which forced him to relinquish his fast cabin cruiser, Zoa III, to the Navy.

Foster has some consolation though, he explained on the set of 20th Century-Fox's "Secret Agent of Japan." Recently the studio built a replica of the Zoa III for a picture.

Foster has purchased the replica from the studio which he is installing on a hilltop near his ranch. He feels that he can recapture some of the felling of the sea there.

Stuart Crawford's monogram led to the capture of two bandits.

While Crawford was working in "Ship Ahoy," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, two thieves invaded Crawford's home. They made off with a radio, gold cigarette case, cuff links, wrist watch, evening studs, and the white flannel suit he wore in the finale of the musical. They failed to notice that the actor's initials were inconspicuously engraved or embroided on each article.

As a result, police captured the thieves and Crawford regained his belongings.

NEW HIGH IN NAVY ENLISTMENTS FOR JULY

A new high for Navy enlistments in one month was set by the Cincinnati Recruiting District during July when 1,275 men enlisted in the U. S. Navy and Naval Reserve.

Lieutenant L. E. Oehring, officer in charge, said that this total not only surpassed the district's July quota of 1,200, but also topped the previous record of 1,173 men enlisted last January—the month following the Japs' sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

A large number of these recruits were enlisted at sub-stations in Chillicothe, Portsmouth, Columbus; Dayton, Springfield, Athens, Hamilton, Middletown, and Covington, Ky.

Lieutenant Oehring attributed a large portion of the credit for the increased enlistments to the past and present efforts of Navy recruiters at these sub-stations and those at the main office. Our recruiters, he declared, have made known the many advantages offered by the Navy and there is a growing desire on the part of everyone to volunteer and get into the fight to serve his country.

"These volunteers," Lieutenant Oehring said, "know they will get action in the Navy. They know, too, that they are entering a service that will make them an expert at a skilled trade; fit them to do a better fighting job now, and fit them for a better peacetime job later on."

Lieutenant Oehring also credited the current publicity explaining that men are free to enlist in the Navy up to the time they actually are inducted into the Army as accelerating Navy enlistments.

Another factor that has caused Navy enlistments to swing upward, he said, are the opportunities offered men enlisting in the construction battalions, known as the "Seabees." This branch, open to men between the ages of 17 and 50, gives tradesmen in nearly all lines a chance to serve while working at their own trade or skill. Wages are well above the minimum.

YOUR ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

is working harder than ever right now

Summer's heat means extra duty for your electric refrigerator. The hotter the weather, the longer and harder it works to protect your perishables and to provide you with the added quantities of ice cubes, frozen desserts and cold drinks you need.

No matter how high the temperature soars, you can depend upon your economical electric refrigerator to provide constant, food-saving cold. And although it may be using a little more electricity now, the small added cost is far outweighed by the food savings it makes possible.

ON GUARD 'ROUND THE CLOCK

to safe-guard your food supply. Help your refrigerator do its job more efficiently by defrosting regularly, opening the door as little as possible and allowing leftovers to cool before storing them.

A Week of The War

The U. S. overall output of planes, tanks, ships, guns and ammunition during June was nearly three times that of last November, the month before Pearl Harbor, War Production Chairman Nelson reported. Mr. Nelson stated, however, "too much boasting about production progress is altogether premature—the biggest part of the job is still ahead. 'Any letup now," he said, "would mean years more of war and hundreds of thousands more lives."

Chairman Nelson, as an index of the Nation's productive effort, estimated that approximately 36 percent of the United States' record breaking income during the first six months of this year went into military channels. This compares, he said, to the 50 to 75 percent of total income being spent by Great Britain and Germany.

The War Production Board announced it will concentrate production of civilian goods in certain plants and regions as much as possible. The Board said, as a general rule, small plants will be kept in civilian production and large plants will be required to suspend civilian production. Civilian production will be restricted or suspended in regions where labor is urgently needed in war plants or where power shortages are likely to occur.

Rationing

Price Administrator Henderson reported gasoline coupon counterfeiters had been peddling bogus ration books in the East and stated these "saboteurs attacking our war program" will be prosecuted promptly and vigorously. All persons found to be in possession of the counterfeit books, he said, are liable to have their regularly issued ration books either revoked or withheld. Because of delays in obtaining gasoline rationing coupon books, the OPA said service stations may sell gasoline on a "coupon credit" basis until midnight July 31.

The OPA increased tire and tube quotas for August and said 90,000 bicycles will be made available for rationing in August as compared with 45,000 in July. The Office said only trucks engaged in services essential to the war effort or public health and safety will be entitled to recapped or new tires after July 28 under a drastic revision of the tire rationing regulations. The OPA published names and addresses of field representatives who may be called upon by tire dealers, recappers, truck operators and other users of tires for aid in solving problems arising under the rationing regulations.

Maximum Prices and Rents

Price Administrator Henderson reported "Government controls of prices and rents, where they are in effect, are doing a good job of holding down prices, but uncontrolled food prices are showing a definite inflationary tendency," He said "the total cost of food to city families advanced by 1.3 percent between May 15 and June 15, continuing the steady upward price trend of the previous 14 months and offsetting the benefits of price control on all foodstuffs covered by the general regulation."

Mr. Henderson said housewives and other members of the buying public will acquire the legal right, beginning July 31, to bring civil suits for damages against any storekeeper who charges more than OPA regulations permit.

The purchaser is entitled to recover $50 in damages plus attorney's fees or triple the amount of the overcharge plus attorney's fees, whichever is larger. Similar suits may be filed in defense rental areas against landlords who collect rents above those permitted by OPA orders. The Office reported it has designated 370 areas as defense rental areas and by August 1 rent regulations will become effective in 94 of these areas.

Agriculture Secretary Wickard announced a price adjustment and subsidy program designed to ease the temporary shortage of meats in Eastern States and some parts of the mid-West. The OPA asked livestock and meat packing industries to maintain a supply of meats in all normal trade channels rather than concentrate shipments to large cities where ceiling prices are relatively high.

The War Front

The Navy reported U. S. submarines in Far Eastern waters have sunk another Japanese destroyer, a medium-sized tanker, three cargo ships, and possibly a fourth cargo ship. The Navy said all of its large submarines are being fitted with cameras designed to fit over the eye piece of the periscope to record the results of submarine attacks on the enemy. Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, Commander of the Air Forces in the Middle East, said American air forces caused heavy damage to enemy docks and port installations at Tobruk, Benghazi, Suda Bay and Crete.

President Roosevelt said Admiral William D. Leahy, former U. S. Ambassador to Vichy France, has been called back to active duty to serve as Chief of Staff to him as Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces. Gen MacArthur reported from Australia that the new 2,500-man Japanese invasion force landed in the Buna-Ambasi-Gona area in New Guinea on July 22 has been subjected to such damaging raids that few, if any, Japanese ships are left in the vicinity of the invasion. The Navy announced 17 more United Nations' merchant vessels have been lost to enemy submarines.

Army

The nine Army Corps Areas were reorganized and renamed "Service Commands." The reorganization will further decentralize the operation of Services of Supply activity and eliminate duplicating facilities. War Secretary Stimson said 28,000 jaudice cases developed among Army personnel in the U. S. and abroad between January 1 and July 4, apparently due to the use of yellow fever vaccine. Sixty-two deaths resulted. "There has been a change in the form of yellow fever vaccine now used which the Surgean General thinks will eliminate the whole trouble," Mr. Stimson said. Director Hobby of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps said 20 companies of 150 women each will be trained by the end of this year and 25,000 women will be trained by April 1943.

Taxation and Profits

The House passed and sent to the Senate the War Revenue Bill, estimated to yield about $6,300 million, providing a 45 percent normal and surtax income rate on corporations and a 90 percent excess profits tax. Treasure Secretary Morgenthau, however, said a tax program of less than $8,700 million of additional revenue would be inadequate. He recommended removal of these "special privileges;" tax exemption for State and municipal securities, exemption from taxation of 27½ percent of income from oil wells and mines, and separate income tax returns by married couples.

The House Naval Affairs Committe, after investigation 40,000 contracts, said "95 percent of the war contractors are doing an honest and effective job and receiving only fair and reasonable profits," the average being 8 percent.

Scrap Salvage Campaigns

President Roosevelt reported the recent scrap rubber collection drive added 454,000 tons to the Government's stockpile—exclusive of rubber in small piles still at service stations and junk dealers. WPB Chairman Nelson asked State and local governments to lend their trucks and workers to local salvage committees to help transport scrap material collections before winter sets in. To keep steel furnaces going at full capacity, more than 750,000 freight cars will be required to carry scrap iron and steel, most of which must be moved by trucks and rail points.

The WPB extended the tin can salvage program to 104 cities in addition to 36 metropolitan areas previously announced, because detinning plant capacity requirements have been increased from 250,000 to 400,000 tons. The Board said the Government will requisition from junk dealers all useless automobiles—those that cannot be repaired on a practical basis—to maintain the present peak movement of automobile scrap to mills. On the basis of a questionnaire to 350 firms, the Board estimated 100 million pounds of essential chemical could be realized in the next 18 months if manufacturers of war equipment began now to recover wasted spray paints.

RECORD IS SET IN EGG PRODUCTION

The hen does not take a Government challenge lightly in war time.

Demand was made for 50 billion eggs in 1942—and the hen is laying at the rate of well over 60 billion eggs a year, almost 115,000 eggs a minute, day and night.

In May alone, hens on farms in this country laid 5,769,000,000 eggs, a record high, exceeding May, 1941, by 16 per cent. Total egg production during the first five months of this year has been exactly that percentage higher than for the same period in 1941. The increase is 26 per cent above the 10-year average for 1941-40.

While much of the increase has been due to more layers, individual hens are laying more eggs than ever before. They set a new high of 17.6 eggs per layer for May, compared with the 10-year average of 16.7 eggs for that month. The average hen in farm flocks laid 70.4 eggs during the first five months of 1942, which was 3 per cent more than she laid during the same period last year.

Interest incident to egg production, feeding problems and health maintenance centers upon vitamins, particularly A and D.

Use of dehydrated alfalfa and shark oil are helping the vitamin A poultry situation. There is no vitamin D problem, because of research conducted by Du Pont chemists for more than 10 years. A chemically standardized source of vitamin D, known as "Delsterol" is satisfactorily filling vitamin feed requirements making for healthy, productive stock.

Dr. Harry W. Titus of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry stresses the fact that "D"-activated animal sterol is not merely a partial solution of the problem of finding a satisfactory source of vitamin D for use in mixed feeds for poultry, but is "a complete solution." He points out that its merits have been verified by experiments at several of the State agricultural experiment stations, and the U. S. Research Center at Beltsville, and in the laboratories of numerous feed manufacturers, as well as by wide use in commercial feeds during the last two years.

Layers in farm flocks totaled 327,157,000 during May, 1942, the largest on record for the month, exceeding May of the previous year by 14 per cent and the 10-year average by 15 per cent. And further re-enforcements are on the way! The number of young chicks in farm flocks on June 1 was the largestt since 1930—12 per cent above a year ago and above the 10-year average.

The reason Government needs are at the record high level of 50 to 60 million is that eggs are among the foods of highest nutritional value in proportion to their weight. Exportation of eggs, therefore, fits well into the situation created by the shortage of shipping to carry foods to America's allies.

A considerable portion of all eggs produced is being dried for shipment abroad for military and civilian requirements. Approximately 3,430,000,000 eggs are being frozen this year—an all-time high. Most of the frozen eggs are subsequently dried and shipped abroad for consumption, or used by restaurants and by bakers and other food manufacturers.

When increased egg production was first requested by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, egg-drying plant capacity was about 50 million pounds annually. Actually highest production up to that time was barely 11 million pounds a year. But war demands have brought about an increase in facilities, so that today the annual capacity approaches 300 million pounds. More than 80-egg-drying plants, largely in the Mississippi Valley area, are in operation.

NYA PROGRAM FOR EASTERN COLLEGE CUT

Richmond, Ky.—An NYA program for Eastern State Teachers College for fall, winter, and spring quarters about half as large as that for the previous year is now assured, according to Dean W. C. Jones, director of student employment.

Under terms of the appropriation bill passed by Congress, it will be possible to provide employment for about 60 students at Eastern next year. Total allotted for NYA work throughout the country is $5-000,000. Student applications are now being received.

This amount for the work program is in addition to another $5.-000,000 provided in the same act to be used as loans to students in technical and professional fields directly related to national defense.

The loan fund applies to students participating in accelerated programs, in engineerings, physics, chemistry, medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, whose technical or professional education can be completed within two years. Loans will be made in the amount of fees plus $25 per month, but not exceeding $500 a year, on the basis of notes payable to the treasurer of the U. S. at an interest rate of two and one-half per cent per year.

Principals of such loans will be cancelled if the student is called to military service before completing his course, or if he suffers permanent and total disability or death.

I, D. H. Norris, Treasurer of the Boone County Board of Education, hereby certify that the above report is a true and correct report of the receipts and disbursements of said Board of Education for the school year beginning July 1, 1941 and ending June 30, 1942.

BOONE COUNTY CROP SPOILAGE CAN BE HALVED

Prevention of waste in food distribution will be a vital factor in the effort of Boone county's 2,079 farm operators and, workers to achieve their wartime goals, it was indicated today in a survey by a leading distributor of Kentucky farm produce.

At least half of the estimated $2,000,000 annually lost from spoilage and damage to matured Kentucky fruits and vegetables alone can be prevented by the use of better grading, packing and by better and more direct distribution methods, Earl R. French, marketing director of the Atlantic Commission Company, A & P produce buying affiliate, declared in the survey's summary. He indicated that further savings could be realized from improved handling of other Kentucky farm products.

"If Boone county farmers, working with distributors, cut by half the average 10 to 12 percent of fruit and vegetable shipments lost through damage and spoilage, they will have achieved the equivalent of a 5 to 6 per cent increase in production without any extra acreage, equipment or farm labor," French said.

"Under wartime conditions, use of efficient handling methods on the farm and utilization of efficient distribution channels such as those developed by chain stores is becoming increasingly important," he continued. "For example, Boone county's 1,630 farm family workers have found their job of increasing production made more difficult because of the shorter farm labor supply, higher farm wages and limited availability of farm machinery and supplies.

"The latest census counted 449 regular hired hands in the county. Since that count was made, farm labor has decreased as much as 59 percent in certain areas and up to 33 percent in some Kentucky districts," French said.

But despite the labor curtailment, he said, past performance indicates the farmer can approach food production goals. In ten years, covered by recent government reports, the farmer had increased his productive efficiency by 25.2 percent. The average farmer, the survey revealed, fed 11.7 persons in 1929 and ten years later was feeding 14.1 persons from his fields.

FARMERS ARE ASKED TO WATCH DAIRY QUALITY

The government is gratified by the manner in which farmers have responded to its call for increased production of dairy products but is disturbed by the quality of some of these products, advices received by the Boone County Recorder indicate.

"Too little and too late" will never be said of the efforts of the dairy farmer in the past year, according to T. F. Stitts, chief of the dairy and poultry division of the Agricultural Marketing Administration. In the case of almost all dairy products he has delivered aplenty, and right on schedule too, he states.

On the other hand, J. O. Clarke, chief of the central district of the Food and Drug Administration, has served notice that war conditions, far from leading to relaxation in the vigilance and enforcement activities of his division, will probably bring closer watchfulness over all who produce, handle and distribute the food for our citizens our armed forces and our allies.

Fats are of particular importance, with shortages existing or impending, and butter, as one of the vitally necessary foods, is in for special attention. In normal times, Mr. Clarke points out, inspections were made chiefly of the finished product but, now that we are at war, any and all steps deemed necessary to prevent the waste of food that results from poor quality must and will be taken.

Back of each instance of confiscated butter, says Mr. Clarke, almost invariably it will be found that the cream from which it was made had spoiled because something was done wrong, or something was left undone, along the farm production line. The law covering the production, sale and handling of food has teeth in it—teeth designed to deal alike with the careless, negligent producer of unfit cream and the manufacturer who puts bad butter into the channels of commerce—and the Food and Drug Administration will not hesitate to use them.

Cream that has been allowed to spoil cannot be made good again, and to avoid a possible run-in with the law, state or federal, the farmer must make clean milk, rather than cleaned milk, his goal, according to Mr. Clarke. Particular care must be taken to prevent particles of any kind from dropping into the milk or cream, during milking or separation or while being held on the farm. While much of the foreign matter which may enter can be strained out of the milk, the full wholesomeness of an exceptionally delicate food product, once harmed, can never be wholly restored.

The days of the poor cream producer are numbered, Mr. Clarke believes, because more and more creameries are learning the wisdom of buying cream on grade and rejecting any that is unfit. He suggests this simple test for farmers wishing to check on the quality of their cream even before it leaves the farm: If you taste it want to swallow it, that's good cream; if you taste it and spit it out, that's poor cream; if you won't even taste it, that's bad cream. Ultimately the law will catch up with the producer and the buyer of bad cream, but even those who produce or buy the doubtful products are on pretty dangerous ground.

BOONE WATER SUPPLY IMPROVED

THROUGH LAKE BUILDING SAYS COUNTY AGENT—RULES FOR POND CONSTRUCTION OUTLINED.

Boone County livestock water supply has been greatly improved during the past two years, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. More than 200 medium to good size lakes have been constructed during this period.

This improved water supply has not only been important insurance against drouth emergency but for many farmers with electric or gasoline power, it has aided in putting water fountains in their dairy barns and flushing water in their homes. Commercial fishing has also been a source of extra farm income to many farmers.

There are many simple rules that if followed add greatly to the successful building of a lake for improved water supply. One of the most important is the proper construction of a clay core thruout the length of the dams. Failure to carry out this plan properly is the cause of more leaks under the dam than from any other cause. A circular on dam construction is available at the county office on request.

Power machinery operators who have built most of the dams in the county during the past two years include Wheatcroft, John G. Exterkamp Co. and J. G. Robertson & Sons. All operators have built many good and some bad dams.

J. G. Robertson and Sons have built several dams around Burlington during the past several weeks and are still operating there at the present time. Exterkamp is located in Covington and Wheatcroft is now working on a large road job in the Western part of the State.

These, and more than 5,000 other men now in radio training in the twelve vocational schools of the state, are learning to construct, operate, and maintain all types of radio equipment. After completing their work in the vocational schools, they report to the Lexington Signal Depot.

LOCUST BEETLES DAMAGE TREES

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE REPORTED TO TREES THROUGHOUT COUNTY—AGRICULTURE COLLEGE GIVES REPORT.

Boone County locust trees in recent weeks have been severely damaged by a small beetle that has turned the leaves brown and cause considerable damage to the leaves if not the trees. This is the second consecutive year that the damage has been quite noticeable wherever locust trees are seen.

A report from the College of Agriculture to the County Agent's Office gives the following information on the injury:

The injury to the foliage of locust trees is caused by the Locust Leaf Beetles (Chalpeus dorsalis) with wedge-shaped bodies about a quarter of an inch long, wing-covers bright orange red, deeply punctate, a black stripe down the middle and head and underside back.

The adults winter in crevies of bark and in debris. In spring they feed on locust leaves eating small oblong holes and place eggs in masses on the undersides of leaves. The young grubs burrow between the upper and lower layers of the leaves and devour all the green chlorophyll area, and sometimes whole groves present a brown, scorched appearance. There are two generations in a season. However, the eggs and larvae are preyed upon by numerous parasites and the pests are not often numerous several years in succession. The trees seem to recover and are not killed by the injury, however, they must be weakened and made more suceptible to attacks of borers, etc.

In the case of a single valuable tree, injury could be avolded by spraying early in May, with arsenate of lead 4 pounds to 100 gallons of water. But when many trees are involved this is not practicable and we must trust to natural forces for control.

War Bond Sales Reach $18,618.75 For Month Of July

War Bond sales for the month of July in Boone County reached $18,618.75, it was reported by A. D. Yelton, Chairman of the War Bond Drive in Boone.

Although our quota for July was $27,300 as outlined by State Headquarters, it was generally believed this quota was too high, in view of the size and population of Boone County as compared to other counties of similar circumstances, which had much lower quotas.

Boone's goal for August is $15,900.00 which is much more in line with our neighbors, and no doubt we will reach this goal and probably go beyond this figure.

FORCED SAVINGS

Britain has had forced savings for over a year," says Business Week. "Canada just broke down and put it in the new budget. We are going to have it soon. It's a question when and what sort. Several agencies are already working quietly on blueprints."

The Government, in both its legislative and executive branches, has so far shown remarkable ability in avoiding coming to grips with the forced savings issue. Secretary Morgenthau has said that he hopes that voluntary sales of War Bonds will prove adequate to absorb excess consumer income. For the most part, Congressmen have looked upon the forced savings idea as a political ogre of horrible mien, which might cost them votes next November. However, the bulk of economists seem to be convinced that, whether for good or ill, some type of forced savings will eventually have to be adopted.

The arguments in behalf of forced savings are simple enough. This year, the national income is reaching an all-time high, due to the $67,000,000,000 which is being spent for war production. The pockets of the people, especially those in the lower income brackets, are better lined with currency than they ever have been before. At the same time the supply of goods available to civilians is steadily diminishing—and it will keep on diminishing until the war ends, unless an unlooked-for production miracle occurs. The combination of more money and less goods adds up to but one thing: inflation. Even today, despite government price ceilings and controls, an ominous "black market," similar to the European black market, is growing in this country. Unscrupulous men are bootlegging tires, sugar, metals and other controlled items precisely as liquor used to be bootlegged in the prohibition era, and they are demanding and receiving extortionate prices. A ten-dollar tire, for instance, will bring $50 and often more in the black market.

Economists of all the schools agree that inflation can be prevented only if some means is found to absorb and make inactive a large part of the public's income. Taxes, the theory continues, offer only a partial solution—Congress obviously feels that the new tax bill, which is unprecedented in severity, comes pretty close to the limit. On top of that, it is generally believed that the people will balk and yell for relief if taxes go much higher. Sales of War Bonds have been excellent, but they haven't closed the so-called "inflation gap." Therefore, the argument goes, forced savings constitute the answer.

In England, the forced savings plan seems to have worker reasonably well. Under it, tax rates are hiked to the hilt—but part of what the Englishman pays will be returned to him after the war. In other words, he simply builds up a credit with the Government, which will be rebated once the guns stop firing. It is likely that if and when forced savings is adopted here, we will follow the English plan in essentials.

There are other possible methods. For example, Congress could pass a law making it obligatory for everyone to put ten per cent of his savings in War Bonds. Then, to further encourage savings, deductions would be allowed for private savings in making income tax returns. Whatever method is finally decided on, the main point will be to take money out of the channels of trade—to keep it from purchasing goods. The less the consumer buys, in other words, the more he will have for war purposes.

There is still another argument which the forced savings advocates use persuasively. When the war ends, war production will naturally end—and there is going to be a difficult period while we make the adjustment from a war economy to a peace economy. If people have money saved, the argument runs, this adjustment will be eased. To quote Business Week again, it would "act as a kind of automatic unemployment insurance."

There seems to be little active opposition to forced savings—many economists hope that it won't prove necessary, but admit that before long it may prove unavoidable. In both conservative and liberal circles, there is unanimity of opinion to the effect that inflation must be avoided at all costs. The very credit and solvency of the nation is the issue at stake. So don't be surprise if the Government tells you one of these days that you're going to have to save a definite percentage of your earnings.

SOLVING THE RUBBER PROBLEM

"The tightest, grimmest war shortage facing the U. S. is rubber," says Time. "It need not have been. For five months after Pearl Harbor the U. S. Government did practically nothing to get a synthetic rubber industry to fill the gap caused by Japan's conquests. That failure is the worst scandal in the U. S. war effort."

There has been an enormous waste of time in coming to grips with the rubber problem. There has been endless confusion, and excessive division of responsibility. At last, however, it looks as if something definite and constructive is about to be done.

On July 17, Donald Nelson announced that he had assumed personal direction of the government's rubber program. On the same day, the 4th Corps Area Quartermaster Headquarters said that tires made of buna, a petroleum derivative, will be used as replacements on all army vehicles throughout the nation. And on July 15, President W. S. Farish of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, gave a House subcommittee some exceedingly interesting information on the progress that is being made.

New and faster processes, said Mr. Farish, will produce, before the end of 1943, 34,000,000 more automobile tires than were expected. Further, synthetic rubber will be better on the whole than natural rubber, and its cost will not be materially greater.

This does not mean that any motorist can afford to "burn up" his rubber, on the theory that replacements will soon be available. Military needs will absorb most and perhaps all the synthetic rubber produced for a long time to come. Rigid conservation of rubber, as a result, remains an absolute necessity. Private industry is doing everything in its power to produce an adequate supply of synthetic rubber in the shortest possible time. There, are at last, grounds for believing that government rubber red-tape is cut, and that there can be action, not continued political talk, in dealing with the rubber problem.

ISAAC PRACTICES PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:18-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.—Matthew 5:9.

To talk peace in a warring world seems almost futile, and so it is, unless it be the peace of God. In a world largely dominated by the philosophy that might makes right, and in which men demand what they call their rights, taking them even by lawless and violent methods, it is increasingly difficult to proclaim the truth that patience and meekness are not weakness, but are Christian virtues worth emulating.

The story of Isaac is interesting from beginning to end. He was an ordinary man, one of the common people. He had come through varied experiences of victory and defeat before the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and apparently not trusting God at the moment, he had gone down from the promised land to the country of the Philistines, there redigging the wells which his father Abraham had dug. The result was that he prospered. Ere long, however, envy on the part of his enemies taught Isaac that—

I. Peace in This World Is Temporary (vv. 18-21).

Isaac had prospered, but he was still out of the promised land, and while he was in the land of Philistines he could expect no permanent peace.

We are in the world. We long for peace, and would throw all our influence and service into the cause of bringing a righteous peace to the troubled peoples of the world. But let us not be misled by that desire into the support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs. This world is a sinful world, and as long as that is true, there will be strife and war, that men (as James puts it) may have the gains thereof for their own pleasure.

Our business in such a world is to preach the gospel of grace, winning men to Christ, that they may become men of good-will. Isaac was such a man, willing to yield even what seemed to be his right, rather than cause contention.

Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who do "stand for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

The peace of this world is temporary. Is there then no real abiding peace and joy?

II. Abiding Joy Is Found in Fellowship With God (vv. 22-25).

When Isaac came up into Canaan, the land which God had promised to him, he found real peace and an abiding joy in renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spiritually destructive fellowship with the ungodly world and come over wholeheartedly into the spiritual Canaan of full consecration and separated living, will find true peace and satisfying communion with God.

Our thought, however, has wider application—one much needed today. There is to come a time when this world will have true and abiding peace which shall cover the earth like the waters cover the sea. When the One who has the right to reign, the Lord Jesus Christ, returns to take His throne, then, and not before, will there be true peace.

We await that day with longing which grows more intense as men grow more violent in their hatred. But is there nothing more we can do? Yes, we learn from Isaac's experience that—

III. A Godly Life Is a Testimony to Warring Men (vv. 26-31).

These men were wicked men, even speaking falsehood in their claim of friendship toward Isaac (v. 29). Now that they perceived that God was continually blessing Isaac in spite of their repeated injustice toward him, they decided that it would be well to make a covenant of friendship with him. Even those who follow the way of war and aggression cannot deny the effectiveness of true Christian testimony.

Observe also that by his patience and kindness Isaac ultimately made friends out of his enemies. "It is better to turn enemies into friends than to beat them, and have them enemies still." And so this man with the patient, self-sacrificing spirit brought peace not only to himself, but to those about him, because he believed and trusted God. "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him" (Prov. 16:7).

What can we do to bring peace today? We can pray that God will help America and her allied nations to turn to Him in repentance of sin, and in a desire to so honor His name that He may be able to give His blessing. When Hezekiah spread before the Lord the threat of his enemy, God undertook for him in a mighty way, because his heart was right toward God (Isa. 37:14-20). Will he do less for us?

Just Let Me Tell You A Few Facts About Walking, So You'll Realize Just How Much It Can Do For You.

N. TULCH

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

The normal heart, you know, beats about seventy-two times a minutes and pumps about six ounces of blood with each beat. Now, in fast walking, or at the rate of four miles an hour—(which is how fast you should walk to do you some good)—you'll find the normal heart will INCREASE its beat ten times to the minute, pumping six ounces of blood at each beat, gives sixty ounces per minute or 3600 an hour, which is 225 pounds. You can easily see that 225 ADDITIONAL pounds of blood pumped DAILY through your veins means just that much more life to your whole body.

There's no use of my telling you to get out and walk if you are having trouble with your feet, because I know you won't do it, BUT—if I tell you how to get rid of those aching, paining feet, first—then there's nothing to keep you from walking every day and benefitting your health by this wonderful exercise.

It has also been found that millions suffer without knowing the reason why — those headaches, those leg pains, and even sleepless nights may be caused by the shoes you are wearing.—Adv.

This Week On The Home Front

You can get your Fall canning sugar permit by mail if you live in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana, or Michigan and can find a blank which has been or will be printed in many newspapers thruout the region.

The OPA has arranged for local War Price and Rationing Boards to accept these blanks if the consumer finds it easier to apply that way than in person.

Persons using the blanks should follow these instructions:

Fill out the blank completely:

Send it to the rationing board with all of your family's ration books and a stamped and addressed envelope for return of the ration cards and the permit.

After the number of quarts of fruit and fruit juice that will be canned has been estimated, the application should be figured on a basis of one pound of sugar to each four quarts of finished fruit or juices. No sugar will be allowed for canning vegetables. For jellies, preserves and such, applicants can get not more than one pound of sugar for each member of the family and if this already has been alloted, no more will be granted now.

Labor Day isn't very far off and this year it will mean more than it ever has meant in the past because all of us are working to win the war and doing a good job of it, too. There is another respect in which Labor Day will differ from similar days in the past: It will strike a distinctly feminine note and this doesn't mean merely that the good ladies of the auxiliary will make the sandwiches, either.

It means that women are playing an increasing part in the production upon which we depend for victory.

Here is the way it is: There are 13,000,000 employed women in the U. S. A.—600,000 more than there were last January 1—and 1,750,000 of these are working in war industry. By the end of next year, total civilian employment is expected to reach 53,000,000 and of these 18,000,000 will be women. In other words, we must add between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 women to the roster of workers if we are to reach the estimated peak figure for 1943 employment.

• • •

Plans for using the current $3,500,000 appropriation for nursing education, which is administered by the U. S. Public Health Service, include new training centers to be established in strategic areas in connection with universities. Federal aid last fiscal year enabled 240 schools to increase their enrollment by nearly 5,500 students.

• • •

What's going to become of the old school bus when its tires wear out? The ODT will use as its rationing "yardstick" the plan of the National Council of Chief State School Officers. The plan suggests no transportation for children living within two miles of the school, except in cases of physical disablement or especially hazardous conditions. School bus routes should not duplicate public carrier routes. Use of buses for trips to music contests and athletic contests is not advisable. Reduction of the number of stops and permission to carry standing loads are advised.

• • •

More sole leather has been available for the repair of civilians' shoes.

The tube-for-tube exchange over toilet goods counters now is netting production of 40 tons a month of critical metal.

• • •

Distribution factors involved in the wholesale and retail merchandising of the nation's 98 most important "cost of living" food commodities will be surveyed in a sample poll of grocer operations to be taken in 56 cities.

• • •

Compliance with all applicable price regulations is required by licenses granted by OPA to wholesalers and retailers selling commodities or services for which the OPA has established ceilings. A new amendment to the General Maximum Price Regulation expressly deals with this.

• • •

Operators of hotels and rooming houses filing petitions for adjustments in maximum rents are required to give notice to tenants within 24 hours of filing the petitions.

• • •

The fruit industry has been assured that sufficient cold storage space will be available for the 1942 crop provided the proper use is made of facilities.

• • •

A special OPA check on price-posting compliance of 126 retail stores in downtown Cleveland has disclosed tremendous improvement among the stores checked since a June investigation. More than 92 percent now are posting—perfectly or imperfectly—as compared with only 65 percent in June.

• • •

World War II has brought a high increase in savings with which Americans have bought war bonds and stamps and paid taxes. Although income rose more than 7 percent, between 1941 and the first quarter of 1942, Secretary of Labor Perkins reports, average expenditures for current consumption rose less than 2 percent. At the same time, living costs went up almost 8 percent. Savings have been about 70 percent higher in 1942 than they were in 1941. Families whose incomes did not change saved half as much again as they saved in an average quarter in 1942. Those whose incomes increased substantially, saved 57 percent of their increases.

• • •

In order to prevent a sudden, sharp advance in retail lamb prices Price Administrator Henderson has placed a 60-day temporary ceiling on lamb at the wholesale and retail levels. The ceiling is the highest price charged by each seller, to purchasers of the same class, during the period July 27 to 31, 1942.

• • •

Merchants and others selling beverages in paper cups or paper containers have been warned by OPA to discontinue the recent practice of charging consumers a separate price for these cups if no charge was made for them during March. The OPA had received many complaints about soda fountains and lunchrooms charging an extra cent for the cup in addition to the price of the drink.

• • •

The OPA has placed a ceiling on sales at wholesale of fluid milk and cream in bottles or paper containers at the distributor's highest March (1942) sales level.

• • •

Pointing to serious shortages of physics and mathematics teachers, the War Manpower Commission has urged present and prospective teachers to enroll in tuition-free, short term teaching courses set up in 200 colleges under the war program of the U. S. Office of Education.

Home-owners who want to keep their heating plants operating efficiently next winter are advised to take steps at once to care for stove pipes which were used last season.

SUMMERTIME is vacation time, but not for your electric refrigerator. During the winter months it loafed along, using a minimum of current, but now it must work longer and harder to keep foods fresh and wholesome and to supply extra quantities of ice cubes and frozen desserts. Naturally, your refrigerator is using a little more electricity these sizzling hot days, but the added cost is small compared to the food savings it makes possible. Electric pennies save food dollars.

Electric Refrigerator Economy Hints

1. Defrost regularly — at least once a week.
2. Do not crowd shelves—circulation is vital to efficient operation.
3. Do not open door of tener or hold it open longer than necessary.
4. Do not store hot foods in refrigerator—let them cool first.
5. Cover all liquids before storing them in refrigerator.
6. Avoid quick freezing as much as possible.

With The Reds

Cincinnati—The Reds are home for a week of activity against the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs. They opened their short home stand Tuesday afternoon against the Cards, and were to continue against these same Cardinals Wednesday night. Wednesday was designated as Shrine Night, and a group of about 3,000 Shriners was expected. In addition, a gigantic pre-game show, with more than 250 people participating, was to precede the night game.

Friday night the Cubs will move into Crosley Field. There will be more ceremony on this occasion, for approximately 300 sailors from the United States Naval Training School at Oxford will come down to see a ball game. The gobs will have their drum and bugle corps with them, and will put on a parade, with all of the men participating, starting at 8:15.

The Cubs have been very tough customers for the Reds this year, having won six of the ten games played. This is the series the Reds hope to utilize to even things. The night game Friday will be followed by an afternoon game Saturday, starting at 2:30 and a doubleheader Sunday starting at 1:30. The night game will start at 9 o'clock.

Biggest thorn to enemy pitchers in the Cubs' ranks is Lou Novikoff, the Mad Russian, who, after a miserable start, found himself and since has been knocking the ball all over the lot. He is batting over .300 at the present time.

Cincinnati fans will have an opportunity to see their new outfielder, Eric Tipton, in action. Eric looks like the real McCoy to Bill McKechnie. He smashed three home runs on the last road trip and knocked in eight runs, which is pretty fair clubbing. He seems to have the knack of delivering when it counts most. McKechnie likes his competitive spirit.

Gerald Walker and Max Marshall also have been hitting well, giving the Reds a good hitting outfield for the first time in two seasons. With Mike McCormick and Ival Goodman both ready to return to active duty, the outfield situation does look more promising than at any time this season or last.

A Week of The War

Price Administrator Henderson announced that maximum gasoline prices in the rationed area of the 17 Eastern States and the District of Columbia will be reduced 2½ cents a gallon beginning August 5. He also announced reduction of 0.9 cents for kerosene, 1.1 cents on distillates and light heating oils, and 15 cents a barrel on residual fuel oils.

Mr. Henderson said the reductions were made possible under the recent agreement worked out by the Office of Price Administration, the Office of Petroleum Coordinator and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whereby the Defense Supplies Corporation will absorb the extra transportation costs for moving petroleum into the Atlantic Seaboard areas.

Commerce Secretary Jones reported the Defense Plant Corporation will finance a two-point program to convert existing steel dry cargo barges into tank barges to transport oil, and to improve existing inland waterways. The Bureau of Mines estimated the National gasoline demand for July, August, and September will be about 17 percent less than in the corresponding period last year, eliminating the necessity for a large winter accumulation of stocks.

Consumer Supply and Maximum Prices

President Roosevelt issued a statement that every user of fuel and heating oil on the East coast "should face realistically the fact that there can be no guarantee that he will get enough oil even to meet his minimum needs." Petroleum Coordinator Ickes asked all sellers of fuel and heating oils in the East to request their customers to convert oil burners to the use of coal or other available fuels. The Office of Solid Fuels Coordinator reported bituminous coal stock in storage in the U. S. increased an estimated 5,850,000 tons in June, to a near all-time record. The Office said consumer stockpiles, however, continued insufficient to provide adequate protection against possible shortages during the Fall and Winter.

The OPA established a wholesale ceiling price on milk and cream, sold in bottles or paper containers, at the distributor's highest March level. The action was taken to prevent a price "squeeze" on milk retailers by some milk distributors. The Office set a ceiling price of four cents a pound for waste kitchen fats now being sold by housewives in the salvage program, and a ceiling price of five cents a pound for the sale of the same fats from meat dealers to renders.

Price Administrator Henderson established a 60-day temporary ceiling on wholesale and retail lamb prices, at the highest levels charged by each seller during the period July 27-31. The temporary ceiling on lamb prices, effective August 10, places every major meat item except poultry under Government Price Regulations. The OPA said Armour and Company, Swift and Company, and Wilson and Company, Inc., have agreed to submit for auditing the sales records of all their branch houses for the purpose of refunding to their customers (wholesalers and retailers) all charges made in excess of the maximum prices for beef and pork.

President Roosevelt told his press conference there are three reasons for the current meat shortage in the East and some Mid-Western States: (1) It is the off season for beef. (2) People have a good deal more money with which to buy more and better cuts of meat. (3) This country has around 4,000,000 men under arms for whom meat supplies must be prepared months in advance. Mr. Roosevelt said the people will have to except new shortages from time to time because that is part of the price of winning the war.

Farm Income

During the first half of 1942 cash income from farm marketings totaled $5,773 million compared with $4,012 million in the same period last year, the Agriculture Department reported. Income from crops was up 36 percent and income from livestock and livestock products was 48 percent greater. The Department said a record volume of marketings is expected in the latter half of 1942. Total cash income from farm marketings during 1942, including Government payments, probably will exceed $14,500 million, the report said.

Rationing

The outlook for obtaining sugar supplies from the Caribbean has "taken a turn for the worse" because of submarine warfare and the amount of shipping diverted to war purposes, the OPA said. The Office asked sugar refiners in Louisiana and Texas not to ship to sugar markets in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio until at least September 1 because of a shortage in their home states. OPA said these restrictions will have to be continued if receipts from Cuba and Puerto Rico are below expectations.

Under rationing regulations persons owning more than one typewriter may dispose of their machines only to authorized dealers or to the Procurement Division of the Treasury, OPA said. The Office ruled all new adult bicycles are subject to rationing "even though they may have been disassembled or altered or the parts changed."

War Bond Purchases

July sales of war bonds totaled $900,900,000, second highest monthly amount on record and $250 million above June sales, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said. The highest monthly total was that of January when the amount was $1,060 million. Mr. Morgenthau said the August quota has been placed at $815 million. "Because of seasonal variations in income distribution, it would not be practicable to establish monthly quotas at a uniform figure of $1,000,000,000," he said.

Transportation

The Office of Defense Transportation took over allocation of all new buses and froze all integral type buses in the hands of manufacturers. Under the new plan, the ODT will grant permission to buy new buses only when the purchasers sign an agreement giving ODT authority to transfer the buses for use elsewhere if transportation difficulties develop. ODT Director Eastman asked Public Service Commissions of the states to make a nation-wide survey of local rail and bus passenger services to eliminate duplications.

War Production Chairman Nelson said the WPB is studying the proposal of shipbuilder Henry Kaiser to build 5,000 large cargo planes in converted shipyards. The Maritime Commission reported U. S. shipyards broke all records in July as 71 new merchant vessels were put into service, making a total of 299 cargo vessels and tankers produced during the first seven months of this year.

The War Front

Lt. Gen. Stilwell's China Headquarters reported U. S. airmen have broken the back of an elite force of Japanese bombers and fighters assembled for the purpose of driving them out of China. The climax was reached July 30, the communique said, when 17 Japanese bombers and new type Zero fighters were shot down. Gen MacArthur's Australian Headquarters announced Allied planes conducted raids on Japanese positions from Ambooina Island in the Netherlands East Indies to Guadal-Canal Island in the Solomons. The Navy announced the sinking of four United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarines.

Trial of Nazi Saboteurs

The Supreme Court ruled that the charges preferred against the eight Nazi saboteurs allege an offense "which the President is authorized to order tried before a military commission," that the commission is lawfully constituted and that the saboteurs are held in "lawful custody." The saboteurs were brought again before the military commission.

The Armed Forces

The President signed a bill creating the Women's Auxiliary Reserve in the Navy, which will be made up at first of 1,000 commissioned officers and about 10,000 enlisted members. He also signed a bill to permit the CAA to train airplane mechanics in its civilian pilot training centers. The Army has asked for training of 31,000 mechanics. Selective Service headquarters instructed 88 local boards to induct during August some men classified in 1-B with certain types of physical defects.

SEE HOW HILL FARM IS BEING IMPROVED

Farmers in Johnson county recently took a day off to see and hear how Trigg McKenzie in Cuba community is building up a 90-acre farm, mostly hill land. They saw fields of orchard grass and lespedeza and alfalfa that had turned off one good hay crop and was ready to cut again. A herd of cattle is being improved through the use of a registered bull. A part owner of a small trailer threshing machine, Mr. McKenzie is interested in saving orchard grass and other seeds. On his farm is a demonstration of several tobacco varieties, including root-rot resistsistant kinds. As a special contribution in the war effort, Mr. McKenzie is growing both hemp and castor beans.

Sam Hamilton, Minister

Bible School 10:00 a. m. C. W. T. Tommy Stevens, Supt.

Worship Service 11:00 a. m.

Sermon subject, "The Nature of God." This is the last of a series of discourses on this theme. You are invited to study this entrancing subject with us.

There will be a special meeting of the Elders of the Church following the morning worship to consider the matter of a recent attack on the morals and faith of the Church in a certain denominational bulletin.

Paper for the auditorium has been purchased, and awaits only the painting and repair of the roof for its hanging. We are counting on volunteer labor for the painting job which to all indications will begin next week. If you have an old brush at home that will do for such a job, clean it up and prepare for business.

The church is "sporting" a new set of light fixtures, the gift of Mr. W. G. Reed, of Rising Sun, Ind. Also your humble servant is enjoying a new pulpit lamp as a refinishing job on the pulpit itself.

We continue to enjoy the fellowship and inspiration of the weekly sesssions at Lake Waterloo, (pond to you), despite the recent asinine attack of a certain (Reverend gentleman?) If your eye is on the Lord and your mind is not in the gutter, we still extend the invitation—bring your lunch, your swim suit and your Bibles and enjoy the fellowship of those whose hearts are set on pure things, next Saturday evening, 6:00 p. m. C. W. T.

RECORD CROWD IS EXPECTED

TO ATTEND 4-H AND UTOPIA CLUB FAIR — EVENT WILL OPEN AT 10:00 A. M. AND CLOSE AT 5:00 P. M. E. W. T.

A record attendance is expected at the Tenth Annual 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair and Boone County Picnic on this Saturday, August 22, at Burlington, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The expectations are based on increased interest and due to the new location at the beautiful new grounds.

The weather will be the only factor that will put a damper on the attendance. The weather the past nine years has been ideal and everyone is hoping for a beautiful day.

This is Boone County's own fair and county picnic. During these trying war days it should offer an ideal time to spend a few hours recreating and making friendly contacts that should make us stronger and more unified in our war effort.

The Fair, as in previous years is free, all labor is donated by 4-H and Utopia and Homemakers' organizations and public spirited leaders and citizens. Despite the sacrifices that many in charge of plans have had to make, no attempt has been made to commercialize the event. Everybody is invited and urged to attend, enjoy the day, and lend their support in making the county picnic and fair a success. It's our fair. Let's be there. We will be looking for you.

The event will open around 10:00 a. m. and close at 5:00 p. m. Eastern War Time.

Victory Leaders Inform County On "Enriched" Wheat Products

Victory leaders in Boone County are again being called upon by the U. S. Extension Service to participate in a program to spread information concerning the use of whole grain and enriched cereal products. Leaders will receive literature and information at meetings to be held in September.

The National Nutrition committee began educational work last year to gain public support of the movement to "enrich" all wheat flour and wheat products being sold in the United States. As a continuation of this program an effort will be made to contact every Boone County family with literature that they may be better informed and ready to take part in this movement.

Do you use whole wheat flour and bread regularly? It is a proven fact that the health of the family is improved when this practive is followed. If your family prefers the white flour products, do you insist upon these being "enriched" with vitamins and iron for health protection? This is a small thing to do, yet it can mean much to our health and morale in months to come, according to Mary S. Moore, Home Demonstration Agent.

BY OUTSTANDING BREEDERS TO YOUNG FARMERS OF THE UNITED STATES—SPONSORED BY JERSEY CATTLE CLUB.

More than 1,000 selected registered Jersey bulls are to be given away by outstanding breeders to young farmers of the United States in a victory program sponsored by the Jersey Cattle Club of America during the week of August 17. Thirty-two of these royally bred youngsters are to be given to young Kentucky farmers.

These victory bulls are being donated by important Jersey Breeders in an effort to improve stock and herds which have been somewhat depleted due to the war effort.

Senator Perry B. Gaines, Carrollton, Kentucky, a director of the Jersey Cattle Club of America announced after a meeting with the Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club and officials of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture that 20 victory bulls would be given away in Lexington, Kentucky, Thursday, Aug. 20th, at Tattersalls sales barn. Elaborate plans have been made for the presentation of these victory bulls including talks by Governor Keen Johnson and Commissioner of Agriculture, William H. May. This entire program will be broadcast by radio station WHAS in Louisville. Twelve victory bulls will be presented to Kentucky farmers in Hopkinsville on Saturday, August 22, with presentations and talks which will be carried by radio station WHOP Hopkinsville.

The receipients of these victory bulls are to be selected on a merit basis. Application forms were sent out by the Jersey Club to young farmers. The applications were completed and accompanied by a two hundred word letter from the applicant stating why he felt that he should be chosen to receive a Victory Jersey Bull Calf.

More than 800 applications have been received by the Kentucky Jersey Club, and the club's officials in conjunction with the Kentucky Department of Agriculture have narrowed the applications down to fifty-seven and from this number thirty-two will be chosen.

This is the first time in the history of the United States that breeders of registered cattle have made such a united effort to distribute blooded animals in a nation-wide campaign.

Individual members of the Jersey Cattle Club of Kentucky are donating the thirty-two bulls to be given in Kentucky. These Jersey bull calves come from known producers, selected registered dam and sire, and have excellent inheritance qualities and are registered under selective registration by the American Jersey Club.

Union Boy Scouts Commended For First Aid Services

Two members of the Union Boy Scout Troop were praised last week for the very fine and efficient service rendered Mrs. Jake Cleek following her accident at the Richwood Presbyterian Church on August 9th.

While leaving the church building on this Sunday, Mrs. Cleek fell, breaking her arm in two places. Two members of the Union Scout Troop rushed to Mrs. Cleek's aid and were successful in administering First Aid before she was removed to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment. These boys were G. L. Robinson, Jr., and George Howard, Jr., both of near Richwood.

Upon arrival at the hospital, the attending physician praised the manner in which the First Aid treatment had been given and stated that it also aided the patient during the journey to the hospital.

We sometimes overlook the fine things that our Boy Scouts are doing, but Mrs. Cleek and all those who witnessed the accident were shown the value of our Boy Scout movement and that it is one of the greatest builders of our youth today.

We are very glad to report that Mr. C. O. Hempfling is recovering nicely from a recent illness and that he is expected to be out among his friends very soon. He has been receiving treatment from Booth Hospital, Covington for several weeks.

EDGAR C. RILEY WILL BE HEARD

AT ANNUAL CONVENTION OF BOONE COUNTY CHRISTIAN CHURCHES, SUNDAY, AUGUST 30 AT BURLINGTON.

On Sunday, August 30, the Christian Churches of Boone County will hold their annual convention in the auditorium of the High School building at Burlington. Last year, the same meeting place was the scene of a large and enthusiastic gathering of the Disciples of Christ and from all advance indications, the convention this year bids fair to surpass even that of last year in both numbers and fervor. Such is fitting in view of the apparent need of the world for all the spiritual inspiration and up lift it can be given by loyal followers of Christ.

The program for the day will closely follow that of last year. The morning service will be given over to a union worship service commencing with a Sunday School session at 9:45 Eastern War Time, with the Communion Service and Convention Sermon following in order.

The afternbon session opens with an address covering the benevolent institutions of the Christian Church in Kentucky. This address will be given by Edgar C. Riley, who is well known to the people of Boone County as a former resident as he served as minister for several years in this locality, as well as County School Superintendent. Mr. Riley is now President of the Female Orphan's School at Midway, which institution has expanded widely under his guidance.

Following the above address, Dr. Andrew Hensey, who preached in Boone County around 1905 and who later went to Africa and spent many years there as a missionary in the Belgian Congo, will give the missionary talk in which he will outline many of his experiences as a messenger for the gospel in that far away land.

The theme of the convention—"Reach Every Person With Christian Teaching In Your Community" will be covered by a representative from the State organization in Lexington. His subject "The United Christian Advance" will outline the four-year program laid out for advancing Christian education among our people everywhere.

The last speaker on the program will be Rev. R. H. Carter, of Florence Christian Church, who, like Edgar C. Riley, is too well known to the people of Boone County as a minister and teacher to need much introduction.

Interspersed throughout the program will be special musical numbers from the different churches of the county.

Those in charge of the program have every reason for looking forward to a large and inspiring attendance so every member of the Christian Churches of Boone County is asked to attend and bring his neighbor, the only requirement for attendance being the bringing of a basket of food to add to the spread at noon. Further, the invitation to attend is most assuredly not confined to the members of the one denomination. All followers of Christ are cordially and sincerely invited to attend and reap the benefit which comes to all who attend a gathering of this nature.

Bring Your Scrap To The Four-H Free Fair

Anyone who goes, and everybody's going to the 4-H and Utopia Fair this Saturday, is going to see a bang-up attraction absolutely FREE.

But wouldn't you feel better if in lieu of admission you made a small contribution which would help the Fair Grounds Committee toward needed improvements? And if your gift were to glance off and do a neat little piece of damage to the Germans or Japs, who wouldn't dig deep?

Alright, here's the County Salvage Committee's plan for coming to the Fair.

Let everybody bring a piece of scrap metal or other junk and pile it at the Fair Grounds. There's room in the rear deck of the far, in the truck bed or on the broad back of the ole' mule, however you come. Bring anything from a pound to a ton.

The proceeds of the sale will be turned over to the Fair Grounds Committee and trucks of Walton and Readnour and the State Highway will dispatch it post-haste for the back-handed action of your good deed.

So bring it along and PILE IT HIGH.

SECOND VICTORY IN ELIMINATION

SERIES CHALKED UP BY LOCAL NINE OVER TACOMA PARK CLUB BY SCORE OF 3-2—BEST GAME OF DAY.

The Covington A. C., managed by Robert Eads, of Bob & Gene's Sandwich Shop and composed of such Boone County stars as Albert Sebree, Leslie Voshell, and Alvin Clere and other northern Kentucky stars, eliminated the Tacoma Park club by a score of 3-2 at the Covington Park, Sunday, in the elimination series.

The game was a hurler's duel between Bill Rusche of the winners and Mel Kleier of the Tacoma team. Rusche allowed four hits, fanned nine and walked one, while Kleier fanned three and gave up five hits.

The winners collected two runs in the opening inning on a walk, singles by Voshell and C. McMillan, and a hit batter. The losers were held hitless until the fifth inning, when Oswald doubled to center and came home on two infield outs. The Covington nine added its final run in the second inning on a walk, sacrifice and a hit by Sebree.

This was the second victory in the elimination series by Ead's team, and it is claimed by many fans that this club will take the series.

Three of Covington's five hits were collected by Burlington boys, Voshell registering 1, Sebree 1 and Clore 1.

Drawings for the fifth round of play were held at eight o'clock Monday night at the Newport Police Court.

"For Over Fifty Years"

IT MIGHT HAPPEN AGAIN
By J. E. Jones

In World War I farm land jumped from $100 to $700 an acre in the corn and wheat belts of the middle west. The same sort of a boom spread all over the country and land values of more than 2,000,000 farms increased 30 billions of dollars. During the first year of World War I, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States was appealing to bankers to "stop the land boom" and he did his utmost to prevent a collapse in farm lands following the war. He was right, as the records show agriculture was tossed into an acute depression that lasted for a dozen years.

Farmers now have a good market for all that they can produce, the same as in 1917. Despite all that is said about the troubles of farmers and difficulties to get help to operate farms, the Department of Agriculture predicts that the 1942 farm cash income will total upward of $14,500,000,000, or almost 25 percent above 1941. This condition in agriculture has already resulted in many farms being bought and sold.

The present increase in the value of farm lands has not reached the dangerous stage—but the symptoms are apparent. That explains why the Administration is keeping a watchful eye on indications of a possible runaway of land prices. It is evident in Washington that some kind of action is likely to be taken in the near future, because:

Land inflation happened 25 years ago, and it might happen again.

A NATIONAL DISGRACE

The nation was shocked last week at the spectacle of picket lines of grocery clerks completely stopping the operations of two large war production plants in Pontiac, Mich., over a jurisdictional dispute between two locals of the A. F. of L and C. I. O.

The breaking of labor's no-strike pledge over even a serious grievance or dispute would be a serious matter at a time when ever manhour of production counts heavily in the destiny of civilization. But to see a family squabble in the grocery business brought to the public's attention by shutting down a war plant employing more than 7,000 workers, and devoted 100 per cent to production of anti-aircraft guns and other war materials, was more than public patience could stand. As C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, whose big Pontiac plant was shut down because the C. I. O. workers would not cross a picket line of grocery clerks, said in telegrams to officials in Washington, the situation was "more than a national disgrace" and one which in these times "approaches treason." A few hours later the Governor of Michigan announced a settlement of the dispute. But only after Pontiac had lost 15 hours of war production.

Two facts are made clearer by this further display of labor irresponsibility: Labor is not keeping its no-strike pledge and labor leaders either are not showing statesmanship or cannot control their organizations, or both. What facts will emerge in terms of broken bodies on the firing line as a result of the stoppage of production of anti-aircraft guns, tank and Diesel engine parts, and of retooling for badly needed new war production, cannot be estimated. These are the incalculable but horrible results made possible by the unions' irresponsible action.

TRIAL OF THE SPIES

When the 8 German spies were captured and put on trial in Washington popular demand was to shoot these enemies on the spot. But military authorities and branches of the Government in control of the administration of the laws of the land under civilian practices got together to prevent any sign of terrorism in the handling of these cases. The United States boasts that every man is innocent until proven guilty, and that was the program followed by the Government. The Supreme Court was called in special session to pass upon the question of whether the military tribunal passed full authority to pass judgment upon the spies. The final decision rested with the President.

The Supreme Court passed upon the legality of legislation by Congress, and approved the position of the President. The Executive in turn had the final word concerning the decision of the Military Court. Thus, every branch of our Constitutional form of Government exercised its authority in the trial of the spies.

CROP CONDITIONS

Agriculture will provide a record quantity of wheat, corn, feed grains, livestock, dairy and poultry products, vegetables, rice, soybeans, peaches, apples, grapes and plenty of cotton. The United States Department of Agriculture confirms these facts. So why, all the shooting about the dangers of a food shortage?

The industries are giving out very good reports, too, about their crop prospects. The pumps are producing record crops of petroleum. The transportation systems that have always hauled the goods to markets for the American public are perfectly competent to uphold their records if they are left free to do so. Mr. Ickes and Mr. Henderson don't agree perfectly about oil transportation and that adds to the confusion.

The volume of munitions production has not only doubled, but it has trebled—in the past 7 months. The manufacturers' crops are the greatest in all history. And there is enough sugar in sight to sweeten up all sour pessimists.

The production of ships during July was the heaviest crop in the history of shipbuilding. Ordinarily that would have been wonderful.

Construction was below submarine losses. Mass production of 70-ton flying boats, and enlargement of crops of planes, bombers and cargo ships is multiplying. Already bombers are in the battle with those of the United Nations, helping to blast Germany in what may be regarded as the preliminary "Western Front."

July egg production in Jackson county is considered the highest on record for that month.

E. H. Thrasher and J. P. Smith, Cumberland county farmers, have purchased registered Angus bulls.

COOP SELLS 55 CARS POTATOES AND ONIONS

The Laurel County Farmers Cooperative Association has sold 55 carloads of potatoes and onions. Three-fourts of the production came from Laurel county and the rest from Clay and Jackson counties. The potatoes brought a net return of 99 cents to $1.15 a bushel, and the onions 80 cents a bushel.

The potatoes went as far south as Tampa and New Orleans and as far north as Cleveland. Most of them were sold to the Army, some for shipment abroad.

County Agent P. G. Grimwood says farmers who harvested 15 bushels of onions to a bushel of sets made good money. In order to make onions more profitable they should be set in fertile soil not later than March 15, he added.

JACOB'S VISION OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whithersoever thou goest.—Genesis 28:15.

Deception, trickery, falsehood, jealousy were all present in the family of Isaac at the time of our lesson. A hopeless situation, one would say; and so it was, apart from one thing—the grace of God. We speak that phrase so easily, but in reality it has an infinite depth of meaning.

Jacob shared the deception planned by his mother, and thereby he received the blessing of Esau. Not willing to wait God's time for the carrying out of His purpose, they sinned to gain an advantage. Then to escape the wrath of Esau, he had to flee. The journey was ostensibly to find a wife, but in fact a flight from an enraged brother. Could such a journey bring a man to a place of blessing? It did, as there was—

I. A Revelation of God's Grace (vv. 10-15).

The fugitive was overtaken by darkness on the second night of his journey, and made his bed in the open. Then came the magnificent vision of the ladder of heaven.

Heaven and earth are not separated. There is a way to reach the throne of God, and there is a way for God to reach and bless His people. The vision of the ladder thus reassured Jacob. We need only remember the God-Man Christ Jesus, who came from glory and has returned there to now appear as our Advocate, to be assured of this fact.

God renewed to Jacob the covenant with Abraham and with Isaac. He does not forget. Men make treaties only to break them. God says, "I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of" (v. 15).

In His matchless grace God relieved Jacob's fear by assuring him of His protection; his loneliness by His divine presence; and his uncertainty regarding the future by the promise of blessing.

The response of Jacob was—

II. A Realization of God's Greatness (vv. 16-19).

Full of holy fear and of awe, Jacob realized the presence of the infinite God. It is a proper and a wholesome reaction when a man, realizing himself to be in God's presence, is overcome by the awe-inspiring experience.

Possibly the reason for our lack of reverence for holy things, for the Lord's day—yes, for God Himself, is because He has become a little God, weak and uninspiring in our thinking. Theologians, preachers, and teachers have dared to speak swelling words of disrespect concerning His miraculous power, have denied the deity of His Son, have questioned the authority of His Word. Having sown the wind of unbelief, they have reaped from the people the whirlwind of irreverence, a belittling of God, and a rejection of His authority (Hos. 8:7).

Jacob was reminded of God's immediate presence—"the Lord is in this place." The place of his vision of heavenly things had special meaning to Jacob.

But the underlying truth is that God is everywhere. He is not only in the church, or in the place of vision or of soul-struggle; He is also in the place of trial, of suffering, of sorrow, of loneliness—yes, even of sin. The thing that Jacob "found out that night was not that God visits man, but that God is with man wherever he is. We expect to meet Him in the sanctuary; but He is near us in the market place . . . Not alone in the sanctuary, but where the multitude gather in defiance of His law, He is there" (G. Campbell Morgan).

This rich experience led Jacob to—

III. A Recognition of God's Goodness (vv. 20-22).

The God who would supply his every need, who would watch over him and keep him, was recognized by Jacob as being worthy of his devotion, and he made a vow that He should be his God (v. 21).

The grace and goodness of God are intended to bring men to faith in Him and devotion to His service. Yet men can go on year after year, the beneficiaries of all His bounty, and never so much as say "Thank you," let alone recognize Him as Lord.

Jacob made a very practical and workable decision to demonstrate the reality of his vow. He promised that one tenth of all God gave him should be given back for a sacred use.

We agree with Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas that "if only some of those who are inclined to criticize Jacob would do what he promised and give a tenth of their income to God, a different state of affairs would obtain in connection with God's work at home and abroad."

Trickery and deception were changed to truthfulness and devotion when Jacob met God face to face. The same blessed transformation awaits those who meet our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ in faith. Have you met Him?

SNAKES CAN'T SUCK COWS, EXPERTS SAY

Snakes can't suck cows, declare experts at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Their mouths just w o n ' t do the tricks. In most instances the cow probably is sucking herself. Another myth is that killing frogs causes cows to give bloody milk or go dry. There is no connection between a frog and a cow.

Why Suffer With Your Feet?

N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Our years of research have proven that foot comfort depends on foot balance.

For years men have been guessing about foot balance, putting steel supports under feet and elastic bands around feet, all sizes and shapes corn pads, plasters, callous plasters, etc. Yet people continue to suffer with their feet, legs, back and with various other aches and pains, resulting from feet in numerous cases, because they have never had their body weight properly balanced on their feet with shoes.

Your feet may look regular to you, but, naturally you cannot detect weakness or have any way of testing for unbalance. But remember: "Fat on the ribs" is by no means an adequate criterion of physical well being.

Don't take chances. If you are suffering with leg pains, knee pains, stiffness, backaches or severe headaches, or sleep poorly and are always tired, your feet may be the cause.—Adv.

Sweet news

OPA says the government's sugar rationing program is operating on a basis that probably will allow rations through the first nine months of 1943 at least equal to those at the beginning of rationing.

The "probably" is in there because the prediction is based on the provise that the submarine situation in the Caribbean does not take a radical turn for the worse.

It is estimated that to maintain the minimum ration through September, 1943, will require the distribution of 4,173,000 tons of sugar, but that an additional 830,000 tons will have to be kept in the nation's larder to insure an adequate supply in all sections of the country.

Estimated receipts of sugar for that nine-month period are estimated at 3,040,000 tons, and since the total needed for distribution in that period is 5,000,000 tons, we must go into the new year with at least 1,960,000 tons of sugar on hand.

Accordingly, it has been concluded that a year-end stock of 2,300,000 tons would represent a reasonable compromise between an actual danger of shortage and an excessive use of warehouse space.

Revision of federal price controls over service industries and trades —ranging from domestic laundries to stevedoring—has been announced.

The Consumer Service Regulation (No. 165) has been changed to set up 61 major groups of services, embracing most of those important to the cost of living. The word "consumer" has been dropped from the title and the regulation is extended to cover wholesale services and commercial and industrial consumers as well as ultimate consumers. The new regulation is effective as of August 19.

Work is proceeding on a maximum price regulation for certain forms of printing and for services connected with the repair, construction and maintenance of buildings.

The basic principle of establishing ceiling prices at the highest levels of last March remains unchanged, but the mechanism has been simplified.

Among the more common services covered at all levels—retail, industrial and commercial—are the repair and rental of automobiles, trucks and busses, tractors, trailers, small or portable electrical appliances, bicycles and business machinery, store and kitchen equipment, and the development and printing of photographs.

Repair of farm machinery, commission selling, grinding, mixing, bagging, fumigating and sampling of grain done on a custom basis, baling of hops, processing of vegetable or fruit nuts and the cleaning, mixing and bagging of seeds are among the farm services covered.

Shoe repairing, dry cleaning, hat blocking, repairs to hosiery, fur storage and many kinds of household repairs also are covered.

Automobile graveyard dealers in 47 counties of Northern Ohio accounted for 19,569 tons of vital iron and steel scrap in 30 days.

• • •

Housewives can help materially in the war effort by demanding fewer services from delivery trucks. Incidentally, if the lives of the trucks and tires are not prolonged—well, there won't be any deliveries at all one of these days.

LIME AND PHOSPHATE PUSH UP CROP YIELD

Wheat yields were doubled and barley yields trebled where farmers applied limestone and phosphate in Calloway county. On untreated land wheat produced 12 bushels to the acre; on treated land 24 bushels. Untreated land produced less than 12 bushels of barley, and treated lahd over 38 bushels.

The use of limestone and phosphate also improved pastures. V. B. Gardner of Lynn Grove says 15 cattle are unable to eat down 13½ acres of redtop lespedeza. John Walker of Kirksey pastured barley and crimson clover last fall and winter, and this spring combined 29 bushels of barley and 97 pounds of crimson clover seed to the acre.

Farmers are cooperating with the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Tennessee Valley Authority in testing the value of superphosphate and limestone.

Oscar Stephens' crop of four acres was the first wheat grown in McCreary county in years.

Directors of the Lincoln County Sorghum Growers' Association expect to have 6,000 gallons of molasses to sell.

THE MOTHER ON THE SIDEWALK

The Mother on the sidewalk as the troops are marching by
Is the Mother of Old Glory that is waving in the sky;
Men have fought to keep it splendid, men have died to keep it bright,
But that flag was born of woman and her sufferings day and night;
'Tis her sacrifice has made it, and once more we ought to pray
For the brave and loyal mother of the boy that goes away.
There are days of grief before her, There are hours that she will weep,
There are night of anxious waiting when her fear will banish sleep;
She has heard her country calling and has risen to the test,
And has placed upon the alter of the nation's need, her best.
And no man shall ever suffer in the turmoil of the fray
The anguish of the mother of the boy who goes away.
You may boast men's deed of glory, you may tell their courage great,
But to die is easier service than alone to sit and wait,
And I hail the little mother, with the tearstained face and grave
Who has given the flag a soldier, —she's the barvest of the brave.
And that banner we are proud of, with its red and blue and white
Is a lasting tribute holy to all mother's love of right.

OUR NAVY OF THE U. S. A.

Written in honor of Seaman William P. Farris, Electrician, Company 3, Section D, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

It's Ship Ahoy to the Navy please,
If needs, they will sail the seven seas,
They are out to get those Japanese
Our Navy of the U. S. A.

Their step is light—their eyes are keen
To spot the enemy submarine;
They will keep the ocean free and clean,
Our Navy of the U. S. A.

Where billows roll and sea foams cling
From deck to deck their voices ring,
As wonderful songs of home they sing,
Our Navy of the U. S. A.

Their hearts are strong and set to win,
Each one can smile, though war is grim;
Back home some lassie waits for him
Of the Navy of the U. S. A.

Old Glory waves from side to side,
Above the ships our seaman ride,
The lads in whom we take such pride,
Our Navy of the U. S. A.

They dream of a day—may it not be far
When the war is over and ship ahoy
And anchors a weigh, my sailor boy
Back in the U. S. A.

—MAY BOWLING.

CHEESE FOR EVERYONE

"We urge American consumers to eat more cheese," states Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. "It is a rich source of food elements that are vital to good health." Furthermore increase consumption of cheese will encourage production which is essential right now to keep up needed food supplies according to Secretary Wickard. To encourage consumers to eat more cheese the Department of Agriculture has designated cheese as a Victory Food Special for the two-week-period, August 17-29.

With nearly 170 million pounds more cheese in storage than the average for this season of the year, the National Dairy Council points out that every man, woman and child in the United States could eat an extra pound of cheese and still have a lot more cheese on hand than is normal for this season of the year. Furthermore cheese production is far in excess of any previous time. During the first five months this year more than 387 million pounds of Cheddar cheese were manufactured in this country. That compares with 255 million pounds of Cheddar cheese manufactured during the same period last year and with an average production of 176 million pounds during those five months in the past ten years.

Since cheese contains practically all of the ingredients of milk, it is recognized as one of the most important of all protective foods. Secretary Wickard gives added emphasis to the important part cheese plays in improving nutrition and national health today with this additional statement, "It is of great importance that present high production be maintained to meet wartime needs both at home and abroad. We may need even more before long. We must keep right on making cheese without any let-up. By using more cheese we can lighten the load on meat supplies which will be short for the next couple of months."

After food preservation demonstrations, several Nelson county farm women dried corn for the first time.

Leaders Attend Fall District Meeting

Leaders from local Homemakers' groups in Boone County attended the Fall District meeting to study "Dress for Victory" under the leadership of Miss Iris Davenport, Clothing specialist from the University of Kentucky, held at Coppins' Tuesday, August 18th.

Reports on the lesson will be given at local meetings in September when the clubs will begin the work for the new year. Clothing renovation is to be given consideration in light of the desire to save available cash for War Bonds, and for defraying indebtedness. Materials in garments on hand will be found to be superior to that in the stores. Victory clothing is simple and serviceable. Homemakers will try their artistic ability on "New Creations" from last season's wardrobe.

Every Boone County woman will want to take advantage of the information which will be given at Homemakers' meetings in September.

In Fulton county it is estimated that there will be 50 percent more pullets than last year.

Tire Shortage No Handicap To Mr. And Mrs. John H. Herbert

According to the following letter received from Mr. and Mrs. John H. Herbert, of Cincinnati, the shortage of tires is no handicap to them, as they visit when and where they please. The letter follows:

August 15, 1942

To the Boone County Recorder
Burlington, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Herbert, of Cincinnati, Ohio, took a train at Cincinnati, Tuesday morning to Erlanger, Ky. From there they cross-country hiked and stopped over Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dye and son Floyd.

Wednesday morning, we hiked thru to Hebron, got some refreshments, then hiked to Francisville, stopping at Mrs. Laura Aylor and family's, where we chatted and partook of a dandy cold drink, then on to Francisville to the home of Mrs. Nellie Markland where we spent the afternoon and night. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ryle sent over some delicious home-made ice cream, which was welcomed and enjoyed immensely.

Next morning we wended our way over North Bend Road, to the home of Mrs. Maude Terrill, down along the river, where we spent the night. The following morning Bovellis Terrill rowed us across the river to Ohio, where we hiked two and one-half miles to North Bend, where we caught a bus for home, Westwood, Cincinnati, O.

This surely was time well spent. We enjoyed every hour of it, and traveling slowly as we did, we saw beautiful Boone County better than we ever had before, and we could talk with all the nice people we met on our way.

We wish to thank all the families with whom we stopped.

Thanking you, we remain,
Mr. and Mrs. John H. Herbert,
3229 Stanhope Ave,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

FARMERS JOIN IN LAMB PELT PLAN

Many farmers have already sheared their late lambs, so that when they are finished for market in the fall, the wool will be of the right length to make shearling pelts which are so urgently needed for aviators' clothing.

Every farmer who has late lambs on hand should have a part in the shearling pelt program, says Richard C. Miller of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. All such lambs should be sheared now and finished for fall marketing at 85 to 100 pounds when they should have wool of the right length to make a No. 1 or No. 2 shearling pelt. A price of $1.90 to $2.15 has been established for these pelts. The summer shearing and fall finishing of late lambs is the best way to handle such lambs even under normal conditions when there is no special incentive as has been shown through experimental and demonstration flock tests. The shorn lambs make considerably better gains and there is less danger of losses from overheating or parasites.

Farmers who have not yet sheared their late lambs are urged to do so immediately and to see their county farm agent for further information in regard to the pelt program and methods of treating and handling these late lambs.

QUALIFIED CIVILIANS NEEDED IN SIGNAL CORPS

The United States Army Signal Corps needs qualified civilians to play a vital role in communications as radio trainees. Captain W. Gayle Starnes, Officer in Charge, Civilian Training, Lexington Signal Depot, today announced the hiring schedule for the mechanic learner courses which will start in the respective cities within the next few weeks. Men, and some women, accepted for training will study elementary principles of radio in repair and maintenance. Before an applicant can be hired, he must have passed a civil service examination to test his mechanical ability, and a physical examination to show that he is in sound health.

Men with mechanical aptitude, if accepted for training, will be given the opportunity, while they earn $1020 a year during the preliminary course, to study overhaul, repair and inspection of miscellaneous radio eqipment. They will assemble, reassemble, and test radio equipment and in general learn this type of work in communications. When the student completes the basic mechanic learner course he will receive a promotion and and will become a junior repairman trainee. Those who graduate in this division are eligible to become students in Field Radio, Lexington, Ky. Men are urged to make themselves available in the war effort and persons who are interested may file applications with a representative of the Sixth U. S. Civil Service District, post office box 853, Lexington, Ky., or at their nearest U. S. employment service office.

Those who complete the prescribed training may be assigned anywhere the flag of the U. S. flies, according to Captain Starnes.

Captian Starnes further emphasized that, "men who are qualified and eligible for military service can't stay out of the army by taking training at the Lexington Signal Depot. It seems to be the erroneous impression that men won't be taken into military service if they enter training here. This is not the case. Students subject to induction may enter the Enlisted Men's Reserve and complete their training with the U. S. Signal Corps here, but they will be taken into the army just as soon as they complete the course of study."

The hiring schedule follows, as announced today by Captain Starnes. This includes the number needed at the present time at the various centers.

ROOT-ROT DISEASE COSTS HEAVY TOLL

Dr. W. D. Valleau, Kentucky Experiment Station

Black root-rot will cost Kentucky growers million of pounds of burley tobacco this year. This in spite of the fact that growers have been warned about the danger from black root-rot for the past 15 years. Root-rot is severe this year for two reasons: First, the weather conditions were ideal for the development of the disease at setting time and during the next two months. Wet, cool weather helps to induce the disease. Second, many growers throughout Northern Kentucky, as well as certain other parts of the state, who had been growing a root-rot-free variety for several years, changed this year to varieties which developed the disease severely.

In Mason county, where in the past a majority of farmers have grown Ky. 16, a root-rot-resistant variety developed by the Kentucky Experiment Station, this year the majority changed seed with the result that numerous crops on fertile land had not yet started into vigorous growth in late July. The same condition prevails in Fleming county and other Northern Kentucky counties. In Mason county it is probably conservative to state that the change of varieties this year will cost the growers more than a million pounds of tobacco. In contrast, in Anderson county where growers made a switch from Ky. 16 to a highly touted variety three years ago, about 80 percent of the tobacco this year is again Ky. 16 and black root-rot is difficult to find. In Central Kentucky the majority of growers are using root-rot-resistant tobacco and the disease is rare.

In the mountain counties root-rot is particularly destructive because land for tobacco is scarce and consequently the same field is manured and frequently is put into tobacco every year. There is perhaps no part of the state where root-rot so consistently causes loss of crops as in the mountains. The land soon becomes tobacco-tired if the ordinary varieties are grown, but in these soils a root-rot-resistant variety can be grown successfully year after year if fertility is maintained.

The habit many growers have of changing to a new variety when someone markets a crop which sells well is a very expensive practice. If a grower would adopt the practice of sowing a small bed of a new highly advertised variety and set a stick row thru his own variety for comparison, he would not make the mistake which has cost so many people over half of their crop this year.

The Kentucky Experiment Station has been working on the problem of control of black root-rot for the past 20 years. During this time several good resistant varieties have been developed, Among these are Ky. 5, which was soon replaced by Ky. 16 nearly completely. Ky. 16 has proved to be adapted to most soils of the state, is high yielding and of high quality. In war-time it has a distinct advantage over the long-leafed drooping types of Burley in that Ky. 16 produces very few suckers and consequently can be harvested with much less labor. Ky. 41A is another very promising variety which has been grown to a limited extent during the past five years but has proved to be a high yielding, high quality tobacco with few suckers. Another variety, called Canadian, has proved to be highly resistant to black root-rot. This variety has been grown to some extent in Northern Kentucky the past few years. It is necessary to use caution with this variety as there are strains of tobacco called Canadian which take root-rot. If growers wish to change varieties, it is better to try the various root-rot-resistant varieties than to turn to some variety of which they know little or nothing.

A Week of The War

Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's Chief of Staff, in a radio broadcast August 9 marking the first anniversary of the Atlantic Charter, said "This war will probably be long. It will be the toughest, hardest, most merciless war we have ever fought. It calls for the united power of every American, in uniform and out of uniform, on the firing line and on the production line . . . I have no doubt of America's decision."

President Roosevelt, in a message read on the broadcast, said "Great progress" has been made in the battle of production, but "in terms of what will be required to defeat our enemies we have only just begun to get into our stride." Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, said America's conversion job has largely been completed; the emphasis now must be transferred from finished goods to the raw materials from which they are made. "We will get them—by full use of existing facilities, and by tapping new, or marginal, or abandoned sources of supply. We will develop new processes, eliminate waste, and work for full salvage by every citizen," Dr. Davis said.

Vice Chairman Batt of the War Production Board, on the same radio program, said the public must see to it that all waste and scrap metal is collected and "sent to the mills—quickly. There is plenty of iron and steel scrap . . . that must get back to the furnaces if the steel needed for the war is to be produced. You and I can help by keeping our eyes open."

In a general review of the war situation, the Office of War Information said June production of military planes fell slightly behind schedule, despite the fact that the U. S. made more planes than any other country in the world. The same was true of tanks, of most types of artillery, and of naval vessels, the OWI said. Because of enemy submarine activity, the Office said, it probably will be well into 1943 before we equal merchant shipping as of December 7, 1941.

The WPB announced inauguration of a nationwide inventory of used construction machinery to be made through WPB field offices in an effort to place an estimated 500,000 pieces of vitally needed construction equipment into use. A complete inventory of available equipment will be kept up to date at the regional offices for the information of war agencies and private contractors engaged in war work.

The War Front

The Navy announced "United States Naval and other forces have attacked enemy installations in the southeast part of the Solomon Islands in force and attacks are continuing." Later the Navy said "Considerable enemy resistance has been encountered and it is still too early to announce results or to estimate either our own or enemy losses." Gen MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia reported Aug. 10 that Allied planes from Australia were maintaining a 24-hour-a-day offensive over the entire invasion zone in support of the attack against Solomon Islands. The Navy also reported U. S. Naval Forces "bombarded enemy ships and shore establishments at Kiska" in the Aleutians, simultaneously with the beginning of the attack on the Solomon Islands.

Maj. Gen. Clark, Commanding General of U. S. ground forces in Britain, said the U. S. Army is sending "picked combat divisions" to Britain and "the sooner a second front could be opened the better." He said "obviously we are not here to sit on the defensive." The Pacific Coast, from the Canadian to the Mexican borders, was ordered dimmed out beginning August 20 and for the duration by Western Defense Commander DeWitt as a precaution against enemy attack at sea and on the shore. The Navy announced torpedoing of 14 additional United Nations vessels.

Sabotage and Subversive Activities

The White House announced six of the eight Nazi saboteurs landed in this country by submarine were executed in the District of Columbia jail August 8. The sentence of the other two were commuted by the President to life and to 30 years imprisonment, "because of their assistance to the Government of the United States in the apprehension and convention of the others." The First Ground Air Support Command in New York City announced the discovery by Army fliers of ingeniously contrived markers, aimed directly at Eastern airfields and airplane factories. The markers, invisible from the ground, were eradicated and the danger to the war bases averted, the announcement said. "Proper action" was taken against the persons who built the markers.

Transportation

The WPB approved the proposal of Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilder, to construct 500 70-ton cargo-carrying planes, patterned after the flying boat "Mars" built for the Navy. The program is contingent, however, "upon our being able to do it without interfering with the present combat plane program," WPB Chairman Nelson said. Army Air Forces Commander Arnold said at present 21 percent of all Army air forces multi-engined plane production is being devoted to transport planes, and the program calls for this proportion to be raised to 30 percent in 1943.

The Office of Defense Transportation said approximately 4,000,000 school children who ride daily in 93,000 school buses will be affected by ODT's order to reorganize all school bus services. The plan calls for staggered bus schedules and denies special bus service for students who have less than two miles to walk to and from school (with certain exceptions) and where areas are serviced by public carrier routes.

Rationing

President Roosevelt set up a three-man committee, headed by Bernard M. Baruch, to study the entire synthetic rubber program. The President said the Committee's finding will "form a basis for a future action not only with respect to synthetic rubber, but also such matters as nationwide gas rationing and motor transportation." The OPA said it is planning a universal ration book to be put into the hands of every American, as part of its machinery to handle rationing of many commodities which do not require rationing at present. The Office said traveling salesmen will not be permitted more than a B ration book in addition to their A books.

Farm Labor Supply

Agriculture Secretary Wickard announced the Farm Security Administration and the U. S. Employment Service will recruit additional workers for farmers in areas where there are seasonal shortage of labor. The workers will be recruited only after the farmer and the employment service have been unable to obtain workers locally. The workers must be paid the prevailing wage, to be determined by the Farm Security Administration, but in no case less than 30 cents an hour. If the workers come from a distance, farmers must pay transportation costs up to 200 miles and the FSA will pay for additional mileage. The workers must be properly housed and work guaranteed for at least three-fourths of the time they are in the area.

The OWI reported an arrangement has been concluded between the U. S. and Mexico making possible temporary migration of Mexican farm workers into this country to help combat the seasonal farm labor shortage, especially in the Southwest.

Army

The Army announced formation of two completely airborne divisions, consisting of about 8,000 men each, to be stationed initially at Camp Claiborne, Louisiana. The War Department said more than 7,000 Volunteer Officer Candidates (men classified as 3-A who volunteer for officer training) have been inducted into service. The Department said in a short time it will place orders for large quantities of wool cloth which will call for most of the domestic wool clip now available.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

A recent Department of Agriculture survey showed that American farm families are relatively better off than they have been for some time. The survey pointed out that the net income of farm families averaged 46 per cent higher during 1941 and the first three months of 1942 than in the comparable period of 1935-1936. If we were to extend the figures to cover the first six months of 1942, the increase would be even greater.

For example, the tobacco markets are just opening up, and prices are good. Frank O. Black, Federal Agricultural Statistician, recently stated that in South Carolina, if current tobacco prices are maintained throughout the remainder of the selling season, the farmers would receive upwards of $35,000,000 for their crops, or some $13,000,000 more than in the previous peak year of 1937. The outlook for other tobacco states is equally bright. With no price ceilings to stop them, butter and eggs are soaring and are at their highest prices since 1929. Farm income is on the rise and not likely to be slowed down soon.

But there is another side to the picture—for the farmer, living costs have gone up 33 per cent during the same period. When he goes to the store, he finds he can't buy as much with his dollar as he could several years ago. But even so, he can't complain, for his income has gone 46 per cent on the average while his living costs have gone up 33 per cent. He has gained, on the average, 13 per cent.

Now what are the farmers doing with this extra 13 per cent? The report showed that despite increased cost of living farm families put more than twice as much in savings in 1941 than they did in the 1935-1935 period. The farmers are not only making more money, but they are using it wisely.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

J. A. Sydnor of Graves county combined 333 pounds of crimson clover seed to the acre from nine acres, and had 2,700 pounds after recleaning. Fourteen sows had run in the field from the middle of September to the middle of April and 35 cattle had been in the field 10 days.

Spohn Eubanks of Mud Lick, Monroe county, has 2.2 acres of tobacco that was 3 inches high by July 1. On the field he spread 2,000 pounds of superphosphate and followed with 400 pounds of complete fertilizer in the row. He also used 20 loads of manure. He expects a yield of 2,000 pounds to the acre.

Tobacco consumption continues to forge ahead, says the markets department of the Kentucky Experiment Station. During the 11 months, July 1, 1941, to June 1, 1941, cigarette consumption increased 15 percent; cigars, 7 percent, and snuff, 8 percent, over the corresponding period a year earlier.

Among "new" vegetables grown by members of homemakers' clubs in McLean county are Chinese cabbage, Bibb lettuce and Brussel Sprouts. The cool, late spring, followed by rains, produced the best gardens seen in the county in years.

A display of rugs made by members of homemakers' clubs in Mason county attracted wide attention. Sixty rugs were made in three clubs. Neighborhood reading groups have been formed in the county for the exchange of books.

Members of homemakers' clubs in Hart county report making at home a total of 673 pounds of toilet soap, 2,712 ounces of hand lotion and 232 ounces of tooth powder. One woman reported making 120 pounds of soap.

J. L. Laferty of Floyd county obtained $70 worth of orchard grass seed from one acre. Threshing was done by piling the hay on a tarpaulin and beating it with a hickory stick.

FOREGO CANDY TO BUY WAR STAMPS

Instead of buying candy and soft drinks, 170 boys and girls attending the Big Sandy 4-H club camp in Johnson county, Kentucky, bought $194.25 worth of war stamps. This increased their investment in war stamps and bonds to $5,655.15, or an average of $33.25 each.

The same procedure is being followed at other 4-H club camps in Kentucky. The end of the year it is expected that every one of the 45,000 club members in the state will own war stamps or bonds.

It is estimated that 20 percent of the burley tobacco in Ballard county was cut in July.

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY

Ann Sheridan, who recently won nation-wide acclaim from movie critics for her performance in "Kings Row" will make her next film appearance Tonight and Friday at the Gayety Theater, when Warner Bros.' newest dramatic hit, "Juke Girl" makes its local bow. Featured in the supporting roles are Richard Whorf, who scored a hit in "Blues In The Night," George Tobias, Gene Lockhart, Alan Hale, Betty Brewer and others.

The fast-paced film is crammed with action, adventure and romance. It tells the dramatic story of a group of hard-bitten fruit packers in a small Florida town. BELLEVIEW CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sam Hamilton, Minister

Bible School 10:00 a. m. C. W. T. Tommy Stevens, Supt.

Worship Service 11:00 a. m. CWT. Sermon subject, "The Consuming Fire."

We begin this week on the work of redecoration of the auditorium and church property. Inasmuch as this work must be done by volunteer labor we ask that any who will contribute of their time toward any part of the work, make their intentions known to Brothers Kite, Hightower or Tommy Stevens.

We look forward to a speedy completion of this work in order that our plans for a great homecoming day may be observed in the near future. We have been fortunate in securing the services of Bro. and Sister Alison, missionaries from the Phillipine Islands for the program of this special day. Let us therefore, like they who rebuilt the temple of old, desist not from our labors because of the threats of the psudo-pious accusations of those who would have us gather in the plan of ONO. But let us take the sword of the Spirit in one hand and the implements of work in the other and raise up the wall of the New Jerusalem, being fully assured that we are blessed when men shall falsely accuse, and say all manner of evil against us for Christ's sake, for ours is the Kingdom of Heaven.

4-H'ERS FEED LAMBS TO HEAVIER WEIGHTS

Lambs which 4-H club members send to the annual show and sale at Lexington have increased six and a half pounds in weight in five years. In 1938 the lambs at this show averaged 74 pounds; in 1939, 78 pounds; in 1940, 79 pounds in 1941, 80 pounds, and this year, 80½ pounds.

Sixty-five garments were modeled at a county-wide homemakers' style show in Bourbon county.

John M. Kelly, of Carlisle county experts his hybrid corn to yield 60 percent more than his common corn.

BURLINGTON BOY PROMOTED

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Smith, of Burlington R. 2, received a letter last week from their son James W. Smith, who is stationed at Foster Field, Victoria, Texas, stating that he had been promoted to Staff Sargent and will remain at that field for sometime.

"Jimmie" as he is better known to his friends enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps Feb. 6, 1941 and completed his course as airplane mechanic August 29, 1941 at Chanute Field, Ill., at which time he was sent to his present post.

Jimmie was married to Miss Alma Frances Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Stephens of Union, March 21, 1942, who still resides with her parents since her marriage, but is now planning to join her husband soon.

Jimmie says he likes his work and thinks Texas a wonderful place to be.

ELECTRIC BROODERS CUT COST OF CHICKS

It cost an average of slightly more than 2½ cents a chick to brood chicks by electricity in Garrard county this year. This is reported by John R. Killinger, assistant county agent, after summarizing the experiences of 12 farmers who brooded a total of 2,343 chicks. Construction of the brooders, including tightness and insulation, was a factor in the amount of electricity used. The brooders ranged in size from 150 to 300 chicks.

THORNE'S WHEAT TRIED IN LOGAN

County Agent John R. Watlington reports that Herman Coots, a Logan county farmer, threshed almost five bushels more of Thorne's wheat to the acre than he got from Kentucky No. 47. The yields were 18 bushels and 22.98 bushels. J. M. Deberry threshed 32½ bushels to the acre from Thorne's wheat and 28.33 bushels of Velvet Chaff. Deberry reported that the straw of the Thorne's wheat was 6 to 8 inches shorter than the straw of the Velvet Chaff. It did not stool out as much as Velet Chaff, and did not lodge, while Velvet Chaff lodged badly.

PHYSICAL DIRECTORS NEEDED BY U. S. NAVY

Appointments are again being made as Chief Specialists (Acting Appointment) Class V-6, U. S. Naval Reserve (Chief Petty Officers), for duty as physical and drill instructors in the Navy's comprehensive Physical Fitness Program.

Applicants with at least two years of college, between the ages of 21 and 40—an extension of five years over the previous age limit for this rating—who have had previous military training or experience as coaches or physical instructors may qualify for these appointments.

The ultimate success in this war will depend upon the stamina of manpower, which makes the Physical Fitness Program of the Navy extremely essential in the war effort. Applicants selected for enlistment as Chief Specialists (A) are sent to the Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., for an intensive eight weeks' course of indoctrination and training.

Following this period of training, they are transferred for active duty ashore and afloat. The Chief Specialists (A) will be given further training which will qualify them for battle stations with the fleet at sea, or active duty with the amphibious forces of the Navy.

All interested and qualified applicants desiring to serve in this way in our country's war effort should arrange to be interviewed by the representatives of the Navy Department.

The Bureau of Naval Personnel's representatives will visit the Navy Recruiting Station in the Post Office Building, Cincinnati, on September 7 and 8 to interview applicants.

Applicants must have in their possession at the time of their interview, the following: (1) transcrip of their college or school record; (2) birth certificate; (3) discharge if they have had any previous military service; (4) two pictures (2½ and 2½) taken within the last week.

THE CAUSES OF INFLATION

In a finely-reasoned editorial the New York Times recently defined the causes of inflation—and pointed to the inevitable disaster that will occur if inflation is not prevented. Here, in part, is what it said: "We have yet to see any one demonstrate how it is possible to increase wages in the face of a growing scarcity of goods without bringing on inflation. . . . Nor have we heard any one contend that inflation is from labor's standpoint a satisfactory means of achieving 'equality of sacrifice.' Yet it is constantly being argued that to restrain wage increases would violate the principle of equality of sacrifice . . .

"The big executive who seeks to enrich himself out of the war is both foolish and unpatriotic. But his chances of getting away with it are practically nil. The Treasury has announced a policy of disallowing unusual and excessive salaries and bonuses. The new tax bill is calculated to catch the major part of what the Treasury lets by . . . Under these conditions it is completely misleading to refer to salaries of the magnitude of $275,000 and $357,000 as though those amounts were actually at the disposal of the recipients. In the case of the latter sum, the government will get at least 80 per cent. . .

"How inflationary are such salaries? The relatively small number and amount involved was strikingly shown by the Treasury's figures with respect to the President's proposal for a ceiling of $25,000 on individual incomes. These showed that only 11,000 individuals and married couples and only $184,000,000 of income would be involved. Contrast this with the inflationary gap of $30,000,000,000 which Secretary Jones says will exist next year between consumer incomes and the supply of goods available. It is absurd to suppose that our inflationary problem could be solved even by taking away every cent of the income of the highest-paid executives . . . .

"As for the question of corporation profits, it is true that in some cases they have increased—before taxes. But again it is misleading to forget the great change being wrought by the tax collector. In the first quarter of this year a representative group of corporations tabulated by the National City Bank showed that in spite of a large gain in gross, net income after taxes was down an average of 25 per cent . . . .

"If inflation comes . . . it will come because the purchasing power of the whole country, flowing out chiefly in the form of higher wages, has increased out of all proportion to the volume of goods and services available. And if inflation comes it will not be the corporations will be reduced to misery and privation. It will be the workers whose high wages will buy less and less the higher and higher they go."

Inflation would destroy the economy of this country—and inflation could lose the war for us. Price control will be doomed to failure unless definite and aggressive action is taken to limit and absorb the excess purchasing power created by war. We are doing that in the case of executive salaries and industrial income. We are not doing it with wages—and abnormally high wages constitute the strongest inflationary influence of all.

COLLEGE CONDUCTS DEMONSTRATIONS IN GROWING SEED HEMP

Three series of demonstrations in the production of seed hemp now are under way in Kentucky, under the direction of the Extension Service of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The first series, which will continue through August, is dealing with the removal of the male plants.

The male plants do not bear seed and are cut out at this time so they won't be in the way when the seed is harvested. The male plants are recognized by their flowers and by their yellow stalks. There will be 88 county demonstrations where farmers can see how the non-seed bearing plants are removed.

In the second half of September, the College, through its Extension Service, will conduct 92 county demonstrations in harvesting hemp seed. Then, in October, will come the final job, the threshing. demonstrations are scheduled for 87 counties.

Earlier in the season the College conducted two series of demonstrations in planting and thinning seed hemp.

According to figures released by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, 8,074 farmers in 117 Kentucky counties are growing a total of 35,971 acres of seed hemp.

SMALL GRAINS YIELD WELL

Here are some yields reported by County Agent R. B. Rankin of Adair county: Mont Corbin threshed 60 bushels of wheat from 20 acres. Sam Banks harvested 449 bushels of winter oats from eight acres. Billy Todd threshed 95 bushels of winter oats from an acre and eight tenths, sowed after tobacco was harvested.

OF WOOL POOL CLIP—BURLINGTON, WALTON AND PETERSBURG PLACES WHERE WOOL WILL BE RECEIVED.

The Boone County Wool Pool clip will be delivered at Walton on Wednesday, September 2nd, Burlington on Thursday, September 3, and Petersburg on Friday, September 4, according to H. E. White, president.

The 1942 pooled clip was offered for sale on last June 8th, but due to an unexpected major slump in the market two weeks previous to that date satisfactory bids were not received and all bids were rejected. The market has been very rull until just recently.

The clip was sold at the earliest possible date a satisfactory bid could be received. It is expected that the 375 county pool members owning approximately 60,000 pounds of wool will be pleased with the sale to L. S. Denkelspiel & Co., of Louisville.

Mr. Dinkelspiel has requested that all growers use care in not getting their wool wet on the date of delivery. Wet wool is not desired either by buyer or the seller. Tarpaulins should be used to carefully protect the wool in case growers must deliver the wool during a rain.

16 MOTORISTS RECEIVE FINES

ON CHARGE OF OPERATING MOTOR VEHICLE WITHOUT OPERATORS LICENSE THURSDAY.

C. L. Cropper, Acting Judge of Boone County Court, fined sixteen motorists $2 with the costs of court suspended, Thursday, for failing to secure their drivers' license.

Four others who had been cited by State Highway Patrolmen produced licenses to show that they had been purchased before the July 31 deadline. Those fined had purchased permits before appearing in court, Judge Cropper stated.

The drive, instituted by State patrolmen is being conducted through this section of the state due to a decided decrease in operators' license purchased this year from the various Circuit Clerks.

Boone County drivers are warned to purchase their license before operating their car on the highways.

SERVICE IS AVAILABLE

TO BOONE COUNTY FARMERS THROUGH SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT RECENTLY FORMED.

The service of the Soil Conservation District recently formed is now available to Boone County farmers. The district has a Soil Conservation expert who will be glad to assist any farmer in working out a soil conservation plan best designed to control erosion and conserve water supply. This plan should prove valuable to many farmers and there is no charge for the service.

No labor or machinery is available at the present time and probably with the exception of small amounts of equipment will not be available until after the War. However, those farmers who have a well organized soil conservation plan already worked out will be in a better position to secure additional service when the war emergency has ended.

Those farmers who are interested in working out a soil Conservation plan should contact Mr. Walter Johnson, soil conservationist, in the Old Recorder Office building in Burlington or one of the Soil Conservation District supervisors C. Liston Hempfling, Constance; Grover C. Ransom, Verona; John C. Bedinger, Walton; H. E. White, Burlington, or Wm. Presser, Waterloo, or inquire at the County Agent's office in Burlington.

COUNTY SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 14TH

WITH 1942-43 TEACHER STAFF STILL INCOMPLETE—TRANSFER OF TEACHING POSITIONS SEEN AS LIKELY SOLUTION.

The 1942-43 school term will begin in the Consolidated Schools of Boone County on Monday, September 14th, it was announced this week by Supt. D. H. Norris.

The teaching staff, as yet incomplete, is expected to be filled by this time, even though there is a serious shortage of teachers throughout the country. One solution to Boone County's problem may be a shifting of position of some teachers from the elementary grades to high school positions. This would permit persons not qualified to teach in high school to be granted emergency certificates to teach in elementary schools for the duration.

This shortage of teachers is not a local condition, but a nationwide problem. It is felt in all school systems, but particularly in the smaller systems with only limited funds to be expended.

The partial list of teachers for Boone County this year follows:

Burlington—Edwin Walton, Amanda Holliday, Arnita Harrison, Lallie Kelly, Mildred Siekman, Mary K. Riley.

Hebron — Chester Goodridge, Mary Bess Cropper, Emily Winchester, Willie Clark, Norma Powers, Lucy B. Stevens, Lawrence Rodamer, Mary F. Bondurant, Nina S. Lucy, Sadie Rieman, Ruth K. Huey.

Florence—F. D. Caton, Mrs. F. D. Caton, Mrs. T. T. Thomas, Dorothy McHenry, Zayda Clore, Stella Lutes, Cora Lutes, Mrs W. H. Jones, Thelma Grob, Clara Watts, Henry Beach, Mrs. Edgar Arnett.

New Haven—John Masters, Flora Masters, Mrs. C. T. Walters, Sylvia E. Fannin, Ora B. Presser Alma Rouse, Mrs. W. K. Martin.

Hamilton—Steve Gabbard, Edith Caudill, Sara Sleet, Mrs. Robert Robbins.

Belleview — Rachel Pottinger, Martha T. Wolfe, Jocelyn Rice.

Constance—R. V. Lents, Mollie Lents, Madeline Corman.

Petersburg — Marion Toadvine, Mildred Toadvine, Laura Mae Mathews.

Colored Schools Burlington—Maggie Fisher.

EXTENSIVE SCRAP DRIVE PLANNED

BY BOONE COUNTY SALVAGE FOR VICTORY COMMITTEE—"JUNK RALLIES" WILL BE HELD SATURDAY.

Between now and the time snow flies, the Boone County Salvage for Victory Committee has urgent business with every farm and home in the county. By that time we want every pound of scrap metal or other salvage material to have left here and to be filling its proper place in production for our country's defense.

To initiate a Scrap Harvest Campaign, "Junk Rallies" will be held Saturday, September 5th, in all towns and trading centers of the county. All families are asked to bring in to a collection point where they trade a big sack of scrap. It may be old rusty iron or steel, brass, aluminum, copper, any metal, any article made of or containing rubber, or it may be rags, burlap or worn-out rope. Fifty to a hundred pounds could be gathered around any home and two hundred pounds (not all in one piece) wouldn't weight a fellow entirely down.

All scrap delivered that day will be weighed up and paid for on the spot. You may be paid in cash or by "junk scrip" which may be redeemed at a premium for special items offered by cooperating merchants. All stores are being urged to display bargains, to make specials and to offer, real inducement for your trip to town that day. Let's not lose sight of the object—GET IN THE SCRAP—but if everyone enters into the spirit of the day, it will prove to be interesting and profitable for all.

Committee members are often asked the sale price of junk. Delivered in metropolitan Cincinnati, prices on an average are: Scrap iron 75c per 100 lbs; brass and copper 1c per lb.; rags, old burlap and rope 1c per lb; batteries, any condition, each 80c; tires and old rubber 70c per 100 lbs.; and old inner tubes 3½c per lb.; grease and fats collected as specified 4c per lb., by your meat dealer.

So, a systematic collection will yield results enough to interest you. If not, delegate the job to the children. They will welcome the opportunity to earn a little money. Just a little trouble by anybody means a real service to your country.

Mrs. Allen H. Gaines, Walton 33, or J. B. Heizer, Jr., R. 2, Walton, Ky., will be glad to answer any inquiry about scrap, or lend assistance in its collection. They will appreciate your aid in this job we must get done.

HEBRON LUTHERAN CHURCH
Rev. H. M. Hanter, Pastor

Sunday, Aug. 30, Bible School at 10:30 a. m. Mr. Woodford Crigler, Supt.

Evening service at 8:30 p. m., conducted by the pastor.

The joint council of Hopeful-Hebron Parish will hold their semi-annual business meeting at Hebron Church, Saturday afternoon, August 29, at 2:30 p. m.

ACP SIGN-UP IS SCHEDULED

AUGUST 27 TO SEPTEMBER 2 WILL BE SIGN-UP DAYS AT VARIOUS PRECINCTS IN COUNTY.

A series of meetings for signing up in the 1943 Agricultural Conservation Program has been arranged, according to John E. Crigler, Secretary, at the following places:

August 27—9:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Constance School.
August 27—8:00 p. m. (C. W. T.) Hamilton School.
August 28—8:00 p. m. (C. W. T.) Grant School.
August 28—9:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Hebron School.
August 29—1:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Burlington A. C. Office.
August 29—8:00 p m. (C W. T.) Verona School.
August 31—8:00 p. m. (C. W. T.) Petersburg School.
August 31—9:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) New Haven School (Union and Beaver District).
September 1—8:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Florence School.
September 2—9:00 p. m. (E. W. T.) Walton School.

All producers have been notified regarding the sign up.

Very little, if any, payment will be made for the seeding of grass and clover under the 1943 program, as practically no increase was made by producers in their acreage of these crops since the Agricultural Conservation Program has started. The main increases have been in the use of limestone and phosphate and in the seeding of winter legumes and the use of winter cover crops. The 1943 program is therefore built around these soil-building practices.

It is hoped that a larger use will be made of 20 percent phosphate which will be available in a few days, and of vetch which is now available. Both of these materials can be ordered at the Agricultural Conservation Office at any time. Limestone as grant of aid will probably be available within a few days and orders may be placed on a tentative basis. Limestone and phosphate may become more scarce as the program year advances, so all producers are urged to order these materials at once for the entire program year.

Members Of Minstrel Asked To Attend Band Practice Monday Nite

All those connected with minstrel are asked to be present next week at band practice. At this time vocal training will start for the singers. The orchestra will practice new musical numbers, dancers, will be selected and end men are to meet to practice their jokes.

The Florence band members have ordered new uniform, and soon there will be uniforms for all members of the combined bands.

SCRAP DONATIONS NET FAIR $10.71

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED TO COUNTY SALVAGE COMMITTEE AND DONATORS OF OLD SCRAP.

Mr. J. B. Heizer and Mrs. Alan Gaines, County Salvage Committee Chairmen, announced Monday of this week that $10.71 worth of scrap was brought to the Fair Saturday and donated to the 4-H and Utopia Fair Grounds Building Program. The State Highway Department hauled the scrap to the junk dealer and turned the proceeds over to the Council.

The great good of such donations is not the amount of scrap delivered to the fair but the increased amount of scrap that will be sold to the junk dealers direct from the farm as a result of this educational program. The 4-H and Utopia Club Council expresses its appreciation to the County Salvage Committee and pledges its full support of our National Salvage program.

The major problem in the Salvage program in that it is best through their services that the various scrap metals can be separated graded and supplied in its various grades to the manufacturer needing that particular grade. Very few manufacturers can use all this scrap as it comes from the farm.

"For Over Fifty Years"

HOW LONG WILL THE WAR LAST?

By J. E. Jones

"This war probably will be long. It will be the toughest, hardest, most merciless war we ever have fought," is the opinion of Admiral Leahy, who is accepted in Washington as one of the Nation's most dependable authorities on the European situation, due to his experiences as American Ambassador to Vichy, France.

Apparently Admiral Leahy has very small hope that the United Nations will inflict "decisive blows on our enemies" in early weeks, or in 1942.

The American government has been holding back its long-expected offensive in Europe, and until this month the public has been told all the "good news," while "bad news" has been suppressed.

No one knows what lays ahead. But the die has been cast, and we are, at last, very heavily involved in the Pacific and doing very well.

There is no drawing back on matter how great the cost, or how long the struggle.

—o—

THE LABOR SITUATION

While the two big labor unions are talking about future peace the CIO has been pressing the War Labor Board for wage increases among workers of the United States Steel Corporation. A total of 250 thousand employes are involved.

In another dispute the War Labor Board has announced 4 cents an hour increase for men and 3 cents an hour for women employed in a Cincinnati tile manufacturing company. One Board member split with his colleagues and charged that the ruling was "inconsistent with prior decision . . . in comparable cases."

There are other disputes in all parts of the country. Among these is a "wildcat strike" of 1,000 workers in the General Cable Corporation Plant at Bayonne, New Jersey. As this letter leaves Washington the first-page news in National Capital newspapers reports that President Roosevelt sent troops to a New Jersey plant.

Confusion continues as the leaders of CIO and AF of L continue to enforce new demands upon plants engaged in war production. Congress has passed up the subject of labor legislation until after election and the National Administration, which means the President and Boards he appoints, will remain in full charge of labor-wage policies. President Roosevelt continues to take the position that he can adjust any differences within the jurisdiction of the Green and Murray unions, for the reason that those two Chiefs maintain National headquarters in Washington. Whenever there is an absolute showdown those big boys obey orders from the White House.

The ten million members of the two organizations are not even consulted.

—o—

"LEARNING THINGS" BY MAIL

Correspondence courses are coming under fire before the Federal Trade Commission which has issued complaints against courses in finger printing by mail. Diesel engineering and Civil Service "prep" lessons are challenged.

The Commission has also put the Philip Morris and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Companies on the carpet. In both cases the companies are charged with newspaper advertising and radio broadcasts that are called false and misleading representations.

Manufacturers of numerous patent medicines have been making stipulations with Federal Trade and agreeing to withdraw some of their claims as to what their dope will do for the sick—and the suckers.

—o—

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

A short time ago President Roosevelt appointed Elmer Davis as Chief of the Office of War Information and that journalist has done a swell job in opening the news channels in a way that has met the approval of the American press.

In view of the above there has been considerable feeling expressed in Washington and throughout out the country over proceedings that have been instituted against the Chicago Tribune, New York Daily News and the Washington Times-Herald for having published news reports of the Battle of the Coral Sea. The Chicago Tribune had one of its best correspondents, Stanley Johnston, at the scene of the action, and he "scooped" the world with his story. The Chicago Tribune claims that it did not violate any military regulations or disclose any military secrets. That paper will defend what it calls the freedom of the press. The matter is very important and undoubtedly newspaper men thruout the country will watch any proceedings in the courts with great interest.

RUBBER AND HIGHWAY PRODUCTION

Great care must be exercised that in curtailing highway transportation we do not interrupt war production, points out Harvey C. Fruehauf, President of Fruehauf Trailer Company, who states: "Our close contact with motor transport permits us to observe how closely our war production effort is bound up with highway transportation. In the city of Detroit, for example, a tremendous percentage of the freight moving into war factories is by trucks. Factory planning departments, whose duty it is to see that the production line flows smoothly and without interruption, take into account in their work the accurately scheduled arrival of trucks carrying needed parts and materials. No other form of transportation can dovetail its arrival with the speed of the production line."

Motor truck arrivals of parts and materials permit an inventory bank in many instances of only a few hours supply, he observes, and adds: "Were other forms of transportation required this inventory would have to be brought up to cover periods of days or perhaps even weeks. Were a transition required from truck to other forms of transportation it would so seriously jam rail transportation, that a serious and impossible tangle would soon prevail.

"In our anxiety for rubber conservation, which we all know is need, we must exercise exceeding care that essential transportation goes on. We must deliver our workers to the factories. We must deliver materials and parts. We must deliver the finished products and we must supply workers and military units with food, clothing, ammunition and other essentials."

This does not infer that it is not necessary to challenge how we use the rubber we now have available, Mr. Fruehauf says, and cautions: "If it becomes necessary to deny the use of rubber in order to conserve what we have until the time in which synthetic will become available, let us do it by seeing that rubber returns every last tonmile of useful work. Let us see that it is used for essential transportation. Let us insist that non-essential transportation, excessive speeds, serious overloading and the other evils are held down to a minimum. "If all of the rubber in this country is made to do its utmost in useful work, we will come through the temporary shortage without crippling war-time industry or military efforts."

MANPOWER ON THE FARM

In a recent address, John Brandt head of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, had some common-sense things to say about agriculture in this country. On the subject of the farm labor situation, he observed: God pity this nation and its liberties if the farmers of America said tomorrow, 'We are going to quit on Friday at four o'clock and we won't turn a wheel again until eight o'clock Monday morning.' We'd be licked before we started . . . Our men are going to the Army, as we expect them to go, and we likewise expect whatever is necessary of the manpower on the farm to go and work in defense factories. But until such time as the manpower of the city has been used to the extent of more than 40 hours a week, they have no right to draw from agriculture men and women out of the 70-hour category."

Food is as necessary to this war as bullets. We have obligated ourselves to supply other United Nations with gigantic quantities of foodstuffs which they cannot obtain elsewhere. If the farms are drained of manpower, that food supply cannot be produced. In some sections of the country, lack of manpower for farming is already forcing curtailment of operations. This is a real and imminent problem, and it must be solved.

It requires as much power to carry 20 tons of 4-engine bombers through the sky as is needed by a crack passenger locomotive to haul 1,000 tons of cars and tender over the rails.

JACOB SEEKS GOD'S HELP

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 32:2-12, 27-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.—Psalm 46:1.

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."
—Isaac Watts.

How true it is that "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." Jacob found it so, even though his trouble came upon him because of his own misdeeds.

God had prospered him at Haran, but in due time he was led by circumstance and by direct guidance to return to his own land (Gen. 31:1-3). Hindrances arose, but Jacob pressed on. As he came toward home, however, he recalled the sin which had caused him to flee. He remembered now how he had defrauded Esau and this

I. Guilt Brought Fear (vv. 2-8).

It always does. The sinful act of 20 years before now faced Jacob. He had left it behind and had all but forgotten it. He had hoped that the years would cover it, but they did not—and they never do.

"Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23)—perhaps not this week or this year, or next; but until it is dealt with and forgiven it is there to rise up and plague you sooner or later.

Jacob's fear was increased by hearing that Esau came out to meet him with 400 men. He tried by his own devices to meet the situation, but ultimately realized that his predicament had reached the point where only God could help him.

How like us, trying everything else until we realize its futility, and then turning to God. How delightfully simplified life becomes when we turn to God first. Yet we are glad that Jacob's

II. Fear Brought Prayer (vv. 9-12).

It was real prayer, too, although, as W. H. Griffith Thomas suggests, it is strange that after his blessed personal experience with God he addressed Him only as the God of his fathers and not his own God (v. 9). Then, too, his faith seemed a bit weak, for it was coupled with great fear (v. 11).

We are told that fear is not a proper motive for turning men to God. Perhaps it is not the highest motive, but both in Scripture and in experience we find it to be true that fear often leads men to God in real repentance and faith. If the goodness and grace of God do not touch man's heart, it is assuredly far better that he should be saved through fear than to be eternally lost.

Jacob, however, needed a further experience of dependence upon God before he could be brought back in peace into the land. He was led to send everyone away so that he was alone when the Lord dealt with him and

III. Prayer Brought Blessing (vv. 27-29).

Jacob, who had by deceit taken the promise from Esau instead of awaiting God's time to give it to him, was now about to attempt another skillful scheme which would have won over Esau and sent Jacob into his land glorying in his own ability. In spite of all God's dealings with him, he was still Jacob the supplanter. So God had to deal with him.

We sometimes think of the grace of God only as that which brings us blessing and joy, but often God is being most gracious and considerate of our real need by sending opposition and hardship.

The divine visitor let Jacob struggle all night, giving him a chance to submit of his own will; but when it was evident that he would not, he was shown that his own strength would not do, for he was made lame (v. 25).

The very thing which made Jacob sure of his own strength became his weakest point at the touch of God. He was not the last one to learn that lesson.

The comment of F. B. Meyer on this entire scene is most helpful: "Note that Jacob did not lay hold of this visitor, but the visitor lay hold of him. This is not a picture of a man coming to God, to wrestle with God in prayer, but a record of God coming to man, to break the spirit of stubbornness and self-sufficiency which a particular man has for too long a time habitually manifested. All night these two wrestled, the one from heaven and the one of earth, and when, at the dawn of day, Jacob saw that he could not prevail against the man, in his exhaustion and weariness he suddenly felt the touch of the stranger's hand on his thigh. Immediately his thigh was out of joint, rendering him absolutely helpless. But now Jacob realized that the one with whom he had wrestled all night was a divine person; and, whereas early in the night he was held in the grip of the other, now he refused to release his grasp of the visitor until he received a blessing from him."

"For Over Fifty Years"

HOW LONG WILL THE WAR LAST?
By J. E. Jones

"This war probably will be long. It will be the toughest, hardest, most merciless war we ever have fought," is the opinion of Admiral Leahy, who is accepted in Washington as one of the Nation's most dependable authorities on the European situation, due to his experiences as American Ambassador to Vichy, France.

Apparently Admiral Leahy has very small hope that the United Nations will inflict "decisive blows on our enemies" in early weeks, or in 1942.

The American government has been holding back its long-expected offensive in Europe, and until this month the public has been told all the "good news," while "bad news" has been suppressed.

No one knows what lays ahead. But the die has been cast, and we are, at last, very heavily involved in the Pacific and doing very well.

There is no drawing back on matter how great the cost, or how long the struggle.

—o—

THE LABOR SITUATION

While the two big labor unions are talking about future peace the CIO has been pressing the War Labor Board for wage increases among workers of the United States Steel Corporation. A total of 250 thousand employes are involved.

In another dispute the War Labor Board has announced 4 cents an hour increase for men and 3 cents an hour for women employed in a Cincinnati tile manufacturing company. One Board member split with his colleagues and charged that the ruling was "inconsistent with prior decision . . . in comparable cases."

There are other disputes in all parts of the country. Among these is a "wildcat strike" of 1,000 workers in the General Cable Corporation Plant at Bayonne, New Jersey. As this letter leaves Washington the first-page news in National Capital newspapers reports that President Roosevelt sent troops to a New Jersey plant.

Confusion continues as the leaders of CIO and AF of L continue to enforce new demands upon plants engaged in war production. Congress has passed up the subject of labor legislation until after election and the National Administration, which means the President and Boards he appoints, will remain in full charge of labor-wage policies. President Roosevelt continues to take the position that he can adjust any differences within the jurisdiction of the Green and Murray unions, for the reason that those two Chiefs maintain National headquarters in Washington. Whenever there is an absolute showdown those big boys obey orders from the White House.

The ten million members of the two organizations are not even consulted.

—o—

"LEARNING THINGS" BY MAIL

Correspondence courses are coming under fire before the Federal Trade Commission which has issued complaints against courses in finger printing by mail. Diesel engineering and Civil Service "prep" lessons are challenged.

The Commission has also put the Philip Morris and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Companies on the carpet. In both cases the companies are charged with newspaper advertising and radio broadcasts that are called false and misleading representations.

Manufacturers of numerous patent medicines have been making stipulations with Federal Trade and agreeing to withdraw some of their claims as to what their dope will do for the sick—and the suckers.

—o—

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

A short time ago President Roosevelt appointed Elmer Davis as Chief of the Office of War Information and that journalist has done a swell job in opening the news channels in a way that has met the approval of the American press.

In view of the above there has been considerable feeling expressed in Washington and throughout out the country over proceedings that have been instituted against the Chicago Tribune, New York Daily News and the Washington Times-Herald for having published news reports of the Battle of the Coral Sea. The Chicago Tribune had one of its best correspondents, Stanley Johnston, at the scene of the action, and he "scooped" the world with his story. The Chicago Tribune claims that it did not violate any military regulations or disclose any military secrets. That paper will defend what it calls the freedom of the press. The matter is very important and undoubtedly newspaper men thruout the country will watch any proceedings in the courts with great interest.

RUBBER AND HIGHWAY PRODUCTION

Great care must be exercised that in curtailing highway transportation we do not interrupt war production, points out Harvey C. Fruehauf, President of Fruehauf Trailer Company, who states: "Our close contact with motor transport permits us to observe how closely our war production effort is bound up with highway transportation. In the city of Detroit, for example, a tremendous percentage of the freight moving into war factories is by trucks. Factory planning departments, whose duty it is to see that the production line flows smoothly and without interruption, take into account in their work the accurately scheduled arrival of trucks carrying needed parts and materials. No other form of transportation can dovetail its arrival with the speed of the production line."

Motor truck arrivals of parts and materials permit an inventory bank in many instances of only a few hours supply, he observes, and adds: "Were other forms of transportation required this inventory would have to be brought up to cover periods of days or perhaps even weeks. Were a transition required from truck to other forms of transportation it would so seriously jam rail transportation, that a serious and impossible tangle would soon prevail.

"In our anxiety for rubber conservation, which we all know is need, we must exercise exceeding care that essential transportation goes on. We must deliver our workers to the factories. We must deliver materials and parts. We must deliver the finished products and we must supply workers and military units with food, clothing, ammunition and other essentials."

This does not infer that it is not necessary to challenge how we use the rubber we now have available, Mr. Fruehauf says, and cautions: "If it becomes necessary to deny the use of rubber in order to conserve what we have until the time in which synthetic will become available, let us do it by seeing that rubber returns every last tonmile of useful work. Let us see that it is used for essential transportation. Let us insist that non-essential transportation, excessive speeds, serious overloading and the other evils are held down to a minimum. "If all of the rubber in this country is made to do its utmost in useful work, we will come through the temporary shortage without crippling war-time industry or military efforts."

MANPOWER ON THE FARM

In a recent address, John Brandt head of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, had some common-sense things to say about agriculture in this country. On the subject of the farm labor situation, he observed: God pity this nation and its liberties if the farmers of America said tomorrow, 'We are going to quit on Friday at four o'clock and we won't turn a wheel again until eight o'clock Monday morning.' We'd be licked before we started . . . Our men are going to the Army, as we expect them to go, and we likewise expect whatever is necessary of the manpower on the farm to go and work in defense factories. But until such time as the manpower of the city has been used to the extent of more than 40 hours a week, they have no right to draw from agriculture men and women out of the 70-hour category."

Food is as necessary to this war as bullets. We have obligated ourselves to supply other United Nations with gigantic quantities of foodstuffs which they cannot obtain elsewhere. If the farms are drained of manpower, that food supply cannot be produced. In some sections of the country, lack of manpower for farming is already forcing curtailment of operations. This is a real and imminent problem, and it must be solved.

It requires as much power to carry 20 tons of 4-engine bombers through the sky as is needed by a crack passenger locomotive to haul 1,000 tons of cars and tender over the rails.

REQUESTS SOCIAL SECURITY CARD HOLDERS TO USE CARE IN HANDLING CARD

Several million persons with old-age insurance accounts apply to the Social Security Board each year for duplicate account number cards to replace those lost, destroyed, or so badly worn they cannot be read, according to Mr. Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Board's field office at Burlington.

"Although requests for replacements are always granted," Mr. Decker said, "the worker should understand that a little care on his part will help to prevent delay in issuing him a duplicate card. He should keep a permanent record of his account number, in any way he chooses. With such a record he will be able to tell us what his number is, even if he loses his card. With the number, we can replace his card immediately. Without knowing what it is, we have to send his application for a duplicate to the accounting section of the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance at Baltimore, Maryland.

"In making such a request, the worker should be careful to explain that what he wants is a duplicate card, not a new one. Assignment of a new account number to a person who already has one number confuses his account and may result in difficulties in the eventual settlement of his claims for insurance benefits."

Foot Comfort Specialist at—

PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE

814-816 Madison, Covington

Do you have severe pains in the muscles of your legs?

Do you walk with toes pointed out?

Are you bedeviled by a thousand demons tearing at your back?

Do you hate to get up in the morning?

Do you experience foot pain when walking?

Can you be on your feet all day without fatigue?

Any or all of these conditions may indicate that one or more of the four arches of your feet are on the verge of collapse. There is really no end of the trouble that such a condition could cause. Around the bones and muscles of your feet are numerous nerves, all of which are directly connected with the nerve center. Severe pains in your feet are transmitted to every part of your body.

What can you do about it?

For years men and women have withstood the aches and misery due to some foot condition and have always decided "There is nothing you can do about it."

Now Comes a Sure Way to Relief for many aches and pains due to faulty foot condition. You will be eager to rise each morning and meet the conditions of the new day. You will have the springy active step of a youngster of eighteen. You will not be old at forty! There is no secret to it. You don't have to take a long rest, nor a change of climate. You need only to be correctly fitted in a pair of surgical shoes. You may think this is a simple way to end all of pain and misery, you have been suffering for a good many years, but after all don't the simplest things in life bring the greatest joy?

Resolve today that you will pronounce the death sentence on the misery, aches and pains due to foot trouble.—Adv.

DEVIL DOGS IN SOUTH ARE WARNED OF AXIS AGENTS

Axis agents, busily engaged in espionage activities along the Atlantic coastline, are rumored to be moving into the Savannah, Ga., district. Considering the number of nearby military bases and the hundreds of service men who visit the city of Savannah, this is a fertile field for spy activity.

The average girl dated by a service man probably is harmless, but the tiny bits of information she might receive, when fitten together like a jig-saw puzzle, make a complete picture.

However, there are probably many apparently guileless girls, whose eager ears are constantly seeking information that a Marine may pompously put forth.

The possibilities are great that some lad in uniform, plied with beer and sweet words, could easily disclose reasons why he won't be around shortly or why one plane looks so much different from another.

Marine Corps commanding officers have posted rigid regulations in this regard. Because of the danger, Leathernecks have been told to remember that too much beer may endanger their buddy's life.

MEDICAL STANDARDS AT STAKE

It looks as if quick Congressional action is needed to preserve the present high professional standards of the medical fraternity—and so protect the public health.

It is probable that when the various anti-trust laws were passed, Congress did not think that they would be applied to scientific groups, such as the American Medical Association, as they are applied to profit-controlling industrial combinations. But, more than a year ago, the principal officials of that Association, which includes doctors with international reputations, were tried on a charge of "criminal conspiracy to restrain trade" and found guilty. The decision was sustained by the U. S. Court of Appeals last June. This is apparently a matter where the courts have no choice—inasmuch as Congress did not specifically exempt professional groups from the trust laws, the courts regard the practice of medicine as trade and commerce, and apply the anti-trust statutes accordingly.

The ominous possibilities that may occur unless Congress takes remedial action, are of importance to all. If reputable medical groups can no longer prescribe educational and ethical standards for the profession, the medical field will be wide open to unscrupulous quacks. The splendid American hospital system, which is based on the right of physicians to control or influence the qualifications of staff doctors, will be imperiled. And the American people will pay the bill in the terrible coin of inferior medical attention.

As one authority has pointed out, if the long-accepted rights of the medical profession are nullified, "Standards and safeguards which have operated would be removed; every medical society would be paralyzed; the status of the profession would be sacrificed, and every practicing physician would face the competition of every fakir and charlatan who decided to 'hang up a shingle.'" That must not be allowed to happen.

MODERN LANDINGS

Gliders—motorless planes which can be guided to designated landing areas noiselessly—may transport Leathernecks participating in the next big-scale landing of the United States Marines.

Marine Corps glider training centers have been in operation for more than a year and many pilots and technicians have been trained during that period. There have been few accidents and no fatalities.

Glider pilots and glider-borne Marines form a comparatively new branch of the widely expanding war program of the Marine Corps. Like Marine parachute troops, Leathernecks trained to land via gliders may soon form an important section of the spearhead of America's amphibious forces.

Giant troop-carrying gliders today can be launched from the ground by planes in flight and are towed until they attain sufficient altitude to proceed themselves. Large gliders carry 24 fully-armed Marines. A smaller type carries a dozen Leathernecks.

Gliders furnish several important features in modern land-and-sea warfare. They provide a silent approach to objectives and require no fuel. Some gliders have flown more than 400 miles and have reached altitudes exceeding 22,000 feet.

Lt. Col. Vernon M. Guymon of Rexburg, Idaho, veteran Marine Corps aviator, is in charge of Marine Corps glider training. He is known as a daring pilot and has won the Croix de Guerre with bronze star, purple heart with oak leaf cluster, silver star, Second Division citation and victory expeditionary and Nicaraguan campaign medals and the Nicaraguan medal of merit with silver star.

This Week On The Home Front

A dangerous pattern is being drawn by the continued advance in those food prices over which the Office of Price Administration has no control, Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared late last week.

Terming the June 15-July 15th cost-of-living figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics a warning "that should be read carefully by every housewife," the administrator said uncontrolled food prices are counteracting the stability that OPA has achieved in the prices of controlled foods, clothing and rents.

According to the bureau's cost-of-living figures, those food prices that are uncontrolled rose 2.5 per cent between June 15 and July 15 on top of a 4.8 percent advance the previous month. In sharp contrast, those food prices under OPA control rose only three-tenths of one percent between June 15 and July 15 and decline 1 percent in the previous month.

In the same period prices of all unregulated goods and services advanced 1.6 percent, while prices of controlled items showed a nominal increase of one-tenth of 1 percent.

If these food-price advances were to be projected over a year—and Mr. Henderson called such a projection anything but fanciful, we would be paying an average 30 per-cent more for many important food stuffs 12 months hence. He added:

"The effect of increases of this magnitude on the average family budget would be most destructive. Inflation would have a large foot in the kitchen, even if OPA continued to succeed in holding the line of prices it has set for the things it is empowered to control."

So you want to write the boys overseas? The Post Office Department announces that V-mail service, inaugurated on June 15, is now past the experimental stage. Facilities have been increased to handle a rush of mail. Facilities for photographing and reproducing V-mail to and from the United States and the British Isles, Australia, India, Hawaii and other points are now in operation. A similar service is being planned for Iceland and other points as the volume of mail warrants.

Because the film takes up so little space it frequently gets air service to its destination. V-mail has been given priority over all other kinds in handling. V-mail letter sheets have been distributed to all post offices and they will soon be available in all stores selling stationery.

The letters are photographed on micro-film at the date of 2,500 an hour. Each film carries 1,500 letters. Letters are automatically reproduced and delivered in sealed window penalty envelopes. Where letters are sent to men not at V-mail points, the original copy is rushed to him by regular mail.

The enterprise of the Federal Trade Commission in proposing to control textile labeling according to degree and kind of colorfastness has been welcomed by the OPA as "an important advance in the battle we are waging to keep down the cost of living."

The corps will begin operations October 5, when all schools have opened. Over 30,000,000 boys and girls of school age are eligible. Membership is on a volunteer basis and the enlistment term is two weeks. A complete working program is being printed and will be available at least two weeks before the campaign opens.

Acting to halt outflow of a dwindling inventory of 1942 Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth four-door, hard-topped sedans until Army and Navy requirements have been filled, OPA has froze until Oct. 31 all sales to civilians of cars of that description that have been driven less than 1,000 miles.

VICTORY FIREWORKS FEATURE AT CONEY

Pyrotechnical likenesses of General Douglas MacArthur, the American flag and other patriotic figures and objects will be featured in the Victory Fireworks show at Coney Island, Cincinnati, every night, August 28 through Labor Day, Sept. 7th. An Aerial Circus, featuring daredevil trapeze artists in death-defying routines, also will be a free attraction twice daily during this period—at 4 and 9 p. m.

The Three Milos are one of the headliners in the Aerial Circus. Two girls and a man make up the trio. They perform dangerously atop a 125-foot high rigging, without the use of nets or other safety devices. The act reaches a sensational climax when their perch seems to break during a particularly tense moment in their act, threatening to send them hurtling to the ground.

Another thriller is the Great Fussner, described as "the world's foremost exponent of unsupported balancing. Several other thrilling acts also are on this free program, chief among them the La Stellas, trapeze artists.

Coney Island's season will reach its climax and close on Labor Day when a particularly elaborate entertainment is planned.

Jack Teagardden and His Orchestra will be the attraction in Moonlite Gardens, Coney's beautiful summer ballroom. Other highlights of the Coney program are the boatride on the Island Queen; the swimming pool, dining at the Clubhouse, the United Nations War Show, many rides and fun devices, and a thousand free picnic tables.

A Week of The War

Lt. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Forces, said American airplanes generally are superior to those of the enemy. He said that in the Pacific theater since the war started 1,110 Army planes have battled with 1,459 Japanese aircraft and have shot down 190 with loss of only 104. These figures do not include planes destroyed on the ground, those shot down by anti-aircraft fire, Navy and Marine Corps action, or the work of the American Volunteer Forces in China.

Gen. Arnold said the goal of a 2,000,000 man air force with 185,000 fighting planes would be met. He said the recruitment and training of pilots, bombardiers and navigators is progressing perfectly. There is, however, a growing demand for gunners, various enlisted technicians, radio operators and glider pilots. Gen. Arnold said American planes are arriving in Britain every day in preparation for the aerial offensive against Germany in Union with the R. A. F.

Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Commander of U. S. Army Forces in the European theater, said in London that training of U. S. units there must be intensive in all its phases. "This is true," he said, "first, because the time is short; second, because the problems we have demanded the ultimate in trained personnel; and, third, because our men must be toughened and hardened physicaly to stand the most rigorous operations."

The War Front

In the first offensive action by United Nations' forces in the Southwest Pacific, U. S. Marines effected landing and then consolidated their position in the Tulagi area of the Solomon Islands. At the same time, U. S. Army and Allied shore based aircraft from Australia continuously attacked "Japanese air bases and ship concentrations in enemy held harbors," in support of the invasion. Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet King reported early in the battle that the U. S. appeared to have had at least one cruiser sunk and two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport damaged, while a large number of enemy planes were destroyed and enemy surface units were put out of action. He said the type of operation being undertaken in the Solomons is one of the most difficult in warfare.

The Navy raised the toll of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in the Aleutians to at least 22 by adding a destroyer to those hit in the surprised attacks of August 8-9 on Kiska Harbor. U. S. Headquarters in the European theater reported Army Air Force fighters participated with the R. A. F. in 31 sorties off the coast of England in 48 hours ending August 13. Air Forces heavy bombers based in India and China continued destructive raids against the Japanese. The Navy announced the sinking of seven United Nations merchantmen by enemy submarines, the lowest weekly number of such sinkings announced in the past 16 weeks.

Rationing

Sugar Ration stamp number 8 is good for five pounds of sugar in the ten-week period beginning August 23 and ending October 31. the Office of Price Administration announced. While not changing the basic ration of one-half pound per person per week, it will enable consumers to make purchase in larger units and facilitate the disposal of 5, 10 and 25-pound packages.

Price Administrator Henderson and Petroleum Coordinator Ickes announced jointly that fuel oil rationing on the East coast may be unavoidable next winter. All Eastern motorists were told by the OPA to display their gasoline ration stickers immediately, because "it is illegal for any service station attention to sell gasoline to a vehicle unless the sticker corresponding to the type of book is conspicuously displayed on the car." The rationing regulations for new passenger automobiles were amended to make members of the U. S. Armed Forces eligible to purchase new cars upon proof that a car is needed for transportation between residence and post of duty or on official military business where no military vehicle is available.

Farm Prices

Livestock price ceilings would require very complicated controls of marketing conditions even to inspection at individual farms, Agriculture Secretary Wickard said. Such ceilings would benefit small packers, he stated, but would not increase supplies. If it becomes necessary, however, the Department of Agriculture will assist in working out a ceiling program, he said. Mr. Wickard reported the available meat supply, after deduction of Lend-Lease and military requirements, would furnish four pounds more meat per person between now and June 1943 than the average per capita consumption from July 1931 through July 1940. The Agriculture Department estimated the number of cattle on feed for market in the cornbelt States on August 1 had dropped 19 percent from the comparable figure a year ago, apparently because imposition of ceilings on beef prices caused feeders to deviate from their plans as reported in April this year.

Secretary Wickard said the corn supply is being used faster than corn is being produced, and next year, "unless we feed more wheat than usual, "over 200 million more bushels of corn will be used than is being raised this year. There are still large stocks, however, in the national granary, he said.

Stabilization of Wages

The National War Labor Board granted an increase of 7½ cents an hour to 61,000 workers in 40 New England and 11 Southern textile mills. The Board denied any wage increase, however, to 32,000 employees in 10 plants of the Aluminum Company of America and 900 workers in the Buffalo, New York plant of the American Magnesium Company because these workers "had received average hourly rate increases sufficient to compensate for the 15 percent rise in the cost of living which had occurred between January 1, 1941, and, 1942." The Navy acting under orders from President Roosevelt, took over the strike-bound plant of the General Cable Company in Bayonne, New Jersey. The strike occurred at the plant, working exclusively on production of war materials, after the NWLB had refused a request for a general wage increase.

The Armed Forces

The Army announced an intensive recruiting campaign to enlist 100,000 skilled mechanics and technicians for service in the Army Air forces, the Signal Corps and the Ordnance Department. All applicants must be male U. S. citizens between the ages of 18 and 44, inclusive, and all must obtain clearance from their Selective Service Boards. The War Department said it will train dogs as sentries, messengers, pack dogs, airplane spotters and for other purposes. Dogs for Defense, Inc., a private organization, will continue to act at the Army's procurement agency and the dogs will be trained at the Quartermaster Remount Depot at Front Royal, Virginia. The Department announced a reorganization of its various public relations units to eliminate the issuing of conflicting statements.

The Office of Civilian Defense will help recruit full time personnel for the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve for beach patrol and coastal lookout duty. The Navy said it will appoint retailers in designated trading areas to help carry out its plan for controlling the sale of ready-made uniforms to officers or chief petty officers, beginning October 15.

Transportation

Mail deliveries and pick-ups face curtailment in many localities because of lack of men and the need to conserve trucks and tires, the Post Office Department announced. Definite curtailment plans were announced for Washington, D. C., and Detroit. The Office of Defense Transportation said local transport systems throughout the country will face the heaviest load in history by mid-September. The ODT prohibited railroads, effective September 15, from hauling refrigerator and box cars carrying civilian freight unless they are loaded to capacity.

Our meeting opened with song, "The Light of the World Is Jesus," with our president, Mrs. Branham, presiding. Mrs. Branham brought the devotional from Ezra 6:1-6, "The Second Temple," followed by a prayer by Mrs. Emma Cleek. Watchword was repeated, and Mrs. Ella Rouse, our program leader, then took charge of the program, presenting the topic of the month, "Think On These Things; Whatsoever Thinks Are of Praise." Those helping on the program were Mrs. Huff, Mrs. Bessie Stephens, Mrs. Edith Jones, Mrs. Francis Aylor, Mrs. Ann Bodle, Mrs. Emma Jane Aylor and Mrs. Mary F. Edwards. Mrs. Ella Rouse led the closing prayer.

The meeting was then turned back to the president for our business session. After roll call and minutes of last meeting were read, we had reports of different chairmen, prayer for shut-ins by Mrs. Edith Jones and dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Huff.

The Y. W. A. also held their meeting that day.

We were glad to have Mrs. Emma Cleek with us for the day.

Publicity Chairman.

TWO YEARS' SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION AVAILABLE FOR HUNTERS, IS REPORT

Frankfort—All hunters should buy their ammunition for shotguns for the coming hunting season as soon as conveniently possible, S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, pointed out today, relative to a statement received from Federal officials in which they stated that there would be no point in hunters and shooters dropping their sport because of the war.

Ammunition factories have ceased manufacturing rifle, pistol and shotgun ammunition for the duration of the war but enough of this type is on hand in wholesale and retail stores to last through this season and possibly next. For that reason federal officials in replies to queries from skeet and trap organizations, urged the continuance of these sports and also of hunting as a wholesome recreation.

Wakefield urged all Kentucky hunters to lay in their supply of ammunition for the 1942 hunting season and the 1943 season also.

MIGRATORY BIRD REGULATIONS FOR 1942

Frankfort, Ky.—Federal regulations on Migratory Birds have been received by the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish, and, according to the specifications, received by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division, the dove hunters will see a decreased bag limit and a shortened season while the duck hunters will receive a lengthened season with bag limits remaining practically the same as last year.

The Dove season will open in Kentucky on September 16 and will close on October 15. The bag limit has been set at 10 per day and a possession limit of 10 also. Due to the fact that many farmers have been raising hemp in the Bluegrass state this summer at the request of the Federal government, the dove crop is reported as being very good but the late season may see most of these birds already heading south before the opening day rolls around.

Mourning doves may be taken from sunrise to sunset.

Investigation, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, Director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported, showed a "very material shortage of the eastern form of the mourning dove as compared with the population of a few years ago." This is the reason for a shortened season and a smaller bag limit.

A new 70-day duck hunting season, instead of 60 days in 1941, beginning on October 15 and ending on December 23, will greet the Kentucky nimrods this year.

The federal report stated that duck-hunting privileges will be greater this year because of the continuing increases in the supply of these birds. Based on the game-management principle that the annual take should be governed by the available game, the new rules were phrased after a Fish and Wildlife Service inventory indicated a North American waterfowl population of about 100,000,000 last January. This was 30,000,000 more than the 1941 estimated and more than three ti mes the estimated population seven years ago. Later favorable reports from investigators on the birds' breeding grounds corroborate the expectation that next fall's duck flights will be the best in more than a decade.

Daily bag limits on ducks are "10 in the aggregate of all kinds including in such limit not more than 1 wood duck, or more than 3 singly or in the aggregate of redheads and buffleheads." Any person at any one time may possess "not more than 20 ducks in the aggregate of all kinds but not more than 1 wood duck, nor more than 6 of either or both of redheads or buffleheads."

The daily bag limit on geese and brant is 2, but in addition 4 of the more abundant blue geese may be taken in a day. If blue geese only are taken the daily bag limit is 6.

The possession limit on geese, other than blue geese is 4 a day, but in addition 2 blue geese are allowed and if only blue geese are taken the possession limit is 6. On the season's opening day the possession limit is the same as the daily bag limit.

Duck-hunting hours will run from sunrise to sunset, instead of from sunrise to 4 p. m., as formerly, and legally killed birds may be possessed for 30 days after the close of the season, instead of 20 days. A "duck stamp" costing $1 must be in possession to hunt ducks and geese and this stamp may be purchased at any post office. This stamp is in addition to the regular state hunting license.

Investing $143 in sheep, R. E. Mansker of Graves county has sold lambs and wool for $204.

DEATH CLAIMS JUDGE N. E. RIDDELL

CAREER OF COUNTY OFFICIAL ENDS AFTER 36 YEARS OF SERVICE

Financial Condition of County Outstanding Due to Judge Riddell's Guiding Hand—Funeral Services To Be Held Thursday at 3:00 P. M.

As it must to all men, death came to County Judge N. E. Riddell, Tuesday morning at 11:00 a. m. in Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio, where he had been a patient for approximately five weeks.

His death ended a prolonged illness starting on November 20, 1938 at which time he suffered a slight paralytic stroke, later developing a serious coronary condition which persisted and ultimately caused his death.

Judge Nathaniel Edson Riddell was born in Burlington, Ky., on July 17, 1872, son of Fountain and Louisa Riddell, and died September 1, 1942 at the age of 70 years, 1 month and 15 days.

He is survived by one sister, Henrietta Renaker, wife of A. B. Renaker, Burlington, Ky.; one niece Mary Louise Townsend, wife of Dr. Wm. Townsend, Falmouth, Ky., and many other relatives. His, wife, Katie Huey Riddell, preceded him to the grave 12 years ago.

He spent his boyhood days in and argund Burlington, Boone County, attending the public schools and later the Morgan Academy, obtaining his elementary education. Later he attended the Cincinnati Law School, now part of the University of Cincinnati, from which he graduated in 1895 with the L. L. D. degree. Upon graduation he became associated with the late Judge John M. Lassing with whom he practiced law for several years.

In 1906 he was elected County Attorney in a hot race against the late D. E. Castleman. He held this office until 1919 when upon the death of the late Judge P. E. Cason he was appointed County Judge to fill his unexpired term. He was elected without opposition in the next election and held that office until the time of his death. At his death he completes 36 years and 8 months in public life. During this time Judge Riddell made countless friends and hardly a day passed but what one or more persons sought his advice on various matters, ranging from personal affairs to that of county business. He also conducted an extensive insurance business.

He was president of the Boone County Deposit Bank for about fifteen years, as was his father before him, giving up this office when that bank was merged with the Peoples Deposit Bank. On Monday, June 1, 1930, Judge Riddell was again elected president by the directors of the Peoples Deposit Bank to fill the unexpired term caused by the death of C. H. Youell, having been reelected from time to time, which position he held at the time of his death.

For several years Judge Riddell owned and operated The Boone County Recorder, a weekly newspaper founded in 1875 by his uncle, the late W. L. Riddell. He was secretary of Masonic Lodge No. 264 at Burlington for 40 years. He was also a member of the K of P. Lodge.

Judge Riddell had few hobbies, probably getting his greatest recreation from driving an automobile and obtaining first hand information as to how it operated.

On June 6, 1900 Judge Riddell was united in marriage with Katie Huey, daughter of William and Virginia Garrett Huey, there being no children born of this marriage.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 3:00 p. m., (E. W. T.) at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. B. Renaker, Burlington, Ky., with Rev. Roy Johnson and Rev. T. O. Harrison, officiating. The body was removed to the Chambers and Grubbs funeral home in Walton, Tuesday afternoon for preparation and returned to the Renaker home, where it will lie in state until Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in Highland cemetery.

There was not a man in Boone County to whom the people looked with greater respect than Judge Riddell, and that confidence was never betrayed.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR REPORTED

BY BOONE COUNTY SHEEP PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION—PAYMENTS WILL BE MADE ON LOSSES SEPTEMBER 5TH.

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association Board of Directors met Saturday, August 29, and approved 18 members' claims for dog losses, totaling $489.00. This was the largest loss to members during the four years of operation but for the four consecutive years membership payments exceeded expenditures.

Approximately 1 percent of all sheep in the association were killed by dogs last year. Members feel the value of the association because they know not what day or night a large part of these losses may be their own individual flocks and the sheep industry on that particular farm be destroyed.

A written report will be prepared and submitted to all members at the annual meeting which will be held at 2:00 p. m. (Eastern War Time) at Burlington on this Saturday, September 5. Payments of the past year's losses will be made at that time. All members and others who are interested in the Sheep Protective Association activities are urged to attend.

BOONE COUNTY SCRAP CAMPAIGN SET FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 5

Salvage Job Is Second Front For Every Patriotic Man, Woman and Child in America—Deliver Junk To Nearest Collection Center

One hundred and thirty million Americans are facing one of the most important assignments ever given to the home front in this nation's wartime history.

To meet America's increasingly critical shortage of raw materials every man, woman and child in the country is expected to be enrolled in the nation-wide drive for scrap metals, rubber, hemp, waste cooking facts and other materials, lack of which is already beginning to hamper the war effort.

The organization of the all-out scrap collection, one of the most colossal jobs ever undertaken by this nation, is going ahead under the direction of the Conservation Division of the War Production Board, which has set a goal of 17,000,000 tons of scrap metal alone for collection in the next few months. It is estimated that a vast reservoir of about 10,000,000 tons of scrap metal is now lying idle in homes, on farms, and in industrial plants and business concerns.

Everybody in Boone County is going into the junk business for a while Saturday. Junk Rally Day will be held in all towns and trading points and everybody is asked to bring a big sack of scrap in where they do their Saturday shopping.

Any scrap metal, rubber, rags or burlap will find a ready sale for cash at any of the collection points named in the advertisement on another page of this issue, and other designated points on this one day.

Uncle Sam wants and needs all your scrap materials and it will pay you to bring them in Saturday. Most of the merchants and stores are offering attractive bargains, special items can be bought worth your junk money, and it ought to be profitable for all. You will see friends and have a good time.

Don't dismiss the matter with the thought that you've already disposed of your scrap. A little poking around will turn up pieces you had long forgotten, and a systematic search and clean-up would in some cases reveal tons. Before snow flies everybody will be urged to gather their last pound, to sell or donate, to themselves haul or cooperate in moving it off to take its place in Production for Victory. So let's get started now.

A Line To The Children

Listen, all you children, little ones and big 'uns too, who can lift. Gather up all the old scrap metal you can find and bring it to town in a sack Saturday.

Now I didn't say to take Dad's new straight back razor or the last pot mother's got to boil a ham in. But in the cellar, around the barn or in the barn lot you'll probably find some old iron that's not good for anything except to shoot at the Germans or the Japs, and FOR YOU TO SELL in town Saturday. If it's too early to think of school books, it will buy you all the candy and ice cream you want and maybe go far enough for a trip to the movies. Now, get busy!

$981.65 IN WAR BONDS SOLD

AT 4-H AND UTOPIA FAIR—COMMITTEE EXPRESSES SINCERE THANKS FOR COOPERATION GIVEN.

The War Savings Committee of Boone County reported that there was sold from their booth at the 4-H Fair, in War Bonds, (series E), and War Savings Stamps, the amount of $981.65, this being the issue price.

The committee was pleased with the amount sold, but was sorry that more people did not stop in the booth and obtain literature or express an interest in the movement. However, the committee stated that they were aware that people attended the fair for relaxation and that they should not be in any way censured for their lack of interest in the booth, but did want it made known that the bulk of sales made were in large amounts, which of course were acceptable and will be a great help toward attaining the August quota.

The committee wishes at this time to gratefully acknowledge the help which it received from the following: Chambers & Grubbs; Geo. W. Hill & Co.; Kirkpatrick's Store; Sam Ryle; Community Public Service; McBee Service Station; Poston Brothers; Mrs. G. W. Tolin; Miss Dorothy Furnish; Elmer Kirkpatrick and this newspaper.

STATE POOL TO BE ESTABLISHED

OF SINGLE MEN WHICH WILL BE DRAINED BEFORE MEN WITH DEPENDENTS ARE CALLED FOR SERVICE.

Kentucky draft boards will not be required to induct bona fide married men as long as there are substantial numbers of registrants in Class 1-A available to other draft boards, it was announced last week.

The ruling, announced by the State Selective Service headquarters, will take effect in October, according to Maj. C. S. Carter. Maj. Carter made the announcement following a telephone conversation with Col. Frank D. Rash, State Selective Service director, who is in New York.

Local draft boards will continue to make a distinction between marriages of long standing and those taking place since the nation's entry into the war or since Sept. 16, 1940 when the registrant's induction could be termed imminent, Maj. Carter explained. The latter types are not recognized by local boards as bona fide marriages.

The ruling, in line with the objective of Congress of maintaining bona fide family relationships as long as possible, will tend to establish a state pool of single men which will be drained before the next pool—men with dependents with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship—is tapped.

THE CAN'TS CAN'T HAVE IT
By J. E. Jones

Aluminum is largely a product of common rocks, and only a few years ago some 250 pieces of shiny kitchen articles and a few lawsuits against Andrew Mellen's alleged monoply were the chief distinctions for aluminum. Production of aluminum has doubled in recent years and the complainers who said there wouldn't be enough of it for airplane manufacture are likely to be poor prophets of what our nation industries can do.

Iron is as common and old as religion and to get more iron simply means an increase in mining it. Combined with percentages of carbon, iron forms steel. Steel production was four times as great this year as it was 10 years ago. American industry can undoubtedly make all the steel that is needed, and the present "steel shortage" is largely a question of allocation and distribution, which is being solved.

"In peace time we never used our existing plant to the full," relates a statement from Government Industrial Operations, which adds that in a short time "we will be able to estimate far more closely" how to sustain production. WPB admits that the steel production rate can be expanded.

Porcelain tubes can be substituted for brass and copper; alloy steel for copper; bronze and brass as armatures; and secondary aluminum for cable cases and fire control boxes, etc., according to official Washington reports.

Muscle Shoals Dam was built to supply power to manufacture nitrates, dyes and fertilizers in this country because Germany was at war with us. Incidentally, 10,000 new chemical products materials have been created. Substitutes are plentiful for leather, wood, slow-dry paint, silk, rubber. Alcohol is made from grain, and a large variety of lacquers are extracted from cotton.

Among hundreds of thousands of new things are good roads, modern bridges, radio, television, high octane gasoline, insulin, refrigeration, electrical wonders, Diesel engines, and automobiles that are so smooth in action that some of them are described as able "to run alone on their reputations."

About the time the American Colonies were being settled an ancient bard wrote that "necessity is the mother of invention," and early this century a modern philosopher noted that "the man who says it can't be done is interrupted by the man who does it."

The records of this day and age clearly support both bard and philosopher and furnish courage and encouragement to those who are very sure that "the can'ts can't have it."

VICTORY IS OUR BUSINESS

Almost all discussions of our part in the war and the administration's leadership of the nation include a strong reference to the fact that the American people always want to be told all that can be told them without helping the enemy. The public is ready to swallow the bitterest pills, but it wants the facts. The appointment of Elmer Davis to his present position was designed to end the confusion in war information, but was also looked upon by many as a recognition of the need for getting more war facts to the American people.

It is recognized that people not only want to know what they are fighting for, but also that they need to know how their fight is progressing. Above all, the democracies believe that the public must have the truth.

These principles have been applied in a specific sense that is bound to be reflected in an emotional uplift in many persons, by General Motors with the institution of a new radio program called "Victory Is Our Business," the slogan of all GM workers. In these radio shows, broadcast in many cities throughout the country where war production plants of the Corporation are located, true-life experiences of General Motors men and women engaged on the fighting and production fronts are put on the air. These true scenes tell of the purpose and the sacrifice and heroism and patriotic effort of plain people in this war, whether they are fighting or producing the weapons for the fighters. They undoubtedly will be an inspiration in this period of great national endeavor.

SERVICE TO THE WHOLE NATION

In July, War Bond sales—not counting the sale of War Stamps—reached the record figure of $900,900,000. June sales, by way of comparison, totaled $634,000,000. Much of the credit for that great increase must be laid squarely at the door of American retailers, whose nation-wide "Retailers for Victory" drive started with a bang in July.

The participating retailers include both chains and independents. They include stores dealing in food, hardware, furniture, dry-goods, drugs, shoes, clothing and everything else that merchants sell. They include stores in great cities, and stores in little villages. They represent, in short, American merchants of all kinds—and American merchandising in all its many branches.

The scope of the campaign is indicated by a release from the Institute of Distribution, an organization serving a large number of the nation's non-grocery chain systems. Here, in part, is what the release said: "With approximately 185 miles of windows dressed to popularize Bonds and Stamps; with nearly 600,000 employees stimulated to push and sell Stamps; with radio programs reaching nearly 45,000,000 listeners and newspapers advertisements that are part of approximately 430,000,000 lines used by them, yearly, this group attempted, earnestly, wholeheartedly—like other groups of retailers—to do its share . . . It harnessed its entire resources to the assignment by the Treasury of selling a minimum of 4 per cent of its entire July sales valume in War Bonds and Stamps."

The figures show how successful this great drive has been. And it will continue, day after day, month after month, until the war is won. These retailers are doing it without a cent of profit—and they are paying out of their own pockets the heavy promotional costs involved. That is real "service to the whole nation."

THE COST OF LIVING

It doesn't take official reports from Washington to show an increase in the cost of living. Despite all the efforts put forth for price control the stores and markets charge more. If this means anything at all it is that the mysterious old villian we call "Inflation" is gradually creeping up on us.

How could it be otherwise with wars to finance, taxes to pay, higher wages—and "just a little more," here, there and everywhere?

Whistle, and keep up your courage boys and girls, it is going to be worse.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 6

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE ALCOHOL PROBLEM: PAST AND PRESENT

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 13:13; 19:23-25; Deuteronomy 32:31-33; Amos 6:1-7.
GOLDEN TEXT—The way of the ungodly shall perish.—Psalm 1:6.

The necessity for using to the limit every resource—man power and material—in this time of national crisis should make every American doubly alert to the devastation and loss which has come (and is coming in increasing measure) to us as a result of the sale of intoxicants.

This is no time (nor was there ever a time) when "men should put their enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains; that we should with joy, pleasure, revel and applause transform ourselves into beasts! To be now a sensible man, by and by a fool, and presently a beast!" (Shakespeare).

Christians—and especially Sunday school teachers—should use this lesson to drive home anew the great lesson of moral accountability, of the importance of man's choice of a way of life, and the certainty of judgment.

I. Man is Morally Responsible (Gen. 13:13; 19:23-25).

Life is not just a careless drifting from day to day, from pleasure to pleasure, from sin to sin. Man was created in the likeness and image of God, which means that he is a personal being, knowing right from wrong and possessing the power of choice. Sodom and Gomorrah drew upon themselves the judgment of God because of their determination to persist in horrible wickedness. What happened to those cities, terrible as it was, is but a prophecy of even greater judgment to come (Luke 10:10-12).

If man chooses to do right, he may count on all the resources of the omnipotent God to uphold him. But if he chooses to go in the way of sin, he must look forward to the judgment of God. It is important to remember that

II. He Chooses His Own Way of Life (Deut. 32:31-33).

Moses contrasts the Rock—Jehovah—in whom his people trusted, and the corrupt standards of their heathen neighbors, of Sodom and Gomorrah; but note it well, each one made his own choice.

One greater than Moses, our Lord Himself (Matt. 7:13, 14), spoke of the two ways, and noted with sadness that many go down the broad road to destruction and but few walk in the narrow way of life.

It is a vital matter that we teach our boys and girls the great and noble spiritual standards of Christianity; bring into their lives the power of God through faith in Christ that they may choose well for themselves and be able to lead a bewildered war-shocked world in the right way.

The need of humanity is great now, but it will be even greater in a post-war world of broken homes, broken lives and broken hearts. We must be ready to minister in the name of Christ.

III. Neglect and Ignorance Are No Excuse (Amos 6:1-7).

Surprise attack is always doubly effective. "Remember Pearl Harbor." Yes, and remember man's defeat in spiritual things.

Satan would like to lull us to sleep with the assurance that all is well. The heart of man is prone to cherish optimistic thoughts; to magnify that which encourages him to take his ease; to keep away the fear of reality by sweet music, good food, and flowing bowl of wine.

The people of Amos' day, to whom this message was given, had come to the point where prosperity had made them at ease, when they should have been actively alert; foolishly serene, when they should have been vigilant and ready for battle.

Who can say that the same is not in all too large a measure true of the people of our own beloved America. Many elements enter into that dangerous situation, but not the least of them is our increasing use of intoxicants. It may shock some to learn that the per capita use of alcoholic beverages has increased greatly throughout the country. The appalling fact is that the city of Washington, D. C., which should in these days set an example of sobriety and sanity, has led the nation in the increase of the use of strong drink.

That way is the way of captivity (v. 7) unless we repent—and that right soon. America needs to awaken to the dangers which threaten its precious liberty—and, we repeat, the liquor question is not the least of these problems. We must win a victory over it soon, or we may find that it has won the victory over us—which may God in His mercy forbid!

The Greatest Mother In The World

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

Mother Nature gives the birds miscroscopic eyes to see tiny grain from a distance, and how she cares for us humans.

For instance, when we bruise our feet by wearing poorly constructed or ill fitted shoes, Nature sets up protective layers, corns, callouses and bunions, at the point where the attack is directed, and by means of pain telegraphs the brain that danger is at hand and how do we respond to nature's signal? Usually, by padding these protective layers, or paring them. This of course, does relieve the pain but does NOT remove the cause of the trouble; corns, callouses and bunions are merely symptoms telling you there is something wrong inside your feet.

Permanent relief will be obtained when you relieve pressure on delicate nerves and tissue, when you straighten up weak, inrolling feet that throw the strain of weight bearing into the outer arch. So, if you would really get at the bottom of your foot ills, by all means, see our foot comfort specials—they will make a scientific foot analysis of your foot. Then foot comfort is absolutely assured.—Adv.

This Week On The Home Front

Battles in the far corners of the earth are tied by strong, invisible hands to what happens in our kitchens, our corner grocery, drug-store, shoe shop, dry goods store, laundry, lumber mill, paint shop, hardware store and movie theater.

If we freely bought everything we wanted, many of our fighting men would lack shoes, clothing, mattresses, and even medical supplies. There would be fewer guns, tanks, planes and ships. Our enemies would profit from our "normal standards of living."

On the other hand, if the sellers of goods took advantage of that greatly increased national income, which is competing for the limited amount of goods available, another kind of enemy—the war ogre, inflation—would score a victory.

The Office of Price Administration warns us that the threat of inflation, of high living costs, is not licked.

Our surplus buying power still is mounting, while farm products and wages are loopholes in the price control program, which will need serious attention. If living costs are not to soar as they have in previous wars, farmers will have to take less for their products, workers will have to give up the idea of unnecessary wage boosts, and business profits will have to be cut.

Outside the uncontrolled danger zones, however, price ceiling are being steadily extended to protect our pocketbooks.

In many lines, as present stocks are exhausted and replacements are diverted to war needs, we must expect to save what we have or do without.

* * *

We are painfully learning that in total war what touches one of us touches all of us. This principle applies both to the individual citizen and to our great pools of manpbwers. All sound and physically-fit men face the possibility of being called into selective service. Their places must be filled by women, older men.

* * *

To our mobilization of manpower and womanpower, we are about to add mobilazation of our youth and children. The National Institute of Education has called upon educators from all parts of the country to consider the most effective way to make use of all the students in the country, from elementary grades through college, in war service.

* * *

The need for a better distribution of manpower is matched in importance by the need for scrap metal to feed the plants and furnaces. The scrap "drive" is not for this month or the next—it is for the duration and must be sustained.

The national determination to defeat our enemies has been underscored in WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson's second war production report. The munitions output in July was three and one-half as great as our output in November, 1941. For that month, aircraft production was up 11 percent over June; ordnance up 26 percent; naval construction up 22 percent, and merchant ship tonnage 6 percent—all over the June figure.

Some 1,250 Labor-Management committee, participating in the War Production Drive, had much to do with these increases.

* * *

Concentration of production—the pooling of industry's resources—is being studied by a WPB committee. This may help small plants and businesses which have been threatened by loss of their supply of materials. The principle also can be applied to larger unit making similar products.

* * *

Dealers in used bicycles have been warned that such sales are subject to the General Maximum Price Regulation, which puts a ceiling on prices at the highest levels charged in March for similar bicycles. Second-hand prices in March were considerably under the prices of new bicycles.

* * *

The Office of Civilian Defense has accepted the offer of authorities in charge of Civilian Public Service camps to provide organized crews of conscientious objectors to assist in local Civilian Defense operations in case of emergency. Camps in which such crews have been organized include those at Coshocton and Marietta, O.

* * *

Herbert C. Huber, Dayton, O., building contractor has been heavily penalized by the WPB for starting work on three houses after the April 9 deadline.

* * *

An appeal has been made to all citizens in this area who possess unusable automobiles—known as jaloppies—to immediately contact their nearest wrecking yard and scrap the old cars for war production.

* * *

Typical city families advanced about 10 percent in their knowledge, attitude toward and actual use of healthful foods as a result of a one-week community nutrition campaign, according to a study conducted in South Bend, Ind.

* * *

Paper patterns used by women in making dresses and other apparel are brought under the measurement restrictions already applying in ready-made garments. Your homemade numbers will have about the same length, sweep and sleeve circumference as "boughten" garments.

* * *

First reports from compliance "minute men" checking the observance by retailers of price-posting and filing provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation indicate that Ohio soon will be covered thoroughly.

* * *

Harold T. Clark, Cleveland attorney, has donated a number of historic bayonets and guns to the Special Projects Salvage Section of WPB.

Katherine M. Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, has hailed as a great wartime humanitarian move, the request that Congress amend the Social Security Act to make more money available for child health and welfare services during the war period.

Persons who believe they are being charged more than the ceiling price for commodities should demand an itemized receipt covering the items involved.

Resolutions Of Respect

At a called meeting of the Boone County Bar on August 10th, 1942, a committee composed of Hon. Sidney Gaines, Hon. O. M. Rogers and Hon. Jno. L. Vest, was appointed to draft resolutions of respect in memory of the late J. G. Vallandingham, former Judge of the 15th Judicial District. On August 19th, the Committee reported and read the resolutions which they had prepared, and the resolutions were adopted with appropriate remarks by those of the Bar present. The resolutions as adopted are as follows:

Resolutions of Respect

Judge James Gayle Vallandingham who died June 7, 1942 was born, reared, and spent his entire life in the nearby county of Owen.

In his private life he attended the schools of Owen County, Smith's Academy at Owenton and graduated from Centre College at Danville in 1895. After graduating from Centre College he taught school in Owen County for a time and later began the practice of law in Owenton in 1898. In 1902 he married Lula Lee (daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. A. Lee) a young lady reared in Owenton, Kentucky who survives his death. To this union three children were born, namely, James Lee Vallandingham, an attorney of the Owen County Bar, W. L. Vallandingham, now in military service, and a daughter, Mrs. F. L. Palmer of Norfolk, Virginia.

In his public life Judge Vallandingham spent twenty-four years in office, twelve of these years being spent as county attorney of Owen County and twelve years as circuit judge of 15th Judicial District including this county. It is in the capacity of the Judge of the 15th Judicial District and particularly of the Boone Circuit Court that the attorneys of this county came in personal contact with Judge Vallandingham and from that contact we learned his honesty of purpose and his desire to dispense justice between litigants and his inherent qualities of fairness and affability.

In meeting assembled, the Boone County Bar desires to express its appreciation of the sterling qualities of the late Judge Vallandingham and to that purpose:—Be it resolved:

That we deeply regret the passing of Judge Vallandingham.

That we extend to his widow and children our sympathy in their bereavement.

That a copy of these resolutions be delivered to his widow.

That a copy be furnished to each of the papers published in Boone County, and

That this resolution be spread at large on the order book of this court on a page set apart for that purpose.

SIDNEY GAINES,
O. M. ROGERS,
JOHN L. VEST,
Resolution Committee of Boone County Bar.

FILL YOUR COAL BIN

The government is again urging that all coal users fill their bins before winter.

The reasons are obvious. If we wait until cold weather before ordering our fuel, the demand on the coal mines and the agencies of transport will be enormous. And domestic demand must not be allowed to compete with the needs of the war effort.

By buying your coal now, you will assure yourself of an adequate supply—and you will be aiding the prosecution of the war.

TWINS CONFUSE CADETS

Randolph Field, Texas—Aviation cadets at Randolph Field think they're seeing double when they come upon the Dietrich twins, Harold and Herman, working on their planes. The mechanics are alike as two peas in a pod. "There's a twist for you," one cadet remarked, "a single engine plane with twin mechanics."

Herman and Harold, bottling plant workers before they came to the "West Point of the Air," are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dietrich, 457 Lafayette Street, Dallas, Texas.

FARMERS URGED TO FEED WHEAT

IN LIVESTOCK RATION—CORN SHORTAGE SEEN UNLESS RATION CHANGE IS MADE SAYS LEONARD C. TAYLOR.

In line with Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's recent call for livestock feeders to use more wheat in the livestock ration, Leonard C. Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer of the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association, yesterday urged the 650 members of this short-term cooperative in Northern Kentucky to include increased amounts of wheat in feeds for livestock and poultry.

"Current reports" Mr. Taylor explains, "reveal that farmers of the United States are feeding more corn right now than they are producing. This means that there will have to be a change in rations. With our plentiful supplies of wheat, this grain is the logical substitute for part of the corn now going into feed for meat animals and fowls."

The drive to get members and other farmers to feed more wheat is an addition to the activities being carried by the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association as a help to the war effort. The association's loans this year reflect that the farmers are producing needed items in the Food-for-Freedom program. War Saving Bonds and Stamps are being sold by the association as a wartime service for members and other farmers in the eight counties it serves.

Information on the wheat-feeding program is available from county AAA committees.

BIG GARDEN FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

Twenty-five acres of vegetables on the Charleston bottom three miles north of Maysville will supply vegetables for county and town school lunches in Mason county. A cannery is being operated in a tobacco warehouse owned by T. A. Duke, who also furnished the land for the garden. Miss Doris Van Winkle, county home demonstration agent, expected the garden to contribute much to the success of the school lunch project.

Former Boone Countian Graduates From St. Louis A. M. School

Private Edward P. Napier, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Napier, 713 Greenup St., Covington, has the honor of being one of the first soldiers to graduate from the St. Louis Aeronautical School.

This course is of 19 weeks duration and covers such important phases as airplane structures, airplane hydraulics, aircraft propellers, aircraft instruments and inspection and maintenance of single and multi engines.

The purpose of this school is to train soldiers in the performance of first eschelon maintenance of standard airplanes. Unlike the combat pilot, his duty as an airplane mechanic will not appear so glamorous, yet it is vitally essential. Its importance is best known by the pilot who flies the ship, because he fully realizes that his success as well as his safety depends upon the expert knowledge and conscientious performance of the airplane, mechanic.

Ed, as he is known by his many friends, was inducted into the Air Corps of the United States Army at Ft. Thomas, Ky., on March 10. Shortly after induction he became a member of the 13th Supply Sqdn., Duncan Field, Texas, where he received his basic training.

We folks back home are mighty proud of you Ed, and realize that you have a major role to play in this great crisis, so "Let's Keep 'Em Flying."

BE YOURSELF!

Do you feel strained, fatigued, constantly nerve-jumpy? It could be your Eyesight! Which we could correct. Many have lost their "nerves" and facial tenseness upon wearing glasses fitted and furnished by us!

Don't yank that appliance cord --it may be hard to replace

YANKING an appliance cord loose in the manner illustrated above not only frays the covering and loosens connections, but also may result in a blown fuse from a short circuit. Perhaps you are not guilty of this practice but it's well to remind yourself continually that it's going to be necessary to handle your electrical equipment with "kid gloves" these days.

With the electric appliance industry devoting its full efforts to war production, appliance cords among other things are going to be hard to replace. You'll need them to continue to enjoy the step-saving, work-saving convenience of your electric appliances, so handle them with care. Disconnect appliances by pulling the plug, not the cord—and when you put the cord away, coil it loosely in a drawer instead of hanging it over a nail or hook. Your cords will last longer and you'll be making a small but important contribution to the wartime conservation program.

A Week of The War

War Production Chairman Nelson announced the War Production Board is rerating every project in the war program to secure the "maximum impact on the enemy now." Combat planes, particularly bombers, are at the top of this new list, Mr. Nelson said.

Chairman Nelson reported the U. S. is now producing munitions three and a half times the rate in November 1941, the month before Pearl Harbor. July production, he said, was 16 percent above June production, but 7 percent short of production forecasts made at the beginning of July. "The big job ahead of us right now is to bring our program into balance and make sure that we use our materials and facilities as wisely as possible," he said. "This means that we must redouble our efforts, particularly on the low spots, if we are to make our goals by the year's end."

Aircraft production increased 11 percent in July over June output, Mr. Nelson said. Although combat plane production rose 6 percent, it was not up to expectations. He also reported: Overall Ordnance production in July increased 26 percent over June output, and was very close to schedules; production of medium tanks was 35 percent greater than in the previous month and considerably ahead of schedules; antiaircraft guns exceeded schedules by "a margin"; merchant ships were up 6 percent and "nearly on schedule for the month" deliveries of major naval combat vessels were ahead of those in June and "considerably ahead of forecasts."

The War Front

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia reported Allied fighter pilots using new tactics shot down at least 13 Japanese planes, and probably 15 or more, out of any enemy fleet of 47 which attacked Darwin. No Allied planes were lost. The Navy reported the Marines' hold on at least three of the Solomon Islands is now well established. When 700 Japanese counter attacked on one of the Islands 670 were killed and the other 30 taken prisoners, Pacific Fleet Commander Nimitz reported. The Marine losses were 28 killed and 72 wounded. Admiral Nimitz also announced a force of Marines made a successful landing on Makin Island, killed 80 Japanese, wrecked various installations and then withdrew.

U. S. Army Headquarters, European Theater, announced arrival in Britain of the largest U. S. convoy of the war, with more men and material for the American Air Forces which had already begun precision bombing by daylight of Nazi-occupied Europe. U. S. Flying Fortresses bombed the Nazi transportation system at Amiens and Abbeville. In a battle over the North Sea, four Flying Fortresses shot down three German fighters and damaged nine others, while all the U. S. planes returned safely. A. U. S. Ranger Battalion joined with Canadian and British forces in a nine-hour raid on Dieppe, Frances. The Navy reported U. S. submarines operating in the Aleutians and in the Far East sank a cruiser or destroyer and damaged a destroyer, sank two cargo ships and a transport, and damaged another cargo ship. The torpedoing of seven more United Nations merchantment by enemy submarines was announced.

Foreign Relations

President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull sent messages of solidarity to Brazil as that country became the first South American nation to declare war on Germany and Italy. The President said Wendell L. Willkie will tour Europe and the Near East as his special representative in order to correct the impression in those places that U. S. production is not all it should be. Mr. Willkie will carry messages from the President to foreign leaders, including Premier Stalin. The President issued a statement that the perpetrators of "barbaric" acts in occupied countries "will have to stand in the court of law" in the same countries in which barbarism now rages and answer in these courts for their crimes.

Army and Navy

The War Department said it will inaugurate this fall a voluntary pre-induction training program utilizing existing factilities of schools and colleges to meet present and future needs for properly trained personnel in the armed forces. Out of every 100 men inducted into the Army, about 63 are assigned to duties requiring specialized training, the Department said. The Army said it is organizing and training Port Battalions (composed mostly of former stevedores) for duty overseas to insure prompt handling of U. S. Military equipment for forces stationed throughout the world. The Department said checks in payment of allowances to dependents of enlisted men of the Army, covering the first applications to be approved, will go out shortly after September 1.

The Navy announced recruiting of enlisted personnel of the Women's Naval Reserve will begin September 11, and training will start October 9 at the University of Wisconsin, Indiana University and Oklahoma A. and M. College.

Selective Service

Selective Service Director Hershey said Draft boards will begin calling men with dependents before Christmas. He said single men with "secondary" dependents, such as aged or crippled relatives, will be called first; married men whose wives work, next; then men with dependent wives; and finally men who have wives and children. He said the reservoir of 1-A men throughout the country is "practically exhausted." Selective Service Headquarters said class 1-B (men fit for limited military service only) will be eliminated, and beginning September 1, all registrants who are not tally disqualified will be reclassified in 1-A, while those not suited for any military service will be placed in 4-F. In the case of men reclassified in 1-A the Army will determine after induction whether they will be assigned to full or limited service.

Stabilization of Farm Prices

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said he would approve a plan of livestock ceiling prices which "must not permit abnormal profits to anyone in the industry at the expense of the producers or consumers." Mr. Wickard also said he now favors repeal of the provision of the Price Control Act "that prohibits ceilings on processed farm products if the ceiling price reflects a farm price of less than 110 percent of parity." He said farm prices "have reached parity on an average." The WPB Food Requirements Committee asked the armed forces, the Lend-Lease Administration, and the War Production Board to collaborate in working out a program for allocation of all Government meat purchases as equitably as possible among federally inspected packers. The Agricultural Marketing Administration bought $137,900,000 worth of foodstuffs during July for the United Nations and other requirements, including 80,000 pounds of dehydrated beef.

Rationing

Tire quotas will have to follow a downward trend the rest of this year to keep within the amount of rubber earmarked by the WPB for the purpose, the Office of Price Administration said. The Office asked local rationing boards for the "strictest possible interpretation" of recent amendment to tire rationing regulations restricting truck eligibility to vehicles essential to the war effort or public health and safety.

Oil and Gasoline

WPB Chairman Nelson appointed Under Secretary of War Patterson, Petroleum Coordinator Ickes and Price Administrator Henderson as a committee to determine whether fuel oil should be rationed in the East Coast area this winter. Because of the shortage of fuel oil in the area, Mr. Ickes prohibited the hauling of automotive gasoline by rail in 20 Middle Western and Southwestern States in order to divert enough tank cars to carry 100,000 barrels of fuel oil daily to the rationed area. If the withdrawal of these 5,000 to 7,000 tank cars creates a shortage, rationing should be extended, Mr. Ickes said.

SATURDAY

Organization of a group of youngsters to collect tinfoil and newspapers was started on the set of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mokey." Originator of the campaign was Bobby Blake, eight-year-old actor who recently stepped up from Our Gang comedies to play the title role in the picture.

Bobby wanted to do his bit in the national emergency, but he couldn't decide just how he could serve until the idea of saving paper and tinfoil was advanced by Director Wells Root. The large cast of juveniles in the picture joined with him and all were kept busy salvaging paper and foil.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Ann Sothern has to laugh, cry, sing and dance in "Masie Gets Her Man," latest in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's popular series about the Brooklyn gal. The present film, which marks the elevation of Red Skelton to full stardom, requires versatility of the cast. The picture comes to the screen of the Gayety, Sunday and Monday.

TUESDAY
Double Bill

Skeptical set workers on M-G-M's "Sunday Punch" no longer look upon Jean Rogers' hobby as a dubious pastime. Neither do they poke fun at her for it. The actress' hobby saved them from an embarrassing situation.

In arranging the set for the picture, which also features William Lundigan and Dan Dailey, Jr., the men forgot an oil painting that was supposed to be hung on the living room wall. It wasn't until the moment before shooting that the mistake was discovered. Jean quickly went to her portable dressing room and returned with one of her own paintings—which she painted as a hobby. It was exactly what was needed and an expensive delay was saved.

As an extra added attraction, "North of the Klondike" a full-length feature will be shown. Don't miss this big double feature.

JUNK RALLY DAY IS HUGE SUCCESS

TONS OF JUNK DELIVERED TO COLLECTION POINTS THRUOUT COUNTY—PLENTY OF SCRAP IN COUNTY.

Ton after ton of junk descended on the hapless heads of gas station proprietors, salvage committeemen, Scouts and 4-H club boys throughout the county on Junk Rally Day, Saturday. At their own invitation junk of all kinds was poured on them, and they liked it and paid for it. Everything from an aluminum salt shaker to wholesale junk in the form of worn out automobiles, made up the heaps. At Walton a German helmet, relic of the last World War was tossed on the heap.

Intended primarily as a demonstration, the committee considers it a huge success—not only in that way, but also from the standpoint of the actual amount gathered. A five-ton load went in Labor Day and many, many more tons will be on their way before the week is out.

Don't think this is the end. It's only the start. Saturday makes clear there is scrap in the county—just plenty, and that it can be sold. Get the scrapping habit, it pays—or it can be donated to any organization you choose. You can haul it to the dealer or if gathered in sufficient quantity we'll take t away for you. Just keep scrapping.

All collection points, heretofore named in this paper are always open for scrap donated and delivered there. Proceeds of sale of this goes one-third to Red Cross, one-third to U. S. O. and one-third to the Scouts, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers or other groups responsible for handling at that point.

Trucking lines and collection centers are being organized to enable all our farmers to sell at home their last pound at close to city prices. And we'll be starting as soon as the last stick is hung in the barn. Another opportunity will be offered to sell for cash at all towns in the county.

Our Country and this county are indebted to ocr newspapers, garage and station owners, to all fine hard-working boys and to the State Highway Department for this successful drive. Our sympathy too, to the latter for their grunts and groans as they haul the scrap away.

The following telegram was received this week by J. B. Heizer, County Director of the Salvage committee:

"J. B. Heizer, Jr., Director
Boone Co. Salvage for Victory Committee

"Washington phoned today, scrap iron shortage serious, some steel mills closing. Do all you can to get in scrap. Please hurry.

J. J. RICE,
Executive Secretary of Ky."

Farm Management Meeting To Be Held Thursday Evening

Mr. R. E. Proctor will discuss Farm Management practices that will pay best in 1943 in a meeting at the court house, Burlington Thursday, September 10, at 9:00 p. m., Eastern War Time, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Mr. Proctor's discussion will be based on the summary analysis of complete Farm Account Records kept by farmers in Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties this past year. All farmers interested in their farm management study are invited to attend. The meeting will be especially helpful to farmers who may want to keep complete farm account records next year.

Corn Borers Damage Crops

The corn borer, apparently the European Corn Borer, has caused considerable damage in many corn fields this year, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. A few fields were affected last year but the damages this year is much greater.

Specimen of the larvae or worms have been sent to the College for identification.

RECORD SALE IS MADE BY POOL

SELL 63,931 POUNDS OF WOOL FOR $31,754.06—CLIP SOLD FOR $50.10—HIGHEST PRICE SINCE WORLD WAR I.

The Boone County Wool Pool members sold 63,931 pounds of wool for $31,754.06 on last Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, according to H. E. White, president, and Lillard Scott, Secretary of the Wool Pool. This is a record for the total dollars received by the pool, exceeding last year's record of $30,778.79.

The 1942 clip sold for $50.10 net to grower for clear wool, and $45.10 for rejection wool. This is the highest price per pound received since World War No. 1. A summary of the pool shows that 93.76 percent of all the wool graded clear; 3.96 percent graded rejection price, 1.23 percent lamb wool, .58 of one percent hard burry, and .46 of one percent goat and other types of unclassified wool.

The total receipts at receiving points were Walton, 22,320 pounds; Burlington, 26,352 pounds; and Petersburg, 14,156 pounds.

The record of the pool this year shows the splendid cooperative spirit of Boone County sheepmen. When the pool refused to sell on June 8th when unsatisfactory bids were received, many people were of the opinion growers would withdraw from the pool. This was not the case. The 1941 pool sold 64,643 pounds and the 1942 pool sold 63,931 pounds or only 712 pounds less than last year. The growers in the meantime received several thousand more dollars through the pool.

The sales committee had a difficult job in attempting to make the most satisfactory sale for the members. The members showed a splendid support to the committee in their effort. The committee wishes to express its deep appreciation to the growers for this support.

FOURTH YEAR IS COMPLETED

BY SHEEP PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION—NEW YEAR STARTED WITH SURPLUS OF $620.56, ACCORDING TO SECRETARY.

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association completed its fourth consecutive successful year on September 1st and started into the new year with a surplus of $620.56, according to John W. Conley, secretary-treasurer of the association. This past year the association enrolled 116 members, the largest on record.

The association held its fourth annual meeting at Burlington last Saturday afternoon, September 5. The members approved the report of the Board of Directors showing loss claims and expenses totaling 514.10 and receipts totaling $520.40. Loss claims approved included 26 claims for 19 members for 63 sheep.

An analysis of the year's record showed that from an average of every hundred sheep owned by members, approximately 1.5 sheep were killed by dogs. The loss of the past year was the highest of the past four years. A report from the Sheriff's office showed that less than half the number of dogs listed on the assessor's books had been licensed. The Sheriff pledged the sheepmen he would cooperate fully in the enforcement of the dog law and stated that the Sheriff's office, this year, had killed more dogs than in any previous period.

The dogs are considered the greatest menace to the sheep industry. If only the one and a half sheep per hundred were distributed equally among all sheepmen, the damage would not be so great. The records show that losses occur in relative new flocks but these losses are often so severe that many sheepmen are forced to go out of business. The number of adult sheep in the county has increased more than 1,000 in 1942. Much of this increase is the direct result of increased confidence by sheepmen as a result of the Sheep Protective Association.

The following association officers were elected to preside for the 1942-43 year: President, H. E. White; vice president, J. G. Pennington; secretary-treasurer, J. W. Conley; directors, Burlington-Florence, L. H. Congleton; Petersburg-Grant, Chas. White; Bullittsville-Constance, Chas. B. Beall; Hamilton-Carlton, John T. Stevens; Beaver-Union, Russell Sparks; Walton-Verona, Walter Johnson.

Membership in the Boone County Sheep Protective Association is open to all sheep owners who pay tax on their sheep in Boone County. Membership fees are 10c per head for grade sheep, plus $1.00 initial fee for new members. Protection for new members starts 24 hours following the acceptance of his membership by the president and secretary and carries through until next August 31st. Protection for any new member who has had dog losses shall not begin until (60) days after his last loss; with the exception of charter members. No deductions are given for past year memberships. All sheepmen desiring membership for 1942-43 should contact one of the officers of the association or secure membership agreements at the County Agent's office.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN MONDAY

PRELIMINARY MEETINGS BEING HELD THIS WEEK FOR SCHOOL EMPLOYEES OF COUNTY—CO-OPERATION URGED.

Plans are being made this week for the opening of schools throughout the County, Monday, September 14, according to D. H. Norris, Supt. Preliminary meetings will be held this week for the school employees of the county. Thursday at 8:00 p. m. all janitors and bus drivers will meet for instruction and supplies.

On Friday, September 11 the teachers of the county will meet for their preliminary organization. There has been numerous changes in the teaching personnel, and at the time of going to press some few places had not been filled.

The school board is in need of a janitor and some bus drivers in different places in the county. The bus routes will be much the same as last year with some slight curtailment in distance and the number of stops made.

The time set for opening school will be 10:00 a. m. E. W. T.

"We earnestly solicit the cooperation of all the patrons of the schools, in our effort to maintain the efficiency of our schools during these strenuous times," said Mr. Norris, Tuesday.

600 ACRES LAND TO BE IMPROVED

BY USE OF 35,000 POUNDS OF VETCH IN BOONE COUNTY—HAS GIVEN LARGEST CROP INCREASE.

Boone County farmers plan to use 35,000 pounds of vetch seed this vall to improve approximately 600 acres of land, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Most of the vetch will be sowed with small grain on tobacco, corn and truck crop land for turning under next spring.

Vetch, a winter legume, has given the largest crop increase of any of the soil building green manure crops. It may be sown any time between now and the 10th of October but the earlier the better.

Many of the local farmers who sowed vetch last fall, manured their land heavy, using 50 pounds of 20 percent phosphate per load of manure, turned the vetch under this spring and used from 250 to 375 pounds of high grade complete fertilizer in the row. This plan is producing some outstanding tobacco crops, both in yield and in quality. Cropland properly handled in this manner can be cultivated year after year in tobacco or other crops and will improve in productivity.

Thirty-five thousand pounds of vetch seed has been made available to Boone County farmers cooperating in the AAA program as grant of aid. This means that the farmer can secure vetch seed without any cash payment at the time of delivery. The cost of the seed, $11.86 per hundred, will be deducted from his AAA benefit payments next year. The farmer in turn will receive credit of $4.00 per acre if he seeds and turns the vetch under next spring or $3.00 per acre if he lets the vetch crop fall down on the ground and does not harvest it.

Every farmers who possibly can should take advantage of this vetch seed offer. John E. Crigler, secretary of the Boone County AAA Association reports that farmers have already ordered approximately 16,000 pounds of the 35,000 pounds of seed available to the County.

Both AAA vetch and phosphate should be ordered now. Don't delay as the supply later may be limited. Order can be made at the County office in Burlington.

GOV. JOHNSON NAMES C. L. CROPPER JUDGE

Will Fill Unexpired Term of the Late Judge N. E. Riddell —Appointment Effective Until January 1, 1944.

C. L. Cropper, Burlington, was named to the post of County Judge of Boone County to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late N. E. Riddell last week. The appoint was made Wednesday morning by Governor Keen Johnson.

Judge Cropper has served as Acting Judge under Judge Riddell for the last ten years, and also held the position as assistant cashier in local banks for the past 17 years. He is 45.

Having been born in Boone County, he attended the public schools of this county for his elementary education and was a graduate of the Burlington high school in the class of 1916. He entered the University of Kentucky where he studied until April 1918 when he enlisted in the U. S. Army in World War I. After the war he returned to Boone and farmed with his father for four years. In 1925 he was made assistant cashier of the old Boone County Deposit Bank and in 1927 when the two banks here merged, he was transferred to the present Peoples Deposit Bank, where he has been assistant cashier, which position he now holds.

In 1934 he was elected to the State Legislature to represent Boone and Grant counties and served in this capacity for two years. For the past six years he has served as chairman of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee and has been an outstanding leader in political circles for several years.

He is a member of Boone Post No. 4 American Legion, treasurer of Boone County Red Cross, member of Masonic Lodge No. 264, and an active member of the Burlington Baptist Church.

Judge Riddell's successor will be elected by popular vote in the regular election of 1943, and will take office January 1, 1944.

Judge Cropper is well qualified for the position of County Judge and is thoroughly acquainted with the fiscal affairs of the county. He is very efficient, and with the cooperation of the people will be able to carry on the affairs of the county in the same fine manner as in the past.

The Boone County Fish & Game Protective Association will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight, (Thursday) at the club house. All members urged to attend.

HUGE CROWD PAYS TRIBUTE

TO COUNTY JUDGE N. E. RIDDELL AT FUNERAL SERVICES HELD LAST THURSDAY — CROWD ESTIMATED AT 2000.

A huge crowd, estimated at 2000 persons gathered at the home of A. B. Renaker last Thursday afternoon to pay their last tribute to the remains of County Judge N. E. Riddell, who died at Christ Hospital last Tuesday, September 1st.

Services were conducted at the home by Rev. R. A. Johnson, Rev. T. O. Harrison and Rev. J. W. Campbell. Only brief services were conducted at the grave at Highland cemetery.

The pallbearers were C. D. Benson, J. T. Williams, C. L. Cropper, G. S. Kelly, L. C. Weaver and Elmer Kirkpatrick. Honorary pallbearers were all county officials and magistrates, the members of the Boone County Bar, directors of the Peoples Deposit Bank, Dr. M. A. Yelton, A. E. Stephens and Newton Sullivan.

There were 71 individual floral pieces from all sections of the country. The flowers filled four large rooms and a large hall. They were undoubtedly the most beautiful group of flowers that could be brought together.

On Wednesday night, thirty Masons, representing all the lodges in Boone County, gathered at the home and conducted brief Masonic services. Judge Riddell was one of the outstanding members of Burlington Lodge No. 264.

The presence of so many persons and the many beautiful flowers was evidence of the love and respect the people of Boone County had for Judge Riddell. He was a great leader, but aside from his outstanding accomplishments in public life, this writer never knew a finer man. He was ready at all times to render service to his fellowmen, and never did he receive pay for legal advice that he gave so willingly. His leadership will be missed by many for years to come.

Local Man Has Honor Of Outfitting Pres. Roosevelt's Son

Bernard McNeely, formerly of Boone County, reported this week that he had the privilege of outfitting Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, who is in the Air Corps at present.

Mr. McNeely is employed as a civilian employee in the clothing department at Patterson Field, Osborne, Ohio, and on last Friday had the privilege of issuing a complete uniform to Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. McNeely has been employed at Patterson Field for the past 16 months, and has just recently been promoted to the position of foreman in his department.

Rev. Will Smith suffered a severe foot injury Monday while working on his farm near Burlington. A rusty nail pierced his left foot, causing considerable pain. He was able to be out Tuesday afternoon to attend to business.

4-H Members Increase Projects

Improved project work is one outstanding achievement of 4-H Club members in Boone County this year, according to Franklin Frazier, Assistant County Agent. With 10 percent increased enrollment this year, they have "rolled up their sleeves," to complete 26 percent more agricultural projects.

A larger number are raising gardens, dairy calves, and poultry. Five 4-H'ers are producing 4.2 acres of castor beans. These beans are vitally needed by War industries. Their enthusiasm and patriotism have been shown in project work on their home farms, as well as in salvage drives conducted by community 4-H Clubs.

Enrollment in agriculture projects is as follows: Garden, 66; poultry, 47; dairy 21; tobacco 59; swine 8; corn 6; sheep 6; castor beans, 5.

47 MEN CALLED FOR SEPTEMBER

WILL BE INDUCTED INTO SERVICE ON OCTOBER 1—FORTY-EIGHT RECEIVE BLOOD TEST HERE, TUESDAY.

Forty-five white and two colored men will compose Boone County's September call, it was reported by C. G. Kelly, Clerk of the Local Draft Board No. 9.

These forty-seven men have had their screen test, and will be sent to Ft. Thomas for examination and induction on October 1st. The forty-eight men who received their screen test this week will make up the October call.

There has been considerable discussion recently regarding the proposed legislation to pool all 1-A men in Kentucky, and the effect it would have on Boone County. According to Mr. Kelly, this new regulation would help Boone County considerably, as all 1-A men in Boone County have been exhausted for several weeks. This pooling of men would mean that in places where there remains 1-A men available that they would be called into service before married men from some of the smaller rural sections whose 1-A supply of men has been exhausted for sometime. It is the opinion of the Local Draft Board that such regulations would greatly benefit Boone County and would postpone, for a few months at least, married men being called into service.

RETRIBUTION CERTAIN

For sheer planed brutality, the Axis leaders have proven themselves comparable to the barbarians of ancient history. In World War I there was much talk of atrocities. But many of the atrocity stories were made up out of whole cloth for purposes of propaganda. Real atrocities were scattered and relatively rare, and they were not done as a matter of governmental policy. In World War II, to the contrary, murder and rape and devastation are pursued by the Germans and the Japanese almost as a matter of routine—and that fact has been completely substantiated by reputable eyewitnesses. It makes little difference to the Gestapo whether a man is innocent or guilty, as the mass executions of hostages abundantly testifies. The Axis radio, at times, actually boasts of the wanton slaughter of non-combatants.

President Roosevelt, during the course of a recent warning to Axis officials that retribution would come when the war ends, said, "The practice of executing scores of innocent hostages in reprisal for isolated attacks on Germans in countries temporarily under the Nazi heel, revolts a world already inured to suffering and brutality . . . Civilized people long ago adopted the basic principle that no man should be punished for the deed of another." That principle has been entirely abandoned by the Axis.

The Axis is deliberately exterminating entire populations. Hitler himself has said that the Poles must be liquidated—and, according to reports which have seeped out of Warsaw, the death rate has assumed incredible proportions, especially in the Jewish areas. Starvation is rampant in Greece, and some authorities believe that within two years, under present conditions, the Greek people will virtually disappear. Men who have escaped from Jap concentration camps in Hongkong and elsewhere, say that the Japanese are pursuing an almost identical policy. Captured soldiers and civilians alike are given almost no food. They are denied all medical supplies and attention. Sanitary conditions are literally horrible. And these people as a result, are dying like flies.

One of the latest Axis innovations has been to raze villages, shoot every made resident, and send the women and children to forced labor within Germany. For every attack made on Axis officials, major or minor, dozens of innocents are executed. When a really important Axis official is killed, such as "Hangman" Heydrick of the Gestapo, the toll of slaughter runs far into the hundreds.

When the war ends, as the President has said, the men responsible for this will be brought to justice. And a long list of Quislings within the occupied nations who are working hand in glove with the Axis will also have to face judges appointed by the people in whose ruin and torture they have collaborated. In the meantime, Hitler's barbarous tactics have not broken the spirit of the conquered nations. To the contrary, the flame of revolt burns ever higher. Sabotage goes on. Germans are found dead in the towns and countryside of France, Greece, Holland, the Netherlands, the Balkans, etc. And in all of the occupied nations, amazingly well developed "undergrounds" exist.

The men who belong to these undergrounds are unknown. The names of many of them will never be known. Theirs is the most risky and desperate of undertakings. Every second of the day they must face the specter of death by torture. This is the highest kind of human courage. Life recently ran an article on the French underground which is especially effective. The leaders quietly and continually organize sabotage of the Nazi war effort in French factories. They print little newspapers which are widely circulated and which bring to the enslaved French people news of the free world outside their borders. As part of this work, the French Underground has compiled an interesting "blacklist" of men and women who are marked for assassination. All of the names on that list belong to Frenchmen who have sold out to Germany. And some of the names are world famous: Petain; Wygand; Laval; Derain, the painter; Mistinguett, the celebrated music hall star; Carpentier, the pugilist; Maurice Chevalier, the movie actor; etc. The Free French have pledged that not one of the men and women on that list will escape swift justice at the earliest possible time.

To quota the President's warning once again, "The Nazis might have learned from the last war the impossibility of breaking men's spirit by terrorism . . . Frightfulness can never bring peace to Europe. It only sows the seeds of hatred which will one day bring fearful retribution." The patriots in the conquered, tortured nations are waiting with grim anticipation for that day.

AMERICA'S NATURAL RESOURCES

In the laboratories of America, miracles are in the process of being wrought. New frontiers of science are being explored. And old and commonplace materials are being turned to new and marvelous uses.

Coal and oil are cases in point. We think primarily of coal as a substance which provides motive power for industry and which heats homes. We think primarily of oil as a variety of liquids which propel our engines and lubricates our machinery. But coal and oil are the basis of new materials which serve a thousand and other vital purposes.

The loss of our natural rubber is leading to the creation of a vast new synthetic rubber industry. Some kinds of synthetic rubber are made from oil derivatives. Other kinds are made of derivatives of coal. All the various synthetic rubbers have special and important uses. And the chemists are certain that, in time, we will have an abundant supply of artificial rubbers which will be superior in all ways to the natural product.

We are just on the verge of what might be termed the "plastic age." Again, coal and oil enter prominently into the picture. They are the basis of a long list of plastics which will be used for an astonishing variety of purposes in the future. Plastic autos, plastic airplanes, plastic window glass, plastic furniture, plastic home utensils—these are but a few of the revolutionary chemical developments of the time.

America is singularly blessed in the magnitude of its natural resources. And it is equally blessed in the efficiency and progressiveness of the great private industries which develop them. Natural resources give us strength in time of war. They will give us a higher standard of living than we have ever known, when peace comes again.

PUT YOUR TRASH TO WORK

"There are 60,000 fires annually in the United States—half of them in dwellings—directly traceable to rubbish and trash," says the Saturday Evening Post. "Probably twice as many more are written off as 'Cause Unknown.'

"Yet while we suffer these deadly accumulations of junk in our homes and business places, three war plants in New Jersey, making cardboard packing for artillery shells, close down for lack of scrap paper. The trash that would keep those plants going is burning at least 275 American homes a day."

Every one of these trash fires is unnecessary—every one is simply and easily preventable. And the statistics indicate what can be done. Sometime ago, Cincinnati instituted systematic clean-up campaigns—and its fire loss has been cut $850,000 a year as a result. Through similar activity, Kansas City reduced its per-capita fire loss from $8.04 to $1.83—and Erie reduced its per-capita loss from $2.36 to fifty cents.

Every community, whether it be a village or a metropolis, should at once start a trash elimination campaign. The cooperation of every householder, every business man and every worker should be enlisted. The average home is a far more dangerous place, from the standpoint of fire hazards, than its inhabitants realize. How much trash have you got stored away in basement, attic, garage and closets? Take a look and find out. And get rid of it before a spark or spontaneous ignition starts a fire that may totally destroy your property and may take lives as well.

Usable trash should be turned over to salvage committees for transfer to war agencies which want it. Unusable trash should be destroyed. This is an activity in which civilian defense workers can perform a job of the utmost value. We want less trash at home—and more trash for use in the war effort.

WAR CROPS HIT NEW HIGH

Farmers over the State of Kentucky have just reason to be proud of the national crop and animal production figures recently released by the Agricultural Adjustment Agency of the United States Department of Agriculture. These figures are on the crop and animal production of the first six months of 1942 and represent an all-time high; it represents one of the greatest increases in food output ever achieved by the American farmer from one year to the next.

Kentucky farmers, when asked about the recipe for the attainment of this tremendous production, stated frankly that "More Work and Less Talk" is the best tool for success.

Crop and animal prospects are the best on record for this time of the year. Yields per acre promise to be 6 percent higher than in any year on record.

Pork and lard output will be up 16 percent, milk output up 4 percent, egg production up 16 percent, beef up 18 percent, and oil crops up at least two-thirds. Estimated production made by Kentucky farmers last December figures much higher than those national increases, however no actual check can be made at this time.

When asked for a statement concerning the all-high production goal attained by the farmers of Kentucky, Mr. M. D. Royse, Chairman of the State U. S. D. A. War Board, stated briefly . . "The production figures for the first half of 1942 are no more than we expected We asked for a certain goal and received not only that goal, but far above it. Don't worry about the Kentucky farmer, he'll do more than his job, and his over-time will not come in the form of dollars either. It'll be a message from the war fronts stating in the American way, 'We did it before . . . and we have done it again'."

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

There will be modest supplies of synthetic rubber produced in new factories during the next few months. Apparently most of the methods for manufacturing are experimental, but there will be most quantities of good tires before the end of this year, although it is doubtful whether any of the rubber will be available for civilians.

American manufacturers have accepted the challenge, and while they may fumble for a time—as was the case with dyes nearly 25 years ago, it is safe to say that sometime next year there will be abundant production in the United States of satisfactory synthetic rubber.

JOSEPH SOLD INTO SLAVERY

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 37:23-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love envieth not.—I Corinthians 13:4, R.V.

Does it pay to trust God? Is He really concerned about the affairs of men? Does He know the trials and the heartaches of His children? These are the crying questions of today, and they find their answer in God's dealings with men of the past. The story of Joseph has many interesting and instructive phases, but perhaps the most important just now is the truth of our lesson, "The Lord saith . . . them that honor me I will honor."

We first find Joseph as he learns that

I. Jealousy Bears Bitter Fruit (vv. 23-30).

Joseph was his father's favorite and was shown that favoritism in many ways, but it was perhaps most fully expressed in the coat of many colors. This was a luxurious long robe with sleeves, indicating that he was a gentleman and not to do ordinary work of one who wore the sleeveless, knee-length tunic. His brothers deeply resented this evidence of the father's favor.

The dreams which Joseph rather innocently yet perhaps unwisely told to his brothers and his honest report of their wicked behavior fanned the flame of jealousy into a consuming fire which threatened his life. But God, through Joseph's brother Judah and through the opportunity they had to make money out of selling him into slavery, kept him for His own purposes.

May we not learn that the darkest hour may be the time of God's deep interest and directing power. The only way strong men can be developed is by suffering hardness and trial. "God wants iron saints, and since there is no way of imparting iron to the moral nature than by letting His people suffer, He lets them suffer (Heb. 12:11)" (Meyer).

Parents should also learn here the dangers of favoritism among children. It is one of the most destructive of evil influences that can enter a home. It hurts the child who is favored, alienates the other children, and it destroys confidence in parents and respect for their authority. Let's have none of it!

II. Deceit Attempts to Conceal Sin (vv. 31-35).

One of the tragic things about sin is that a wicked act does not stand alone but leads into another sin to cover the first. In the case of Joseph's brethren, their sin against him was covered by deceit. They lied to the father and maintained that lie for years, even though they saw that their aged father was brokenhearted. How callous sin makes the heart of a man!

Yet the very fact that they lied to cover their sin indicates that they were ashamed to admit that they had fallen so low. James Strahan well says: "Evil never dares to be sincere. It always borrows the colors and wears the garb of innocence. It has a whole lifetime of hard labor in keeping up appearances. Hypocrisy is the tribute which all bad men have to pay to the ideal of goodness."

III. God Overrules Evil for Good (v. 36).

It was God's plan that Joseph should come to his greatest usefulness in his place of authority in Egypt, so He directed the sale of the young slave into the home of Potiphar, a leading officer of Pharaoh.

The story of Joseph's life in Potiphar's house is one of unusual interest. Faithfulness to duty, loyalty to God and truth led to shifting experiences of imprisonment and of favor, but ultimately he came out into the place of leadership in the government of Egypt. In this place God marvelously blessed and used him.

Since the matter of the relation of men to government is so much before us these days, it will be well to note that Scripture holds a very exalted view of the public servant. Paul says we are to "be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God" (Rom. 13:1). The Bible clearly teaches that every governmental agency and every public servant, from the policeman on the beat to the President in the White House, is only permitted to exercise authority over his fellowmen because God has ordained that there should be such government. Clear it is that every right-thinking official of state and nation should be humble, teachable, discreet, and wise in the exercise of his power, and God-fearing in the discharge of his responsibility.

Our lesson provides unusual opportunity for the teaching of proper family relationships, the right attitude toward government, as well as the blessed assurance and confidence which we may have who have intrusted our lives into the hands of God.

DAIRY PRODUCTS SALES INCREASED

At the request of Secretary of Agriculture, Claude Wickard, June was celebrated in Kentucky as Dairy Month.

Huge supplies of dairy products had accumulated due to shortage of shipping space to our allies. June was peak production month and if this temporary surplus could not be moved prices would drop, which would have discouraged farmers and resulted in actual shortage during the winter.

The campaign was a tremendous success and according to figures released by Commissioner of Agriculture, W. H. May, 37 percent more milk, butter, cheese and ice cream were sold by chain stores and other retailers.

The campaign was pushed by newspaper, radio, selection of dairy queens, dairy ball at Fort Knox, speeches and a proclamation by Governor Johnson and many mayors.

Care Of The Feet

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

The human body is a wonderful structure of energy and beauty, and, like an architectural structure, depends primarily on the strength of its foundation—the feet.

The feet are the most overworked part of the body, and functioning under unfavorable conditions, usually resulting (1) weakening, (2) impairment and (3) distort.

Facts — ninety per cent of all people in the country suffer from some kind of foot trouble, and many of them suffer all their lives without knowing the source of their ailments.

Just think the skeleton or framework of the human foot contains 26 bones. (A person's foot contains more than one-fourth of the two hundred bones in the entire human frame). When the bones become abnormally positioned as when the metatarsel bones or arches drop, it affects other component parts of the foot such as muscles, ligaments, tendons and nerves.

When you step on a hose it pinches it, and the flood water is stopped at the point of pressure.

The same applies when a bone is pressing on the blood vessels that traverse the foot. When pains are the result of this pressure, they can and should be relieved.

Always remember this, painful feet interfere with one's work, discourage the exercise so vital to health, spoil life's pleasure and makes a person feel miserable.

Never was there a truer saying, "When Your Feet Hurt You Hurt All Over."—Adv.

This Week On The Home Front

What about meat?

Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, says a study of the situation reveals these facts:

Total supply is the largest on record.

Total demand also is the largest on record, for military and lend-lease schedules demand about 6,000,000,000 pounds and may go higher if and when more ships are available. On top of that, our civil population, with the highest income on record, wants more meat than ever. It would take 27,000,000,000 pounds this year.

Balance sheet shows 27 billion pounds of demand, 24 billion pounds of supply.

So, the Food Requirements Committee has asked for a War Production Board conservation order limiting the amount of meat that can go into civilian trade. This order will allow civilians as much meat per capita as they have eaten in the last 10 years—which is about 2½ pounds per person per week.

This figure compares with Britain's 1 pound, Germany's 12 ounces Belgium's 5 ounces, Italy's 3½ to 4½ ounces. It will be augmented, too, by the increased supply of poultry, cheese and dry beans.

Fair distribution of the available meat can be accomplished by rationing, which will take about four months to begin. In the meantime, voluntary conservation is requested.

• • •

Meantime, the OPA has opened a drive against up-grading of meats. More than 100 suits were filed for price ceiling violations last week.

• • •

Because Christmas candies were not sold in March, the OPA is working on a formula for figuring the correct ceiling prices.

• • •

Farm dwellers, on the average, are expected to furnish 2.8 pounds of fat per person per year for the fat salvage drive and city dwellers are expected to offer 4.5 pounds. This is because farm families already make considerable salvage use of fats. Ohio's quota is 27,200,000 pounds a year, Kentucky's 9,400,000 pounds; Indiana's, 12,800,000 pounds.

• • •

Manufacture of bicycles has been cut to 10,000 monthly and the entire production concentrated in two plants so that the remainder of the industry will be free to produce war weapons.

• • •

A new OPA price regulation will allow apple processors to increase their maximum prices for canned apples, applesauce, cider, etc., to cover the increased cost of the raw fruits, and other mounting costs. It will permit canners to advance prices of canned apples and applesauce a total of 18¼ percent. Ten percent of this is to cover costs other than the raw fruit. The amount has been calculated so that canners will be able to pay $6.50 more per ton on the average for canning apples than was paid during the 1941 season.

• • •

OPA will back the city of Cleveland in its fight to keep the East Ohio Gas Co., from obtaining higher gas rates.

• • •

Drastic new cuts have been made by WPB in the amount of civilian construction to be allowed without specific authorization.

New automobile purchase certificates will not be granted hereafter to applicants who, since Jan. 1, have disposed of cars that were adequate for their needs.

The first general revision of minimum prices at the mines for bituminous coal has been announced. The order provides for regional increases of from 5 to 30 cents a ton, making a weighted average increase of 15.53 cents per ton for the nation.

• • •

A new conservation order issued by the WPB reverses the usual way of setting forth the restrictions. An order dealing with copper tells what CAN be made instead of what CANNOT. It's far simpler that way, now-a-days.

• • •

Crude rubber and latex have been banned in the making of rubberized fabric for protective clothing. Crude rubber may be used in cements or tapes for seaming purposes.

• • •

A statement of ceiling prices for all the common services such as dry cleaning, shoes and auto repairing, and laundering must be available for public inspection in every establishment subject to the services regulation of the OPA.

• • •

The mail order catalog will contain a ceiling price listing if it advertises cost-of-living articles for sale. OPA has set forth the ways which such catalogs and "flyers" may comply with the price-posting law.

• • •

Additional sugar allotments for industrial users in areas where the population has substantially increased—largely because of wartime factors—has been authorized by OPA.

• • •

Canners who sell standard grade peas and tomatoes to the commercial trade at the support levels of the Agriculture Department must not add to those prices any charges for brokerage or other services.

• • •

Sugar sellers have been warned that rationing stamps and certificates cannot be used after their expiration date.

• • •

The adequacy of the coal supply soon will meet its first war-time test and consumers who have not stored enough to protect themselves against possible temporary delays in shipment are urged to seize every opportunity to do so at once.

• • •

The manufacture of woolen robes for men and boys has been prohibited.

• • •

Cuts in civilian consumption began to appear in the first three months of 1942, an inter-departmental study reveals.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN FOR CIVILIAN EFFORT IN WAR IS OUTLINED

A compresensive plan of community organization emphasizing the responsiplity of local defense council for the total job of planning and coordinating civilian participation in the war effort was issued today as a booklet by the Office of Civilian Defense in a new publication entitled "Organization Outline for Local Defense Councils," according to Dan T. Moore, Director of the Fifth Region, Office of Civilian Defense.

Presented for the first time is a plan for organizing and coordinating the "community war service aspect" of civilian participation, as distinguished from the protective services represented by the United States Citizens Defense Corps. The booklet is available from State and local defense council offices.

Balancing the Civilian Protection Planning Committee of the local defense council will be a Civilian War Services Executive Committee which will coordinate all those war activities requiring organized participation locally, other than civilian protection.

Community organization of programs of other war agencies, such as those affecting transportation, salvage, health, welfare, consumer interests, and housing, will be planned and developed by separate committees responsible to the War Services Executive Committee. Volunteers enrolled in the community war services are organized into the United States Citizens Service Corps.

The comprehensive plan for community mobilization presented in the outline, OCD says, is based upon the experience of other Federal agencies, of "thousands of defense councils, some strong and some weak, and upon the advice and experience of State defense councils."

"In presenting this pattern of organization," said Moore, "there is of course, full recognition that each community may find it necessary or wise to make adjustments to suit its own particular or special needs. There is room in this Organization Outline for that kind of local adaptation.

"But there is no room for the apathy and legthargy which have characterized the operation of some local defense councils. Community problems created by the war are the problems of State and local defense councils. Not worthy of the name 'defense council' is the group which shirks and ignores these problems or its basic duty of integrating and promoting within its community the numerous programs which the war agencies of the Federal Government have called essential to winning the war."

The "New Order" is working so well in captive Belgium that the Nazi radio in Brussels has had to warn Belgians not to try to escape, on pain of death. The Nazis warned the Belgians that if any did make good an escape, their relatives would face reprisals.

FARM AGENT EWING REVIEWS PROGRESS IN GREEN COUNTY

Four years of cooperative effort have done much for agriculture in Green County, Kentucky, writes County Agent John H. Ewing, Jr. A county-wide soil improvement program is beginning to show its effect. Grass and legumes are helping to make the motto, "Make Green County Green," a reality. Better tobacco and corn are being grown. Livestock production is increasing. The county has set up ambitious goals all along the line.

Sixty-three thousand tons of marl, limestone and phosphate have been used in the county in the last four years. Instead of growing korean lespedeza alone, as 1,060 farmers did four years ago, 1,266 farmers this year grew red, sweet, crimson and alsike clovers, orchard grass, rye grass, vetch and balbo rye.

Many farmers are growing hybrid corn. Tobacco production is being improved by turning under green manure crops, and by better methods of harvesting, grading and curing.

County goals this year include the canning of 700,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables for home use. One dealer sold enough seed to plant 100 acres of garden beans.

Livestock goals are 538,838 dozen eggs, 2,275,010 gallons of milk, 17,558 hogs for home use and market, and 6,098 head of beef cattle to sell.

In the past four years 4-H club members in Green county fattened 114 calves which sold for a total of $10,054 and won $306 in cash prizes. Girls enrolled in club work have made 1,006 articles of clothing in four years.

COVER CROP SEED MOVING TO KY.

LEGUMES HELP FARMERS BEAT NITROGEN SHORTAGE, PROTECT SOIL, INCREASE PRODUCTION OF "WAR" CROPS.

Record-breaking volumes of winter cover crop seed, which will help farmers beat the threatened shortage of nitrogen and bolster production of important war crops are now moving from production areas in the Pacific Northwest to Kentucky, the Agricultural Adjustment Agency announced today.

This year's production of such seeds as vetch, crimson clover and ryegrass, which will be measured by carloads, comes at a time when the Nation's soil resources will be taxed severely to produce the vital, but soil-depleting, war crops, including peanuts, long staple cotton and soybeans, and at a time when the imports of nitrate of soda, an essential plant food from Chile, are uncertain because of shipping difficulties.

Leguminous cover crops store considerable quantities of nitrogen in the soil besides adding several tons of organic matter per acre when the crop is turned under in the spring. The growing vegetation also cover the soil and thus prevents loss of soil fertility by erosion during the winter.

Farmers in Kentucky and elsewhere are urged to obtain cover crop seed through their county AAA committees and have the price of the seed deducted from their future AAA payments.

In Kentucky, three methods are being used for distribution of this seed. These methods are: Committee distribution; Service Fee distribution; and Purchase Order distribution.. Boone County is using the Service Fee method of distribution.

Anticipated use of these seeds in Kentucky this year is as follows:

Vetch 2,163,265 lbs.

Ryegrass 1,418,000 lbs.

Crimson clover (Ky. grown), 769,200 lbs.

Vetch and ryegrass seeds are now being shipped, and at this date 8 of the 19 carloads of ryegrass seed ordered have been shipped.

It should be noted also that credit for seeding will not be given unless the crimson clover and vetch seed has been inoculated. This practice is necessary so that the crop might produce the maximum amount of nitrogen in the soil.

WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—September War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation were announced today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, to make up the national September total of $775,000,000.

The September quota for the State of Kentucky is $7,250,000.

In fixing the county quotas, the Treasury has continued its announced policy of setting the monthly quotas in line with the seasonal distribution of income with the billion-dollar monthly national average as the annual goal.

The national quota for May, when the nation went on the billion-a-month annual basis, was $600,000,000. For June the quota was $800,000,000 and for July it jumped to $1,000,000,000. The August quota was $815,000,000, so to maintain the billion-dollar annual monthly average, the quotas for the Fall and Winter months must necessarily be stepped up considerably to reach the objective set. U. S. Treasury Department

POULTRY ON THE FARM

By Norman Shelton, Russellville, Kentucky

Poultry has become one of the most profitable enterprises on our small hill farm. We have been working for the past six years in cooperation with County Agent John R. Watlington, who has done a great job in building up the poultry industry in Logan county.

In March and April, 1941, we started 600 baby chicks, half of which were hatched from eggs of our own White Rock flock. The others came from a reliable breeder of R. O. P. White Rocks. We brooded the chicks in two brooder houses with sun porches attached, using one brick brooder and one double barrel brooder, with wood for fuel. Of course they were fed a good starter mash, and at four weeks of age fine chick grain was kept before them at all times.

We never let our chicks on the ground until they are on range.

When they were eight weeks old we moved 288 pullets and our stock cockerels to range shelters on clean sod land and there they remained until housing time came. While on range they were fed plenty of frain, growing mash and water.

When they were 17 weeks old, we vaccinnated for fowl pox, which we do every year, as it is better to be safe than sorry.

Meanwhile the surplus cockerels have been sold on the market.

The pullets were housed in the laying houses in August and September, where they were culled and blood tested for B. W. D.

On October 1 when the present poultry calendar year started, we had 260 beautiful White Rock pullets, well developed and shelling out the eggs.

The total cost up to now on the pullets was $88.90.

We hopper-fed all grain and egg mash through the laying season.

If we find any indication of lice on the birds we dust them with sodium flouride, also at regular intervals spray the roosts and dropping boards with a mixture of used motor oil and coal oil which will prevent mites from getting a start.

We gather the eggs twice a day in wire baskets and allow them to cool before casing, which will prevent many dark yolks in the eggs.

We have a good outlet for eggs as No. 1 eggs until January when we have a contract with a local hatchery, where we deliver twice a week.

When the hatching season is over in June, we sell the hens on the market and get the houses cleaned and prepared for the pullets housed last fall were sold June 11, 1942, after having laid 34,279 eggs which, with the poultry meat sold, brought in an income of $1-253.22 of which $804.63 was profit.

We have kept flock records for several years and we know poultry on the farm propery cared for pays.

2,000 4-H'ERS AT CAMPS THIS SUMMER

About 2,000 members of 4-H clubs in Kentucky attended camps this summer, where they had short vacations and received special instruction in war activities. In addition, 389 club leaders and county agents and home demonstration agents assisted in the camps.

Six camps, with boys and girls from 53 central counties, were held at Camp Bingham in Washington county. A Utopia club camp and a state conservation camp also were held at Bingham. This camp, given by Barry Bingham as a memorial to his father, Judge Robert W. Bingham, has been remodeled and modernized, and is considered and ideal place for 4-H camps.

Instruction at the camps included food conservation, handicraft and health, with special emphasis on the part farm boys and girls can have in winning the war. The State Board of Health sent a registered nurse to all camps.

The patriotism of 4-H club boys and girls was revealed in the purchase of war stamps and bonds. In some camps the club members refused to spend money for candy and soft drinks, so they could buy stamps and bonds, and in every camp large sums were invested in the fight for freedom.

Kentucky, with 45,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs, ranks fourth in the Nation in completion of projects, among states with large enrollments.

COLLEGE GIRLS TO LEARN MORE ABOUT WAR ADJUSTMENTS

Girls who enter the home economics department of the University of Kentucky this fall are to learn about adjustments that may come about as a result of the war. "The drafting of men, the mobilization of women both into industry and into military units, the high wages being earned by some young people and the effect of war propaganda, are all having an effect on standards of family living and especially on the development of children," says a statement issued from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

"Courses in nutrition will include not only the scientific foundations of nutrition knowledge but also methods of making practical application of that knowledge both to mass feeding and to that of individuals and family units.

"Because of war needs for textiles and the possibility of even further rationing, the use of new textiles, how to judge new materials and new garments on the market, how to make garments of style and beauty and yet with the greatest degree of economy, how to conserve both garments and household fabrics, will be part of the courses in clothing and textiles.

"Courses in consumer economics and housing will present opportunities to students to get an understanding of how national and international factors affect individual and family standards of living. Rationing of commodities, overcrowding in some areas, big shifts in population, price controls, production increases, all of these factors as they affect family living will be given consideration.

"That home economics training has a major responsibility in total war effort is keenly felt by the University of Kentucky. The aim of the department in these times of war is to preserve the integrity of university training in developing clear thinking and sound judgment with the perspective of meeting problems of peace, as well as war, and at the same time teach application of that training to wage-earning vocations."

Seeds to be saved in Morgan county include red clover, lespedeza, balbo rye and barley.

The shortage of workers has resulted in the swapping of farm labor in Spencer county.

PRESIDENT THANKS OIL INDUSTRY

On June 12, the President of the United States, in a radio address, asked the people of the nation for scrap rubber, and entrusted the job of collection to the American oil industry. On June 15, the campaign started. And on July 10, when the drive ended, the government had 454,155 tons more scrap rubber than it had on June 15. The success of the campaign may be judged by the fact that some rubber experts doubted that more than 100,000 tons—less than 25 percent of the actual total—could be acquired.

Shortly thereafter, the President wrote a letter to the chairman of the Petroleum Industry War Council, which is composed of representatives of the nation-wide oil industry. In conclusion, he said: "You and your associates have done a grand job and I want you to know your government appreciates the splendid results achieved. My heartfelt thanks to you and to all who work with you."

The results of this campaign were not achieved by chance. They were, to the contrary, achieved through careful planning and hard, intensive work. For instance, the Standard Oil Company of California recently announced that practically all of its employes took an individual and active part in the collection drive. This company alone collected almost 18,000 tons —which is the equivalent of more than a ton for each of its employes. That is typical of the oil industry as a whole.

This campaign in itself is a fine answer to those who say that the oil industry has interfered with efforts to solve the rubber problem. The truth is that the oil industry will do everything in its power to provide this country with rubber, irrespective of how it is produced or manufactured. And right now the oil industry is making an invaluable contribution to the synthetic rubber program.

GOOD RYE PASTURE EXCELS BLUEGRASS IN SHEEP GRAZING

Rye that gets a good start in the fall is better than bluegrass as winter pasture for sheep, judging from tests made by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Ewes running on good rye pasture in winter kept in better condition, sheared heavier fleeces and gave birth to heavier lambs which gained slightly faster, than did ewes on bluegrass.

In years when rye was poor, bluegrass gave better results. Rye should be seeded as early as possible, when it is planned to pasture it.

The Experiment Station also has found that ewes do better on alfalfa hay than on red clover hay. Lambs from ewes fed alfalfa hay were larger at birth and when four weeks old, and weighed nearly eight pounds more when 56 days old than lambs from ewes fed red clover. Ewes fed alfalfa hay kept in better condition and sheared an average of over a pound of wool more than those fed clover.

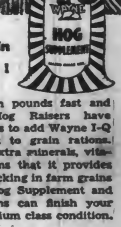
Only 10 percent of the alfalfa hay was refused by the ewes, while they refused to eat 16 percent of the red clover hay.

Tests are being continued at the Experiment Station to determine whether sheared or unsheared late lambs gain faster. In tests to date, the sheared lambs have done better. They also have been grading "U. S. Good," while the unsheared late lambs have grad i "U. S. Medium."

RESORTS AND HOTELS SOCIAL SECURITY TAX EXPLAINED BY DECKER

There is one aspect of the taxes levied under the Social Security Act which is of special importance to owners of summer resorts and hotels, it was stated today by Mr. Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington field office of the Social Security Board.

Under the provisions of the Act, wages do not include cash only. The Act defines wages as "all remuneration of employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash."



In many hotels and summer resorts, employees are paid a certain amount in cash, and also receive food and lodging. In making the tax deductions, these items are included. In other words, a value must be placed on them, and the tax paid, it was explained. For instance, if it is determined that the employee's food and lodging are worth $50 a month, the total wage on which the tax would be paid would be the cash wage plus $50.

Another point for employers to remember: the tax is collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Social Security Board has no connection with the tax collections, or with the rules and regulations concerning them. Therefore, any tax problems in connection with the Social Security Act should be submitted to the local Collector of Internal Revenue, at Louisville, Ky.

Information about the old-age insurance program under the act may be obtained from the Covington field office of the Social Security Board, at 18 Post Office Building, 7th and Scott Sts.

Series Of Pamphlets Are Issued By Office Of War Information

The Office of War Information today issued the first of a series of pamphlets—"Toward New Horizons—The World Beyond the War"—containing statements and speeches which define or illuminate the developing policy of the United Nations.

Speeches of Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Ambassador John G. Winant, and Milo Perkins, Executive Director of the Board of Economic Warfare, are combined in the first pamphlet.

"Selection of these speeches were made," said Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, "because of the light they throw upon the development of American thinking on the subject of the post war world from their various points of view."

"In relation to their varied fields of responsibility," Mr. Davis added, "these American leaders chart out the problem and suggest lines of attack upon it.

"They are not, however, speeches which will be of interest only to scholars and historians. Individual citizens as well will find in these speeches clarification of their personal relation to the winning of the war and to the peace which will follow."

PRICE STABILITY FOLLOWS WAGE STABILITY

There are two basic fallacies in our present tax policy. First, it does not spread the tax burden equitably through all classes of industries and individuals. Second, it fails almost completely in coming to grips with the problem of high and rising industrial wages. And big wages, unless they are largely absorbed by taxation of one kind or another, will continue to represent the most inflationary influence of the time.

A commentator recently observed that a large part, if not all, of the additional revenue which the pending tax bill seeks to raise, will be consumed by the increase in the cost of war materials resulting from increases in wages, and the payment of time-and-a-half for overtime work. About six months ago, it was estimated that overtime pay alone would add about $5,000,000,000 to the cost of the war program on the basis of appropriations then requested or authorized for war production but not yet spent. Since that time, a number of labor groups have been given substantial pay jumps—as in the case of the War Labor Board's wage awards to the workers in "little steel."

The powers-that-be talk a great deal about the necessity of absorbing, through taxation, the vast amount of excess purchasing power that war spending has created. Yet the plain fact is that they impose the bulk of the tax burden on industries and individuals who in many cases have not profited at all from the war. Great beneficiaries of war spending are the high-wage groups—and it is these groups, possessors of billions in excess purchasing power, which have barely been tapped by the tax collector. Our lawmakers will refuse to face the facts.

There are two practical solutions. One is to further low income tax exemptions and to substantially increase the tax rates in the lower brackets (in the high brackets taxation has already reached almost confiscatory levels.) The other solution is to impose a general retail sales tax. Unless steps of this nature are promptly taken, the inflationary spiral will continue and we shall have a further extension of the ominous "black market" where goods are bootlegged at extortionate prices. And as inflation increases, the worker and the man of moderate means will be hit hardest. The instinct of self-preservation alone should warn us all that price stability is impossible without wage stability.

ROOT-ROT HITS FLEMING COUNTY

Fleming county farmers who switched from No. 16 root-rot resistant tobacco to other varieties suffered losses this season, according to County Agent James L. Stephens. For a time they thought the damage came from unfavorable weather, or from worms or low fertility.

In Daviess county, leaf-spot disease developed in fields set with plants from untreated beds. In some instances farmers who had big losses last year almost completely controlled diseases this year by spraying the plants in the bed.

POOR VISION IS A HANDICAP

To children as well as grown ups. If your child is backward in his studies at school, it may be due, not to lack of intelligence but rather, to his eyesight. In such a situation, a visual analysis may reveal the cause. An early visit to our office will then prove advisable.

...But Are They?

Off they go! New books... new clothes... but what about eyesight protection? Eighty-seven per cent of all that children learn they absorb through their eyes. Their ability to fill useful jobs and win advancement in later life depends to a large extent upon their eyesight. So don't take a chance. Give your children the advantage of good light for easier seeing when they play or study at home. Good light means better grades now and better jobs later.
Two Ways to Assure Better Light for Home Study

Jimmy's eyes will relax when you put an I. E. S. Study Lamp with 100-watt bulb on his table. Its white glass diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare. Its wide, white-lined shade spreads soft, generous light evenly over a broad area. Why not let us send one out for a free trial today?

When Jimmy and Mary study at the dining room table, you can help them sail through their work with a plastic adaptor equipped with a 150-watt bulb. Easy to install, it screws into existing socket like an ordinary light bulb. Provides abundant eye-easy light, yet costs surprisingly little.

A Week of The War

Gen. MacArthur's Australian Headquarters reported in a special Communique August 31 that Japanese invasion troops have suffered a disastrous defeat in the Milne Bay area of New Guiena. A force of Australian shock troops had been secretly concentrated along the Bay in anticipation of the Japanese landing August 26, the report said, and as a result the Japanese landed in a trap. The Japanese lost all of an "enormous quantity" of heavy material they landed, including tanks, and except for a few troops evacuated by an enemy cruiser and eight destroyers, the enemy land force was annihilated.

The Navy announced that Marines holding six islands in the southeastern Solomons had killed or captured all Japanese troops attempting to retake the islands. The Navy reported August 30 that seven enemy planes were shot down when they attempted to raid the airfield facilities which the Marines had captured on Guadalcanal, bringing the total of enemy planes shot down in the Solomons fighting to 78. The Navy also announced the Marines, with Navy support, raided the Japanese base on Bakin Island in the Gilberts, killing all but 2 of an estimated 330 enemy garrison. U. S. losses were less than 1 to 10 of Japanese.

In the European theater, U. S. flying fortresses bombed the airdrome of Wevelghemen near Countrai in Belgium, in the eighth straight operation without loss. In other prevision bombing raids, the fortresses attacked the Rotterdam shipyards and an airplane factory at Meaulte in Northern France. Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced August 31 in Cungking, China, that U. S. Army planes based in China have made heavy and successful attacks on Myitkyina and Lashio, the two large Japanese bases in northern Burma. The Navy announced the sinking of five more United Nations merchant ships by enemy submarines in the Atlantic.

Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan newly returned from Tokyo, said in a radio address the Japanese will fight "with all the force and power at their command . . . until they are utterly crushed." Mr. Grew stated "we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot and will not be broken even by successive defeats, who will certainly not be broken by economic hardships, a people who individually and collectively will gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation, and can be brought to earth only by complete defeat in battle."

Controlling the Cost of Living

President Roosevelt said he would announce his new anti-inflation program in a nation-wide address the evening of Labor Day, and would send a message to Congress earlier the same day. He told his press conference that forthcoming steps to control the cost of living will include stabilization of farm prices as well as wages, because neither could be stabilized without the other. He said wage stabilization would be flexible and would not amount to flat freezing of wages and salaries. The President also said the Government is considering one meatless day a week as a plan to be used largely as a means of saving oceanic shipping space for the total war effort. He said under the plan American meat could be shipped to nations in need, and this would make 30 to 40 allied ships available for hauling war necessities to world-wide theaters of United Nations war activities.

Stabilization of Farm Prices

The Office of Price Administration announced it is planning a price ceiling for live hogs and similar action is contemplated soon for cattle prices. The ceiling would be worked out in conjunction with representatives of livestock producers. The Office said "vigorous steps" are being taken to enforce quality grading provisions of its beef regulations to prevent upgrading as an evasion of price levels. The Agriculture Department reported a 9-point advance in farm prices from July 15 to August 15, raising the general level to 163 percent of the pre-World War I figure, 32 points higher than a year ago.

Rationing

The OPA ordered reexamination by local boards of all supplemental gasoline ration books, particularly C books for motorists in 14 designated occupations and S books for operators of commercial vehicles. New books will be issued for the amount the operator is fairly entitled to. If present coupons are found in excess, and deliberate violations of regulations will be prosecuted, the Office said. The OPA announced 35,500 new passenger cars will be made available for rationing in September, compared with 13,250 in August, but all unused quotas were recalled and no carryovers will be permitted in the future. The quota of 90,000 bicycles for September is the same as for August.

All rented standard model typewriters manufactured since January 1, 1935, were ordered returned to rental agencies by September 15 to make them available for purchase and use by the armed forces and Government Departments. Persons eligible to purchase machines under existing OPA regulations are not affected.

Transportation

The Office of Defense Transportation issued an order effective immediately, governing the operation of at least 50,000 automobiles used as taxi cabs. The order banned (1) use of taxicabs for "social or recreational purpose" of the driver or operators;" (2) established a national taxicab speed limit of 40 miles per hour "or any speed above that prescribed by competent public authority;" (3) prohibited use of taxis for making "commercial deliveries of property;" (4) limited to 10 miles the distance a taxi may be operated beyond the corporate limit of the municipality in which the trip originated; (5) banned seeking cab passengers by "cruising"; (6) limited to 25 miles the distance which may be traveled on any one trip; (7) prohibited vehicles not marked distinctly as taxicabs from being operated as such.

The Armed Forces

The War Department raised from 45 to 50 the maximum age at which men "who have character, skills or aptitudes which make their enlistment desirable and who are otherwise qualified" and who have draft board permission may enlist in the Army. They will be assigned to overhead units or installation where they will release younger men for general military service, and if fit, they will be used for combat duty, War Secretary Stimson said.

Marine Corps enlisted men, as well as Navy enlistees, may now apply for flight training to become Naval aviation glider pilots, who act as co-pilots for large transport gliders. During the week, the 45,000-ton battleship Iowa—heaviest vessel ever launched in the U. S.—the aircraft carrier Independence, the cruiser Boston, and two destroyers, the Glennon and Jeffers, were launched. The Red Cross and the Navy jointly announced a new rescue project under which buoyant waterproof bags containing emergency food, water and medical supplies, cigarettes, etc., will be dropped by Navy patrol blimps to seaman awaiting rescue, before they are actually picked up by rescue vessels.

Strategic Materials

War Production Chairman Nelson said 2,000,000 cars from automobile graveyards have been converted into 400,000 tons of steel scrap a month during the last 4 months, but the steel industry is now consuming approximately 4,800,000 tons of scrap metal a month about 4 times as much as it took in 1938. The Office of the Petroleum Coordinator reported New Englanders, and other east coast consumers will obtain only 75 percent of their fuel oil requirements under normal weather conditions this winter.

LAMB MONTH SUCCESS

The "Eat-More Kentucky Spring Lamb Campaign" held during July by Kentucky lamb producers, Kentucky Department of Agriculture, Farm Bureau and stockyards was a huge success.

Commissioner of Agriculture, W. H. May, said, "Considering the Eat-More Kentucky Spring Lamb Campaign from any angle, the results were amazing. Data given us by chain stores, one of the liberal cooperators, shows that 30 percent more lamb was sold in July in 1942 than in 1941. Farmers throughout Kentucky owe a great deal to the Kentucky newspapers for the generous publicity given."

The sheep industry means over $15,000,000 to Kentucky farmers and the number of sheep has nearly doubled in the past twenty years in the State.

Kentuckians are not consuming their share of their own products as the lamb consumption of lamb per capita in the United States is 8.9 pounds and 3.7 pounds in Kentucky.

EXPLAINS REASON FOR FEWER EGGS

Hens just can't lay as many eggs in the hot summer months as they can in the pleasant springtime, explains J. E. Humphrey of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Eighty-five percent of the year's egg production in Kentucky is laid from January 1 to July 1, he says.

Many hens don't have the ability to lay much beyond this time of year. Such hens should be culled out and sold or canned. A third reason why egg production is off just now is that some farmers and poultrymen have quit feeding balanced rations. Another reason listed by Mr. Humphrey is trouble from lice, mites and worms. Then some people get careless about keeping good clean water before the hens. The hen's body is 55 percent water and her egg 66 percent water.

In the matter of balanced rations, Mr. Humphrey says hens needs something more than corn and water. They need materials that maintain the hen's body and also make eggs. This means corn, wheat, oats, barley, a laying mash, oystershell or limestone, and water.

First of all, advises Mr. Humphrey, feed the grains produced on the farm. Then add a laying mash, mixed at home or bought. Grain and protein supplement should be kept before the hens in separate hoppers. Some farmers feed corn in one hopper, meatscrap and 2 percent salt in another hopper, limestone in a third hopper, and then keep water in clean vessels. This is called the cafeteria style of feeding.

EVERYBODY HELPS

There is one way to win this war and that is for everybody to pitch in and help. Most Americans know this, as has been demonstrated by many fine examples of this method of going about things in our local communities and in the nation since Pearl Harbor. Each cooperative effort brings victory a few steps nearer.

A good example is offered in General Motors. The Corporation has just reported on the first two months' results of its "produce more for victory" suggestion plan. More than 15,000 suggestions were submitted by GM workers in those two months and thousands more are pouring in—all designed to simplify and speed the production of things that will beat the Axis. Some of the suggestions are excellent, representing careful study and thought. Others are not capable of adoption, but you can bet that coming from workers who know their jobs and are bent on helping to win the war, a good number of the suggestions have real value.

Of what value are these suggestions to the workers, aside from the satisfaction of making a contribution to the united effort? That is the other side of the cooperative picture—management. General Motors, besides instituting the plan and putting the suggestions into practical use, has awarded a total of more than $40,000 in war bonds to men and women workers in 53 plans for 1,155 worthwhile suggestions in two months, while 120 additional suggestions have been approved for awards. Two workers received $1,000 awards the highest. Another has received four separate awards totaling $400. Where possible the ward is figured as a percentage of the actual saving involved over a stated period of time.

There is one other happy aspect of cooperation in the plan. All the awards are made in the form of war bonds. Thus, the war effort is helped further. Needed cash goes into the Treasury and at the same time the specter of inflation is given no encouragement.

MONEY TALKS

By Frederick W. Stamm, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

"Pay off your debts now" is advocated by Government officials and an increasing amount of statistical data indicates that the public is responding to this request.

Farmers, industrial workers, and many other people are making more money now than they have for years, and our Government realizes that this is a golden opportunity for the public to put its financial house in order.

Merchants throughout the country have reported that their customers are paying off installments on their purchases before they are due and are also taking care of their monthly credit purchases promptly.

The Federal Land Bank financial statements indicate that our farmers realize that war prosperity is the time to pay off loans. Recent news shows that collections on farm mortgages this year are running far ahead of last year. If the last war taught the farmers anything, it was the fact that during war years they should pay off debts and not contract new ones. You will recall that many farmers found it hard to pay off, during the lean years of the depression when wheat brought only fifty cents a bushel and cotton only four cents and five cents a pound, mortgages made during the flush war year.

Our banks, credit unions, and personal finance companies advise that people are paying off old loans and not making new ones. This is a healthy economic sign and should save many of us from financial headaches later on when farm prices and wages may be on a lower level.

BEST TOBACCO MONEY FROM MANURED LAND

The value of manure in producing high yield and good quality in burley tobacco was shown at the experimental field which the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has at Greenville.

Where 15 tons of manure and 500 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate were used to the acre the yield was 1,413 pounds an acre, valued at 21 2-3 cents a pound, or $306 an acre.

Where no manure was used, but 1,000 pounds of 8-10-10 fertilizer used to the acre, the yield was 1,450 pounds. Its value was 17¼ cents a pound, or $250 an acre.

Another patch of unmanured tobacco which received only limestone and phosphate produced 1,115 pounds to the acre, valued at 14 2-3 cents a pound, or $163 an acre.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Four $100 scholarships, offered by the Farm Underwriters' Association of Chicago to Kentucky 4-H club members, have been awarded to Roy VanArsdall of Mercer county, Ausbon Judd of Green county, Winnie Roy Lewis of Rockcastle county and Mary L. Thornton of Owen county.

The selections, made by the 4-H club department of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics, were based on 4-H club work, scholastic standing, and community leadership activities.

The boys will use their scholarships in studying agriculture and the girls theirs in studying home economics, in the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington.

NAME CHAMPIONS AT 4-H DISTRICT FAIR

District champions named at the annual District 4-H Club Fair at Lexington are Virginia Bowles, Shelby county, canning; Bruce Cotton, Grant county, sheep; Walter Goggin, Jr., Boyle county, fat calf; Ruby Hampton, Oldham county, room improvement; Carl Rhea Jean, Jefferson county, dairy; Kathleen Lea, Bracken county, swine; Frances Norton, Jessamine county, poultry; Iris Shannon, Oldham county, clothing, and Frances Wilhoyte, Oldham county, foods.

Seventy-nine head of dairy cattle, 26 fat calves, 29 sheep, 40 hogs and several hundred chickens were exhibited by 4-H club boys and girls. Several hundred jars of canned foods and baked products and articles of clothing made up attractive exhibits. Crops, vegetables and fruits also were on display. Mahlon Nichols, Jr., of Nicholas county, showed 33 varieties of vegetables, and won first prize. Thirty-five counties contributed to the 4-H show.

In home economics demonstrations, blue ribbons went to girls from Fayette, Jessamine and Franklin counties. Fayette county also furnished the best farm demonstration teams. Scott county boys excelled in stock judging.

John Kalmey, a Jefferson county boy, had the grand champion in both the 4-H club Holstein cattle show and the special show of the Kentucky Holstein Cattle Club. David Connor of Shelby county owned the junior champion in the 4-H Holstein show. Jefferson county furnished the best county group of Holsteins, followed by Campbell and Shelby counties.

In the big 4-H club show of 54 Jerseys, Carl Rhead Jean had the senior and grand champion, and Billy Wash, Anderson county, had the junior champion. There were 10 county groups of five females each. Anderson county took first place followed by Carroll, Jefferson, Campbell and Fayette.

FEED COSTS CUT BY COVER CROPS

Where cover crops are sowed early and on good soil they may materially reduce feeding costs, says a statement from the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Cover crops increase milk production, reduce the cost of producing milk, and may save up to $15 an acre on feed costs.

Pastures, including cover crops, are almost necessary to make money from sheep. In some instances as much as $6 a lamb has been saved, compared to feeding grain.

One acre of good cover crop pasture may replace an acre of corn, in feeding hogs. One experiment showed that an acre of rye was worth 14 bushels of corn, 1,494 pounds of tankage and 747 pounds of soybean oilmeal.

In feeding chickens, pasture may constitute 15 to 25 percent of the total feed consumed by the flock.

WAR SUGGESTIONS OFFERED FARMERS

The following suggestions, considered of special value during the war, were offered by the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics to farmers in the Pennyroyal area of the southwestern part of the state:

Plant approved hybrid corn. If the land is good the rows may be planted closer together than usual, and the plants in the row may be closer.

Grow barley to help supply grain needs. Use good seed and fertilizer and treat seed for smut.

Sow more alfalfa for hay and pasture. Having 10 to 15 percent of the tillable land in alfalfa is profitable on livestock farms. Sow grass with alfalfa.

If limestone is hard to get, it can be spread at the rate of one ton to the acre. Alfalfa should have at least two tons.

Try to avoid reducing corn acreage to grow hemp unless plenty of other grains are provided, such as barley or oats.

Soybeans for beans are not as profitable as corn. However, they are more profitable on level land than wheat or barley.

HARNESSED TO THE IRON HORSE

The war effort demand that the railroads be permitted to obtain enough additional locomotives, cars and other equipment to carry the mounting war load. That, in effect, is what Brigadier General Charles P. Gross, chief of the newly-created Army Transportation Corps, said in a recent interview.

General Gross said that the Association of American Railroad, which is the central organization of all the important railroads of the country, is "geared to war better than any other agency." He then observed that the carriers are approaching a serious and even critical condition, and continued: "The railroads already have about used up their reserves of surplus equipment. Right now, because of ship sinkings, they are obliged to use some 1,200 locomotives to haul oil, which were available last year for other traffic movements.

"Since 1939, carloadings have increased 27 per cent, ton miles of freight 80 per cent, and passenger travel has nearly doubled. This year will see 34 percent more ton miles of freight moved than in 1929 and 48 percent more than in 1918, the peak year of the first World War." And the load which must be hauled by the railroads will continue to grow.

The railroads have long been trying to purchase the new equipment they need. The difficulty lies in restrictions on materials. Sometime ago, their project building and purchasing program was heavily cut by the War Production Board, on the grounds that the materials are needed for other war activities. It is obviously true that we suffer serious shortages of many basic materials, and that they must be carefully allocated. But it is also true that the whole war program would bog down without first-class rail service. No other carried can handle the major part of the war load.

General Gross has repeated what other authorities, such as Director of the Office of Defense Transportation Eastman, have said. Ways must be found—and found quickly—to provide the railroads with the equipment they urgently need. The whole future of the war effort is harnessed solidly to the iron horse.

SOLDIER, SON OF PATROLMAN WRITES TO FATHER IN VERSE

Pvt. William Collins son of Sergt. Kenneth Collins of the Newport Police Department who is stationed at Ft. Lawton, Wash., sent a letter and poem to his father. The poem entitled "For Draft Dodgers," is as follows:

"I'm writing this short letter and every word is true,
Don't look away, draft dodger,
For it's addressed to you.

"You feel at ease—in no danger
Back in the old home town;
You cooked up some pitiful story,
So the draft board turned you down

"You never think of the real men,
Who leave there day by day;
You just think of their girls friends
Who you get while they are away.

You sit at home and read your paper
You jump and say, 'We'll Win'
Just where do you get that 'we stuf?'
This war will be won by men.

"Just what do you think draft dodger,
That this free nation would do,
If all the men were slackers
And scared to fight like you?

"Well I guess that's all Mr. Slacker,
I suppose your face is red,
America's no place for your kind,
And I mean every word I said.

"So in closing this letter, draft dodger,
Stay away from my girl friend, you dirty bum,
For I'll be back some day."

George Midden of Harrison county saved 6,800 pounds of vetch seed this season.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

VOLUME 67 | BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1942 | NUMBER 15

DEATH CLAIMS NONAGENARIAN

WAS SECOND OLDEST MAN IN BOONE COUNTY—HAD SERVED AS CORRESPONDENT FOR RECORDER FOR OVER 50 YRS.

Ben A. Floyd, Florence, retired Boone county farmer, died Thursday at Booth Hospital, Covington, after an illness of five weeks. He was 92 years, 10 months and 13 days old, the second oldest man in the entire county.

Besides a host of relatives and friends, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Perry Allen, and one sister, Mrs. Mary E. Rouse, both of Florence. His wife preceeded him to the grave about three years ago.

The funeral was conducted from the Taliaferro Funeral home, Erlanger, with services at the Hopeful Lutheran Church at 3:00 P. M. Sunday afternoon by the Rev. T. C. Crume, D. D., assisted by Rev. H. M. Hauter. Burial was in the Hopeful Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Dr. H. R. Daugherty, C. F. Blankenbeker, Robt. E. Tanner, Chas. W. Riley, M. L. Crutcher and Ben Northcutt.

Mr. Floyd was born and reared in Boone County and was a very successful farmer in and around Gunpowder neighborhood. He was a very active member of the Hopeful Lutheran church where he served as secretary and choir director and taught music for several years. He has served as Gunpowder correspondent for this newspaper for over 50 years and was always very faithful to his duties.

Mr. Floyd was the second oldest man in the county, liking only about one month of being 93 years of age. The oldest man at present is Mr. John Clore of near Big Bone who is 96. Having been born in 1849, Mr. Floyd was the last of the 49's in Boone County. He was a fine gentleman and will be greatly missed by all who had the pleasure of knowing him.

4-H Members Start Harvest Of 1942 Castor Bean Crop

Harvest of Castor Beans grown by 4-H members was started last week but only a small part of the crop was ripe enough to gather at that time, according to Franklin Frazier. After these beans are properly dryed they will be sold to the Government.

Club members have raised 4.2 acres of these beans to help with the war program since castor oil, manufatured from castor beans, is widely used as a lubricant for air plane engines and in war plants. Vital shipping space will be saved by producing this crop at home because formerly it was necessary for this country to import large quantities annually.

All burs on a stalk do not ripen at the same time, and 4-H members expect to continue picking until frost. When brown mature buhs are brought from the field they are spread on a floor to dry several weeks.

Erlanger Sued

Mrs. Edith Billiter, executrix of the estate of Simon M. Billiter, filed suit in Kenton Circuit Court, Covington, Friday against the Town of Erlanger asking $4,064 and interest alleged due on bonds.

Mrs. Billiter charges that the town defaulted on payment on bonds issued in 1929 to take up warrants outstanding at that time.

She declares further that demand for payment has been refused on a lien on revenues received by the town to satisfy the claim.

Dr. and Mrs. William Townsend and family, of Falmouth, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Renaker. Dr. Townsend has entered the armed services and will soon leave for Savanah, Ga., where he will be stationed at present.

COVER CROPS ARE IMPORTANT

TO MAINTAIN LAND DURING WINTER MONTHS AND PRODUCE MUCH NEEDED EARLY PASTURE.

Farmers are urged to seed all 1942 cultivated land to small grain and grass at the earliest possible date, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Early seeded grass and cover crops are a sure sign of good farming.

Grain feed and hay represent the greatest item of cost in producing milk, beef, lamb, pork or even poultry. Good early sown cover crops will save farmers $7.00 to $15.00 per acre on the winter and early spring feed bill. The value to the land represents approximately that much more.

Certified Balbo Rye, costing around $1.75 per bushel, is the most hearty and heavy yielding winter cover crop. Certified Kentucky No. 1 Barley, at around $1.50 per bushel, on good ground is excellent and should yield approximately as many bushels of grain feed next year as would corn, and cost much less in labor and expense. Thorne wheat is the best of the wheat varieties, and Fulwin Winter oats, at around $1.25 per bushel, is the best of the winter oats.

Vetch with a small grain should be sown on all land that will be cultivated next year. Vetch has given the largest increased crop yield and most soil improvement of all the winter legumes or cover crops. The cheapest source of seed is through the County AAA office at $11.86 per hundred as Grant of Aid. Grant of Aid means no cash payment at the time of receiving seed. The cost is deducted from the AAA benefit payments at the end of the year. All vetch seed should be inoculated.

Be a good farmer in 1942 and 1943. Help meet the war emergency with efficiency in production through good winter cover crops. Now is the time to seed cover crops, all grasses and a few of the legumes.

Besides his daughter, he leaves one son, Robert; four brothers, James, Latonia; Joseph and Thomas, Newport, and William, Winchester, Ky.; four sisters, Mrs. Anh Wheeler, Newport; Miss Kathryn Peters, Newport, and Mrs. Sally Hackett and Miss Alice Peters, Winchester, and five grandchildren.

NO RESTRICTION ON SHOE SALES

IS WORD FROM WAR PRODUCTION BOARD TO NORTHERN KY. SHOE DEALERS—SEVERAL STYLES AND FANCY COLORS WILL BE DISCONTINUED.

Covington shoe merchants have been informed by the War Production Board that no restrictions have been placed on the total number of shoes to be manufactured. That would seem to mean there will be shoes for everybody.

However, some of those fancy shoes, including the two-tones, have been ordered discontinued by the manufacturers. To save leather the variety of colors and styles have been reduced for next spring and summer wear. Colors have been limited to the following: Black, white, turf tan, army russet, town brown, and blue.

The War Production Board has requested shoe retailers "to discourage extra-pair sales to consumers and to discourage promotion to influence consumers to buy unneeded pairs of shoes."

Except for shoes worn in agricultural or industrial work, double soles will not be permitted. Designers are permitted to originate new kinds of practical soles and create new fashions for next spring and summer, which will save scarce materials and yet have eye appeal. The great demand for sole leather by the armed forces is the limiting factor in shoe production.

War Bond Quota Short For August Is Chairman's Report

The selling agencies for War Bonds in Boone County have reported a total sales of $11,756.25 for the month of August, whereas, the quota for the county for this month was $15,300.00. This is the first time that Boone County has fallen below it's quota except July, and on this occasion the quota was erroniously set at $27,500.00.

The quota for September is $15,-300.00, and so let us all put forth our best effort; let us everyone taste of sacrifice; that our quota of War Bonds for September may be met.

Northern Ky. Blackout Reported Successful In All Districts

A blackout of Kenton and Cambbell counties, including U. S. 25 as far as Florence, was reported very successful last Friday night from 10:00 P. M. to approximately 10:30.

Florence, the only Boone county town taking part in this test blackout, was reported by officials to have gone over 100% and only minor troubles developing.

The Florence people have a fine organization and have worked hard at their jobs. They are to be highly complimented on the fine cooperative spirit and ability to work together.

From now on, there will be no warning given in advance of these blackouts and all lights must be out when the siren sounds for 2 minutes, which is Air Raid Warning.

The enrollment period continues each night throughout the week and on Saturday until 3 p. m. The first semester opens the week of September 28 and more than 330 classes in engineering, commerce, and liberal arts, and applied arts will meet for the first time.

This year's program, according to an announcement by Dean Norman P. Auburn, places major emphasis on problems growing out of the war. In addition to the usual courses leading to degrees and certificates, special programs are offered. One, the "pre-induction" program, is designed to aid men who are soon to enter the armed forces. The second is to train women for work in war industries and offices, and the third is to further cultural relations with our South and Central American neighbors.

Consulations on all courses are underway and Evening College officials have invited residents of Boone County to confer. No appointments are necessary, Dean Auburn said.

HIGHER YIELDS IS SUGGESTION

OF SPECIALIST FOR 1942-43 CROP—LIVESTOCK PROGRAM—PRODUCTION MUST BE INCREASED TO MEET PRESENT NEEDS.

Roy E. Porter, Farm Management Specialist, College of Agriculture, recommended to Boone County farmers in a meeting at Burlington last Thursday evening a more extensive type of farming with high crop yields and efficient livestock production to meet the 1942-43 production problems. Fifteen farmers attended the meeting and those keeping complete farm account records last year were supplied with business analysis.

A summary of the next year's recommendations were as follows:

1942 and 1943 Crop Suggestions

High yields of all crops are especially important when prices are high and labor is scarce. Select land for each plow crop with care to see that it is suitable for that crop. Save and use all farm manure fully and add limestone and fertilizers in amounts needed for high crop yields.

Produce the feed crops that give the greatest feed value per day of labor, especially good pasture and alfalfa hay. In order to extend the period over which such crops may be used, surplus grasses and legumes may be ensiled. Seed winter small grains (with vetch in some cases) on row-crop land for early spring pasture, inter small grains save plant food by preventing washing and leaching. They help to keep livestock off of regular pasture late enough in the spring so that summer pastures do better throughout the year.

Abundance of good feed is important to livestock production. Small grain fields which are pastured tend to give better sets of grass and clover seedings than those which are harvested for grain.

All land too rolling or eroded for good yields of row crops should be treated and used for pasture or hay to provide the most feed per day of work.

Corn returns more grain per acre, but winter barley (Ky. No. 1 variety) on fertile upland gives much more feed per day of labor than can be secured from corn.

Those truck crops which there is a ready market and which can be expanded easily should be increased. Vegetables for home use are important in the War Effort.

1942 and 1943 Livestock Suggestions

Dairy production can be expanded most economically by feeding a balanced ration including grain on pasture according to production. Feed grain also during dry period which should usually extend from 6 to 8 weeks. Use more fall and early spring pastures of small grain. Where feed, labor and heifers and available, further expansion of cow numbers should be

SCRAP DRIVE TO CONTINUE

AT VARIOUS SCRAP DEPOTS THROUGHOUT COUNTY—OVER 60 TONS COLLECTED IN RECENT CAMPAIGN.

The recent scrap drive in Boone County was reported a hugh success this week as State and County highway trucks cleared over 60 tons of scrap from various depots all over the county.

The scrap campaign here will not terminate with this one-day campaign, but will be carried on over a period of several weeks, it was announced this week by J. B. Hizer, chairman of the Local Salvage Committee. The following places will take all scrap metal that you desire to donate, the proceeds going to the USO:

MALONE LIGON, Union
WALTON GARAGE, Walton
L. C. ROUSE STA., Florence
J. P. BROTHERS Limaburg
J. R. EDDINS, Burlington
RYLE BROTHERS, Rabbit Hash
VERONA GARAGE, Verona
L. C. SCOTHORN, Idlewild
J. H. MANNIN, Hebron
KOTTMYER'S STORE, Constance
CHAS. HEMPFLING, Taylorsport
E. A. STOTT, Petersburg
VIRGIL DAY, Erlanger
HOLLOWAY'S STORE, Petersburg
AETNA SERVICE STATION, Flor.

Trucks Needed

Mr. Hizer is asking for fifteen truck drivers in different parts of the county to contact him and arrange to haul scrap metal into the depots, for which service each will be paid accordingly. There is still scrap metal lying idle around our homes, an all out effort is being made to get all this scrap in at the earliest possible moment. If you have any scrap metal about your home, please write to Mr. J. B. Hizer, Walton, Ky., R. D. 2 and he will be pleased to see that your scrap gets to the proper place.

Americans today are facing one of the most important assignments ever given to the home front in this nation's wartime history.

To meet America's increasingly critical shortage of raw materials every man, woman and child in the country is expected to be enrolled in the nation-wide drive for scrap metals, rubber, hemp, waste cooking fats and other materials, lack of which is already beginning to hamper the war effort.

The organization of the all-out scrap collection, one of the most colossal jobs ever undertaken by this nation, is going ahead under the direction of the Conservation Division of the War Production Board, which has set a goal of 17,-000,000 tons of scrap metal alone for collection in the next few months. It is estimated that a vast reservoir of about 10,000,000 tons of scrap metal is now lying idle in homes, on farms, and in industrial plants and business concerns.

THIS WAR

On the first day of September, the greatest war the world has ever known entered its fourth year. Those three years have witnessed a series of almost uninterrupted triumphs for Hitler and his satellites. The timetable of conquest makes almost incredible reading—Poland fell in 28 days, Denmark in one day, Norway in two months, Belgium in 18 days, France in 43 days. Of all the nations Hitler has invaded, Russia was the Savior of the free world. Whatever happens, the magnificent resistance of the Red Army will mark one of the brightest and bravest pages in the long and sanguinary history of combat.

On December 7, 1941, Japan joined hands with the Axis. And the Jap timetable of conquest is comparable to that of Hitler. Guam was taken in five days. Wake Island was conquered in 14 days, after a superb defense by a handful of United States Marines. Malaya, with its supposedly impregnable naval base at Singapore, fell in 54 days. The Philippines were forced to surrender in a little less than five months. In short, the war so far has consisted largely of a series of disasters for United Nations' forces—and a series of great victories for the dictators. That is simply a matter of record, and it does no service to the democratic cause to attempt to hide the truth.

Basically, the cause of all this is simply explained: The enemy was ready for war, and we and our Allies were not. The enemy understood precisely what total war means—and we did not. In Germany and Japan there are no strikes. There is no shilly-shallying on the part of the officials of the government. There is a grim and all-encompassing efficiency. The Axis means to destroy us utterly, and every source at its command is devoted completely to that end.

So much for the debit side. On the credit side there is also a great deal to say at the end of three years of war. The quality of the United Nations' fighting men is first class. Only a little of the long and bloody story is now known—but that little is magnificent. The RAF after Dunkirk, the Russians before Sevastopol, the Dutch airmen and sailors in the East Indies, the U. S. Army in Bataan, the Marines in the Solomons—in those campaigns free men wrote with their blood a glorious saga of courage and achievement. The Germans and the Japs have paid a tremendous price for their victories.

There is much to be said also for American war production. The burden of supplying the troops of all the United Nations falls squarely on us. No other nation has even a tithe of our potential productive capacity. And it can be said to the everlasting credit of American industry that the changeover from production for peace to production for war, was generally made swiftly and effectively. But there are many bad spots still. We have not yet achieved, in many vital lines, the essential production goals which have been laid down. There has been mismanagement in labor, in government, and in industry itself. These bad spots must be erased before we can carry the war fully to the enemy. No American should feel optimistic today. He should feel, instead, that infinitely more must be done before victory can be assured. He must not forget that this war can be lost if we fail to coordinate our efforts.

It is a favorite saying in Washington that "the American people don't yet realize the gravity of the situation." But, as many columnists have been pointing out, Washington officialdom has created confusion and indecision in the minds of the people. The conflicting "official reports" that still seep out of Washington concerning such basic issues as rubber, fuel, gasoline, the draft, etc., have attained the stature of a national scandal. Only lately, through Elmer Davis' Office of War Information, has a start been made toward clarifying official policy. Every poll indicates that the American people are willing, ready and even eager to make any necessary sacrifice—if only their leaders will tell them simply and clearly what sacrifices are needed.

We are just beginning to feel the economic effects of war. Non-essential businesses are closing fast. Whole occupations—such as that of the salesman—are being virtually wiped out. As store inventories run down, it will be impossible to buy such once-plentiful commodities as radios, stoves, water heaters, and any number of other conveniences. Taxes will be even heavier next year than they are now, and it seems inevitable that a sales tax and some form of enforced savings will soon be adopted. In many fields, the labor shortage is acute. There are but a few of the consequences of total war.

As the war enters its fourth year, Germany and Japan dominate an immense part of the globe. They have gained through conquest, gigantic quantities of vital raw materials. Despite its losses, the Germany Army is still the most potent military machine on earth. But, at the same time, America's growing military power is at last being felt. The U. S. Army is increasing fast in numbers, and it is being superbly equipped. The U. S. Navy and Air Forces have demonstrated that they have splendid striking power and brilliant leadership. The courage of Allied fighting men is beyond question. To paraphrase Winston Churchill's phrase, if we give these fighting men enough tools, they will finish the job.

SERVICE WITHOUT PROFIT

The wide measure of success attained during the recent scrap rubber collection campaign was largely due to the intensive effort of the oil industry. The bulk of the rubber collected was brought to service stations. The President of the United States has publicly thanked the oil industry for its fine work.

The rubber brought to the service stations was paid for at the rate of one cent a pound. However, in many instances, the owners of the rubber donated it and refused to accept payment. As a result, oil companies sold the rubber collected for substantially more than they paid for it. But that excess isn't "profit."

A recent release from the Texas Company says there is a difference of some $300,000 between the amount it received from the Rubber Reserve Corporation and the amount it paid for the 40,912 tons it collected. Every cent of that excess will be paid to the American Red Cross, the U. S. O., Navy Relief and Army Relief. The other oil companies are following the same policy. They aren't making a solitary nickel out of the rubber drive. And in addition, they paid such expenses as loading, trucking and advertising out of their own pockets.

In short, the oil industry's prime interest today is to help solve this country's critical rubber problem, and so keep America's automobiles rolling. It is the leader in developing and producing rubber substitutes, even as it was the leader in the scrap drive. And that is a 100 percent essential job.

LIVE FRUGALLY—BUY BONDS

In a recent interview, James J. Hunter, president of the Bank of California, advised the American people to live frugally and save their money through the purchase of War Bonds. No better advice can be given at this crucial period of our national existence.

At the present time, American business in many fields is exerting itself to the utmost to sell both Bonds and Stamps. The work of the banks and of retail stores has been especially noteworthy. Thru advertising, displays, posters and other publicity methods they have told the War Savings story to tens of millions of Americans. The banks are the leaders in the sale of Bonds—and retail stores, including chains and independents alike, are the leaders in the sale of Stamps.

As a result of such efforts, War Savings purchases have reached very high levels—in July alone, which marked the start of the "Retailers for Victory" Bond and Stamp drive, sales were in excess of $900,000,000. But there must be further substantial increases in public purchasing before Treasury established goals will be attained.

Every one must play his part in financing this war. When you shop in a store, take all or part of your change in Stamps! When you visit a bank on pay day, buy a Bond.

SABOTEURS ALL

The people have listened to a lot of pledges by the heads of union labor that there would be no more strikes. Yet every day new strikes delay war production.

The excuse given by labor leaders for these stoppages of work, is that the strikes are "unauthorized." But the fact remains that war production is tied up and that when the men go back to work they are not disciplined in any manner by their own organizations which calmly accept their "unauthorized" obstruction of the war effort.

A striker in these times creates havoc the same as a saboteur who lands on our shores from a German U-boat. The purpose of both is to hamper production at a critical time. Fathers, mothers, wives, brothers and sisters whose menfolks are in the armed forces waiting for supplies on which their lives may depend, are fed up with the striker who enjoys time off, while their boys risk their lives to protect the strikers themselves from the dangers which the armed forces face.

GOOD TIME NOW TO RESEED LAWN

Fall is a good time to sow bluegrass on the lawn. N. R. Elliott of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics says old lawns with a fairly good sod should have a half-pound of seed to 1,000 square feet. Lawns not so good should receive a pound, and young lawns at least two pounds per square feet.

Now also is a good time to select native shrubs and trees to plant around the home later in the fall. They now can be identified by their foliage. Prof. Elliott suggests that small trees be reset, rather than to attempt to get large ones to live.

MORE WILT-FREE BURLEY

Tobacco growers along the Ohio river and in some other parts of Kentucky where fusarium wilt is injurious are gradually turning to the use of Ky. 33 burley, a variety developed at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. It is resistant to this disease, and is fast growing and early maturing. Its quality also is considered satisfactory. Ky. 33 is not recommend for general planting, however, where fusarium is not prevalent.

JUDAH: AN EXAMPLE OF SELF-SACRIFICE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.—I John 3:16.

The family is still the fundamental unit of society, and is therefore of more importance than the church, the state, or the social order of which it is a vital part. Every force which encourages the breakdown of the sacred relationships of the home and family is set for the destruction of society itself.

Men have too often chosen to go the way of the flesh, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But marriage is just as sacred as ever in His sight; the home is to be kept for Him; and brotherly love still finds a high place among the virtues of real men.

Today's lesson is a continuation of the story of Joseph's life. As we study it we must bear in mind Joseph's dealings with his brethren, who as yet did not recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity. He was bringing them kindly but definitely to the point of real repentance, so that he could show himself gracious to them.

To do so he had brought disaster upon them. Being happily on their way homeward with a new supply of food, they were overtaken and proved to be thieves, and Benjamin, the beloved of their father Jacob, stood condemned by their own words, to death.

In that crisis the mouths of the others seemed closed, but Judah, who had really saved Joseph's life (Gen. 37:26, 27) and who had apparently come to himself as a man of essential goodness, pleaded for Benjamin's life. That plea presented a truly sacrificial brotherly love, as he manifested

I. Courage (v. 18).

Easy wrests the yoke of family life as long as all is joyful and prosperous. But when adversity strikes, when sorrow comes, or sickness, or sin, then the true test of devotion is at hand.

It was a brave and manly thing for Judah to stand before the one whom he knew only as the man who was "even as Pharaoh." The circumstances were all against him. He expected the flaming anger of the offended ruler. His brethren had collapsed in despair. It was one of those dark hours which come to every family when someone must demonstrate true love by being strong-hearted and steady.

II. Intelligence (vv. 19-29).

Crises call for more than a cheerful smile or an encouraging word, much as they may mean in such an hour. We must be prepared by our close contact with our loved ones to speak and act with vigor and assurance.

Judah's plea is a masterpiece of argumentation and appeal, demonstrating that he was not only well-informed about his family and its problems, but ready to use his knowledge skillfully and effectively.

III. Self-Denial (vv. 30-33).

One step deeper goes the devotion of this man to his father and his brother. He had done no wrong that merited punishment, but evidently his brother Benjamin had been guilty. Had he been of the spirit of Cain he would have said, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and let him answer for himself. Why should Judah suffer for another? Why should he allow himself to be imprisoned in a strange land to save his father from sorrow and his brother from what seemed to be the just reward for his deeds?

Thus reasons the man of the world, but such is not the language of the true brother, who says, "Let thy servant abide instead of the lad as a bondman."

IV. Love (v. 34).

Love for father and brother underlies all of the courage, conviction and self-sacrifice of a man like Judah. In his younger years, and possibly under the influence of his brothers, he had failed in that respect, but now his real devotion to his brother was evident.

That affection was a real, powerful, and beautiful thing, and yet it is but a faint prefiguring of the affection of the One who "sticketh closer than a brother," who "though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich" (Prov. 18:24; II Cor. 8:9).

Let us improve the opportunity to review our relations with our own family, to determine whether there is aught that we in intelligent and courageous self-sacrifice should do for our own.

This Week On The Home Front

It's a cold, grim fact:

SCRAP METAL MUST BE OBTAINED OR THE STEEL MILLS WILL LOSE.

Barely two weeks' supply on hand—and yet enough must be piled up to last through the winter.

The need is as urgent as the materials are scarce. Our enemies don't wait, and so we must have war goods in greater volume than ever—and in a shorter time.

The steel mills, eating up almost 5,000,000 tons of scrap metal a month, are running on an almost day-to-day basis. We are dangerously short of copper, tin, and other non-ferrous metals.

That's why our school children—30,000,000 of them—are being enlisted to comb our homes, backyards, and farmyards for scrap. That's why our kitchens must shower down old tin cans by the million so that we can reach our goal of 3,000 tons of household tin a year recovered.

That's why we must save waste fats and greases and turn in the half billion pounds we have been asked to salvage. These fats would help make enough bombs to cripple the German war machine or enough explosives to fire 1,250,000 anti-aircraft shells.

* * *

Don't wait for someone else to do the salvage. You do it—and so make sure we aren't conquered.

* * *

Last year our production of wire coat hangers, if made into military barbed wire, would have girdled the earth six and one-half times. We shall not be making wire hangers this year.

* * *

Farmers, on the whole, haven't found the going very tough so far except for a shortage of labor. They are buying more goods and making more property improvements than at any time since the unluckly boom days of the last war. Yet that very fact should give them pause. Inflated war prices not only handicap the whole war program, but endanger postwar security.

* * *

Building lumber is so scarce that we shall be using brick and tile for even temporary structures.

* * *

Cigarettes may be dryer. Glycol—their moistening agent—is going to cool military engines. Among other products recently taken out of general circulation is caffein, which goes into many of the "cola" drinks.

* * *

The balance distribution of civilian goods is not easy under present conditions. In many localities, store shelves are being emptied, while in other places there are surpluses. The WPB plans to regulate inventories in hands of wholesalers and retailers.

* * *

Shoe merchants have been asked not to urge customers to buy unneeded shoes. And that is but one of the steps taken to save leather. Manufacture of two-color shoes has been banned and the colors and variety of shoes for spring-summer consumption in 1943 has been limited. There will not be any limit on the number of shoes within the permitted styles, however. If some manufacturer can find a sole that won't need leather or a composition material, he can make as many styles and colors as he wishes.

* * *

Here are the six colors permitted for shoes next spring and summer: black, white, turftan, army russet, town brown, and blue. Gold and silver may be used in evening slippers.

* * *

More than 75% of the nation's steel output of 5,300,000 tons a month is going directly into war uses.

* * *

Sixty-seven tire dealers in Cleveland and neighboring cities have been ordered to end violations of OPA regulations. Fifty-eight did not give sales slips or keep records of them, 48 had not posted ceiling prices, and 59 did not have inventory records. Court will be the next stop if the violations continue.

* * *

Suspension action already is in progress against a Cleveland tire dealer.

* * *

Production and sale of "zott suits" of any type of material an amendment to the men's clothing conservation order now being prepared for early issuance. It is claimed such suits waste material.

* * *

Because the catch of fish used in the production of fish oils is currently equal to last year's, no restrictive orders on the use of fish oil will be necessary.

* * *

The paint that is no longer being used on automobiles and refrigerators has gone to war. The key ingredient, phthalic anhydride has been placed under allocation control.

* * *

The balance of this year's salmon pack has been refrozen in the hands of canners.

* * *

With 90% of our import of tin cut off, WPB has pressed development of an electrolytic process, which makes each ton of tin do the work of two.

* * *

There will be almost 5,000,000 women in war industries by the end of this year.

* * *

Among products recently taken out of general circulation are portable electric fans, anti-freeze mixtures, quick-drying paints, and the agave fibre from which wrapping twine is made.

* * *

Brushes, except for war uses or public health, must not contain more than 55% pig and hog bristles.

ELSMERE PHARMACY, NOW AUTHORIZED DISTRIBUTOR OF WELL-KNOWN LEDERLE VETERINARY PRODUCTS.

Elsere Pharmacy, popular Druggists at Dixie and Garvey Sts., announces a new valuable service to farmers and stockmen of this county. This store, for the first time, has established a department for the sale of veterinary biologicals and pharmaceuticals made by the highly regarded Lederle Laboratories.

Never before has it been so important for farmers and stockmen to guard the health of their valuable animals, it is pointed out. The immunization of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, fowl, small animals, against disease costs but a trifle when compared with possible heavy losses of these animals through easily preventable infections.

The Lederle Laboratories, whose veterinary products the John Smith Company now markets, is the largest maker of human and veterinary biologicals in the world. Each year, in the great Lederle laboratories, upwards of a million dollars are expended in research into human and animal diseases.

In the development of animal vaccines, serums, etc., Lederle is noted for its distinguished pioneering. Lederle perfected the first refined, hog cholera serum, first introduced into this country an effective rabies prophylactic, developed Anthrax Spore Vaccine (Carbozoo), was first to obtain Government permission to produce an effective swine erysipelas serum and, comparatively recently perfected Equine Encephalomyelitis (Chick-Embryo Method) which stopped the nationwide epizootic of sleeping sickness among horses in 1938.

Without 200 acres of tomatoes, Carroll county has its first canning factory since 1935.

A MacArthur In the Making

Don't Let Poor Eyesight Lessen His Chances for Leadership

Give Him Better Light for Better Sight

Homework's a snap with an I. E. S. Study Lamp equipped with 100-watt bulb. Its white glass diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare . . . provides an abundance of both direct and indirect light. Ask for free trial.

Most children are born with perfect eyes. But it is an appalling fact that by the time they leave grade school, one out of five has defective vision. At college age, two out of five have faulty eyesight.

Why risk your child's eyes and his chances of future success? Give him enough light and the right kind of light for safe seeing. Put an I. E. S. Study Lamp on his study table. And have plenty of light elsewhere in your home — well shaded and free from glare. Light all of each room, too, not just part of it.

Remember: eyes are priceless; good light is cheap! Have better light tonight!

He has only one pair of eyes to last a lifetime. Safeguard them with better light.

"AN OPEN LETTER"

Dear Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the weekly edition of the Recorder which you send to me. It is certainly good to be able to read all the news from home once each week in your newspaper. I read it from cover to cover and my only regret is that I cannot take advantage of any of the splendid advertisements.

After undergoing eight weeks of strenious training here at Fort McClellan, Alabama, I have been stationed here and attached to the Headquarters Company of the Branch Immaterial Replacement Training Center here. That long title merely implies that men are trained here such that they are capable of being sent into any branch of service. The training is excellent and all men who pass through here come out well trained and in the best of physical condition. I, for one, have certainly appreciated the quality of my instruction here at Fort McClellan.

Thanking you again for your kind consideration in sending me your paper,

I remain,
Sincerely Yours,
Private Robert M. Rouse

A Week of The War

President Roosevelt asked Congress to enact by October 1 legislation under which he would be "specifically authorized to stabilize the cost of living, including the price of all farm commodities." In a special message to the legislators, the President said "inaction on your part by that date will leave me with an inescapable responsibility to the people of this country to see to it that the war effort is no longer imperiled by threat of economic chaos. In the event that the Congress should fail to act, and act adequately, I shall accept the responsibility, and I will act."

Mr. Roosevelt said the purpose of the legislation "should be to hold farm prices at parity, or at levels of a recent date, whichever is higher." He said "at the same time that farm prices are stabilized, wages can and will be stabilized also. This I will do."

The President recalled that two points of his original seven-point anti-inflation program required legislation—"An adequate tax program and a law permitting the fixing of price ceiling on farm products at parity prices." He said delay in enacting this legislation "has now reached the point of danger to our whole economy . . . We cannot hold the actual cost of food and clothing down to approximately the present level beyond October 1. But no one can give any assurances that the cost of living can be held down after that date . . ." He renewed his request of last April for an individual net income limitation of $25,000.

The War Front

After ten straight raids without a loss, two U. S. Flying Fortress bombers were reported as missing September 7 following the greatest American aerial attack of the war on Nazi-occupied France. Three squadrons of the big bombers attacked the Airframe factory at Meaulte, near Albert, for the second time, while a fourth squadron bombed the St. Omer airfield In the raids the Fortresses destroyed five enemy fighters and probably destroyed 13 more, and damaged another 25. The bombers were escorted by 400 Allied fighters, three of which were shot down.

Gen. MacArthur's Australian Headquarters reported September 7 that heavy Allied bombing planes attacked a Japanese cargo ship southeast of New Guinea which was believed to have been attempting to supply the trapped enemy forces in the Milne Bay area. Australians were mopping up the remants of Japanese forces in this area. U. S. Army Air Forces in China, continuing their offensive, scored a direct hit on Japanese military headquarters in Nanchang sank at least seven steamers, blasted a railway station and warehouse and stafed a troop train.

Two Navy vessels, the destroyer Blue and the auxiliary transport Colhoun, have been lost in action in the South Pacific in the past two weeks, the Navy announced. There were few casualties. The Navy also announced the sinking of nine more United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarines in the Atlantic.

War Aims and Foreign Relations

President Roosevelt, in an address broadcast to an International Student Assembly in Washington and short-waved to other parts of the world, stated the war is "going to be long and hard and bitter (but) this time we shall know how to make full use of victory" to build a better world. He said the Government will see to it that men returning from the fronts can resume their interrupted careers and education and that work is provided for those willing and able to work.

Reciprocal Lend-Lease aid to the U. S. already covers a range as wide as the requirements and geography of a global war, and is being provided to this country on the same basis as we are providing Lend-Lease help to other countries, the Office of War Information reported. Such aid is being provided without dollar payment under the terms of master agreements with countries receiving U. S. Lend-Lease help. Reciprocal Lend-Lease aid "for American forces abroad . . . ranges from squadrons of Spitfires to new fan belts for Army trucks — from building airdromes and naval bases to rationing chocolate bars and bananas at the soldiers' mess—from convoy protection for U. S. troopships arriving in British water to filling the gas tanks of U. S. ferry plants at airports newly laid out in jungles or deserts," the OWI said. The President announced a special U. S. technical mission will leave for Brazil soon to assist the Brazilian Government in expansion of its war machine.

Army and Selective Service

Assistant Secretary of War McCloy said that between February 1 and August 30 U. S. Army planes destroyed 234 Japanese planes in the air, compared with American losses of 109. This record, together with the "Flying Tigers," record of 218 Japanese planes destroyed as against losses of 84, is due mainly to the performance of the P-40 Fighters, he said. The Army said it has developed a system of technical inspection and maintenance supervision of aircraft that is undoubtedly the finest in the world. The War Department sent 36,000 dependents, allowance checks totaling $4,500,000 to relatives and dependents of enlisted men in the four lower grades of the service. Selective Service headquarters instructed state SS boards to place their calls so that most men right now will come from local boards with the most single men or men with dependents other than wives and children.

Navy and Shipbuilding

Navy Secretary Knox said the submarine menace "is not by any means solved," but there has been a "steady deminution of ships sunk off our own shores." A shipbuilding compilation for Labor Day showed 174 launchings and 49 keel layings during the day for many kinds and sizes of combat and cargo ships. The Maritime Commission reported 68 vessels were put into serve in August and there is "every indication" the goal of three completed ships a day will be reached in September.

Rationing

The War Production Board released 50,000 of the refrigerators which have been frozen in the hands of dealers and distributors since February 14 for sale to the general public after finding that they were not needed for essential purposes. Another 50,000 will be released by authorization of WPB for delivery to dealers and transfer to ultimate consumers. The WPB Food Requirements Committee recommended to the Board the following meat conservation program—(1) Limitation of the amounts of meat packers may sell to the civilian trade so that each civilian will be able to buy 2½ pounds a week; (2) direct consumer rationing to be started as soon as possible—in about four months; (3) an interim voluntary conservation program.

Purchase of War Bonds

The Treasury Department announced sales of War Bonds in August totaled $697,255,000 in bonds through the ten percent Payroll Savings plan, compared with 18,000,000 persons and $200,000,000 in July. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced state War Bond quotas for September, totaling $775,000,000 for the country.

Taxation and Profits

The Treasury Department recommended to Congress a reduction in individual income tax exemptions to $600 for each dependent. The Treasury also proposed a ten percent tax on consumer spending and high penalty rates for luxury spending. At the request of Congress, the Treasury outlined a sales tax levied against the retailer who would pass it on to the consumer. War expenditures in August were $4,900 million, fore than three times greater than the amount spent for national defense a year ago. Income payments to individuals in July were 21 percent more than July 1941 and were at the record annual rate of $114 billion a year, the Commerce Department said.

EARLY APPLES MORE POPULAR

Because of the favorable market for early-ripening apples, and also because of less bother from pests early in the season, the trend of apple production in Kentucky is toward early varieties. Several early varieties tested at the Agricultural Experiment Station are attracting the attention of growers. The Close, Red Bird and Lodi varieties of early apples have received much favorable comment.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK

The week of September 27th through October 4th has been set aside as Religious Education Week and Church and Sunday Schools throughout the nation will cooperation. In a letter to Rev. Roy G. Ross, General Secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, President Roosevelt endorsed the 1942 observance of the Week. Governor Keen Johnson, of Kentucky also endorsed the observance, issuing a proclamation setting aside the above mentioned period as Religious Education Week. Governors of other states are doing likewise.

Religious Education Week is the next major step in th great nation-wide movement, the United Christian Education Advance, in which forty different denominations are participating.

The observance began in 1930 under the leadership of the international Council of Religious Education. Each year it has grown acceptance as an occasion for promotion of religious education ideals and programs and for the launching of special emphasis in Christian Education. While each denomination is suggesting its own program, the general idea seems to be to begin the week (Sunday, September 27th) with Rally Day, to have special activities during the week, and to end the observance on Sunday, October 4th, by participation in the World Wide Communion. Literature may be obtained from the various denominations and from the Kentucky Sunday School Association.

As one feature of the observance of Religious Education Week, the Kentucky Sunday School Association will sponsor an exhibit of religious education materials at the Association offices, 554 S. Third Street, Louisville, from September 28th through October 3rd. This exhibit will be open to the public all day, every day, and on Monday and Friday nights from 6:30 to 9:00 p. m. At three o'clock each afternoon, a fifteen minute address will be given by an outstanding leader on some phase of religious education. As many persons as possible are urged to time their visits so as to be on hand at this period. Special hostesses who can confer with the visitors about materials on display will be present at all times.

W. H. Tandy of Lyon county combined three and a half bushels of timothy seed to the acre.

Monroe county farmers who bought beef cattle last October expect to make 30 percent on their investment.

Corns

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at—
PEOPLE'S SHOE STORE
814-816 Madison, Covington

The most frequent of foot ills is that diagreeable growth which usually is found on the outer side of the little toe, or on top of the second, third and fourth toes, and in some cases on the bottom of the great toe joint. The chief symptom is a burning, stinging pain of varying degrees. The formation of the growth produces a pressure upon the nerves which in turn gives rise to pain varying from a dull mild sensation to a sharp and intense irritation. These pains are usually increased when the parts affected are further irritated by ill fitting shoes, by friction or by other pressure.

In the case of a soft corn, which is found in the web between the fourth and fifth toe, the cause is usually due to pressure brought about by the dropping of the fourth metatarsal bone, which in turn presses upon the face of the fifth. The possibility of eliminating a soft corn is very good provided proper shoes are worn and a metatarsal pad is placed directly under the head of the fourth metatarsal bone to set it up in posture. The soft corn will gradually become smaller and finally disappear.

Vascular corn is an over growth of skin, the same as occurs in hard corns, but in which blood vessels are found. The pain is more severe in this type of corn than in any other form, usually resulting in a burning sensation even when the victim is not standing or walking. —Adv.

Gayety Theater News

Tonight and Friday

"Behind every graet man ther's a woman"—to inspire him, encourage him and help him over the rough places. That's the thesis of Paramount's brilliant new romantic drama, "The Great Man's Lady," which opens at the Gayety Theatre, with beautiful Barbara Stanwyck as "the great man's lady," and Joel McCrea as the great man.

Saturday

"Heart of the Rio Grande."

Sunday and Monday

Universal's gay comedy, "Lady in a Jam," starring Irene Dunne and with Patric Knowles, Ralph Bellamy, Eugene Pallette and Queenie Vassar heading the supporting cast, will open at the Gayety Theatre.

Miss Dunne plays the role of a delightful irresponsible Manhattan heiress who goes bankrupt and travels West to Arizona to recoup her fortune working an abandoned gold mine.

Tuesday and Wednesday

In "Her Cardboard Lover," Norma Shearer again steps into a role she does with such ease. A farcical comedy of the same type as" Private Lives" or "The Divorcee," "Her Cardboard Lover" is light as bubbling champagne.

Co-starring with Miss Shearer is Robert Taylor who competes with George Sanders for her favors. The screenplay was written by Jacques Deval and John Collier and was directed by George Cukor.

made for one or two years.

Hogs are important on some of these farms. They are best adapted to the larger, well-fenced farms which have adequate grain. Equipment for sanitary care of hogs at farrowing and on pasture is important. Prolong the productive life of sows and increase pigs per litter by use of pasture and minerals without allowing sows to become fat. Feed hogs rapidly and to heiver weights unless a high premium can be had for feeder shoats.

Poultry, especially for egg production, offers good profits on farms now well equipped. From a farm management viewpoint this means proper selection and feeding of pullets, plenty of clean range, ample housing space, and culling as hens go out of production.

Sheep and beef cattle required much less grain and labor but more hay and pasture than dairy cattle to provide a given income. There is reason to expand sheep on well fenced farms where pasture is plentiful. Early lambs and grazing cattle on clean pastures, especially Balbo rye and vetch, should pay well. There is less than usual reason for feeding grain to beef cattle or lambs, except in small amounts on pasture.

Volunteer leaders are contributing time to contact Boone County families concerning phases of the war effort. This summer, men and women have carried information on the National Inflation Control Program. Following the same system of contact, the women in the various communities are taking to thir neighbors material on home use of "enriches" cereal, flour and bread products, and the preparation of waste fats for use by the Government.

Although the majority of leaders are cooperators of the County Extension organization, there are a few who are participitating with this Victory leadership program because they realize the value of this service and are located in section is not reached by the club members.

Every Boone County Home can contribute to the health and morale of the community by making the use of "Enriched" breads and flours a daily practice. The wasting of fats is a sabotage of the total war effort. Surely all can cooperate in these two simple practices. Local leaders will answer questions, and other information may be obtained from Mary Scott Moore, Home Demonstration Agt.

FARM ITEMS

Vernon Scott of Burlington, R. 2, has recently added several purebred Hampshire ewes to his flock. Boone County needs more good consistent breeders of livestock of all kinds.

Truck crops growers report a successful and profitable year. The home "Victory" garden and the "Live at Home Program" has not produced the surplus on the Market anticipated last spring.

Every farmer and farmer's wife should plan to can, store, and preserve for the coming year's food supply, all surplus food products.

The September 1st crop report just released gives the 1942 Burley tobacco crop estimated at 341,819,000 pounds, compared with the 1941 crop of 338,051,000. This is close in line with consumption which has been showing a marked increase. Reports are that speculators have already bid 30c on a few crops. Some tobacco men are talking about a 35c average.

HIGHER PROFITS IN POULTRY BUSINESS

A 11-year summary of the records of demonstration poultry flocks in Kentucky shows a profit of 19 cents per hen in July, 1932, and 31 cents in July of this year. Owners coöperating with the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association in demonstrating the value of owning good chickens and giving them good care.

In July of both 1933 and 1934, profits per hen dropped to 6 cents, and then jumped to 21 cents in July, 1935. Other July profits were: 1936, 20 cents; 1937, 9 cents; 1938, 19 cents; 1939, 14 cents; 1940, 14 cents; 1941, 26 cents, and 1942, 31 cents.

The report shows that the highest 10 demonstration flocks produced an average of 19 eggs per hen in July, while the lowest 10 flocks produced less than 12 eggs per hen.

Mrs. H. C. Fields of Lost Creek, Breathitt county, owned a flock of 63 White Leghorns that laid an average of 26 eggs each in July. Another flock of 125 White Leghorns, owned by H. B. Rappolee of Smithland, laid an average of 22 eggs each in July.

"POKE" LUNCHES SERVED

Boyd county homemakers exchanged "poke" lunches at their annual meeting. Some of the package make-ups were comical, others patriotic and still others beautiful, says a report of the event. Numbers were placed in the pokes, and three women drew war stamp corsages.

KY. 16 BURLEY IS NOW WIDELY GROWN

Ky. 16 burley tobacco, a variety developed by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, has now been certified by the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association for five years. The certified seed is being sold by 30 growers in Kentucky and by several in Tennessee.

Judging from the sale of certified seed, more than 60 percent of the burley crop in Kentucky and neighboring states is Ky. 16. This variety not only outyields the other commonly grown varieties in fields infected with black root-rot, but on uninfected land has returned 10 to 30 percent more per acre than the commonly grown stand-up varieties of burley.

Newspapers to Sponsor Kentucky Scrap Drive

Boone County's Quota Set at 1,082,000 Pounds---Meeting Will Be Held At Burlington Friday, September 25

Responding to an urgent appeal to the Government, Kentucky's newspapers have taken over the job of mobilizing a "people's army" to conduct an intensive State-wide campaign October 12-31 to collect 285,000,000 pounds of scrap metal in the State.

Mr. Chas. Mullican, Louisville, will address the people of Boone County at a meeting in Burlington, Friday afternoon at 4:00 p. m. Eastern War Time in the courthouse.

Prizes totaling $5,000 have been posed by the newspapers to add incentive to the drive. Grand prize is $1,500 which will go to the county that turns in the largest amount of scrap metal per capita. A goal of 100 pounds of every man,woman and child in Kentucky has been set by the Government.

The campaign was announced last Thursday in Louisville at a meeting attended by representatives from virtually every newspaper in Kentucky's 120 counties. Gov. Keen Johnson, who attended the organization meeting, designate Henry M. McClaskey, Louisville advertising executive, general director of the campaign.

Newspaper chairmen have been appointed in twenty districts to co-ordinate the drive with each county's scrap salvage chairman or chairwoman. Governor Johnson has obtained the full support of these county salvage leaders to the campaign.

The Kentucky drive resulted from appeals by Donald Nelson, chief of the War Production Board, and leaders of the Army and Navy who summoned newspaper publishers to Washington several weeks ago and asked for their co-operation. Mr. Nelson said that unless the people go out and gather up their scrap metal and turn it in to the Government in great quantities the steel mills which are turning out materials for tanks, guns and ships and other war weapons, will have to suspend a large part of their operations during the winter.

Each county's campaign will be carried on through the efforts of the county judge, county clerk, school superintendent, county agent, head of the Parent-Teacher Organization, and other leaders, all working with the Governor's salvage chairmen under the direction of Judge E. C. O'Rear, Frankfort, State salvage chairman, and Mrs. T. C. Carroll, Shepherdsville, State salvage chairwoman.

Kentuckians are being asked to make a survey of their homes, farms, factories and mines to round up every available pound of scrap. The scrap metal may be sold, but in most States it is being donated to the Government scrap stock pile. Although the drive actually doesn't get under way until October 12, salvage leaders have asked Kentuckians to round up their scrap and have it available for collection. Army trucks from Fort Knox and the State Highway Department will be made available for collecting the scrap. Each person turning in scrap will be given a receipt crediting his contribution toward the individual prize of $200, the county prizes, and toward the organization he represents.

Boone County's scrap quota has been set at 1,082,000 pounds. Let's dig down deep and bring up even a larger amount than our quota.

The 4-H and Utopia Club Council at present time had incurred a debt of approximately $1400.00 in the improvement of the grounds. Recently several public spirited citizens have made cash contributions toward paying off the improvement dept.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil S. Vice are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a 9-pound baby girl, born Sept. 10. The new arrival has been named Beth Anne. Mother and daughter are doing nicely.

C. L. HEMPFLING NAMED CHAIRMAN

OF BOONE COUNTY REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE — IS WELL KNOWN BOONE COUNTY FARMER.

Honorable William Klicke of Southgate, Campbell County, who is general campaign chairman for Lewis R. Kimberly, Republican candidate for Congressman from our fifth Kentucky district, expressed gratification over the action of Boone County Republican Chairman George Baker in appointing C. Liston Hempfling, Constance, as county campaign chairman.

"We need 100% Americans like Mr. Hempfling to assist us in electing Richard J. Colbert and Lewis R. Kimberly to replace Happy Chandler and Brent Spence as United States Senator and as Congressman from the fifth Kentucky Congressional district, respectively. These wars must be won as quickly as possible so constitutional government can be restored in North America and there is no other way open but to replace present rubber stamp Congressmen and Senators with strong, intelligent and courageous men who will force the New Deal to stop playing politics and get down to brass tacks," Mr. Klicke stated last Monday.

"It is well-night criminal to attempt to fight two first class wars with incompetents like Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes, Leon Henderson and Madam Perkins running the show while able men like Herbert Hoover, Tom Girdler, Ernest Weir, Jim Farley and Raymond Moley sit helplessly on the side lines, deprived of the chance to help because their views on domestic issues are at variance with those of the New Deal overloads in New York City and the East. There are too many American lives at stake to permit this sort of business to continue.

"We will win this year because too many real Democrats now realize the New Deal not even remotely resembles the great political party founded by Jefferson and Jackson. These will join with the Lincoln Republicans of the Middle West this year in that necessary housecleaning in Washington," Mr. Klicke states.

Mr. Klicke states a meeting of all county campaign chairmen will be held with the general committee within the next ten days to map a vigorous campaign to be conducted during October.

Hemp Harvesting Demonstrations Planned In County

Two hemp seed harvesting demonstrating will be held in Boone County in the near future, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The hemp will be ready to harvest in about two weeks.

The harvesting is done in two operations. The hemp is cut and shocked for a period of 10 to 14 days to allow the seed to complete the ripening process. The shocks are then turned over on a sheet and seed beaten out by hand. The dates of the harvesting meeting will be announced next week.

Don't forget the 34th Annual Aurora Farmers Fair, October 2 and 3. See complete advertisement in this issue.

CORRECTION

In the front page announcement last week of the public auction of Ralph Jones, Florence, the day of the sale was incorrect and should have been Friday, September 25, instead of Saturday, Sept. 25 as was stated in the story.

The sale, one of the largest to be held in Boone County for several years, will begin promptly at 10:00 a. m. Friday morning, with lunch served on grounds at the noon hour. A complete advertisement of this sale will be found in this issue, and if you are in need of livestock or farm equipment, don't fail to read it.

Count On School Kids to Make Oct. 5 Biggest Day

In Scrap Drive---1,000,000 School Manuals Mailed to Schools Thruout Nation---School Officials Will Direct Drive

Washington—The nation's school children, returning to classrooms 30,000,000 strong, are being counted upon by WPB Conservation officials to make October 5 the largest single Scrap Salvage Day since the campaign started.

October 5 is the day when the Junior Salvage Army of school children will begin a nation-wide house-to-house canvass for scrap materials, and already there are reports coming into Washington that the kids are out spotting the scrap in preparation for the big drive.

School Manuals Mailed

More than 1,000,000 School Manschools throughout the nation. Posters, telling in picture form the type of scrap wanted and its equivalent in war goods, have been sent to every teacher for use in classrooms.

The battle strategy of the Junior Salvage Army is being directed by school officials in cooperation with local Salvage Committees.

Every state superintendent of schools is a general and every teacher is a captain. The lieutenants, sergeants, corporals and privates, all serving on a volunteer basis, will come from the ranks of the students.

Salvage Depots in School Yards

Every school yard in the nation will be an official Salvage Depot, bearing the Red, White and Blue banner that has become a familiar sight to all Americans in the last few months. Each student will be credited with the amount of scrap turned in or the amount spotted and collected later. Parents and older persons of every community are being urged to cooperate by aiding the children in handling the larger pieces of scrap and getting it to the school yards.

Twenty-Five Dollars Donated Saturday To Fair Grounds Project

L. Henry Thomas, of Cincinnati, who owns two farms in Boone County, was in Burlington Saturday afternoon, and in company with some of his Burlington friends inspected the fair grounds and lake just north of town. He was so favorably impressed with this project that he voluntarily donated $25.00, saying that no one had ever solicited him during the drive for funds to purchase the grounds and build the lake and that he wanted to be counted in on this worthy enterprise. This is indeed very kind of Mr. Thomas and much appreciated by the 4-H and Utopia Clubs.

If there are any other public spirited people who were overlooked by the solicitors for funds when the land was being purchased, their donations will be thankfully received, as the lake and buildings cost more than had been anticipated and the club is owing some money for these improvements. It is also planned to make additional improvements and beautify the grounds as funds are available.

Fellowship Picnic Will Be Held At Local Fair Grounds Sat.

Saturday, September 26, there will be a Church Fellowship picnic at the fair grounds, beginning at 4 p. m. All members and friends of the church are invited. You are asked to bring a free will offering to help meet expenses. This picnic is planned by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Truck Owners, Mail Carriers Urged To Attend Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Grant and Boone County truck owners and mail carriers at the court house in Williamstown, Ky., on Wednesday evening, September 30th, 1942, at 8:30 o'clock (Eastern War Time), according to R. E. Brugh, chairman of Boone County War Price and Rationing Board.

There will be a representative from the Federal Government at this meeting who will explain who is eligible for tires during the emergency. If you are in need of tires now or will be during the duration of this war you are urged to be present at this meeting. It is most important that you be present at this meeting as it is of vital interest to all owners of trucks.

M. C. Fisher Farm Sold Last Week

M. C. Fisher, Florence, announced this week the sale of his 33-acre farm, located on the Tanner Road, near Florence, to Mrs. Irene Schulte of Latonia.

Mrs. Schulte plans to move to the farm sometime in the fall, where she plans to make her home

FAMILIES URGED TO COOPERATE

IN LIVE-AT-HOME PROGRAM—COUNTY AGENT REPORTS RECORD SET IN CANNING AND PRESERVING FOODS.

Boone County families are urged to cooperate fully in the 1942 Live at Home Program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. We have raised the best garden crop in many years and people as a whole have done the best job on record of canning and preserving the surplus food products for winter.

There is still much that can be done in the Live at Home Program to see that the farm family is well fed this winter and next spring. Some things that are still timely include: (1) The canning, drying and storing of surplus vegetables. These include late beans, greens, sweet and Irish potatoes and many others. Some fruits and vegetables like sweet potatoes, onions and pumpkins need a dry place for storage; others like apples and Irish potatoes need sufficient moisture for best keeping qualities. Extension Circular No. 266 on Home Storage is available at the County Agent's office or better still attend the County Home Storage meeting on Thursday, October 8th. (2) Two dairy cows (one spring and one fall freshening) will allow for an abundance of dairy products throughout the year. For each cow provide two acres of pasture, two tons of bright leafy green hay and 250 pounds of grain feed; (3) Twenty-five early-hatched pullets should now be carefully culled, well-housed and fed heavy on grain and a good laying mash or skim milk, and pushed for early fall production. Skim milk may be substituted for laying mash; (4) A family of five should have from 400 to 500 pounds of a variety of meat. Meat rationing is ahead of us so we are told. Have your own meat hogs, poultry and probably beef and lamb. Extension Circular No. 261 gives many helpful hints on home butchering. (5) Fuel will be scare this winter. The farm woodlot may prove a great saving.

Let's all attempt to do the best job possible in producing our family food supply, preserving it in the form that it will be most wholesome and appetizing, and feeding our families so that they may be stronger and a greater influence in our war effort.

Revival Services Planned For Big Bone Baptist Church

Revival services will begin at the Big Bone Baptist Church Sunday, October 4th, and will continue through two weeks, with evangelist Paul Montgomery of Louisvile, Ky., bringing the messages. Mrs. Montgomery will be with him and sing special solos.

The meeting will begin Sunday with an all-day session, with different speakers throughout the day. Everybody invited to bring their dinner and enjoy the day.

Don't forget the 34th Annual Aurora Farmers Fair, October 2 and 3. See complete advertisement in this issue.

FALL SEEDING MORE PROFITABLE

SAYS COUNTY AGENT—BARLEY AND WINTER OATS MAKE GOOD WINTER AND SPRING PASTURE.

The fall seeding of all cultivated land is one of the most profitable operations on the farm, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Despite labor shortages and other difficulties, good farmers, this year as in former years, are seeding all cultivated land at the earliest possible date. The earlier the seeding the more profitable the cover crop.

Pasture is coming more and more to be appreciated at the cheapest and feed for dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep, early lambs, hogs and even poultry. Good small grain pasture is easily worth from $4.00 to $8.00 per acre during March, April and early May. If value of concentrated feed and cured hay are figured the value of winter and early spring pasture is worth much more. The value of early spring and late winter spring pasture is too often overlooked by farmers.

Every farmer should seed practically every acre of barley or winter oats now for winter pasture and early pasture next spring. All land that is to be plowed again next year should be seeded to hairy winter Vetch. Vetch seed may be secured through the county AAA office as Grant of Aid. Four dollars per acre is paid where the vetch is seeded now and turned under next spring. Now is also the best time of the year to sow grass. Grass may be sown in with the winter cover crop.
